The Liberators downed three Jap fighters.

Airman of Marlinton Bombs, Dutch Tender United Press Dispatch, published in The Charleston Gazette.

Somewhere in Australia—Captain Zed Smith said Saturday he is glad he calls Marlinton, W. Va., home instead of Koepang, in Dutch Timor.

Captain Smith was the pilot of one of the three Liberator bombers which dropped more than 40 tons of bombs on the Jap-occupied city in a raid which a final check-up revealed devastated the town.

All the bombs appeared to smack dead on the targets, leaving three trails of red fire. Fires spread through the target as the Liberators departed. One section particularly red was known to include the power station.

"I am glad I wasn't living in that town," said Pilot Smith.

Relics of Roman London

Sought in Bombed Areas

LONDON.—The possibility that secrets of 100 acres of Roman London would be revealed in reconstruction of areas was suggested by the ministry of works.

A spokesman said property owners would likely be more interested in rebuilding than in archaeological treasures, but hoped it might be possible by collaboration and careful timing to satisfy owners and archaeologists.

It would be a "national disgrace," he continued, to allow an opportunity for investigation of the remains of the Roman era to be lost forever.

5 Ocean Navy

When Pearl Harbor burst upon us our great expanse of territory was protected by a one ocean navy of about 350 first line ships with an addition of an approximate number building.

Now we are in a five ocean war and we are required not only to pay for the building of enough ships of the line but also for hundreds of Liberty ships and auxiliary craft. The amount of money you invested in War Bonds when we had a one ocean navy was all right then, it isn't enough now. Buy more and more War Bonds.

Half of U. S. Aid Gets Into Russia

Help to All Allies Up 75% Over Year Ago.

WASHINGTON.—More than 50 per cent of United States lend-lease aid to Russia is arriving at Soviet ports, despite losses sustained by the Allies in the northern delivery route, Edward R. Stettinius Jr., lend-lease administrator, reported as he disclosed that lend-lease aid to all United Nations were 20 per cent higher than it was in March, 1942.

Lend-lease exports in March were the highest on record. They totaled $98,000,000, 20 per cent more than in the previous high month and more than twice the value of exports in the corresponding month a year ago.

The cumulative value of lend-lease exports from March 11, 1941, to April 4, 1943, was $7,104,731,000. The estimated value of lend-lease planes ferried by air and lend-lease ships sailed away under their power was $675,000,000, additional. The difference between the value of lend-lease supplies sent overseas and the $10,319,518,000 value of total lend-lease aid is made up principally by services rendered, totaling $1,625,383,000, and by goods transferred for use in this country or not yet exported.

Many thousands of lend-lease planes and tanks and $600,000,000 worth of lend-lease trucks and other military motor vehicles have been sent into action against the enemy by our Allies. Lend-lease planes also are playing an important part in the air offensive being waged on Axis Europe from the British Isles. Almost 1,000,000 tons of food have been shipped to the Soviet Union up to April 1 and a considerable part of last month's shipments were foodstuffs.

War Service Certificate

Approximately 1250 Pocahontas County farm families War Service Certificates in recognition of their participation in America's 1943 Food for Freedom program, announces Wilbur Moore, chairman of the county USD War Board.

Printed in red, white and blue, these beautiful certificates are framing.

It is certainly fitting, Mr. Moore declares, that farmers be recognized in this manner for the contribution they are making to the war effort. Just as an army travels on its stomach, so the entire United Nations depend upon the agricultural products of American farms to go forward on the road to victory.

Rev. Fred Oxendale is attending the clinic on Evangelism at Jumanville, Pennsylvania, sponsored by the Pittsburgh Methodist Conference, June 14 to 18. The commission on evangelism of the West Virginia conference of Mr. Oxendale, is a member, is to hold its mid year meetings this time. Some of the lecturers are: Dr. Robert T. A forward step in promoting Pocahontas County has been taken by the Pocahontas County Board of Trade in persuading our President Jack Richardson to devote some of his spare time and energy to the sale of real estate. Mr. Richardson is now in the real estate business full speed ahead, ready, willing and anxious to list any thing you may have to deal in way of farms, homes and other real property.

The 1943 Pool was sold in April, as follows: Clear medium 56 7/8 cents, and 15c. The 1942 Pocahontas County Pool graded approximately 97 per cent clear medium. It should not vary much this year from last year's record.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR

THURSDAY, JUNE 11, 1943

Some weeks ago, I wrote a piece suggesting the consideration of a series of one-way flying fields to be strung at proper distances through the mountains of West Virginia from Blackfield on the south to Morgantown on the north, along the general route of State Road 219, the Seneca Trail. This is a part of the country already named the Appalachian graveyard from the numerous airplane tragedies, particularly in the reaches of the Alleghenies in Pennsylvania, though our own West Virginia Alleghenies have had their proportionate share of accidents too. At that time of writing there was much agitation in the papers and underground for a ten million dollar air field at Charleston. Nine tenths of the cost was to come from the Federal War chest as a military measure. The idea advanced was that a string of adobe single run way fields might be constructed for the protection of this most dangerous five hundred mile strip of flying out of the ten million dollar asking for Charleston, and still leave a million dollars to match the million our capital city has in hands for their really badly needed air port. So far the only known results of this shot into the night is assurance that the Appalachian graveyard will be surveyed for first hand knowledge of what ought to be and can be done for the protection of the ever increasing war and peace traffic by air, and adequately protect points for defense from bombing attacks on Charleston, Pittsburgh, Wheeling, Erie, etc.

Then too the news I see in the papers that Charleston is going ahead with her million dollars locally raised to build a one way field her own self may be a straw to indicate that the money, if any, will not be put all in one place.

After writing that other piece three army bombers, representing possibly a half million dollars of material value and carrying invaluable lives came winging out of the clouds, to find haven on the Marlinton airport. There they waited for ten days, waiting for the ground to dry before they could take off.

Only last week a student pilot on a test flight from Winston-Salem to Roanoke got off his beam, to safely land in the present inadequate Marlinton Airport. He was just almost out of oil and gas, and you know how good that landing place looked to the young flyer.

Last week I was sure I had found one jack in the Greenbrier Valley as the nucleus for bringing back of the mule breeding business here. This faint hope has been dashed by the following most interesting letter from Hon. E. D. Knight, of Charleston:

"It looks very much as if I will have to give up the idea of producing a mule next year. I knew about the Leah-Kidd jack and planned to breed to him. However, several Sundays ago we drove over to see Mr. Kidd and found that the jack had been sold to a man over in Big Stone Gap, Virginia, which is a rather 'far piece' from Greenbrier County under present transportation difficulties.

"You might be interested in a little further information about Mr. Kidd. He is a most pleasant gentleman with a ruddy complexion, a friendly twinkle in his eye and an impressive mane of snow white hair. When I walked up to his gate I noticed a couple of dogs which interested me, so after he had given me the information about the jack I asked if one of them was not a Chesapeake, which struck me as quite an unusual breed to see off the main highways in Monroe County. He immediately answered by saying that she was and that he had gotten her from proven hunting stock right on the Bay. Then he told me that he was a coon hunter and that while he liked a dog that made plenty of music you could not catch coons in Monroe county with that kind of a dog on account of all the lime stone caverns in which they could take refuge. He said you needed a silent dog to catch coons and that he had bought the Chesapeake to breed to a Redbone Hound with the idea of producing some silent coon dogs, that she now had eight puppies, of which he had great hopes. The other dog looked to me a good deal like a Welsh Foxhound and I asked what she was and he stated that she was one-quarter Fox Hound and three-quarters Fox Hound. The result of another one of his experiments in producing coon dogs. He then went on to say that several years ago he had purchased an Otter hound in Massachusetts for this purpose.

"It certainly struck me as very interesting to find a stock farmer in rural West Virginia who was conducting breeding experiments of this sort and going to whatever part of the country was necessary to get the stock he wanted.

Looks like I lost out on the key, but sure gained on the

FIELD NOTES

The tale is going the rounds on a friend of mine about how he got so pressed for farming time during the long wet spell in May that when a good plow day did come on a Sunday, he ran his tractor a full sixteen hours regardless. Sixteen acres of corn land was put in as fine plating condition as any expert farmer could wish to have. Four bushels of carefully saved seed corn was planted, and high power fertilizer liberally applied. Not one grain in an hundred came up; the whole field had to be replanted over. I allow the experience will break my friend from sucking eggs by working on Sunday.

Another friend of mine goes in strong for raising chickens. Her brooder house was equipped with an oil heating outfit. The other night a favorite nephew was getting his high school graduating papers in a not too far distant town. The lady fixed things up all cosy and warm for her husband's chicks, and drove off to the meeting. The next morning it was found that something had gone wrong with the heater; a big hole had been burned in the floor and a bigger one burned in the roof. The fires had gone out, and only a scant dozen of chickens were dead. The proper explanation of the happening was that given by the town carpenter—the lady is one regular, consistent church attender.

One morning last week, a householder in Pocahontas County found that some one had raided his plant patch and carried off a good supply of tomato, cabbage and sweet pepper plants. The outraged man was in a mind to start fussing when he saw a purse which the thief had lost in the plant bed. In the purse was $14 in currency, a dime, a nickel and three pennies. There were no papers to identify the owner.

Over on the head of Williams River one day last week, Dan Carpenter found a carrier pigeon down on the ground eating grass. The bird was so starved and exhausted, it was readily picked up. It is now at the Carpenter home, eating with the chickens and doing well. Dan copied the numbers on the leg band and gave them to me on the street and I lost the note.

Early the other morning a friend of mine saw a dark bird fly down among his chickens. He took it for a blue-tailed darter when the chickens raised the alarm, and gave it a load of shot. It proved to be a carrier pigeon. It carried no message. The larger band had the figures and letters 41TPA 361F; the smaller band R3200.

John Gay caught a twenty-inch brown trout in Williams River last Thursday.

Such another growing season in this Greenbrier Valley has not been seen so far in years. Such another scratching around in gardens and truck patches in Pocahontas county was never seen before. Tomato plants to a fare-you-well have been set out and the demand is still heavy. Old timers like this editor are planting tomato seed out in the open, to bear in September, when the fruit is especially appreciated after the main crop is done. Before frost the vine with green tomatoes can be put in the cellar or under corn fodder, to last through November.

The rains generally have been seasonable. The exception so far has been the Hill country between Dunmore and Greenbank—the Nottingham Country. In one torrential storm hail fell as big as hen's eggs. Wade Galford figures his loss is a thousand dollars.

New Dimming Law In Effect—

West Virginia motorists were reminded last week that a new road law had gone into effect June 10, as the result of an amendment passed by the 1943 legislature to Chapter 17 of the State code. State Road Road Commissioner Ernest L. Bailey pointed out that hereafter all night drivers must dim their lights whenever they approach within 500 feet of an oncoming vehicle.

The law is effective from a half hour after sunset until a half hour before sunrise, and applies to all vehicles using composite beam lighting equipment, which includes virtually all passenger cars. Violation of the new law is punishable by a fine of not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars as a misdemeanor. This is a safety measure, which has been in operation in many other states for several years, and has been found to be of great assistance in eliminating night driving accidents caused by momentary light blindness. The law was passed as a result of requests for some such legislation received from automobile clubs, commercial truck and bus drivers, and other consistent highway users who must drive regularly after dark.

One of the most destructive types of accident is the head-on collision, too often caused at night by a temporary blindness in the eyes of one driver, whose vision is obscured by glare from an oncoming vehicle lights. It is believed that strict adherence to the new law will virtually eliminate this type of accident, and save many lives and much property.

Financial Considerations

By E. I. KING

(McClure Syndicate—WNU Features)

UP TWO flights of stairs in a dingy office building, in an obscure corner of a downtown office which appeared the name of Amos K. Foljambe. There was nothing to indicate the nature of the business transacted behind the ground-glass panel of that door, but that it was a business of absorbing importance to those who had connection with it was shown by the anxious looks of those who entered Mr. Foljambe's presence and the despairing or fiercely desperate looks of those who left it. Not every visitor, of course, at first. Now and then a man would pass through the door with a confident air and emerge with a satisfied smile. But he did not do this many times before he became as the others.

For Amos Foljambe was a money lender—a broker, he called himself—and one of the most remorseless, shrewdest, graspingest Sky-lark that ever lived.

A widower of fifty, slovenly in his dress and supposed to be immune from female charms Amos had, of late, begun to spruce up wonderfully in his attire.

The change had come about soon after Amos, calling upon Mr. Manville Brookhurst in the way of business, had chanced to cast his eye upon Madeline, daughter of the broken-down gentleman whom he held in his grip. Madeline was twenty-two, handsome, witty and proud. She had many suitors, went everywhere and everybody said she might marry a fortune any day she chose. Brookhurst's only hope of financial salvation lay in her doing so. Amos, who kept tabs not only on his customers but upon their relatives, knew all this and, in the belief that one of the many rumors of the girl being about to make a wealthy marriage would prove to be true, had advanced Mr. Brookhurst a considerable sum.

But Madeline's marriage to a man of great wealth being unaccountably delayed Amos became alarmed and shut off supplies. He took no long chances. He calculated that by cutting out Manville Brookhurst root and branch, and doing it right off, he would be able to get back his investment plus a miserable eight per cent. It was while calling upon Mr. Brookhurst to announce to him this ultimatum that he first saw Madeline.

He absolutely forced his way past the servant who said that Mr. Brookhurst was ill and could see no one, entered the living room and found the invalid and his daughter together. Brookhurst turned pale at the sight of the intruder, fell back in his easy chair and pressed his hand to his heart; while he begged Madeline to leave.

Brookhurst looked at him helplessly. Then Amos said with a sigh, "What a wonderful creature your daughter is, Mr. Brookhurst."

"You did not come here to tell me that?" replied Brookhurst.

"No, oh no," replied Amos. "The fact is I came to talk business with you. But I see you are ill and, perhaps we had better postpone our conference until you feel stronger. I will call again—in a few days."

Amos called often after that on one pretext or another and at each visit he pressed further loans upon Mr. Brookhurst, which the weak man took. At each call Amos inquired for Madeline and inquired in a manner which seemed to threaten.

Finally one night, Amos sprang the trap. Brookhurst mustered a force which had not been his for years. "It must rest with her," said he. "Go, go at once. Come here two days from now to receive your answer. Go!"

Surprised at the turning of the wind, and not a little disconcerted, Amos went. Brookhurst called in Madeline and told her the whole story.

"What would you have me do?" she asked quietly when her father had ended.

"Do as you please," he replied. "Tom Harrington is in the library," said Madeline. "He called when you were busy with Foljambe and I took him in there. Let us consult him. He ought to have something to say for we have just become engaged."

Tom came in quite gay and debonair; an ex-serviceman, well set up, working for twenty-five dollars a week while he "learned the textile business." Brookhurst having recovered from his astonishment went over his story again and Tom heard it with no change of his buoyant manner. "Well, Madge," said Tom, "what do you say? Are you going to marry him?"

"No," replied Madeline. "I'd starve first—but poor father!" Tom actually laughed. "Don't you worry," said he, "that old dud can't hurt us. I'm twenty-five tomorrow. No, I haven't gone crazy, that does have something to do with it. You see Uncle Abijah Jancks left me his half million in trust until I was of the age of twenty-five. And Amos K. Foljambe, a crony of Uncle Abijah's, was the trustee. It's my money he has been leeching out. My lawyers are all ready and tomorrow I'll make Amos K. give an accounting that will make his head swim. Come, Madge, give us a kiss. You don't mind, do you, Mr. Brookhurst?"

Train Million For Arms Work

Ex-Army Workers Are Given Special Credits for Armament Program.

(Released by Western Newspaper Union)

ARMED—This is the story of an important battle that America is winning.

It is the battle to train a million workers to make armaments that our armies will fight with.

The biggest piece of the armament program falls to the automobile industry, which recently stopped making cars and is in the process of conversion to war work.

When it is going full blast again—It is hoped within the "ten silver months" remaining this year—it will near around a million workers, twice as many as there ever were before.

Virtually all of these will have to have some special training. There is hardly an operation in armament manufacture that will be just the same as one in automobile manufacture, which was so specialized that you had one machine to bore one-eighth inch holes; another to bore one-sixteenth holes; one machine to bore two holes at once, another to bore four holes at once. It takes four times as many operations to make an airplane engine connecting rod as it does to make an automobile connecting rod.

Training a Million.
The scope of training a million people may be compared with the problem that confronted the army at the time of the first draft a year ago.

How are you going to do it? The problem not only has been solved, but the training is under way, turning out workers as fast—except in the highly specialized tool-and-die bottleneck field—as machines can be installed for them to operate.

General Motors' Institute at Flint turned out 16,000 last year. Henry Ford has started an airplane engineering school in connection with his Pratt and Whitney engine manufacturing that is training several thousand men and is establishing a school for 8,000 at his Rising Willow Run bomber plant.

But all these projects make only a small dent in that envisioned 1,000,000. The bulk of them will be training products of the very factories where they will work.

The auto companies got going on this program over a year ago, when defense orders first started coming through.

In preparation for General Motors' aluminum fabrication plant, a small group of supervisors was sent to study operations of the Aluminum Company of America plant in Cleveland.

Start Spreading Out

Another group went to the Pratt and Whitney airplane plant in Hartford, Conn. A hundred men from a Fisher Body plant went to the North American Aviation factory in Inglewood, Calif.

When these groups got back they started spreading out what they had learned.

The last level of training, the biggest job since it involves the biggest number of workers, is accomplished by two principal methods: The "supervisor" system, where a trained man keeps an eye on several novices each at his own machine; and the "trainer" method, where a novice is assigned to an experienced workman at a machine to learn from him.

Here the industry follows its basic mass production principle of breaking a big job down into easily manageable parts, and tackling the parts one by one.

A 30-caliber machine-gun has 265 parts, with an average of 30 manufacturing operations for each part. For speed the work is laid out among many operators as possible. If one man is performing three operations they say if they can't divide it among three men doing one operation each.

This reduces to a minimum the amount that an operator has to be taught. Teaching him is similarly speeded by breaking down his operation into its essential parts.

State of a Forgotten War

APRIL 9 of this year marks the 80th anniversary of an event that was a high spot in the history of the West—the battle which took place at the KC ranch on the Powder river in Wyoming on April 9, 1862. Perhaps "battle" is too pretentious a word, for it was only a frontier gun fight in which few men were involved. But in so far as it was a case of a man fighting to the death against odds of nearly 50 to 1, it had a certain Homeric quality which raised it above the level of such affairs.

The man's name, appropriately enough, was Champion—Nate Champion. His enemies said he was a rustler—and he undoubtedly was. So they killed him and, all unknowing, they also gave him a certain kind of immortality. For after his death he became a sort of Robin-Hood hero, an almost legendary figure whose name and fame have been perpetuated in song and story.

The living Nate Champion was not an important person. But Nate Champion, dying, became a kind of symbol and as such was more significant. For the fight at the KC ranch was the first battle in a "war" which "marked the dividing line between the Old West, under the rule of the cattle kings, and the New West of the pioneer homesteader."

The story of this conflict has been told many times and it is related again in a book published recently by the Carleton Printers, Ltd., of Caldwell, Idaho—"The Longest Rope—The Truth about the Johnson County Cattle War," by D. F. Baber, as told by Bill Walker. The principal interest and value of this addition to our store of Western

BILL WALKER

Americana lies in the fact that the story is told by one of the few survivors of the "war" and possibly the only survivor of those present at the KC ranch fight.

The Johnson County war, also known as the "Powder River war," the "Rustler war" and "The Invasion," was the result of the cattle-stealing that was prevalent in Wyoming in the late eighties and early nineties. The big cattle outfits, the principal victims, decided it must be stopped and, rightfully or wrongfully, fixed upon their own method of doing it. Accordingly, a group of these cattlemen, accompanied by hired gun men from Texas, set out early in April, 1892, to invade Johnson county, which they regarded as the stronghold of the thieves, and to summarily execute certain men whom they looked upon as the leaders.

Their first objective was the KC ranch house on the Powder, occupied by Nate Champion, the "king of the rustlers," and his companion, "Dick" Rae. "Bill Walker," "cowpoke" and trapper, and another partner, Ben Jones, had spent the night there and when they set out for an early start on a trapping expedition the next morning they were made prisoners by the "regulators" who had surrounded the ranch house.

Thus it was that the co-author of "The Longest Rope" became an eye-witness of the historic fight that followed as he came out of the door a little later. He saw Nate Champion rush out, amid a hail of bullets, and drag his dying companion back into the cabin. He tells of Champion's rifle duel with all his enemies, which lasted nearly all day, until they set fire to the cabin and forced him to flee. He "came out shooting" and died under their fire in a little gulch nearby. The leader of the "regulators" looked down at him—"Give me fifty men like that and I could whip the whole state!" he said.

After Nate Champion was killed, his assailants found on his body a little book in which he had written an account of his desperate last stand. A newspaper reporter, Sam T. Clover of the Chicago Herald, who had accompanied the "regulators," made a copy of this account which has been frequently reprinted under the title of "The Diary of the Rustler King" and widely circulated. It has perpetuated the fame of Nate Champion as has a poem "Our Hero's Grave," written by one of his friends and set to music soon after his death.

Our Army and Navy Boys

New York City, New York
May 30, 1943.

Hallo Mr. Price:
I read your paper every week and like it for it is my home paper. While reading some other papers I happened to see a clipping about West Virginia and as you like to read about your home state I will send it to you.

Well, here is hoping to see you all again soon. Good luck. My address is: P.F.C. Delbert Cogar, 26th T. Tag, Det. A. T. C., Grey stone Hotel Rooms 439, 91st and Broadway, New York City, New York.

YOU CAN TELL 'EM EVERY TIME

By Ed White, Esq.

If you've fished in clear water and waded in mud,
Watched the calm rivers, seen many a flood,
Traveled the highways on good roads and bad,
Cussed like a trooper, yet seldom get mad,
I bet you're from West Virginia.
If you've sweat in the valley, cooled off on a hill,
Tramped through the mountains, drank corn from a still,
If you like a good fight, can lose and yet grin,
Get up on your own and try to win,
I bet you're from West Virginia.
You ain't afraid of the Devil, got fire in your eyes,
God fearing and loving the Father on High,
Go the limit for friends, but slow to forgive,
Nursing that hurt as long as you live,
I bet you're from West Virginia.
You've drank sassafras and mountain tea,
Used pennyroyal for the bite of a flea,
You say what you think whether sober or drunk,
You can tell by the wind the trail of a skunk,
I bet you're from West Virginia.
If you've cleaned your teeth with a birch tree twig,
To old Dan Tucker danced many a jig,
Stole behind the barn away from your folks,
For Indian stogie and corn silk smoke,
I bet you're from West Virginia.
If you've talked pig latin, sang the "Old Grey Mare,"
Felt the bite of a chigger, love a good county fair,
A bit clannish of kin, though "onery" they be,
You admit it yourself but dare us to agree,
I bet you're from West Virginia.
You hate the damn Nazis and the almighty Japs,
Itching to fight 'em and not count the price,
You're proud of your State and thrill when you hear,

The Star Spangled Banner and stand up and cheer, Hell, I know you're from West Virginia.

Mrs. Leonard Wenger, of Abingdon, sends in the following letter from her brother P.F.C. Linzy Delin, who is now stationed at Fort Benning, Georgia:

May 18, 1943

Dear Sister and all:
Will drop you a few lines to night in answer to your letter. I received yesterday. Sure was glad to hear from you and to know you all are well.

This leaves me well and feeling fine but it sure is hot down here. I just finished scrubbing the barracks for inspection tomorrow, and I thought I would burn up before I got through.

I have been pretty busy most of the time since I came down here. I spent three weeks out at Tigor Camp in tents and I am telling you that was not much fun for the purpose of Tigor Camp is to give you some idea what entail combats are like. The first thing the officers told us when we got there that the only thing they could not do was to work us over 24 hours a day and they came down here doing it. But since I came back here I have been getting along fine. I like army life fine. I am driving an ambulance now and not hard work but moving all these soldiers keep you busy most all time.

I don't know for sure but I am in hopes that I will get a furlough in June. If I get it I will be at home about June 15th. Tell Leon and I sure would like to take a fish with him for he sure is lucky and we will plan on a fishing trip when I come home. I got a letter from Aunt Sue today and I sure was glad to hear from her for it is just like getting the home town paper. ha ha.

Tell Leonard and the girls hello for me and I hope to see you all soon. With love and best wishes. As ever, your brother, Linzy.

The following letter was received by Mr. and Mrs. Alva Carpenter, of Dunmore, from their nephew, Private Lonnie O. Cutlip, who is somewhere in Australia:

May 20, 1943.

Dearest Uncle and Aunt:
I will try and answer your letter I got last night and sure was glad to hear from you. I am still in Australia, well and getting along fine and having a good time. This is pretty country here, but I would rather be back in the States. I have been in several of the states and some foreign countries, but they are nothing like good old West Virginia. I have seen lots of the world. I did not know it was so big until I got in the Army. The people here are real friendly and there are several pretty girls.

I received a letter from Jean and Eugene the same day I got yours and they are well and getting along fine.

I sure would like to see all of you back there for I got homesick sometimes, but I don't let it worry me. I got to go to town about three times a week and we have lots of fun.

Tell Alma, Dot and Pat and all the rest I said hello. Well there is not much I can write about so I had better close for this time and maybe I can write more the next time. So do not forget to write as often as you can for I sure like to hear from you. So goodbye now and answer soon.

Love to all,

Your nephew, Jack.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Lightner, of Buckeye, received this letter from their son, Jimmy, who is in the Army and stationed at Camp Davis, North Carolina:

Sunday, June 13, 1943.

Dear Mom and Daddy:
Will try and write you all a few lines. I am getting along fine. Boy, it sure has been hot here today. There is a sand storm out side now, guess it will turn into rain before morning!

How is everything around old Buckeye coming along? I am sending you a picture of that Alberman boy from Minnehaha Springs and me. Mom pick out a pair of my best overalls and send them to me. Has it been very hot around there?

Well news is scarce so will close for this time. So answer soon. I am going to the show now.

Private James V. Lightner, 504th C. A. Bn. (A. A.), Camp Davis, North Carolina.

The following letter was received by Mrs. Sallie McChesney from her brother, Private Edward Walker, who is stationed at Craig Field, Selma, Alabama:

May 30, 1943.

Dear Sister: I received your letter some time ago but I have been too busy to write to anybody. I am well and hope you all are the same. Carl Boggs and I are still together.

This hot sun is really hard for us to take, and everyone tells us that it is not hot a little yet to what it gets, but I think I will be able to stand it.

Oh, yes, you were speaking of planting your garden. I wish you all could see these nice gardens here in Alabama. The corn is about twelve inches high. I know you all have never seen any corn grow. This is the first I have seen. It isn't anything to see 15 working in these fields, women and men and they don't seem to mind it a bit. It sure is a pretty country down here but I would not give up the West Virginia hills for all I have seen yet. I am getting along fine under the southern sun so far.

I do not know just when I will get a furlough home, but I hope some time soon. Are the boys playing any soft ball at the Fair Ground? These soldiers have not lost a game yet. The score was two to one in our favor the last game.

Tell Mother I don't think that I can be there to eat with her. I will close for this time. Love to all my friends.

Your brother, Edd.

Mrs. James G. Nelson, of 149 E. Budd Street, sends in the following letter from her son, Private Paul Slavin, a former Pocahontas County boy, now serving with the Armed Forces somewhere in Iran, formerly Persia:

Somewhere in Iran, May 8, 1943.

Dear Mother:
I received your letter today dated April 6, and was so glad to hear from you as it was the first I had heard from anyone since sometime in March.

I am getting along fine and like it here but would rather be back in the States. It sure is hot here, has already been 120° F and the natives say it is cool now.

I have an awful time trying to understand them. They start jabbering and we do not know what they are talking about. Some of them can talk a little bit of English and just a few can speak it real well. They just pick it up since the American soldiers came over here. The natives live in mud huts which are very cool in this hot weather. The only name they ever call a soldier is "Johnny." All we can hear is "boxies Johnny." That means to give them something. I can hear that in my sleep. They can really make some nice rings and jugs. They make these jugs out of clay. They wear tunics, coats or just anything they can find for clothes. Only a very few of them wear shoes, the rest go barefooted.

I have seen things since I left home that I never thought I would see and things which I never knew existed and all very interesting.

Now, I am sending you some money. Use it if you need it, if not, take care of it for me until I get home.

How is grandmother now? I hope she is home from the hospital by this time and is well. I am going to write to her tomorrow.

The 22nd of March was Christmas over here and the year is 1359 instead of 1943. It seems so funny to me.

I was so sorry to hear of Uncle Orin's death. Am glad you got the news.

Now, I'll have to quit. Write to me as often as you can and take care of yourself. Do not worry about me for I will be OK.

Tell everyone to write to me.

Lots of love, "Buck."

Private Kenny R. Beverage, of

Dear Mr. Price: I received your V-Mail letter today and was glad to get it. A boy here drew those Easter greetings on a V-Mail blank and we printed some and sent them out after they were photographed. That should give you some idea of what I am doing, practically the same old trade. It's a brand new Loxin.

I saw in the Stars and Stripes where that Taliercio boy from Cam had got the Oak Leaf decoration. I have not seen Betty Dilly but once since I have been over here but hear where he is once in a while. Mack, I guess it will be careless thoughts for me to even think about coming back to the States on furlough. That is entirely too far but think that I will get an 8 day furlough here in the near future if I want it. Do not know if I will take it or not you know this eating business is rather dull when one gets away from camp. You know every thing here is rationed although sometimes one can get a pretty good meal but I sure could go for a steak or a piece of country ham now.

I guess the United States is really producing new from what I read. You should see some of these bomber formations. They are beautiful and sometimes they are really flying upstairs. You can hear them but cannot see them. These fighters sure do put on a show too; when the Jerries come over they do not get very far.

Have those coal miners ever got settled yet? Sometimes I think it would be good if they saw some bombing, maybe it would let them know we were at war. I will trade places with any of them at half of their present wages.

Mack, I have been getting the paper pretty regular of late. I see where they had a shooting scrape at Frost. I knew both the boys who were shot.

Sundays and holidays are just another day but that suits me all right. I would not mind working 24 hours a day as long as I could, just anything to get this thing over as soon as possible so we can all come home in peace once more.

I see where some of the boys over 35 years of age are getting back but I have a couple of years to go yet. I was 36 the 4th of May but feel just like I was 20 except a little more experience of course, ha ha. Who was the boy that you saw who went to the army with me.

I have not seen Major Snedden for a couple of weeks now. He is no longer a Captain; he has been promoted to Major.

I get a 24 hour pass once in a while but there is not much to do when one is off duty only go to a Red Cross Club somewhere. You should see the pheasants over here. They are real tame and too pretty to shoot. There are also lots of swans here, too, and bicycles, my G. I went out to a little pub (beer joint) a few evenings ago and counted 22 bicycles leaning against the fence at one pub. Everybody rides them; see but very few cars. Lots of transports travel through here, most all detail jobs.

Guess you feel like a bachelor since Bonnie is gone so much, don't you? I wrote her a few days ago. Am glad the school bus system got such a good rating.

How about Uncle Brooks, is he doing much courting now? ha ha. Tell him to be careful.

Well, Mack, I guess I had better close for this time. Tell all my friends hello and I am O. K. Tell Sue hello and to write.

Always, your cousin, Oran.

Australia, May 29, 1943.

Dear Mr. Price: Some time back, probably a couple of months, and following mail call one afternoon there first came into existence in this neck of the woods an edition of the Pocahontas Times. Direct from the Editor and a bit travel worn but still readable. Since that time they have been coming in regularly and I venture to say that not many papers receive so thorough an examination.

Thirteen months ago, if you remember, quite some delegation of us fellows received our send off from Marlinton. After having been accepted later at Huntersville, our future plans seemed to have been very thoroughly taken care of and so followed the thinking that in no uncertain terms can be called just that. The teacher too blurted out that we may encounter trapping the newspaper trying to provide some very old news to him. Two months of the "best training" and then permanently settled in the Southern States that is now my home.

As you probably have deduced from my present address this

Dear Mr. Price: I received your V-Mail letter today and was glad to get it. A boy here drew those Easter greetings on a V-Mail blank and we printed some and sent them out after they were photographed. That should give you some idea of what I am doing, practically the same old trade. It's a brand new Loxin.

I saw in the Stars and Stripes where that Taliercio boy from Cam had got the Oak Leaf decoration. I have not seen Betty Dilly but once since I have been over here but hear where he is once in a while. Mack, I guess it will be careless thoughts for me to even think about coming back to the States on furlough. That is entirely too far but think that I will get an 8 day furlough here in the near future if I want it. Do not know if I will take it or not you know this eating business is rather dull when one gets away from camp. You know every thing here is rationed although sometimes one can get a pretty good meal but I sure could go for a steak or a piece of country ham now.

I guess the United States is really producing new from what I read. You should see some of these bomber formations. They are beautiful and sometimes they are really flying upstairs. You can hear them but cannot see them. These fighters sure do put on a show too; when the Jerries come over they do not get very far.

Have those coal miners ever got settled yet? Sometimes I think it would be good if they saw some bombing, maybe it would let them know we were at war. I will trade places with any of them at half of their present wages.

Mack, I have been getting the paper pretty regular of late. I see where they had a shooting scrape at Frost. I knew both the boys who were shot.

Sundays and holidays are just another day but that suits me all right. I would not mind working 24 hours a day as long as I could, just anything to get this thing over as soon as possible so we can all come home in peace once more.

I see where some of the boys over 35 years of age are getting back but I have a couple of years to go yet. I was 36 the 4th of May but feel just like I was 20 except a little more experience of course, ha ha. Who was the boy that you saw who went to the army with me.

I have not seen Major Snedden for a couple of weeks now. He is no longer a Captain; he has been promoted to Major.

"Amid the boundless and unknown, each calls some guarded spot his own;

A shelter from the vast we win in homely hearths,

And make therein the glow of light, the sound of mirth,

That bind all children of the earth in brotherhood . . .

We know that countless hearth-lights burn in darkened places And discern, in woven with the troubled plan of worlds and ways unknown to man,

The shelter at the heart of life, the refuge beyond doubt and strife,

The rest for every soul outcast, the homely hidden in the vast; And doubt not that whatever fate may lie beyond us,

Soon or late, however far afield we roam,

The unknown way will lead us home."—From "Home" by Sidney Royce Lyssaght.

The values in life you believed in and exemplified are clearer to me now than ever before. I am endeavoring to maintain those principles which you taught me make for character. War does not lessen their truth, nor justify our forgetting them. They are strengthening to me now amid the circumstances which surround me. I pray that you may rejoice in the growth of my character—a character in which God can be well pleased, of which America can be proud, and which a loving father deserves.

Affectionately,
Chester.

Payroll Savings Buys Comfort For Your Fighting Relatives

Not all of your payroll savings go into the hands of the Government. A part of your investment goes for the comfort of your father, brother, son or friend.

For your war bond buying through your payroll savings plan on a family basis to do the most effective job in providing for the care and safety of your men in the armed forces. Payroll savings for your family members is not only a way to help them but also a way to help you. You can put your family members on the payroll of the Government. Remember a single $12.75 war bond will buy for a fighting soldier on the front: Two extra uniforms of 44 cents; two pairs of cotton socks at 75 cents; two pairs of cotton socks at 50 cents; one pair of shoes at $4.50; a cotton shirt at $4.00; a pair of trousers at $4.00; one web waist belt at 25 cents; two cotton neckties at 50 cents; a handkerchief at 25 cents; and one towel at 25 cents. Total $12.75.

An $12.75 war bond should make a man comfortable for the night with a 25-cent mattress at 25 cents; two blankets at $12.50; a pillow at 25 cents and two yellow cases at 25 cents. Total $12.50.

Or he could be provided with a rubber poncho at $4.75; a helmet with 30 bandages and other items of the assembly at $2.25; a rifle cartridge belt at $2.25; a marine corps pack consisting of haversack, knapsack and equipment at $1.10; a canteen and its cover at $1.25. Total $12.60.

Those of you who worry about the comfort of your boy in service can help insure his comfort by buying war bonds. And 10 years from now you'll take back $25 for every $12.75 you put in. U. S. Treasury Department

VICTORY GARDEN DAY

Saturday, July 10th

By Ben Morgan, County Agent

For the duration of the war at least most of us are going to have to produce as much as possible of the food we need for the family. We can expect to be well fed only if we do a good job producing.

Realizing the importance of town gardens as a factor in any community being well fed, Pocahontas County Board of Trade decided early this spring to sponsor some type of garden contest. This contest has finally taken the form of individual town contests, in which each town in Pocahontas County will have its own contest, with judges selected from the community.

Saturday, July 10, has been set as "Victory Garden" day. It is hoped that on this day every town in the county and every individual in each town will check up on themselves and see how well they have done with their 1943 garden.

It is suggested that on this day we not only look over our own garden, but that also visit the other gardens in our neighborhood. The scoring of the gardens should also be done on this day.

The Board of Trade will award an appropriate certificate to the highest scoring gardener in each town, to be designated as "Master Gardener" for 1943.

The town of Marlinton has arrangements well under way to observe this "Victory Garden" day. It is hoped that other towns in the county will follow suit. Let's all keep the date in mind, Saturday, July 10, 1943.

Following is a suggested score card for scoring by the various judging committees on that day:

1. Seed bed preparation..... 10
2. Utilization of space—success on planting..... 10
3. Planting technique—straight and uniform rows, proper spacing of rows and plants in rows..... 10
4. Stand of plants..... 10
5. Cultivation & weed control..... 10
6. Insect and disease control..... 15
7. Number of different vegetables..... 10
8. Vigor of growth..... 15

Total..... 100

How high a score does your garden check by this measuring stick?

Victory gardeners in the county should be interested in a new competitive class added to the 1943 Pocahontas County Fair premium list, as well as the above outlined competition. This is mentioned here in order that we may make plans in advance. This class carries six cash premiums. It is open to all gardeners in Pocahontas County.

On Wednesday of last week I attended the Eastern Stud Ram Sale held at Staunton, Va. This sale had probably the greatest array of good stud rams of Hampshire and Southdown breeds that will be assembled any place in the United States this year. A total of 31 rams and 46 ewes were sold. The highest price paid was $775 for a Hampshire ram. A yearling Southdown went for $680. Prices ranged down to $50, with eighteen rams selling for $200 or more. Top price for a ewe was $180 for a yearling Southdown.

E. H. Williams & Son, of Marlinton, and Milton Dolly, of One-go, Pendleton County, were the two consignors from West Virginia. The Williams Hampshires and the Dolly Southdowns and Shropshires made fine showings, proving again that we do not have to go away from home to find well bred and well fed sheep.

A high point was the sale of a Hampshire ewe lamb for war bonds. Members of the American Hampshire Sheep Association bid her in for $917,500.00. This is surely some kind of a record.

Figure It Out Yourself. How can you effectively join in saving all the little children of the world from human slavery, death and injury from the Nazis and Japanese? Put more and more of your pay into war bonds every payday. Your savings will go to war in the form of war equipment and other munitions. How much more should you put into war bonds? The only ones who can answer that are you and your family. It's up to you to decide just how much more you'll do to win the war.

If you were fighting in the Solomons or in Africa or forcing a landing in Europe you'd like to feel that the folks at home were back of you—all the way—you'd be proud of your family and your friends if you knew they were buying war bonds not at 10 per cent or 15 per cent, but with every cent beyond what which they need for necessities. ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Everette Welder, aged 18 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Welder, of Marlinton, accidentally shot himself in the hand with a high power rifle, near the home of his aunt, Mrs. Harry Light, whom he was visiting at Marie, Summers County, on last Wednesday morning. The bullet entered the palm of his right hand and came out about the middle of his forearm, severing an artery and breaking both bones in his wrist. He was about a quarter of a mile from the house and slipped and fell, throwing the gun from him as he fell. He went to the house and as he was at home he gave himself first aid and then walked a mile and a quarter to a neighbors to get transportation to a doctor at Hinton, a distance of some sixteen miles.

After treatment at the Hinton Hospital, the young man was brought home on Monday. There is now hope he will again have a good hand. The gun, a 38 calibre rifle, discharged when he threw it and it struck the ground.

H. H. Perry, First Class Petty Officer, United States Navy, is now attached to the Navy Recruiting Station at Elkins. He was in Marlinton last Friday, and he will make this point the second and fourth Fridays of each month. Mr. Perry was a sailor in the first World War, and when the second one broke out, and his oldest son volunteered for the Navy, he just had to go again. In civilian life, he has an automobile business in Wellington, Ohio. His business is now being well managed by Mrs. Perry.

Mrs. J. T. Bear is spending several weeks with her sons, James M. and John T. Bear.

Rotary

The officers recently elected for the year beginning July 1st, by the Marlinton Rotary Club are: Adolph Cooper, president; Eric Clutter, vice president; Edward Rexrode, Secretary and Guy Finkler, treasurer.

Friend George H. Overholt was in early Monday morning to extend his subscription another year. I asked him about his sheep shearing, and he said he had laid off that kind of work. "I used to shear about his sheep number of sheep clipped in a day. He said ninety-five head, and at that time sheep were not so plentiful. He was shearing at day light, and to finish the last one he had to send the boy who grew up to be Mayor Carl Sheets, of Marlinton, to the house for a lantern. Before Carl could get back with the light, the wool was all off. Mr. Heifer said he could have gotten the ninety-five head, all clipped in day light if the sheep had been in one lot and in one pen. He had to walk several miles between the homes of the late Francis McCoy, M. W. Gordon and James L. Sheets. An average day shearing with shears is around twenty-five or thirty head.

Mayor Henry R. Gay, of Buckhannon, was over to spend a few days with his uncle, Squire A. E. Gay of Edray. For fourteen years on a stretch Mr. Gay served the city of Buckhannon as its mayor, and at the recent election he was again returned to this station.

Miss Priscilla Dean Syme and brother, J. D. Syme, of Covington, Kentucky, arrived Monday to spend the summer with their grandmother, Mrs. Maggie Reynolds.

Our Army and Navy Boys

June 14, 1943.

Here is from one of your old military readers of the Times. My good friend, Mr. Edd Richardson, subscribed for the paper for me last after I came into service last October and I wish to thank him a thousand times.

Say, by the way, what ever happened the panther corner of your paper? I have not noticed anything about the panthers and bears for quite a spell now.

But, that snake tail a few copies back was sure a corker because a snake could not grow that long in West Virginia. That is unless it was a semi-job because it could not make it's way around, not in our good old County of Pocahontas anyway for the turns are too sharp and there are too many of them.

Here is a little yarn for you to print if you see fit because we Infantrymen think it is pretty good.

THE INFANTRY

It simmers down to this When all talk is ended, We poor lads must use our legs For what they were intended. I'm in the Army and I am glad, I love the work detail, I never get to feeling sad, I never look for mail. The Supply Sergeant is my delight, He gives me what he should. And I love K. P. with all my might, And the cooks who cook so good. I never want a furlough, I am always working and never playing, I love to go on guard you know And I—what am I saying? Our Sergeant divided his squad, In three sections, composed of high school guards, College guards and others. "College men will pick up paper," he announced, "High school men will pick up sticks, And the rest of you guys watch and learn something." And am I glad that I did not go to school.

Mr. Price I have been transferred from Camp Atterbury and my address until further notices...

Corporal Charles E. Goin, A.S.N. 35741490, A.P.O. 83, Care of Postmaster, Nashville, Tennessee.

Dear Mr. Price:

The words of this song were written in a course of several weeks, as they came to my mind. It is sung to the tune of Roy Acuff's modern song "Wabash Cannonball."

The Fighting Cannonball

From the shores of San Francisco To the capital of Japan, Our heroes there are fighting For the freedom of our land. They go through many hardships, As the shells around them fall, But we're headed straight for Tokyo.

On this fighting Cannonball.

Chorus: Oh! hear the thunder of the cannon.

Hear the angry bullets squall, Listen to the explosions Of the bombs as they fall. We'll blast our way through the Island.

To the Rising of the Sun, Then tell their pardner, Hitler, The fight has just begun.

We'll sail across the ocean, Before this coming fall, We'll take along our hardware And make those devils squall.

They'll run straight back to Tojo, And before him they will fall. They can tell them that the Yanks have come.

On this Fighting Cannonball. We'll give the war right back to them.

With all our strength and might We'll let them know that we are there.

And not afraid to fight, They'll know that in their Rising Sun,

A curse is on them all. That meddled with our Uncle Sam And our Fighting Cannonball.

We'll put an end to the Rising Sun, And the other Nazis, too. We'll give them all the hell they want.

Until this thing is through.

We'll fight straight on to Victory As the Japs before us fall And then take charge of Tokyo On this Fighting Cannonball.

There will be a great explosion As the bombs on the Islands fall. Old Glory will be waving As you hear their pleading call. We'll hear no more of the Rising Sun.

Nor see their "Zeros" fall. We'll have won our victory on this Fighting Cannonball.

P.F.C. John Taylor Townsend, A.S.N. 35396570, Battery A, 453 A.A.A. A.W. Bn. Camp Stewart, Georgia.

The following poem was written and sent in by Private Jessie L. Myers, formerly of Durbin. His address now is 566 Ord. Co. (H.M.) O.D.T.C., M.O.P. Bks. A., Jackson, Mississippi.

We've Done Our Stretch In Hell

I am sitting here and thinking Of the things I left behind, And I'd like to put in writing What is running through my mind.

We have dug a million ditches, And have cleared ten miles of ground.

We have drunk our beer and whiskey, In every honkey-tonk in town. But there is one consolation, Gather around while I tell.

When we die we'll go to Heaven, For we've done our stretch in Hell.

We have built a million kitchens; For the cooks to burn our beans; We have stoc a mil ion guard mounts;

And we have cleaned the camp latrines, We have washed a million mess kits, And peeled a million spuds;

And killed a million snakes and ants, That tried to steal our grub.

When our work on earth is ended, Then our friends on earth will tell:

"When they died they went to Heaven, For they've done their stretch in Hell."

When the final taps have sounded;

When we lay aside their arms, When we stand our last march, On those shining golden chairs, The angels will welcome us, Their golden harps will play: And we'll draw a million cantons cheeks.

And spend them in one day: It is there we will hear St. Peter Tell us fondly with a yell:

"Take a seat, you boys from the Army, For you've done your stretch in Hell."

Hello Mr. Price:

Will you please change my address from Kearns, Utah, to my address here at Denver.

I have enclosed a poem. Will it rate the Times?

Give my best regards to the people in West Virginia, especially my wife and children at Greenbank.

Best wishes to all, P.F.C. Loran S. Jordan, Co. G., 4th Platoon, Bks. 59, S.M.D.E.T., Fitzsimmons General Hospital, Denver, Colorado.

TO MY HUSBAND

I hope this finds you feeling good And getting along alright I'm thinking of you every day And praying for you each night.

Although we are miles apart, dear, And now I can't see your face, Just keep this in mind, dear, That no one can take your place.

I can still see your chestnut brown hair, And your brown eyes as you looked at me, I can feel the joy of your embrace,

And your kisses you gave so free. Although we quarreled and fused And sometimes couldn't agree, You would forgive me every time, You were so good to me.

I see now where I was wrong, In treating you so cruel at times, I see now what you've always been, A good husband, pure and fine.

You're fighting for your Country, your children and me, Just stick to it till the end, When Victory's won and the boys come home.

We'll be together again.

God loves a faithful soldier, He will take care of you, He'll always be right with you Until you've said "adieu."

But when this cruel war is over And there's no more heartache and pain, We'll make up for the time we have lost.

When we are together again. So when you are fighting, darling, For your country and loved ones too;

Remember, I love you, Loran, And I'll still be waiting for you.

Written by P.F.C. Loran S. Jordan.

Mrs. W. E. Poffenbarger, Hillboro, sends in the following letter from her nephew, Harper Dever:

Dear Aunt:

I received your nice letter the other day and was more than glad to hear from you. This leaves me O. K. and hope you all are well.

I bet you all are working hard this summer for there isn't anyone around there to help you is there? Most of the boys are in the Service and what are left do not amount to much do they?

Gee, it sure is lonesome down here at night. We have no where to go and nothing to do to pass the time away.

There are fifty new conscripts coming in tomorrow who have just finished school. Do not know whether I will stay here much longer or not.

How is Mildred getting along with her new job by now? Just fine I hope.

Do you see any of the people from around Millpoint anymore or have they all died away? I hear from Mrs. W. A. Arbogast, Boy, she was as good as a Mother to me while I stayed there and I never will forget either of them.

Well, Aunt Veva, I cannot think of anything else to write. Hope to hear from you real soon. Give my love to all, Harper.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Free the Seas.

Before we win the final battle with Hitler's Nazis all navy men are agreed we must win the battle of the Atlantic; that is to free the seas of the German U-boats.

A year ago we were building 54 cruisers and nearly 300 destroyers or just about enough for a two ocean navy.

Now we have come to realize that this war is to the finish, "winner take all," and our Government is building a five ocean navy.

That is why we are being asked to increase our subscriptions for War Bonds. That is why we must do it.

"We left Chanute Field at 8:02 a. m. Wednesday and arrived here about 10:30 Friday. Got a pullman out of Chicago and kept it till we got to Salt Lake City and then went to camp in trucks.

I saw some pretty country on my way. The Rocky Mountains are beautiful. There are a lot of tunnels in them; one seven miles long. You could look out of the windows and see snow on the mountains. The weather is bad here. One minute it is warm and the next it is cold. It hailed two days. My address is:

Dear Mr. Price:

As I have returned from my short furlough and may be here for some time please send the Times to this address. I would appreciate the back copies but I don't suppose you have them. It sure was a great help and pleasure to be back in the good hills of West Virginia after the tour of foreign service. The town has not changed much since I left. I sure had a good time while I was there.

I wish you the best of luck and hope you catch lots of trout this season.

Yours truly,

The Westminster Presbyterian church was the setting on May 30 1943, when Miss Merle Clifton Sharp, of Cincinnati, daughter of Clifton C. Sharp, of Frost, W. Va., was married to Philip C. White, of Wyandotte, Michigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. White, of Tiffin, Ohio. Rev. J. H. Cowan officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bride's sister, Mrs. Opal Sharp, and William DeBusman, a former classmate of Mr. White were the only attendants. A reception at the residence of the bride's cousin, Bedford Dille, took place after the ceremony. Mr. White, a graduate of the Engineering College of the University of Cincinnati, is a chemical engineer with the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, of Wyandotte, Mich. IT'S a weird-looking contraption. MIT admit. But when you think what aviation gasoline and synthetic rubber mean right now, it begins to look pretty wonderful!

"It's a plant for a new-type process for making aviation gas and synthetic rubber material from petroleum. It makes more gallons of better gas than any process ever had before. It makes both the gas and the synthetic rubber material at once, which is mighty important right now!"

"It's a fluid catalytic cracking unit. Our research workers who developed it call it a 'cat cracker.' But we did that long before the war, back in the 1930's—and that's why I call it a Statue of Liberty."

"It's a working monument to the power of American freedom and progress."

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

So long as a soldier can eat and think up disparaging names for his equipment the Army will do all right. Food is either "beans" or "chow."

"Chow" may consist of a well cooked meal or, if circumstances demand, our fighting men have learned to subsist on "Ration K", the concentrated food that all of them carry into battle.

With millions of men and women in the services it will require a lot of War Bond buying on our part to keep them happy.

In Memoriam

In memory of my dear father George W. Loudermilk, who departed, this life one year ago, June 27, 1942.

You are gone but not forgotten.

Not dead but just away.

Still your spirit ever lingers.

Te guide our footsteps day by day.

Dearest father, how we miss you.

Miss your guiding words always.

But the blessed Saviour called you.

To a land of endless day.

Where there'll be no hour of parting.

And no farewell tears be shed.

Cruel wars will be forgotten.

Joy and happiness instead.

It seems so hard to live without you.

Your advice and guidance how we miss.

The God you served will never leave us.

Till we reach that land of bliss.

When this earthly life is over.

And we hear our Welcome Home.

We know again we'll meet you.

In that bright eternal home.

Help us, Lord, to be faithful.

Ever loyal, kind and true.

May we meet our loved one yonder.

In the land beyond the blue.

—Written by his daughter, Mrs. Esther, Loudermilk Lyall.

CLASS A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Our Army and Navy Boys

May 31, 1943.

Dear Calvin:

The fighting in North Africa is already three weeks in the past but life here has not changed much for us. The sun is still hot, the days are still long and the boys still bite just as hard.

But one sure sign that things have changed is that it is now the very latest style to sport a Jerry helmet on the radiator of your truck or jeep. These helmets are squareish box like affairs that make our round tin pots look like stream lined bonnets. It is a sight to see a mud splattered G-I truck roll down the road, a cloud of African dust trailing behind, and the helmet—a Nazi scalp—leading the way.

Most of our trucks have acquired names. British drivers go big for sentimental names reminding them of girls back home, like "Madge," "Ellen" and "Sarah Jane." Most G-I drivers prefer monikers like "Buck Rogers," "Hitler's Horse" or "Bawl."

These newspaper stories about all the prisoners we took in Tunisia are not lies, nor are the stories about how they clogged the roads. You should have seen that long line of German and Italian trucks, miles and miles of them, puffing their way around these sharp African curves on the way to the prison camps. Yes, it is true that many of the prisoners drove themselves to the big stockade, and it is true that lots of them did not seem too unhappy about the deal. Many, especially the Italians, were smiling and singing.

And again the newspapers did not lie when they said the Nazis left a big pile of equipment behind them. Of all the guys I guess the fellows in the radio section are most pleased, because no matter what else you may say about him, Jerry certainly knows how to build radios.

Now that the shooting is over for a while for the ground forces in North Africa, Uncle Sam has lifted a few of the censorship restrictions. At last I can tell you where we landed and where we have been but not, of course, where we are now. We landed on the Atlantic coast of French Morocco, Casablanca. Later we crossed Morocco and entered Algeria. I got into Oran twice and had a swell time and had a swim in the Mediterranean. Then when things were getting really hot in Tunisia, we moved in the back door and the first Germans we saw were dead or captured. That is as much as I can say but that is an awful lot more than I ever thought the censor would allow.

We certainly are proud of the equipment that you folks are sending over here and I would not know what it would be like to go without cigarettes and three good meals a day.

With the Nazis out of Africa and the war one step nearer complete I dream more and more often of the days when I will be running up the Main street of Marlinton.

Your Sunday School scholar,

England Has a Mutiny

LONDON.—When the rural council of the country town of Caister agreed last year to pay two pence for the tail of each rat killed then it cut off more than it could handle.

To date 61,865 tails have been handed over the counter to the local health office, 3,630 last month alone—and more than 500 pounds have been paid out. Life to the rats.

Officials have been complaining of small boys and old men coming in with rats' tails demanding their coppers—and the postman even dump some in parcels.

The local councilors, deciding that the role of a pied piper ill suited a busy health department, will get rat tail receivers themselves, pay out of their own pockets and claim a refund later.

Mr. and Mrs. Park McNeil and Mr. and Mrs. Stowe McNeil were over from Morgantown for the Fourth.

On Monday morning, July 5, 1943, Attorney Adolph Cooper received the sad message that his father, Jacob Cooper, had died of a heart attack at his home in Washington, D. C. For many years Mr. Cooper was a resident of Pocahontas County, engaged in the mercantile business at Cass.

The body of Corporal Elmer Bonnard, aged 22 years, of the United States Army, Air Corps, was interred at the Mt. Grove Cemetery Tuesday afternoon. He was accidentally shot at Orlando, Florida.

William Ross Gay was killed in an accident at Chicago, Illinois, on Saturday, June 26, 1943. No details have been received concerning the accident.

He was the son of the late Samuel Clark Gay and Nettie Crookshanks Gay, formerly of Stony Creek.

Mr. Gay is survived by his mother and one sister, Mrs. Blanche G. McKuskey, of St. Paul, Minnesota; a half-sister, Mrs. Lovie J. Bush, of Marlinton; and two half-brothers, J. A. Gay, of Huntington, and P. H. Gay, of Richmond, Virginia.

Dr. A. M. Byrd, aged 70 years, of Bluefield, died on July 4, 1943, after a short illness. His body was taken to his old home at Warm Springs for interment on Tuesday. In the early 1880's Dr. Byrd conducted an academy at Marlinton for several years.

England Has a Mutiny
On the Rat-Tail County
LONDON—When the rural council of the county town of Caister agreed last year to pay two pence for the tail of each rat killed, it cut off to date 61,865 tails have been handed over the counter to the local health office—3,630 last month alone—and more than 500 pounds have been paid out. Life to the rat.

As far back as 1911 I went to Alberta, Canada, where for a year I worked as stenographer for the Commissioner in the Irrigation Department of the Canadian Government in Calgary. Then I went through to Vancouver, doing catch work in various offices there for 4 months. I went back to Calgary for six months, and did the same work. In 1913 I decided to return home, but spent six months on my brother's ranch in the Rockies, out at Twin Butte. Ranch life did not appeal to me; in those days I loved traveling.

In the last war my brother, Cy-Rh Watmough, came over to fight in 1915, and a prisoner of war for a year. Now, he is a time keeper at an air port at Pearce, Alberta, and has been there since last November.

I live in a tiny cottage in a very small village, and am all alone. As I am above calling up age, being 61, but if I lived nearer a large town I should certainly do part-time work. As the cottages are so old the landlord doesn't like them being shut up, so I've decided to stay where I am whilst the war is on. We need thousands more houses and rural dwellings, as many hundreds of people have lost their homes in the various blitzes all over the country.

There are some excellent woods around here, and early in April my friends and I spent hours in

The American Women's Farm Bureau have an endeavor termed the "Letter Friend." The idea is for individual members to correspond with members of the National Federation Women's Institutes in Great Britain. Mrs. D. W. Williams, of Marlinton, wrote her Letter Friend, and here is the letter she received in reply—

May 10, 1943
Dear Mrs. Williams:
This is my first attempt to write to you in connection with the Letter Friend section of the National Federation of Women's Institutes over on this side of the Atlantic.

I ought to have written months since, but have been away from home nearly all the winter, helping a friend nurse her aged mother, who died last January, aged 93.1.2. What a wonderful age to reach, and she had all her faculties to the last; just died of senile decay.

I must tell you that we are having weather for May; the worst I've known for many a long year. Today we've had wind squalls and rain all day long. And, my, it does blow here, as we are only 7 miles from the sea, and the country is extremely open and flat. It is very cool for May. We had lovely weather in February and early March, with a lot of sunshine and a very dry spell. I think the climate in your part of the world must be nice and warm with very little cold weather, but that you will tell me when you write.

We had our Institute meeting last Thursday May 6th; our chief item was a Cookery Lecture, particularly demonstrating the use of potatoes in place of flour. I must say I'm not at all partial to potatoes; I much prefer green vegetables, as these are not fattening, and I'm supposed to keep my weight down. In spite of the rationing I've hardly lost an ounce during the war. It must be the country air that suits me and also living in my native county of Lincolnshire.

Now, I must close, with my kindest regards, hoping that you are well, and that you will send me a few lines when you have time. Yours very sincerely
(Miss) E. F. Watmough

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Calvin W. Price, Editor
THURSDAY, JULY 8, 1943

In the May 13 issue of this paper there appeared the tall story of twin brothers, from east of the Blue Ridge, coming to visit their uncle in Marlinton during ramp time, just before they were to be examined for induction into the army. While here the boys cultivated and developed weakness for ramps. They reported to induction station, smelling like nobody's business. The examining physician caught whiffs of their breaths; lost his own breath and just about keeled. Then he recovered enough to send the boys home, telling them they were suffering from some dread malady; so far as his knowledge and observation went the disease was a new one to the science of medicine; to take at least six weeks of absolute rest under care of the family physician, and report later.

Well, the story struck the fancy of Raymond L. Gibson, engineer in the government navigation office in Columbus, Ohio. An army officer attached to this station is Major D. P. Strausbaugh, late head botanist at West Virginia University. So, Engineer Gibson, affectionately known among his fellows as Hoot, refers the science note to Major Strausbaugh, the high authority. There is nothing, dogmatic about the Major; he came back with this intensely interesting and highly scientific observation:

"Evidently ramps are becoming increasingly potent. Why not gather several tons of these rank smelling herbs, transport them by plane and drop them from bomb-bays on Schickelgruber, Togo and their ilk! Thus the lowly ramp could be elevated to a high place as a vital factor in the winning of the war.—P.D.S."

S. S. Davidson was down from Back Alleghany last Saturday on business. He has profitable side line in poultry raising along with general farming. He keeps 150 or more hens the year around. He specializes in the large English White Leghorns. Mr. Davidson gives a reason for the high rate of mortality among young pigs. He says it is "black teeth." These are extra teeth, sharp as needles, and cut the mouth so sorely the little porkers will not feed.

Friend George H. Hefner was in early Monday morning to extend his subscription another year. I asked him about his sheep shearing, and he said he had laid off that kind of work. Then I asked him about his record number of sheep clipped in a day. He said ninety-five head with old time shears. He started clipping at day light, and to finish the last one he had to send the boy who grew up to be Mayor Carl Sheets, of Marlinton, to the house for a lantern. Before Carl could get back with the light, the wool was all off. Mr. Hefner said he could have gotten the ninety-five head, all clipped in day light if the sheep had been in one lot and in one pen. He had to walk several miles between the homes of the late Francis McCoy, Mr. W. Gordon and James L. Sheets. An average day shearing with shears is around twenty-five or thirty head.

Ole Nelson, of Upper Tract, killed a four-foot rattlesnake on Gauley, while trout fishing the other day. The snake came up, the snake started to make away; then it turned and came back fighting. A couple of well-placed rocks put him out of business. He was a black one.

The long cold spell in May got here this year the first of July. With it was the June rise in the Greenbrier. You know the old saying about our river always having its June freshet, even tho' it may not happen until August or later.

The cool spell makes it now look as if a big potato yield might be assured in Pocahontas County. This is a tickle vegetable, subject to many ills. The hot weather had us bothered over the prospect of blight. The farm experts all were telling us to look a little out as chances favored a blight season as the disease was so wide-spread last year. This opinion was based on the fact that practically all seed obtainable was from blight infected plants.

Old timers and hopeful idiots took the contrary view; that the disease was against two blight years and a running; that seed from blighted plants have some immunity or resistance, if weather conditions are not too favorable for infection. There is the old adage which holds that immature potatoes make the best seed and after all, that it makes small difference whether the green vines are killed early by blight or cut down in the fall by frost. It is immaturity of tuber which counts most.

Then, too, there is the old saying that high priced potato seed produces a low priced crop. On this is based the old Pennsylvania Dutch farm practice to plant a given number of dollars worth of seed potatoes each year rather than a given number of bushels or a given number of acres. For easy figuring, say the yearly sum set for potato seed is $100. If this amount of money will purchase 100 bushels of seed potatoes, why plant five acres at the rate of 20 bushels to the acre; if $100 will buy only 20 bushels of seed, the safe farm practice is to plant one acre that year. They say this system has worked out reasonably well through the years where commercial potato growing is the rule and practice.

However our scientific farm advisors reply with the direful experience of a century ago, when blight for several years in succession caused the Potato Famine in Ireland, to cut down the population of the Emerald Isle one-half through famine and emigration.

This year was sure the scarce-potato spring, when the lowly spud got up in the luxury class. To start with, there was a short crop last year; the armed forces rightfully had first call; there was starvation among the people of our allies; there was unprecedented demand for seed; last but not least, the Southern new potato crop was about six weeks late in coming to market. Usually the soggy spuds from the far south come in when the old crop begins to run short. Late spring and high water held back the crop.

Now, they say, there are such quantities of new potatoes that the market is swamped. The far south crop went to market about the time the big Virginia and Maryland crops were ready. The yields everywhere bountiful.

Now, the potatoes from early crop states do all right as new potatoes, but they do not keep well and are not quality to eat when you can get better. The skins are thin, and they do not lend themselves to the new process of drying—dehydration. I hear now they are cannelling these early potatoes.

It is coming out now that one of the slick tricks of the bootleggers on the blackmarket was to sell certified seed potatoes at a fancy price to house keepers for table use. They do say that people living in city apartments as high up as the seventh floor signed their souls away on applications for seed potatoes for to eat.

I most always could buy potatoes for less money than it cost me to raise them. The exception was one year in the last war. Labor was scarce and high, and I got prudent and thrifty and planted no potatoes for winter use. That year the crop was short and the scarcity of flour made extra heavy demand for the starch the spuds contain. Eating potatoes retailed at five dollars a short bushel, with me on the buying end. I never, before or since, saw a family so spud hungry; it looked like they could eat a peck a day. With cellar bins bulging, no one seems to eat potatoes to amount to anything.

May Use Juice of Orange
In Making Gunpowder
WINTER HAVEN, FLA.—Making gunpowder from oranges was one use for the citrus fruit that even the Florida Chamber of Commerce had overlooked. But federal scientists say it can—and probably will—be done soon.

Citrus officials here report that by using the scraps from oranges, 180 proof alcohol can be produced and further processing can be made into ammunition.

Costs will be cut one-third by use of the orange waste which is pressed into juice, as compared with the use of blackstrap molasses, scientists at the United States Citrus Products Laboratory say.

The discovery resulted from experiments to use the sugars found in the pressed juices to manufacture alcohol and so render more sugar available for human consumption.

Lumber Yachts
From Midshipmen
Royal Fleet Takes Place of Navy on Great Lakes
CHICAGO.—A fleet of lumber yachts on the Great Lakes is taking the place of the navy on the Great Lakes. Many miles from the coast where they expect to keep the lake.

Lumber yachts, millionaires and captains of industry, this fleet usually consists of 12 ships carrying more than 100 midshipmen on each cruise. The yachts were secured for service by the Navy League of the United States.

Before Pearl Harbor the navy's embryo midshipmen spent three months studying navigation and seamanship at Northwestern university's Abbott hall and a month cruising aboard battleships or cruisers in the Atlantic.

But the war put a halt to the cruises and a month of indoctrination on the Notre Dame campus was substituted, leaving the midshipmen without any practical experience aboard a vessel.

The Navy league stepped into the breach and the polished decks of pleasure boats now resound to the marching feet of midshipmen instead of the high-heeled slippers of debutantes and dowagers.

Three days each week the owners or their skippers bring the yachts to Navy pier. Within 15 minutes the midshipmen embark and the ships sail off on a three-hour cruise. It takes 14 minutes for them to disembark.

With the Four Winds, $150,000 yacht owned by Ludwig D. Schreiber, Chicago city clerk, acting as the flagship, the flotilla sails far out on the lake.

Naval discipline prevails aboard each vessel.

The midshipmen take turns steering the ship by compass, learning to the knots and signaling. Only a few of the boats participate in the signal drill.

War Work Said to Make
German Women Sullen
BERNE, SWITZERLAND.—About 15,000,000 German women now are engaged in war work, 9,400,000 of them in various kinds of compulsory service, an announcement in Berlin said.

About 4,000,000 are married, and 2,500,000 have children who are cared for during the day in Nazi party institutions, it is said.

Beginning June 1, women took over many police duties.

A dispatch from Berlin said most of the women workers "are badly affected" by war service and "sometimes are more sullen than polite."

DES MOINES, IOWA.—Kind-hearted Katharine Myhre found the government's prescription for poisoning rats too horrible. She decided she'd use the method of extermination on the two rats that lived in her basement but not without giving them a decent meal first.

She prepared a dinner of baked potatoes, bacon, eggs, milk, vegetables, fruit, cake and candy and gave it to the rats. The two fellows showed so much appreciation that they never did get the poison. Now Katharine says that they get at least one meal a day.

Army Changes Marking
Of Its Combat Planes
WASHINGTON.—The red circle wing insignia on American army planes has been ordered changed to a white star within a blue circle to avoid confusion with Japanese plane markings.

Announcing this, the war department said the new insignia would be placed on all combat aircraft. In addition red and white tail markings have been eliminated.

Japanese war planes are marked with an orange-red circle and in the Southwest Pacific fighting this sometimes confuses the defenders.

Scatter Germs From Air
Statements by these persons to the effect that the Japanese have tried to produce epidemics of bubonic plague in China by scattering grain and other matter mixed with plague-infected fleas from airplanes were released by Mr. Barnett and corroborated as authentic by Dr. Donald D. Van Slyke of the Rockefeller institute, who is president of the American Bureau of Medical Aid to China.

"These statements are documentary proof that the Japanese are engaging in germ warfare," Dr. Barnett said.

Dr. Van Slyke commented: "I have read the documents and my impression is that they are entirely authentic."

Mr. Barnett, who was born in Shanghai, the son of an official of the Young Men's Christian association, and attended the University of North Carolina, Yale university and Oxford university, said there were also other instances of Japanese germ warfare which had not yet been completely authenticated.

Methods Experimental.
Dr. King, in his report to Dr. Soong, said "sufficient circumstantial evidence has been gathered to show that the Japanese have tried to use our people as guinea pigs for experimentation on the practicability of bacterial warfare."

The Japanese methods were clearly experimental, Dr. King reported, but caused many deaths from bubonic plague. Lone planes would fly over Chinese cities and drop grain mixed with plague-infected fleas. The grain would attract rats, who would become infected, and in turn would infect men, women and children. Rats are the classic carriers and transmitters of bubonic plague, he pointed out, and wherever the plague strikes the mortality among rats is even greater than among people.

Miss Bannan, in a report to Dr. King from the Presbyterian hospital, Changteh, Hunan province, on December 18, 1941, on an outbreak of plague in that city, stated that it "followed the visit of an enemy plane on the morning of November 4."

"The unhulled wheat and grain found on the streets and roofs of houses in Changteh was dropped from that plane," Miss Bannan reported. "I might say in this connection that I watched the flight of the plane closely until it disappeared into the sky somewhat like a hydroplane and flew low over the city—lower than any plane has yet flown in the more than 20 bombings I have witnessed here."

Miss Bannan said some of the grain was collected and brought to the hospital for examination, and that a laboratory test was made which "showed bacilli closely resembling that of plague."

Modeling Now Keeps
Oklahoma Kids Occupied
NORMAN, OKLA.—Prof. Ralph Biefang of the University of Oklahoma offers this novel way of keeping the children busy at home:

Put scraps of paper in a pan of warm water. First the bits of paper are worked into a pulp in the water. The pulp can be removed and worked into a variety of useful art objects.

Hot pads, bowls, masks and match holders can be fashioned without difficulty. After the objects dry they may be painted.

To be careful mothers who want to keep their children's spots, Biefang warns that such creative work is a bit messy. But remember, too, he adds, it keeps Junior busy while those victory gardens are being canned for winter.

Germ Warfare
Laid to Japs
Official Back From China
With Proof of How Plague Was Spread
NEW YORK.—First-hand evidence that the Japanese have been using germ warfare to spread bubonic plague in China was presented here by Robert Barnett, former Rhodes scholar and Rockefeller foundation fellow, who returned recently from a six-week trip to China as a representative of United China relief.

The evidence, made public by Mr. Barnett, is in the form of documents from P. Z. King, director-general of the Chinese National Health administration in Chungking; Miss E. J. Bannan, a registered nurse at the Presbyterian hospital, Changteh, Hunan province; Dr. R. Pollitzer, former epidemiologist of the League of Nations and at present holding the same post with the Chinese National Health administration, and Dr. W. K. Chen, consultant with the Chinese Red Cross Medical Relief corps at Kweiyang, China.

Scatter Germs From Air
Statements by these persons to the effect that the Japanese have tried to produce epidemics of bubonic plague in China by scattering grain and other matter mixed with plague-infected fleas from airplanes were released by Mr. Barnett and corroborated as authentic by Dr. Donald D. Van Slyke of the Rockefeller institute, who is president of the American Bureau of Medical Aid to China.

"These statements are documentary proof that the Japanese are engaging in germ warfare," Dr. Barnett said.

Dr. Van Slyke commented: "I have read the documents and my impression is that they are entirely authentic."

Mr. Barnett, who was born in Shanghai, the son of an official of the Young Men's Christian association, and attended the University of North Carolina, Yale university and Oxford university, said there were also other instances of Japanese germ warfare which had not yet been completely authenticated.

Methods Experimental.
Dr. King, in his report to Dr. Soong, said "sufficient circumstantial evidence has been gathered to show that the Japanese have tried to use our people as guinea pigs for experimentation on the practicability of bacterial warfare."

The Japanese methods were clearly experimental, Dr. King reported, but caused many deaths from bubonic plague. Lone planes would fly over Chinese cities and drop grain mixed with plague-infected fleas. The grain would attract rats, who would become infected, and in turn would infect men, women and children. Rats are the classic carriers and transmitters of bubonic plague, he pointed out, and wherever the plague strikes the mortality among rats is even greater than among people.

Miss Bannan, in a report to Dr. King from the Presbyterian hospital, Changteh, Hunan province, on December 18, 1941, on an outbreak of plague in that city, stated that it "followed the visit of an enemy plane on the morning of November 4."

"The unhulled wheat and grain found on the streets and roofs of houses in Changteh was dropped from that plane," Miss Bannan reported. "I might say in this connection that I watched the flight of the plane closely until it disappeared into the sky somewhat like a hydroplane and flew low over the city—lower than any plane has yet flown in the more than 20 bombings I have witnessed here."

Miss Bannan said some of the grain was collected and brought to the hospital for examination, and that a laboratory test was made which "showed bacilli closely resembling that of plague."

Modeling Now Keeps
Oklahoma Kids Occupied
NORMAN, OKLA.—Prof. Ralph Biefang of the University of Oklahoma offers this novel way of keeping the children busy at home:

Put scraps of paper in a pan of warm water. First the bits of paper are worked into a pulp in the water. The pulp can be removed and worked into a variety of useful art objects.

Hot pads, bowls, masks and match holders can be fashioned without difficulty. After the objects dry they may be painted.

To be careful mothers who want to keep their children's spots, Biefang warns that such creative work is a bit messy. But remember, too, he adds, it keeps Junior busy while those victory gardens are being canned for winter.

100,000 Farm Youths
Are in Victory Projects
ATHENS, GA.—A half million victory projects are being carried on today by Georgia's 100,000 farm boys and girls enrolled in 4-H clubs.

"This victory work," said L. W. Eberhardt Jr. of the Agricultural Extension service, "includes growing of war crops, livestock, collection of scrap and waste materials, food conservation, and gardening—not to mention the sale and purchase of war bonds and stamps."

Dear Mother:
This is another Sabbath day and I have nothing to do, this afternoon so I will answer your long letter which I received yesterday. This morning I had the 8 to 12 watch.
I always like to see Sunday come because (if not under way or on watch) we can go to worship services Sunday mornings (and I want to tell you that we have a good chaplain on board too) and then in the afternoon we rest, sleep, write or do anything that we want to.
Most of the time I write letters but some Sunday afternoons I hardly know what to do with myself—get tired of reading, am not sleepy and am in no writing mood, so, I find myself walking around, and my thoughts wandering back to the hills of dear old West Virginia—thinking of you all—and wondering what you are doing. And most of all thinking how I would like to be there with you.
A Sunday morning never passes but what I think of you all back up there at Dunmore and can picture a quiet, peaceful morning with my loved ones and friends gathering for worship services at two little white churches, and, oh, how I long to be there. I am with you at heart, and may be some day before so long, we can all be together as we once were.
Remember me to the folks around there and tell them that their continued prayers for us boys to get back home is much appreciated. It is easier, makes us stronger, and gives courage to us when we know prayers, loved ones, and friends are all back of us.
And, Mother, when you see Mr. Price, editor of the Pocahontas Times, please tell him that I certainly do enjoy reading his fine paper. I read it many, many times. Receiving the Pocahontas Times is just like getting a big, fat letter from home.
I notice where my cousin, Rose Miller is in North Africa.
I have been very fortunate in receiving mail during my three years in Service. Guess I would go nuts if my home folks and friends would let me down in their writing to me. Some of the boys are really pathetic. They never get any mail—unless we let them read our letters. And Mother, the sad part is—their parents and relatives are living too. Many of them have told us.
I know that you will be happy to hear that I have made my other rating I was working so hard to get. I am now a First Class Machinist's Mate (M-M-1-2) and that puts me also First Class Petty Officer. I have more responsibility now as men are learning under me. And of course there are other duties a Petty Officer takes care of. As it is hard to explain by writing so that you could understand these things, I will not go into details—but will explain when I can talk to you.
I am as high in rating as I can

June 30, 1943.
I really like Mary Mc. Of course the Navy is like any other life you undertake to live. You get out of it just what you put into it. Am I right, Mother?
We have a fine group of officers and boys on our ship. It almost broke my heart when they transferred my best pal, Bob, to another ship. I may try, for a time for also.
Well, time is rolling by and I want to write a couple more letters yet this afternoon. I am well and hope you are all well too.
How is the farm work coming along? Started making hay yet? Wish I could pop in around the first of July to help and how, I would like to be with you on the Fourth (on your birthday, I would give you about fifty (or would it be more?) licks with the hard-wood paddle, ha ha.
Did I tell you what I got on my birthday? About five of the guys jumped on me with a board about one-half inch thick, three inches wide and two feet long and presented me with twenty-one (21) hard licks. Gee! but I did feel it too—worse than the last time the kids beat up on me back there.
I am getting very anxious to come home to see you all but I doubt very much if I could get another leave of absence before fall anyway and maybe not then. We are awful busy and will be until this war is ended.
Mother, I know my letters are not as interesting as the letters I receive from home and friends. There is not much I can tell you—only I am well and soon. Wish we were permitted to write more.
You write as often as you can and keep praying.
With all my love,
(Sonny) Harry, Jr.
Mr. and Mrs. Homer Cassell, of Greenbank, were in this office last Thursday, and left the following letters from their sons, Roy and Boyd Ray Cassell, who are in the Navy. Boyd was at Pearl Harbor when the Japs attacked there. Their third son, Junior, was examined for service Thursday.
Dear Mother:
Will answer your nice letter that I received yesterday, was real glad to hear from you and to learn that all of you are well.
Mother, I am sending you some pictures of me. You pick out the one that you want and mail the rest to the following people: Cleo, Libby and Kathleen. And tell Grandma that I will be sending her one very soon.
Mother these pictures are not very good but they will answer the purpose, anyway I am still thinking of you. You can hang this picture up and I am sure that you won't have any trouble, anyway it is the best that I can do.
I received the pictures of Roy that you sent me and thought that it was very good.
There is not much to write a

Dear Mother and all:
Have a few moments to spare so I will write you a few lines to let you know I am O. K. I got here Monday and my baggage is just getting here. I have just returned from the baggage room it, and after carrying it for half a mile it gets pretty heavy. Right now I feel that I could take a rest.
How are you all getting along? Is the weather still warm there? Here it is still winter by the way it feels. I think I have seen the sun once since coming here. On the way over, several times we came through snow. The train had to use their beaters. I think I will get out my red flannels if this keeps up.
Mother, I can't tell you anything more than you know. All I know now is that I will be here probably six or eight weeks—maybe more or maybe less. It is hard to say anything or they won't tell you anything as to when or where. Whenever they change me. I will write and let you know.
I wrote Boyd Sunday telling him where I was and asked him to drop me a line.
Have Dad to get Harold Gums' address from Mr. Gum and send it to me.
Mother, my letters will be short because I cannot write all I would like to. You will have to accept them that way. Write and tell me everything.
I will close now as I have lots of work and washing to do today so I had better get busy.
Hope this finds you well and happy. Take care of yourself and do not work too hard for nothing can be taken with you when you are gone. Until I hear from you—so long and goodbye now.
With love to all and best wishes
Your son, Roy.
June 30, 1943.
Dear Mr. Price:
As I would like to have the Times I am enclosing the money for it; if it is not enough to cover the cost let me know and I will see that you are paid.
I have been in the Army for several months and find it quite O. K. I have been in two different camps. I was first at Atlantic City, New Jersey, where I received my basic training and then I was sent down here in Florida. I find this camp quite O. K. and now I am going to school for my advance training. It is quite interesting but I am forbidden to tell the subjects I am taking up. I would like to tell my friends around home what it is but I am not allowed to. I guess it will stay where it is.

AS YOU WILL
By Editor H. B. Wood, in his Highland Recorder
On Christmas night, 1941, the boys and girls of the county seat were making merry at Bob Auldridge's cafe. Pearl Harbor was only seventeen days in the past. Hangkang had fallen but the Stars and Stripes yet waved over Manila and Corregidor. The Japanese were still two hundred and fifty miles from Singapore. The merriment that Christmas night was the merriment of a last get-together and, thanks to Providence and the holidays, hardly a single member of the township's younger set was absent.
The men and women who, confronted the major upheavals of this world do not do it in sack cloth and ashes or with roars and lamentations. All knew the Great Dispersal was at hand but under the bright lights the air was abuzz with voices and Glenn and Wade were hustling pop and Rhinegold. The tables were crowded. The radio was blaring and from time to time, the program halted to give flashes from the Philippine and Malay fronts the right of way.
Running back over the files of the Recorder, we find that we featured that Christmas night in the issue of January 2, 1942. We made a thumb nail sketch of each table and here is our snapshot of a table up front, between the radio and the door:
"Shades of old Virginia! There is Allene holding court with half a dozen swains. We recognize Sam and Lucius. We capture two boxes of Schrafft from the punch board and pay our respects. Wade looms in the offing with a bland grin and a flock of refreshments. Click! The Marjorie are still holding at Midway. So cheerio, girls and boys! Its a long trail swinding but we can make it!"
Sam was in good form that night. Most everybody was in good form. Perhaps that was the night he made up his mind to join the Air Force. Perhaps it was earlier. We don't know. But Sam, the big, the blonde, the vital, has been the first to go West. Death is always the joker in the deck. That is as true in peace as it is in war, but in war there is not only the joker. Ali duces are wild and the Dealer is as impartial as He is square. He plays no favorites. Whatever card turns up you know it was not dealt from the bottom of the deck.
The old army notion that no bullet can get you but the one your name is written on is more than a superstition. Lynn Sulzberger survived the battle of Guadalcanal. Arnet Gutschall survived the sinking of the Hornet. The county boys have been scattered far and wide; the Pacific England, North Africa. During all that time Sam Hannah was busy earning his wings and yet he was the first to go.
The way he went is a strange example of the impartiality of Destiny. Sam wanted to be a pilot. His flare led him into the most technical and dangerous branch of the Service and he not only made good but super-good. Then, with his wings not six months old, he ran head on into a fate that does not overtake a man once in fifty thousand times. It was over the peaceful flats of New Jersey. He was in a bomber, one of a crew of five. The only enemy within three thousand miles was the weather. You may out-manuever twenty zeros but no man can out-manuever lightning. That is what got Sam's bomber. It exploded in mid-air. So five much needed good men went West, leaving five hundred thousand recruits to sabotage their nation's defense. But the cards are the cards and so far as the individual is concerned, the Dealer is impartial.
But that impartiality applies only to the individual and the immediate moment. So far as Nations and Time are concerned, Destiny shapes events after an eternal pattern that embodies the Purpose of God. Sam and his four companions were serving that Purpose when their efforts were cancelled out and half million malcontents will not be able to deflect it by a hair.
It was raining a deluge though the sun shined, when Doc and Mrs. Mitchell, Hub Mackey and Mrs. Mackey, Glenn Hammer, and Clint Gutschall left in Hub's car last Tuesday afternoon for Arbore, West Virginia. Sam's funeral was at seven in the evening and the news did not reach Monterey until four. It was impossible to reach all of his friends

WAR BONDS
Prevents the "Bonds"
Before our fighting pilots take to the air for stratosphere flying they must be "super-up." To do this the pilot just before he takes off pedals a stationary motor driven bicycle to reduce the amount of nitrogen in his blood. Otherwise gas bubbles would collect in his blood stream.
The stationary bicycle is an inexpensive piece of equipment, but the vast quantities of this and other materials of war make it imperative for all of us to keep our fighting men well supplied by greater and greater purchases of War Bonds.

DEATHS
S. J. Hall
Stonewall Jackson Hull, son of the late William Smith and Julia Ann Whitmore Hull, died at his home near Frankford on Friday, June 4, 1943. He was born on June 30, 1869. He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Jimmie Dotson, and their two sons: Moody, of Washington, D. C.; and Ira, at home.
Mr. Hull retired to his farm several years ago after many years of service in the public schools of Greenbrier County. He was one a large family of brothers and sisters, all of whom preceded him to the grave. Those best known in Pocahontas County were the late Wise Hull, of Lohelia, and the late Mrs. C. J. McCarty, of Marlinton. or the Lions Club, of which Sam was a charter member, would have been present to a man. We had a chat with Doc Mitchell late Tuesday night and the picture that emerged from that conversation was the picture of a man and flowers and a flag-draped casket and then a grave in a family cemetery ringed by West Virginia hills, the final resting place of the first of the old crowd to be awarded the honorable distinction of the Wooden Cross. We must make a pilgrimage and place a wreath.
The rest of the old crowd are doing their bit in the hundred and one spots into which Fate has shuffled them. Bob's place is blacked out but old memories haunt it. Whenever we glimpse its vacant windows they seem alight with the Christmas of 1941.

The June meeting of the Dunmore Farm Women's Club was held the 23rd at the home of Mrs. Carlon Pritchard, with thirteen members and two visitors present. It was a pleasure to have with us our Home Demonstration Agent Mrs. Bragg and her mother, Mrs. McLain. Mrs. O. J. Campbell led devotional, the theme being "White Robes." Mrs. Bragg discussed County Fair exhibits, the new jar tops, and the county farm woman's camp at Thornwood. The club planned a vester service, to be held within the next two weeks. Mrs. Wm. Brock was leader of the lesson, "Laudering the Easy Way," and many good points were brought out. Mrs. Hiner had an exhibit of convenient equipment for wash day. Mrs. John Pritchard gave demonstration of ironing and folding linens. Mrs. B. F. Taylor was in charge of recreations. After adjournment the hostess served delicious cakes and iced tea.
The Pine Grove Farm Woman's Club held their annual picnic at the home of Mrs. Walter Brown on June 10. Twelve members and 14 visitors were present. The regular monthly meeting was held in the afternoon. The lesson topic was Laundering the Easy Way. Several demonstrations were given. Each member answered roll call by telling what kind of washing powder she used. Songs were sung and games were played for the recreation hour. All enjoyed a good time. The next meeting will be on July 8.
The Seneca Trail Farm Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. Ivan Sharp for their June meeting. Devotionals were by Mrs. H. D. Rhinehart. Mrs. Lou Gibson was leader in the absence of Mrs. Forest Gibson. The lesson was discussed and several good suggestions were given and short cuts for home laundering. Former Dunmore Girl Married at Baco, Va.
A wedding of much local interest was performed at 10 o'clock this morning (Thursday, June 24) at the Warm Springs Presbyterian manse when Miss Frances Moore Pritchard became the bride of Mr. Clarence Morris Hudson. The Rev. J. T. McCutchan read the ceremony.
Mr. Hudson is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hudson of Ironton, O., and has been prominent in business circles in the county since the beginning of the Tide Water Oil Company's operations here. He came to Baco from southwest Virginia 23 years ago as manager of the big lumber mill erected by the Tide Water interests. Since the closing out of the timber operations several years ago, Mr. Hudson has remained as manager of the company's extensive property holdings.
Mrs. Hudson is the daughter of Mr. Samuel Reese Pritchard and the late Mrs. Margaret Florence Pritchard. She came to Baco with her family about five years ago, moving there from Dunmore, W. Va.
The wedding was attended by a few intimate friends of the couple. Following a short wedding trip the newlyweds will be at home at Baco. (Bath County (Va.) Enterprise).

VICTORY GARDENS

I did not raise my garden for a pot; it is strictly a utility proposition, by golly. Therefore I have no false notion the honorable judges will place me as the master gardener of this man's town, come Saturday, July 10, when they will check up on gardens. However, this is not admitting for one second that my garden is second to any when it comes to what really is a good garden.

This thing of making a garden is strictly personal, family affair. Even the neighbors have nothing in it; not even their unsought advice. If I had listened to advice, I would have been undone with a garden no better than the patches of those who were so free with their tell-me-how. Out side-of the wife, sharer of all my trials and tribulations, this family matter of raising a garden, is strictly an individual affair, where only the master is privileged to work out his ideas, desires and fancies. It is skin off nobody's nose but his own if his patch fails to meet the preconceived ideas of those set up to judge what makes a garden any how.

One of the points by which a garden is judged on Saturday is how straight the rows. I long ago learned that a crooked row grows more and better vegetables than a straight one. Besides a curving row is outward expression of artistic temperament with in. There is another reason, for it is accepted fact that Jefferson's serpentine wall, copied from the Berkeley palace grounds at Green Spring, divides up and dilutes the rays of the sun in proper proportion—not too much sun on one side and not too much shade on the other.

Then, too, a man feeling around so much with things of nature, like a garden, is bound to be tinged with superstition to a more or less extent. The heathen Chinese holds that evil spirits only travel in straight lines. Crook your row just a little, and the potato devil can only do his dirt in a few hills on his way through the patch before he is sidled off among the sweet corn and cabbage rows where his power is not effective. Naturally, the same line of reasoning applies to circumventing the evil work of the corn devil, pea devil and so on up ad infinitum. I do not want to get too deeply involved in demonology, but I do have the idea that when the corn devil finds the cabbage devil and the potato devil and the others allying over into his special preserves and domain they get to fighting among themselves, to forget their business which is to mess up my garden. Anyway, any reasonable, intelligent person will admit it is better to lose a few hills than to have his potatoes taken over by row. However, I do have my doubts about convincing the judges of the facts of such reasoning.

Anyway, Saturday is garden visiting day in Marlinton this week, and I hope in every other town of the county. This matter of Victory Gardens is important business just now. Food is always important and doubly so in war time. Actually it is a part sort of man who can grow what he can in his garden and extra hours in the garden.

Do I Know Motors!

It is surprising how quickly Americans can learn to do a perfectly new thing... and do it well... in a short period of time. Take electric appliance motors, for example. Two years ago the number of women who knew anything about them—even enough to put a few drops of oil in the motor and the gear assembly—was negligible. Now it is a different story. Housewives KNOW that a drop of oil is it needed marks the difference between having appliances in working condition and having them out of order. They prefer, for obvious reasons, to "keep 'em running." Summer months are particularly hard on refrigerator motors. Make sure that yours is clean, is oiled properly, and is not over-worked by too frequent opening of the door. In short, temper your appliances, if need be, to keep them working for you! They're your best helpers!

Our Army and Navy Boys

The following letter was written by Technical Sergeant Paul E. Underwood, to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Underwood, of Huntersville:

Dear Mother and Dad:

I received your letter and was glad to hear from you. You leave me feeling fine and I find it about well. I still cough a little but not much.

I had a nice time while I was home even if I did cough most of the time. I wish I could have stayed longer but I could not. Maybe next time I will be stationed back east. They are giving fifteen days furlough now, they started it the day I got back.

I made good time from Romeoville to Chicago. I got into Chicago at 8:45 and the train left at 8:45 so I missed it and had to lay over 24 hours. I could have stayed at home one more day and still had plenty of time to catch my train.

I had a nice time in Chicago. I went to the U. S. O. and stayed all night. I ate my meals there and it did not cost me a cent. They gave me a ticket to the Cincinnati White Sox and the Chicago Cubs baseball game. I went from there to the museum and saw a lot of things I had been wanting to see for a long time.

I went from the museum to Lake Michigan. I would have gone for a boat ride if it had not been so cold. I went to the U. S. O. and got a ticket to go to the theatre and saw a good show. Went back and ate supper and it was time to catch my train.

The U. S. O. in Chicago is really nice. You can take showers, eat, sleep, and all kind of recreation free.

I made good time from Chicago to Sacramento. The train ran on schedule all the way. I got back to camp in plenty of time.

Mother and Dad I am proud of both of you and proud of the kind of life you have lived before me; I am also proud of the family and to be a part of it.

Do not worry about me for I am going to be all right and come out of this war safe and all in one piece.

I must close for this time. Answer soon.

Your son, Holl.

Loris E. Duncan, 23, electrician's mate, son of J. P. Duncan, Marlinton, completed basic training at Submarine School, Submarine Base, New London, Connecticut, for duty with our growing fleet of undersea fighters.

E-M Duncan will be entitled to wear the twin dolphin insignia of the submarine service after further experience aboard a submarine during which he must demonstrate to his commanding officer that he is fully qualified to carry out the duties of his rate. The insignia is regarded as a mark of distinction throughout the Navy.

Duncan was graduated from Marlinton High School five years ago, competing in football while

After joining the Navy he went to Great Lakes, Illinois, for initial training, and said he selected submarines "for interesting educational duties, important responsibilities and added pay."

The Submarine School, the only one of its kind in the Navy, is attended by a picked group of men who must pass special physical, mental, and psychological tests.

The school work takes place not only in classrooms and laboratories, but also in numerous training submarines in which students master the actual techniques of operating the powerful fighting craft.

Many students at Submarine School already have seen battle as members of surface ship crews before volunteering for submarine duty. Others are fresh from training stations, but all graduates are sure of action once they are assigned to a submarine due for offensive patrol. Large numbers of recent students now are serving in submarines which have sunk enemy naval or merchant vessels.

June 9, 1943.

Dear Mr. Price:

Just a few lines from an old Pocahontas County boy who misses the hills and dear friends very much.

I want to thank you for your paper the Pocahontas Times which I began to receive while I was in England and of which I have received several copies since I have been in North Africa. You cannot imagine how much I enjoy reading your paper. In it I find out about all the boys I used to know in Pocahontas who are in the armed service from your Army and Navy Boys section.

Keep the field notes coming. I see some of the old hunters still find time to kill a few bears. I am looking forward to some big fish stories and for the big catch of the season. One really does not know how much he misses those sports until he sees how scarce they are in other parts of the world.

Well, it is really hot here now and has been for the past month. It has not rained for weeks and the grass has really burned up. I expect to see a grass fire any day.

The farmers in this region have already made hay and are now harvesting their wheat, oats, barley and rye crops. In fact that is about all they grow in this section of Africa.

Tell all my friends in Pocahontas hello and to keep the wheels of industry rolling to bring old Pocahontas and the U. S. A. out on top and no matter how tough things seem to be going over there you are still in the finest country in the world.

Your friend,
Austin M. Sharp.

The following poem was written and sent to Mrs. Clara Ware, by a friend, Sergeant Charles Dexter, who is now serving with the armed forces in New Guinea.

Farm Women's Club

The Farm Women's Club of Loella met at the home of Mrs. G. A. Hull on June 30, with sixteen members and seven visitors present. After the lesson games were played, and the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Ivan McKeever, served a delightful plate of refreshments, which were enjoyed by all. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Otto Kinnison, led by Mrs. G. A. Hull.

by another slightly worse, where the brick and red dust is thicker than the shifting desert sands;

And the white man dreams and wishes for a greener and fairer land. Somewhere in New Guinea where a woman's never seen, The sky is never cloudy and the grass is always green.

The Jingles nightly howling fobs a man of blessed sleep. Where there isn't any whiskey, and beer is never seen, Somewhere in New Guinea where the mail is always late, Where a Christmas card in April is considered up to date.

Where we never have a pay day and we never have a cent, We never miss the money cause we never get it spent, Somewhere in New Guinea where the ants and lizards play, And a hundred fresh mosquitoes replace every one you slay.

So take us back to San Francisco, And let us hear the mission bells, For this God forsaken post is a substitute for home.

Good Man Going Wrong

Editor Norman D. Camper who has made a really good paper of the Bath County Enterprise, is now a running for the office of Clerk of the Circuit Court of Bath County. There are already three contestants for the place, to be decided in the general election next November. I have watched the development of this young newspaper man with more than ordinary interest, and it is personal pleasure to go on record that he has made absolutely good in a particularly trying hard row of stumps. Now that he has established himself with a good and ever increasing business, here he has listened to well meaning friends and got himself heated for public service in a highly honorable and useful station—one which he will fill most agreeably and efficiently. The part about it is that his chances of election are more than good; that he will be elected from now on through the active years of a long life, and the art preservation of arts will lose a craftsman whose career has already done much in raising the standard of country journalism.

Harper M. Smith, county chairman, has called a meeting of the county committee which will plan for the war drive for charitable organizations, for Friday, July 23, at 8 p.m. at the First National Bank in Marlinton. Members of the committee, in addition to the chairman, are: Jack Richardson, for Edray District; Frank Johnston, Little Levels District; C. A. McMillon, Greenbank District; E. Clyde Bussard, Huntersville District; and the two county editors as publicity representatives.

The committee will plan the drive to be conducted this fall to raise the sum of $3,000 for all charitable and relief organizations except the American Red Cross, numbering approximately 18 societies. The drive, if effective, will do a great deal to reduce the number of appeals for funds in this and all other counties in the nation.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Dilley Sunday were Mrs. Lou Kee, Mrs. Lewis Gay, Mrs. Dempsey Dilley and Miss Eula Dilley, R. N.

FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

Member of the Federal Reserve System

I had in the mind the laborious and bad-taste subject of a political issue Congress to detail at length on this week, but, why not let a young soldier write the editorial this time on a subject of real moment—proper home support of our armed forces? You know about the long, long thinking of youth. Besides, the soldiers of today will be a running this country tomorrow—war develops its generation fast. They shell off fast the shell-back generation which let the war catch us unprepared—mentally and materially unequipped.

On July 1st, 1943, James A. Boggs, of Marlinton, was promoted to the station of Sergeant. He is at Camp Luna, New Mexico; Personal Affairs Office, Army Air Service, Transport Command, Replacement Training Center. He writes he is getting along swell, and I can well believe it.

YOU CAN'T LET THEM DOWN!

Boy War Bonds Every Payday!

I see hundreds of soldiers every day passing through our office. We help the soldiers in the Air Transport Command with their personal problems such as Government Insurance, Allowments for their wives, parents and other dependents, Income Tax, Wills, Power of Attorney, and many other personal problems. We also sell War Bonds. Our War Bonds are high too. Most every soldier has an allotment of certain amounts to buy War Bonds. These boys are fighting in all the battle zones in this World War. They are also helping to buy the guns, tanks, airplanes, ships and supplies to carry us onward to that Happy Day of Victory.

Every person who is not in the armed forces of the United States should buy all the War Bonds they possibly can. Our boys are willing, if necessary, to die. Some of them are dying and many more will die, and their bodies will hallow the soil of many a foreign spot that we might live. Is it not better for us to buy Bonds that they might live!

No war ever fought carried such high stakes for the winner or such fearful penalties for the loser: the most priceless possessions of mankind—Family, Home, Liberty and Religion if we win; Degradation and Slavery and a blacked-out God for us, if we lose.

Five minutes ago—just five minutes—in the Solomon Islands or in North Africa there was an American alive—maybe one of your boys—and full of life, too, and yet so young has hardly tasted of the joys of living—just 19, 20 or 21.

He didn't bargain with his country. He didn't know what camp he was going to. When he got on ship, he didn't even know where it was taking him.

He is away from home, friends, relatives and wife and babies and sweetheart and job and comforts of all kind; this education interrupted, his career impeded, and for about $50 month for most of them.

He can't go home at night to the arms of his wife, to the play of children; to a home-cooked dinner and a bottle of beer, and a radio and a picture, and he can't throw down his gun and refuse to fight unless some one pays him more money!

With all that he is willing to do what he has to do, but just the same, and because he is a boy, he's thinking about home. He's thinking about that thrill-packed moment when he'll get off the train and say "Hello Dad," kiss his mother, draw his wife or his sweetheart to him, and go home arm in arm, for an American fried chicken dinner.

Every day and every night he is thinking about home and what he is going to do, too, when he gets there. That was 5 minutes ago—just when I first started to talk about it—and now, right now, he is dead! His body torn to pieces by a shell so you are not likely to find any of it; burned to a blackened crisp in the crash of a plane; some Jap has stuck a bayonet through his lungs and he is coughing feebly, bloodily, bubbling forth pouring out of his mouth onto the ground; he's drowning in a cold, lonesome death, with his body ending up in the belly of a shark!

And if you could be where he is—not here in comfort, surrounded by friends and free to come and go as you choose—and see that poor die, to witness his agony—he would bring release then to the home of his parents when the child comes from the War Department, and see the happiness from a home depart and hear the sob of another Gold Star Mother—your know—where was real and for nothing he got out of it!

No man, woman or child can escape his share. On this point I am very sure. You Will Not Let The Boys Down—in North Africa in the Pacific and on all the fighting fronts. Buy War Bonds and buy more and more Bonds every week or every pay-day. There is still a mistaken idea in the minds of so many about these Bonds. You're not being asked to donate anything—to give money. There is no loss; no sacrifice involved. You get back $4 for every $3. What's wrong with that! You do your self the favor!

Your dollars may give some boy equipment to save his life and the lives of many other boys. It will be a far better world for us and for our children if win; if we lose it will not be worth living in at all.

Here is the sort of a fellow we cannot let down: There were two letters in the bulky envelope marked "Passed by Naval Censor" which Mr and Mrs Henry A. Hannah opened with trembling fingers.

The first was in the familiar handwriting of their son, Henry, machinist mate first class, aboard the USS George F. Elliott. The second was an unfamiliar script.

They first read the letter from their son:

Dear Mother and Dad: This is one letter I hope you never get! Funny way to start a letter, isn't it? But it is the best I can do under the circumstances, because if you do get it, that means I have been very unfortunate.

Tomorrow I will have the great honor to participate in Uncle Sam's first move of retaliation against the Japs. And, believe me, I can't wait! Oh, boy, have they got a surprise coming to them.

We've been cruising around the Coral Sea here the couple of days, just passing the time away while a few of our planes and destroyers and cruisers and stuff are dropping cold steel messages on the Solomons to sort of soften them up a little. Boy, I'm sure glad I am not a Jap! Especially the way some of our Marines are acting up! Serious as hell and making expert and tricky preparations.

Our job, of course, is to get them to the beach as fast and as many of them as we can. And we'll do it if we have to swim ashore with the marines on our backs. Because I don't think in history a bunch of men have gone into any engagement as cold and calm and confident as this group. There is but one answer. It will be successful.

As I write this, I want you to know that I am not writing because I have any premonition of anything happening to me. I'm just writing this because in case I do get mine, you'll know I got it like a man, with a clear conscience, and I am not afraid to die for my country. Believe that and please don't grieve, for this will soon be over. I have only one regret, and that is that I could not see you once more. I love my mother and father and family more than I ever said.

I will put this letter in my locker and in case it happens, my buddy has instructions to mail this to you first thing. I hope he never gets the chance.

I'll close this letter and try to catch a few hours' snooze before we get ready to make the Japs remember Pearl Harbor. So it's good-bye and good sailing and my most sincere love to all the family and my friends.

Your loving son, Henry.

The other letter was from Henry's buddy, John Williams, who said only that he was carrying out instructions in mailing the letter. "I don't know just what to write," Williams said to the parents. You have lost a very fine son and I have lost a fine buddy.

Did that boy bargain with his country for his service? Did he place it upon a basis of double time or over time? Did he ask for anything at all? No—he "couldn't wait" to offer his body as a shield for America. How can we enjoy any pleasure, any comfort! How can we think of anything else at all as long as boys like that are giving everything they have!

I have asked you to buy Bonds. You get back $4 for $3. The boy that dies doesn't get back one single hour of his life.

Give with our work—more work and better work. Give with the loaning of our dollars. Give with our prayers. Give with our tears. Give with our lives, if necessary, and the lives of our sons so that this "V" for Victory becomes, not just a sign, a symbol and a hope, but an accomplished reality for America. Buy war bonds for victory, for freedom of speech, freedom of the press and freedom of religion.

—By Sergeant James A. Boggs, Army Air Forces, Camp Luna, New Mexico.

FEEL NOES

My life long friend John B. Buckley, of the mouth of Savage since 1713, himself now past four score years and still hale and hearty, was up last Wednesday to see his latest great-grandson, infant Kermit Dilley, Junior. He stopped by the office to pass the time of day, and he handed me a complimentary note to be forgotten. "Come down soon and we will take time off for a full day of talking."

Mr Buckley had a field note or two. His near neighbor is Henry Warren, of the Chesapeake and Ohio. The other day what is now left of the Warren family—three out of six, with three sons in the army and the last one, Lake, rearing to go—were on porch watching the cow as she grazed on the right of right of way between trains. Less than two hundred feet from the house, it was noticed the cow shied off in a panic.

from a panic-stricken woman. The sign was read, and in the grass, probably near the lake, called his dog over. Lake As boy and dog reached the place, to the surprise of all a fine big deer broke through the fence and leaped into the river. This was the second day for that deer to bed down within a stone throw of the house, there were two beds at the lake.

Last week James Jackson, a neighbor boy, caught a nineteen-pound catfish in the Buckley hole. With that in mind, I asked Mr. Buckley how big a catfish he had ever seen taken from that place in the Greenbrier. He said 12 pounds. However, he once lost a much bigger one. Years ago he had set out traps, and the next morning he and his father, the late Rev. James Buckley, were looking the lines. The father was running the canoe and the son was taking in the floats. They came to one in comparatively low water, and on the hook was a catfish that looked like it might be four feet long. The younger man figured he might have trouble lifting so big a fish into the canoe, so he asked his father about carrying it with the gig they carried in the boat. The older gentleman trusted the horse strong line he had rolled from a dozen or more strands of shoe thread, spun from flax grown on the place. When the fish was pulled on, he bolted away under the boat, snapping the line without ever being stopped.

Talking about homemade lines, Mr Buckley asked me if I ever owned a horse hair line. While I have seen horse hair fishing lines, I never was so fortunate as to own one. By the time I was big enough to have rolled my own, the emmelled silk lines came into general use here. While the homemade linen lines were strong they soaked up water and when they were the very dickens to get tangled. The horse tail hairs being hard and slick and water proof, there was no bother about webbing up.

My recollection is you twisted a strand of three hairs from the tail of a horse, preferably a gray, just twice the length or the line desired. Then you doubled the twisted strand, and if properly stretched, how the strands would jump together like a couple of loving snakes when the ends were loosed. In placing the hairs of alternate lengths, the strand was worked through goose quills. These quills held the hairs together where they joined until the desired length could be strung together for twisting. After twisting as tight as possible, of course, the quills could be slipped off. Fish lines in horse hair days were only ten to twenty feet long. I am liable to make me a horse hair line yet. The drug store will be called on for paper straws to use in place of goose quills. The late Joe Addison was a noted hair line maker. I guess it is too much to hope that one of these old hair lines can still be in existence.

When it comes to horse hair duds, I can qualify. You can either part them or roll them, and you can do it in a hurry. Before it got to be against the law, duffing was a favorite way of collecting a mass of trout or suckers out of clear water. The horse hair loop stays open until it is jerked, and then it closes rapidly and holds well.

Mr Buckley is a modern farmer, and he has found that scientific practice takes too much of the time out of living. He now raises more and better hay on five acres than he used to raise on twenty. The trouble is he still has fifty acres yet to cut over his first time. Last year he cut one alfalfa patch three times. As for corn, he still raises the Buckley Yellow, which has been on the plantation for generations. However, he does plant a certain hybrid corn and finds it produces heavily.

There is the hunting tale going on Mr. Buckley about the time he visited his daughter, Mrs. Aaron Amuller, up in the Pennsylvania deer country, a few years ago. He borrowed my deer gun, and Ed Richardson says when he tried to outfit him with a box or two of shells, he could only sell him a single cartridge. The reasoning was perfectly logical—his license allowed him only one deer and one buck one bullet was his rule in hunting. Anyway, he shot once in Pennsylvania, and dawned his buck, dead in its tracks.

Our Army Navy Navy

Mrs. C. H. Collins, of the Navy, writes to her mother, Mrs. B. H. Collins, of the Army, who is on maneuvers in California, and James Collins, of the Navy.

June 30, 1943.

Dear Mother:

I will try and answer your letter that came to hand, yesterday. I was glad to hear from you and to know you all were well. This leaves me about the same. It is a awful hot out here. I am still on maneuvers and am still doing the same work, building bridges. I do not know just how long we will be in this part of the country. It is sure pretty out here.

Mom, I do not need anything right now and I will let you know when I do. I wrote to Jess when I came back but I have not heard from him.

You certainly are doing good with your butter. You must be going to raise lots of tomatoes.

I had a letter from Jim and he said he thought he would get to come home this month.

Well, there is not much to write about so I will close. Hope to hear from you all again soon.

With love to Mother from your son, Harold.

Cpl. B. H. Collins, (35429108) 506 Engr. Light Pontoon Co., A.P.O. 185, Care-Postmaster, Los Angeles, California.

Dear Mother:

Will drop you a few lines to let you know that I landed at my new station O. K. I am well and hope that you are the same. I rode a boat from 6:30 one evening until about 10 o'clock the next morning and we sure did have some fun on that trip. We slept on the boat. I have had more fun since I have come here.

I like the Navy better than I did at Bainbridge.

About eight letters to-day. You can send me that Testament. Be sure to write and tell me when you get a check. As this is all I can think of will close. Answer real soon.

Your son, Jim Collins. James Collins, S-2-C, Armed Guard School, Gunner Crew 1830 B, Little Creek, Virginia.

Sterl Lee VanDevender, A. M. M. 3-C, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlio VanDevender, was sent to San Francisco, California, and is now somewhere overseas. He graduated in March at the Aviation Mechanical School at Jacksonville, Florida. He has been in the Navy since a year. Here is a letter to Mother and Daddy:

Dear Mother and Daddy:

I hope you all are well. I am fine but I would like to see you all. I guess I am still at home. Tell Daddy not to work too hard. Did you get the money I sent? It seems like a year since I heard from you all. I got one letter from you in San Francisco. I guess that Paul and Franklin are O. K. I sure miss the farm a lot and hope that you do not miss me as much as I do you all.

Well, I say again take care of yourselves and I will try to do the same. We boys are still together. Tell everybody you know to write to me.

Lots of love, Sterl Lee VanDevender, AMM-3-C.

Mrs. Ray Workinger, of Cincinnati, Ohio, sends in the following letter from her sister, Betty, who volunteered as a nurse in the Red Cross and is now serving overseas. Mrs. Workinger says she, with her family, were former residents of Hillsboro, but neglected to tell who they were.

North Africa, June 8, 1943.

Dearest Mother:

I hope you have heard from me by now because I have written to Chicago and Harry several times. I am well and having a wonderful time.

We go swimming in the Mediterranean and I am collecting sea shells. Have some lovely ones for you to put in a fish bowl. It is a lot of fun jumping the waves and chasing the shells. Today I went for a boat ride. The sea is beautiful and so clear and sandy. We have floors in our tents and electric lights now and we are quite comfortable.

Will try and get you a souvenir if I get to town again. I am getting real brown. I made me a bathing suit out of a towel and a pair of snuggles.

Will take some pictures soon.

Love, Betty.

Mrs. Vaughn Fertig has received the following letter from her brother, Corporal Neal Kelly Mace, who is stationed somewhere in England. This is the first letter back since he went across nearly a year ago.

June 23, 1943.

Dear Sister:

As it seems that you have not heard a word from me in such a long time and are wondering if I have been alright or forgotten I had a sister, but Helen please do not worry yourself so much about me because I am well and doing fine and I guess you know that I am still somewhere in England. Sure hope everybody over there is well. Please tell them all hello for me and we all hope how soon the war will be over and we may be able to be back home again soon. Love to miss you and the family very much and I do think of you every day.

How's everything at home now? You know Helen, it has been so long since I have been away that it does not or would not seem like the same old place that it used to be. I have been in the army for four years and two months and have been back on two furloughs.

Well, Sis, I know you are waiting to hear from me right away so I will close. Hope to hear from you real soon.

Love from your brother, Neal.

Mrs. F. G. Wade, of Seebert, sends in this letter from her son, Junior:

Middle East Africa.

Dear Mother and Dad:

Will drop you a few lines to let you know that I am getting along fine and hope you all are the same. I was not out of the hospital but a few days until I was back in again with the same thing (athlete's foot). The first time I tried to get well too quick, I made up my mind the second time to let them say when I was ready to get out. I guess that I would have still been there if they had not sent me to Palestine to a convalescence hospital for two weeks. It took one hour and forty-five minutes to get there by plane and sixteen hours to get there by train. While I was there I got to visit the city of Jerusalem and Bethlehem and a few other places of interest. I got to see the Dead Sea from a distance.

I have been getting letters a long from Robert. Got one from him at last. I am glad to have those letters and to know that he is well and happy. Well I guess this is about all for this time. Do not worry about me for I will be at home before long. So long.

Love, Junior.

Clive Alderman, of Arlington, Virginia, sends in this letter from Sergeant Frank Origger:

Davis-Monthan Field, Tucson, Arizona, 60th Bombardment Sq. (H) June 11, 1943.

Dear Mr. Alderman and Family:

It has been quite some time since I have heard of you. May be I am neglecting my duty by not writing to some of you people. I get letters from home, but they do not seem to give me the low-down on things that I am really interested in like living conditions, people's attitude toward the war situation, what you people are doing and a million other things that go on around one's home. After all a fellow likes to know what to expect around his own community when he comes home.

I have moved around some lately; after leaving Del Rio, Texas, I went to Salt Lake City, Utah. Coming here we went around by Los Angeles, California. People seem to think a lot of the West, but in my opinion we are the lucky ones in West Virginia. These farmers earn every penny they make. I will admit they are wealthy but it could not mean anything to them living out here in these deserts. There are plenty of pretty sights and scenes if you like to look at rock formations, canyons and gorges. Colorado especially has very beautiful scenery.

I am in the second Air Force now and am qualified for foreign service. I have two more phases of training to go through after I leave this field. This is what I have waited for over a year now. If I can only get in touch with some of those rats. I suppose we all let our imagination run wild when we think of getting a chance to be with the other boys over there. I rather imagine that they are doing what we would like to do anyway. I may be here quite a while yet, because my work sort of keeps me in one spot for a long period of time. It may be months before I get across but at least I have that one chance if I do have to work here for a few more months. I suppose too, I am over anxious; always have been.

Ethel is here with me. We live at 1022 N. 3rd Avenue, Tucson. She and I both like it here although it is very hot. Arizona is having quite a drought this year they say. Sometimes I think all the western states are having a drought every year. ha, ha. It is really expensive living in town. Food alone costs us about $130.00 a month besides rent and other bills. Of course we have to eat in restaurants which does not seem like a home cooked meal to me.

Mom and Opal both wrote me about seeing Elaine at the Memorial Services. She must be a big girl now—she is around three years old isn't she? I would love to see her; she used to be so cute. I suppose even Edith is married by now, isn't she? Or maybe she does not think so much of the boys! I am sure that I am not the only one who has said "Mr. and Mrs. Clive Alderman have one of the nicest families I have ever known." You really have a family to be proud of—your children are all just swell.

I am working with the larger group of boys and I am glad to have those letters and to know that he is well and happy. Well I guess this is about all for this time. Do not worry about me for I will be at home before long. So long.

Religion on the Railroad

By DR. GRAHAM GILMER

In The Sunday School Times

It is not only helpful to look at Israel making the wilderness journey, but we get much encouragement as we see Christians about us making the journey to the Promised Land. Let me tell you of a remarkable railroad engineer who recently went to be with the Lord. He was Bob Turner, born in Scotland, but who lived in Hinton, W. Va., when I knew him. The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway entrusted him to run one of its very best trains, "The George Washington." His run was between Clifton Forge, Va., and Hinton, W. Va.

Bob was not only a faithful employee of a great railway system, but he was a loyal Christian and a great soul-winner. He was making the journey to the Promised Land in the power of the Spirit. He was REDEEMED by the blood, and by the power of the Spirit. This is the story of how he led an anguished freeman to accept the Saviour. During the first World War Bob was "pulling" a freight train. The freeman assigned to his engine was one of the most ungodly men he had ever known. He was vulgar and profane to a degree that made it very trying to ride in the cab with him. Of course Bob tried to lead him to Christ, but he grew worse rather than better. Many a prayer did the godly engineer offer for his wicked freeman.

"One day Bob was 'pulling' a heavy freight train out of Clifton Forge. In those days, it has been corrected since, there was a very difficult part of the track known as Payne's grade. This was not far west of Clifton Forge. If a train had to stop on that grade, it had to be cut in two and each section taken separately to the next siding. On this particular day the section foreman had put a red flag right in the middle of Payne's grade. When Bob brought his train to an abrupt stop the freeman began to swear even before seeing the red flag. When he looked out and saw the flag he really 'saw red.' He began to call that section foreman by every vile name he could think of. Bob went over to his side of the cab and said, 'I know that foreman. Don't call him by such names. It may not even be his fault.'

"I don't care whose fault it is. I am tired and hungry and sleepy. Now we will have to cut this train in two. The 'sixteen hour law' will catch us and we will have to lay over and not get home tonight." Then there followed much language which cannot be printed.

Bob was sick at heart. He felt he could not stay in the cab with such a man, so he climbed down out of the engine and walked up the grade. Soon he met the foreman coming down to meet him. The foreman held out his hand and said: "Bob, I am awfully sorry this has happened, but I wanted you to know it is not my fault. The dispatcher said I would have time to get this work done before you got here. I am truly sorry that you will have to cut your train in two. Bob told him that it was all right.

He waited until the foreman had the track almost clear. Then he started back to his engine. He hated to go back for he knew what he would hear. As he walked back he was asking his Father to hasten the day when he could win his freeman to Christ. God seemed to speak to him and say, "Now is your opportunity."

"How is it the day of opportunity?" thought Bob. "The freeman is worse today than I have seen him before."

There seemed to come a message back from Heaven, "I am going to give you the skill today to take your train up this grade without cutting it in two."

The message really came to him, but Bob could hardly believe it. "Father, no one has ever done that on this grade."

"Trust Me, and I will give you power to do it today."

Bob thanked his Father for this assurance, and climbed up in the engine with a lighter heart. "I asked you not to say those things about that section boss," said he. "It was not his fault."

"I don't care whose fault it is. That does not keep us from having to cut this train in two and from spending another night away from Hinton."

"No," said Bob, "we are not going to cut the train in two today!"

"Are you crazy, Bob Turner? No man has ever yet started a freight train as long as this on Payne's grade. Do you think you are better than any other engineer?"

"No," said Bob, "I am not better than other engineers, but I have been talking to my God and He has assured me that we are going out of here today."

"Oh, your God," said the freeman, "I am tired of hearing of Him." And again the air of the cab became blue with profanity.

"Now, just quiet down," said Bob. "Get up all the steam you can. We are going out in a few minutes."

Finally, by dint of much patience, Bob got the freeman to stop swearing and to start shoveling coal. As he kept his eye on the red flag he was in constant prayer. He had made a heavy claim to that freeman and he knew it, but he was sure that his Father had given him a real promise.

By the time the red flag was removed, the engine was popping off. Bob knew that if he backed and took up too much slack between the cars, he would jerk the train in two. His prayer was that God would show him just how much slack to take up. He backed as far as he dared, opened the throttle wide, and hit that heavy load with all the power of that great locomotive. The train stalled and the drive wheels spun round. The freeman stopped shoveling coal and began to swear.

"Just get quiet," bravely said Bob, "for we are going out."

Religion on the Railroad

Back in the caboose there was astonishment. No one had ever before known a train of that length to be started on Payne's grade. One of the brakemen felt that he must see what was going on in that engine. He began to run the length of that long train. He tumbled down over the coal of the tender and into the cab of the engine. He stood there watching that freeman shovel coal.

Just then the freeman straightened up and, as he mopped the perspiration from his brow, he shouted above the roar of the engine, "Bob, at this slow speed you will never be able to make that steep place just beyond that curve." Bob scarcely heard him. He was asking God for direction for running that monster engine. When they reached that steep place the wheels began to slip, but just the right amount of sand was released on the rails and they went safely over. Soon then went over the top. Out of the corner of his eye Bob was watching the freeman.

His prayer was now for him rather than for the engine. When the freeman saw that they were really over the top and were now rapidly gaining speed, he threw his shovel far back in the coal of the tender and literally fell on that engine weeping. "I have never before seen a thing like that. Think of a man praying this train over Payne's grade! I must have the Saviour of a man like that." Right there in the cab of the engine a soul was born into the family of God.

The Holy Spirit was leading Bob Turner as definitely as He was leading Israel through the wilderness. If the Holy Spirit could fill Bezaleel, the son of Uri, and make him skillful in all manner of workmanship in building the Tabernacle in the wilderness (Exod. 31:1-5), surely he could fill Bob Turner and make him a skillful engineer. Bob was yielded to his filling. How about you?

I write letters in the nearly-dark

THIS is part of an actual letter from a soldier overseas:

"It's not the big things that you miss out here. It's little things. Like street noises. Or an electric lamp. Where we are there ain't no such. Since I'm on duty all day, I write letters in the nearly-dark. Funny, how you can miss a common, ordinary electric light bulb."

Here at home, folks take electricity for granted. The fact that you do take electric service for granted is a tribute to the men and women who supply it. They've made it dependable—and they've made it cheap. The average American family gets about twice as much electricity for its money as it did fifteen years ago.

Seller, we're sorry we can't send you electricity overseas. But we are putting power into industry over here, so that you can have the tanks, planes, ships and guns you need. ... The electric companies under business management are in the war—as you are—to defeat the darkness of evil days.

LONDON.—With London as the scene, a new series of war games have been launched by a series of armistopes to probe the weak points and strengths of the defenses of anti-aircraft defenses in the south of England.

Armistopes, in which gunners with blackened faces storm positions with dummy guns and charge with bayonets, are the main feature of the exercises.

Chinese crackers, practice incendiary bombs, and smoke bombs, are used to create the noise and confusion of invasion conditions.

The defenders have not only to repel the invaders but also to keep their guns in action throughout the attack, going through the drill of maintaining a constant barrage against enemy bombers and troop carriers bringing up reinforcements and supporting the initial "invading army."

Observe Battles

Umpires stationed at key points watch every phase of the battle and award casualties to both sides. Blind spots in the defenses are pointed out. Within a few hours men are at work correcting the failings.

Individual officers, noncommissioned officers and men are closely questioned about their actions and their reasons for those actions at various stages of the attack. They are then criticized and instructed. The following day lectures are given, based on the night's work, underlining the importance of personal initiative in defeating surprise guerrilla assaults.

A battery's defenses are tested again and again in this way until the defenders are satisfied that they can meet and beat off every attack.

A test exercise watched by those proceeding throughout the south of England. The battery was manned by veterans of the Battle of Britain. "Armistopes" consisted of men from an adjacent garrison.

Sentry Overpowered

The invaders successfully overpowered an unwary sentry on a bridge before he could give the alarm. A few moments later they themselves were overpowered by two patrols who had hidden beneath the bridge and attacked from the rear.

Another party of armistopes then managed to succeed in breaking through the outer defenses under cover of a smoke screen. They were about to storm the positions when one gun team snatched up rifles and bayonets and counter-attacked, driving them back.

The remainder of the battery's strength stuck to the job of fighting the bombers and troop carriers overhead, putting up a record number of shells.

The battery site later was officially judged to be well defended.

Farmerette Plan Will Get Tryout in Maine

AUGUSTA, MAINE.—Although it has been estimated that women will not be used generally as farm workers this year, the Maine department of agriculture, in its campaign to combat the labor shortage, is proceeding with plans for a trial unit of farmerettes in the belief that such a trial would be of value for a much more extensive organization next year when the need may be greater.

To promote greater food production the governor and council has authorized transfer of $43,300 from the general fund to the war emergency fund, of which $2,500 will be expended on the farmerette venture.

Christian Crosses Banned

In Holland as 'Hostile'

LONDON.—Arthur Seyss-Inquart, German commissioner for Holland, has forbidden the wearing of Christian crosses in public on the ground that it constitutes a "hostile demonstration." A Dutch news agency says the practice of wearing crosses has been increasing in Holland as a means of counteracting the wearing of swastikas by Nazis.

50,000 British Women

Take on Railway Jobs

LONDON.—More than 50,000 British women have been hired by the British railways to replace men released to join the fighting services.

The women are working as porters, ticket collectors, baggage checkers, signallers, and telegraph operators and inspection clerks. Thousands also are employed in railway workshops.

And will bless His faithful ones Far beyond their dreams.

Christ—the Great Physician— Like a thief at night,

Is among his little ones To direct their right.

Read God's word by Matthew, Chapter twenty-four

And "The generation," In verse thirty-four,

Is this generation now Plunged in total war.

But the Tabernacle Of God is with men,

FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

For President fourth term, I am for Franklin D. Roosevelt. I know this is a bit early for me to inject a political note into these columns. I generally wait until toward the end of a hard winter, when days and nights are equal, to express my pick for champion.

This unbecomingly is occasioned by froth raised in wildly running to fro of politically bent aspirants to the presidential station, and president-makers, jockeying for position in party manipulation. Political insanity is the craziest of all, and it is catching.

In our party it is stop-Roosevelt mania. The batters have only their hate in common. This certainly has made some queer bed-fellows. However, pass up this phase of the rookus with the wise saying of the ancients, "whom the gods would destroy they first make mad."

In our party, Senator Byrd, of Virginia, and Senator Clark, of Missouri, have out their little lightning rods as usual. Would-be convention-fixers are passing them up as usual. Such jaundiced eyes now appear to focus on Senator Gillette, a farm-blower from Iowa, as a possibility around whose candidacy the small, powerful, vociferous, isolation, reactionary minorities of both parties could come together on for to be repudiated by a landslide in the general election.

The old gray wolves of the republican party still play ball with renegade democrats, but they have lamented memory how one such ran away with their whole show in 1940.

In the republican party, president-makers bandy the names of Governor Bricker, of Ohio, Governor Dewey, of New York, Wendell Wilkie, General MacArthur, and a number of lesser lights. About all that is really beginning to jell is a stop-Wilkie sentiment. Stranger things have happened in politics than that this ganging up on Mr. Wilkie might insure his nomination once more.

Anyway, the usual smear is beginning to be spread. There are some who profess dislike for wife of the President; others who appear to insist on holding our Commander-in-Chief personally responsible down to the last shoe hee in an armed force of ten million men and women, scattered the wide world over; as the picture man of the Charleston Gazette aptly tells it, they howl that the President has been so busy running a World War right on thirty Second Fronts he has not taken time out to trim the grass in the front yard. Why they even say our President is ambitious!

However, it is really uncanny how things work together for our President. Take, for instance, an unholy alliance of labor and other racketeers and the strike which slowed down war production, and bothered an already over-wrought people. He vetoed a loosely drawn anti-strike law which labor stands to lose much of well deserved gains of the last dozen years. In his veto message the President put it up to Congress to get direct action by passing a law to draft strikers into the armed forces. Congress overrode the veto, but talked on such effective means of curbing racketeering strikes. This is but one of many muddles which made Congress decide to vote its members a vacation and take a walk. Time sums up the record of this Congress in three words—Rest, Rum and Revolt.

They were telling me the Solid South was lining up against the President, and some of the states might break away to the republicans. A National Weekly sent its political writer down there and he browsed around in tin-horn political circles of about a dozen States. He allowed things were only tolerable like for us democrats when he got back. The causes of dissatisfaction was the President is in active opposition to laws which discriminate against colored citizens; he advocates a living minimum wage for working people, and he has appointed republicans to key positions on supposedly non-partisan boards and commissions. Believe it or not, a lot of Southern Congressmen, who felt themselves personally and politically aggrieved by such liberal thinking ganged up with all but five of the republican membership of Congress to put something over the administration. Inmate! Gray, of course, even in practical politics, when it is considered that the colored vote holds the balance of power in such pivotal states as New York and Ohio.

Incidentally, about the time these magazines men were checking in on local political dogs, a big systematic straw vote was run in these states among the voters themselves. The Roosevelt vote was 60 percent, with the remaining one-fifth scattered among a dozen other names.

Not bearing as much as we did about the Rum plan of tax forgiveness, which republicans and Roosevelt hating democrats put over under the guise of a pay as you go tax measure. It is a pay as you go matter all right, and is all the more necessary, on account of the forgiveness of possibly as much as eight billions of dollars in income taxes—all too much of it on war time profits. While the Rum plan saved me for the time being a few hundred badly needed and highly appreciated dollars. I have the idea it is second only to the scandalous steal put over on Abraham Lincoln when the government was soaked $2.40 for each gold dollar brought in a war money market.

The other Congress is remembered by voting themselves a pension and special X cards for gasoline. This one did not better by the country and took longer to do it.

Our Army and Navy Boys

San Pedro, California, July 6, 1943.

Dear Mr. Price:

I am sending you a couple of items and if you wish you can put them in your paper. I just arrived back in the States today after a nice trip to Australia, although it was pretty cool down there.

After many months of practice, and the crew on this ship, we do not believe it would pay the Japs to fool around us.

We expect to see Australia a gain before winter. It seems as if I get to see General MacArthur every time I am down there.

Well, Mr. Price, I am in quite a hurry so I will put these things in and sign off. Hope to see you this winter, I am.

Sincerely,
Walter Rhodes.

Those Navy Gunners Really Have an Eye on the TARGET

Monday afternoon we watched the crew of the five-inch gun laying shells on that smoke-bomb target. It immediately occurred to us that we were watching a crack gun crew in operation and we were so impressed by the accuracy of the fire that we asked Lieutenant M. Bremer, commanding officer of the Navy gun crew attached to this ship to give us some details.

Lieutenant Bremer was greatly pleased with the performance of the gunners. He gives full credit to Lieutenant Pitts and the Army and Navy men who did the firing.

"The target was about 4000 yards away but that made no difference to the men who were at the battle stations.

"Lieutenant Pitts, without a range finder and with no aid other than binoculars, estimated the distance perfectly and when the third shot was fired, a direct hit was scored.

"With continued good spotting and perfect handling of the gun, the target was hit squarely with the fourth, fifth, and sixth shots. The accuracy shown is almost unheard of and the crew can well be proud of their skill and accuracy."—The Neptune News.

June 20, 1943.

Dear Ma:

Just a little bit now to let you know I am well and expect to get home to see you before long. Just do not worry about me because everything is alright. It is hard to write a letter when they won't let you tell much. Write and tell me from time to time how things are at home. Do you like your new place? I have received quite a few of your letters and later I will try to answer some of the questions you asked. Well, I will stop for now. Give my love to all.

Your son, Bill.

Dear Mr. Price:

I have been reading some of the boy's letters in your Pocahontas Times. To receive your paper is very nice and to read it is a pleasure. It sure is grand to set down after a hard days work and read your paper from cover to cover. I like very much to know how everything is going back in Pocahontas. I enjoy reading the letters the soldier boys write who are stationed in all parts of the country.

I thought I would write and let my friends (the ones who I am not able to write each one separately) know that I am well and in good health and one among the great number from good old Pocahontas County who are helping to keep Old Glory waving high on the European theatre of operation.

Sincerely,
Sgt. Norman H. Alderman.

Some details have been received from a fellow Naval aviator by Mrs. James Marshall Wilkerson, (the former Miss Nell McCarty, niece of R. S. McNeil) of Roncove, of the tragic death of her husband, Lieutenant Wilkerson, United States Naval Air Corps, which was due to an accident and not in combat with the enemy.

According to his fellow officer on a U. S. carrier in the Pacific war zone, Lieutenant Wilkerson, probably on a reconnaissance mission above the clouds and over both land and water, collided with another plane with sufficient force to damage both. The other pilot was able to make a water landing near the coast and was rescued. Lieutenant Wilkerson attempted to bring his plane to a similar landing, but found it top badly damaged and bailed out with his parachute. His parachute caught on his plane's fuselage and was many good friends in the States over sea and under the Stars. But to let you know how fortunate I am to be with him and it sure is a surprise to meet him. We have loved many hundreds of miles in the same way. You know it was a great pleasure to see the face of an old acquaintance after so many months of service and making new friends.

I read a letter that Frank Crigger wrote in your paper and was glad to see he is well and doing good. I see that he is located down in the State of Texas. Well, if I could see Frank see any cactus that have been uprooted he can rest assured that Alderman did it taking over. I saw where he had left Lake Charles, on a given date, and on that same date I was viewing the shores of a new country to me and that country was England. There is not much I can say to my location but so far what part I have seen of this country is very beautiful. There are no mountains, just rolling country.

The people are very clever and sociable and they sure try to make one feel at home as much as possible. I have not seen a house built of lumber yet. They are brick or stone. Some have straw roofs that look to be a foot or two thick and I have been told that a roof like that will last ten or more years. Just think, straw, ha ha.

Well, just a few words about the farming land over here. The ground is very rich with natural lime. The ground is full of it most everywhere I have been. The crops sure look good. The wheat and potatoes are beautiful just coming into full bloom. I see lots of flax fields here. It is just coming in bloom.

Well, Mr. Price, there are lots of things I could go on and talk about or write about for hours, but as you know our letters have to be read over by the censor and I know he does not enjoy reading a long one, so I will say "so long and good luck and best wishes to you and all my good friend in Pocahontas."

Keep the home fires burning and your paper still coming. I enjoy reading it very much.

Sincerely,
Sgt. Norman H. Alderman.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tallier, of Oak, send in this letter from their son, Adam, who is with the armed forces in England:

July 2, 1943.

Dear Mother and Family:

Well, I have finally decided to write again. Since I wrote last quite a few things have happened. I have finished my raids and have also moved from my base. I am now in a Replacement Center. I do not know what I will do where I will be sent. I may get to go back to the States and then again I may be left out here as an instructor, but I am sure hoping that I get a chance to go to the other side. I have seen enough of this country.

I do not think you should write until you hear something more from me.

I will close now. Tell Mother not to worry for I have finished flying and there is not so awfully much to worry about. So good-bye. Hoping that I can see you soon.

Love, Adam.

Mrs. Rosie Simmons, of Marlinton, received the following letter from her son, P.F.C. Wesley Simmons, who is now serving with the armed forces overseas:

Dear Mother and all:

I will write a few lines to let you know I am well and getting along fine and hope this finds you all the same. I received the writing paper you sent me yesterday and sure was glad to get it.

How is Dad making it by now? Is he still working at Cass. I hope he is getting along fine.

We are going to celebrate our one year Over Seas today and I think we will have a good time. We are going to have beer and lots of cats.

We are having some fine weather here now but I would rather be back there. I wrote to Phyllis today. Well, I will close for now. Answer soon. From your son, With love, Wesley.

A Vital Message To All Shoe Buyers

FROM THE International Shoe Company

BECAUSE there has been considerable misunderstanding regarding the quality of shoes now available to civilians, it is important that you become acquainted with the facts.

Perhaps this message from America's largest manufacturer of shoes will be helpful to you.

At present, our Government has first call on shoe materials. Millions of pairs of shoes are being manufactured annually for our armed forces. These shoes are built according to rigid government standards. Only the best materials and skilled workmanship are suitable. Neither you nor we would have it otherwise. Victory demands it.

But—does that mean good shoes—dependable shoes—are not to be had by civilians?

Not at all—you can still buy good shoes. The honor and integrity of the International Shoe Company stand behind that statement.

We, as well as other shoe manufacturers, could make more shoes were we willing to disregard quality—but quality is the essence of this message—and this company is determined not to use present conditions as an excuse for lowering the moral standards of its product—standards maintained for more than forty years.

Despite heavy demand from our armed forces, there is still a sufficient quantity of good, serviceable shoe material available to meet essential civilian requirements. We assure you that we will continue to manufacture shoes that will return full value for your dollar—and satisfactory shoe mileage.

You may continue to have confidence in the shoes made for men, women, and children by this company. We shall keep faith with the wearers of our shoes.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Dean, of Marlinton, and in the following letter from their son, Harlan, who is serving with the armed forces in North Africa.

June 20, 1943.

Dearest Mother and all:

I want to write you all a gain. Well, it has been so long I could not wait again for the last few days. I received a letter from you today and one from Uncle Norman. I sure was glad to hear from you all and to know you are all well. I am getting along O. K. I have received three letters in about the last week. Boy, I sure love to hear what is going on back home.

There are lots of hills and mountains over here but they are not beautiful like those West Virginia hills. On these hills the ground is bare with only a few small bushes here and there.

I never get to write you as much as I would like to. When you do not hear from me, do not worry for I am O. K. There are lots of things we cannot understand, but some day this will all be over. I do not worry. Of course we all want to be at home, but God sure helps us when trouble comes and He is the only one who can help us. I sure wish the people of America knew what God really means to them. Lots of them do, but still there are so many people who are not serving Him. I hope and pray when we get back, the whole Nation will be on their knees praying, when we meet them. I am very weak, but I am doing the best I can. Pray for me and answer soon.

With love, Harlan.

GOD'S HELP

I'm a soldier in two armies. Serving God and Country true. Hoping, praying, working. For the peace men never knew.

My loved ones write me often. Saying all is well back here. They send their love, God's fellowship.

A smile, a kiss, a tear. They say to keep my chin up. And that will turn out right. For God is on our side, And He will help us day and night.

July 24, 1943.

Dear Mr. Price: A short time ago Arden Curry, of the United States Marine Corps and myself were in your office. Since that time I have returned to my base, and have been inspired to write the following:

TO THE PEOPLE

It was in May, 1940, when I came out of high school, with thousands of other boys and girls of my age. We were happy and gleeful, never knowing that we would be fighting a second world war.

Most of us made plans for college, others of us found jobs and were contented. Then came December 7, and the bombing of Pearl Harbor. Immediately the boys I had gone to school with wanted to get into the service.

Those that played in the band, football and basketball, now we see them in their respective uniforms; the khaki of the army, the blue of the navy, the service which I wanted to belong to and these beautiful white uniforms which we are all so proud to wear.

Next take our unfortunate friends who are unable to be in the Service for a thousand reasons or more. We are proud of them too, for we know that they would be here with us if they could be. They are the ones to whom we are looking to keep the home front going, to keep up in plenty of supplies and equipment as we are fighting with more safety.

When this war is over we will be coming back to start our lives anew, to rear our children so that they can live their lives, knowing that they will not have to fight for their freedom in another twenty years as we are doing now.

We ask that those who make the peace will remember those things, remember our future so that our children will not die on the battle front, that they may live for freedom and democracy of the world.

There are thousands who would be glad to die or give our lives if we could only know that our kid brothers and sisters could live the lives we wanted—Peace and Happiness for all the world.

I remain, yours,

Gerald O. Belknap, S-2-c, Amphibious Training Base, Group 51, Division 808, Little Creek, Virginia.

FIELD NOTES

Bears were powerful bad in parts of the valley earlier in the summer, but later the ripening of berries seemed to have eased off their depredations some. On Days Mountain of Williams River they were particularly bad; also on Dry Branch of Elk.

Over at the Dead Water of Williams River a fisher got a bit of a shock a couple of weeks ago by a bear falling out in his face from a service tree.

Down in Irish Corner, near Ronceverte, a few weeks ago a big bear wandered into that thick settled farming community. They sent for a pack of bear dogs from Pocahontas County, but the bear was a traveling and the dogs, with their life start, never put him up.

Over in Bath County they have a closed season on bears; and they have a special tax of $1 on bear and deer hunters. This money is used to pay for damage to crops by deer and live stock killed by bears. In the year ending this June 30, the revenue from this dollar tax on big game hunters amounted to $2150, while claims paid amounted to $960. There were nine claims for bear killed stock amounting to $323.50; the deer claims were also nine in number and amounted to $836.50.

Within a few hundred feet of the home of H. M. Warren, at the mouth of Swago, a deer bedded down on the right of way. A few days later two dogs were seen in a nearby field. The other day a couple of fishers in the big pool in front of the Warren home thought they saw a duck swimming toward them. Soon they saw the duck had ears. It was a spotted fawn, and it went away from that place when it made out the men.

My friend, J. A. Patterson, of Arbovale, spent his 81st birthday, July 16, in the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital. No less than 48 of his friends remembered him with greeting cards. Needless to say such kind remembrances were deeply appreciated. Speaking about birthdays, I accidentally remember this week's issue begins the 61st volume of the Pocahontas Times. Fifty-one of these years the paper has been in the Price family and for 47 of them I have had ink fingers in the pie. All this is just leading up to say that the late J. E. Patterson was one of the original subscribers to the Times, and in a few years the name of his son, James Alexander Patterson, was added to the list to continue to this day.

Somehow or other when I get with an old timer, the conversation just naturally seems to turn to deer hunting. The other day, on his invalid's bed, Mr. Patterson recalled an extra big deer he had killed by some extra good shooting years ago. The hounds had brought the big buck from the Alleghenies into the big Glade Hill bottom. At a reasonable range, Mr. Patterson snapped on the empty barrel of his repeating rifle. That always did get his nerve, and the buck got a good distance away before Mr. Patterson got down to real earnest shooting. He shot twelve times at a range varying from 300 to 1000 yards. The buck went on, but was overtaken and brought to bay by the two big hounds. The deer was fighting mad, and would pitch those 80 pound hounds high in the air whenever they would attempt to close with him. Picking his time so as not to kill a dog, he shot the deer in the head. Then he found that six of the twelve bullets had riddled that deer's body. Most of these were fatal shots all right, but the distance was so great the shocking power of black powder projected bullets was not sufficient to knock the deer down.

It does not make any difference who it was nor where it was; I merely beg have to report a friend of mine caught himself the limit of fine big trout along the first of this month of July.

He had in mind to take a short cut through a wilderness section of the Black Forest to the head waters of an open trout stream. The way proved a bit tougher through the thick second growth of spruce than anticipated, and a bit confusing, too. He came to a drain, took down it and finally came to a nice little stream. The thought entered his mind, what an ideal stream for beaver dams. Sure enough, around the next bend he did come to a really big dam built and occupied by a big colony of beavers. Here was fishing water indeed. The trout were there; big ones, too, and crazy for the fly.

Mixed-Beard

Ronceverte—Alfred Edgar McNeel and Mrs. Louise Barlow Beard, both of Hillsboro, were married at the manse in Ronceverte, on July 17, 1943, by Rev. Edward Agsten, officiating minister.

The Pocahontas County Local Board, Selective Service, gives notice that Jessy Warren Shifflett of 511 Macon St. Baltimore, Md. and Arthur Lemuel White, of Cass, will be listed as delinquent on Thursday, July 29, at 11 a.m. if they do not report by mail, wire or in person, for failure to give proper change of address and to appear for preliminary examination.

Mr and Mrs. Randolph Kenny and little son Pat Bartow, of Atlanta, Georgia, are up to spend a week with home folk at Marlinton and Hot Springs.

Robert Deputy got a four pound bass—19 inches long—Beard one day last week.

Good Milk

Lewisburg.—In compliance with the law, J. R. Ervin, milk inspector, for Public Health District number 2, has determined by inspection and laboratory analysis the grades of the different milk supplies of his district. The two dairies in Pocahontas County are Locust Hill Dairy, Z. S. Smith, Jr., proprietor, and Waugh's Dairy, Waldo Waugh, proprietor. Both these are at Marlinton, and both are listed as producers of Grade A-Milk.

HOME COMING

The first Sunday in August will be Home Coming Day at Arbovale. Rev. Don M. Nicholas, of Alma, will preach at 11 o'clock. This will be the closing day of the Camp Meeting.

Services begin at 10 a. m. Children's services at 1:30 p. m.; song service at 2:30; closing session at 8 p. m. by Rev. D. E. Wilson.

The July meeting of the Minnetonka Farm Women's Club was held at the home of Mrs. Alderman, with twelve members and three visitors present. Devotions were given by Mrs. Clyde Bussard, subject: Troubled About Many Things. The lesson—Meals that save time—was in charge of Mrs. Julian Lockridge.

An interesting feature of the lesson was an exhibit made by each member of her pet time saver in meal preparation. Another point of interest was home made trays, to save time and steps. Mrs. Cam McElwee demonstrated a well balanced meal with short cuts to its preparation. Mrs. L. E. Saville exhibited a well equipped sewing box and demonstrated the use of each article. Mrs. Alderman also had a lovely hand made bed spread on display. The Fair was discussed, games were played and refreshments served. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Pennybaker, Wednesday afternoon, August 4.

The Arbovale Youth Interest Group met at the home of Anna Lou Ordorff, on Friday, July 9, and had a nice program. All the members were present and two visitors Lila Ordorff and Francis Grey Conrad. Delicious refreshments were served and a nice time was had by all. The Society will meet August 6, at the home of Alice Sutton. Any new members are always welcome.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Published at the Pocahontas Times Building, W. Va., Wednesday, July 29, 1943.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR

THURSDAY, JULY 29, 1943

The country man is a tolerant for the most part, taking the wind and the weather as they come and getting along with his neighbors. But the other morning he stood in the midst of his strawberry patch and delivered an ultimatum that went something like this:

"You're heading for trouble, Mister Catbird, just as sure as God made little green apples. You're thieving too much. There is a limit to all things and we can't both have our fill of strawberries out of this garden. You're full of trouble and there isn't another bird in the woods that can hold a candle to you when it comes to putting people in their place. Not even the bluejay. You've got a voice like a wood thrush when you want to use it; and he's got a voice like a buzz saw. You can make the best of them sound ridiculous, just by singing their own songs in your own way. And jeering, as if to say, 'That pompous old grosbeak makes this sound hard. You see how easy it is! Ny-a-a-a-a! You're more fun than a paratrooper on twenty-four hours' leave, and you're got about as much respect for self-importance as I had twenty-five years ago, when I was loose on the town in a marine's uniform. I get a kick out of you, and I admit it.' But Mr. Catbird, if you don't leave my strawberries alone for a few days, you're going to get a kick out of me. By the way, Tom Davies berries are ripe too, just in case you haven't heard. And he's got a big patch of them." Clipped from the editorial column of the New York Times and sent in by my good friend, R. M. Steele down Norfolk Way.

All I can say in comment, is for shame, Mister John Kieran, to allow such materialistic vaporing to appear in one of the three organs of expression preeminent and predominant in their respective fields of endeavor—The London Times, The New York Times and The Pocahontas Times.

Let me explain to you, sir, that I live in Spread Belt; where if we find a man dead in the road we look in his mouth. If it is stained an honest black from berry jam, we all care decently for his remains as a fellow Greenbrier Valley man. If no berry stains are found, his interment is at public expense in the potters field, or, at least, in a handy fence corner.

Along with our other pleasures, we, of the Endless Mountains, take our berries seriously.

Personally I raise strawberries in season; raise the raspberry the whole year through.

I am not beholden to any man who gives the raspberry to cat birds just because they lift a strawberry now and then. Try a regular diet of worms and may be you will relish a ripe berry to take the taste out of your own sour mouth.

Birds take up the white man's burden to rid the berry patch of bugs and slugs and creeping things. It is a labor of love on their part. This they bestow only upon the pure in heart. However let me hurry to say they give us all the benefit of the doubt until we prove our hearts are black with self seeking.

I once knew a person who killed a little bird for merely taking a just toll of the crop. They just quit him cold. The dusting of all the completion powder the ingenuity of man may devise can not guild the lily nor put the flush of well being on the wan cheek of a bug-debilitated berry.

Worse by far was the fact the sending of birds was never again sweet music in that man's ears. His spiritual and mental distress was immeasurably deeper than the mere physical inconvenience the Ancient Mariner experienced with the mess of the dead albatross tied round his neck.

A paltry gallon of strawberries is about as big a helping as a man of ordinary capacity can really enjoy without inconvenience at one sitting. How can such transitory surfeit compare with the lasting and limitless benefit and delight of the soul lifted to the very gates of heaven by the singing of the birds of a whole countryside at break of day!

Remember, the sweetest cider turns to the sourest vinegar. So, when the sweet music of birds turns sour in the stomach of the soul, that is deep-seated, eating acid to a fare you well.

Losing of your crop of berries to the birds is minor inconvenience; I can send you berries from the warm heart of the hills of West Virginia beyond compare with the best the cold soil of the north can so grudgingly bestow. However, if the birds turn you down, to come their sweet notes of their singing to be better in your ear, you are a gone goose, beyond the reach of mercy, where hope is a stranger, the woodbine twineth and the whangdoodle mourns in his lost estate.

Mr. New York Times writer, may you were only spooning; call them harsh words. Always remember please, that the worm eating habit in birds is not an acquired and depraved taste. Why bless their sweet hearts, they eat the bugs as the one sure means of ridding the pest which would eat the world up, and incidentally us cumberers of the earth with the rest. Say to them you meant no harm, and to pay you no mind; that you'll eat your words. As buggy as they are, they are not quite on a par with worms as a regular diet.

Game Seasons

The new Conservation Commission voted a week ago to give hunters longer open seasons this fall on virtually all game except deer, which may again be hunted for six days.

Completing its organization under the 1943 act creating a seven-member autonomous body, the commission elected A. B. Knight of Fairmont as chairman and Ray Lambert of Kenova as vice chairman.

The orders for the 1943 hunting season call for open season on deer from November 29 to December 4 in five counties, and parts of 12 others. Last year there was a four-day season later extended to six.

Open counties for deer will be Preston, Morgan, Hampshire, Tucker and Lewis.

The commission discussed but took no immediate action on a proposal that there be a two-day deer season in McDowell, Mercer, Raleigh, Logan, Wyoming, Boone and Fayette counties.

The squirrel season this fall will be from October 9 to November 27. Other seasons set are:

Birds: Green, Oct. 1 to Dec. 31. Turkey, Oct. 9 to Nov. 27. Quail, Nov. 11 to Jan. 15. Rabbit, Nov. 11 to Jan. 15. Raccoon, possum, skunk, mink and muskrat, Nov. 11 to Jan. 30.

The commission decided there would be no open season anywhere this year for pheasant. There was a season in 1942 from Nov. 11 to Nov. 28 in Hancock, Brooke, Ohio and Marshall counties.

Men Wanted

Chief Officer O. M. Johnson, recruiter in charge of the U. S. Navy Recruiting Station in Elkins, announced that the Navy recruiting service in West Virginia has been authorized to enlist 18 men for Shore Patrol duty. Fourteen of the men to be enlisted will be assigned third class petty officer ratings and four will receive second class rates. Basic pay for the former ratings will be $78 per month while the latter has an accompanying pay rate of $96 per month, both groups are entitled to all allowances extended regular Navy men.

Eligible applicants must be between 38 and 50 years of age, possess average good health and have police experience to qualify.

Those found acceptable for this specialist rating will be sent to the Naval Training Station in Sampson, New York for four weeks indoctrination training immediately following enlistment, following this training period, they will be transferred to the Naval Training Station in Norfolk, Virginia for transportation and assignment to duty.

This quota must be filled by October 1, 1943.

AMERICA SHOULD KEEP ITS LIFELINES STRONG

1 WHEN YOU READ of the enormous amount of troops and materials of war that the railroads are so successfully transporting today, it is not surprising that many people have assumed those figures represent big profits for the railroads. Actually, this is not true, even though the Class I railroads carried 80% more passengers in 1942 than in 1941, and 33% more freight.

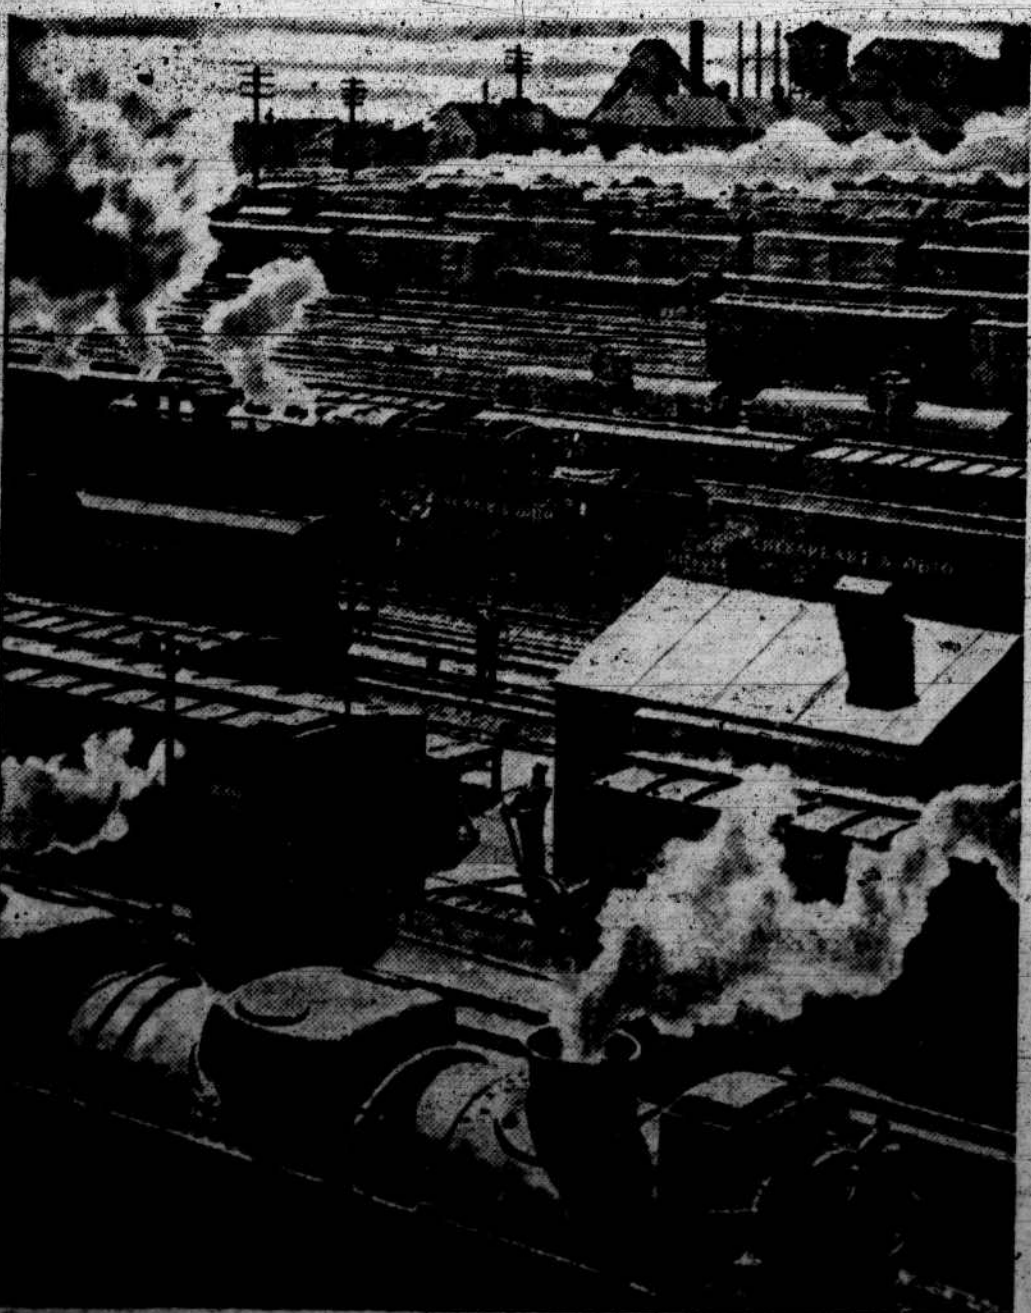

2 IT IS TRUE the railroads are earning more money today than they have in recent years, but for many years past they have been making far less than other businesses. Even in 1942, a peak year, earnings were only 5.56% on investment. And in the ten years ending with 1941, the average earnings were only a fraction over 2%. Many small businesses like the little retailer pictured above have, over the years, made much more money per dollar invested.

3 IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR the standard return fixed by the government for the railroads amounted to 6.21% on investment. Today the railroads are earning about 6%—a little more than they did in 1918. Yet they are carrying 35% more passengers and 55% more freight.

4 MAJOR FINANCIAL PROBLEMS now faced by the railroads include heavy taxes and greater cost of materials. Equipment now in service bears extra strain. The wheels pictured above travel more track in a week than they used to cover in a month. And rails and cars and engines are being used up at a rapid rate. Normal repairs cannot be made because of shortage of materials and man-power. Funds which should be put aside out of current earnings for making these repairs in the future are now taxed as "profits."

5 WEAKENING OF THE RAILROADS would be a national calamity. They are our lifelines, the vital arteries of our industrial and commercial system. America must keep its railroads strong. Too much depends on them today, and will depend on them tomorrow, to risk the effects of any policy that would endanger what we now enjoy—the finest railroad service in the world.

Dear Sir:

I am in a state of a letter recently... from Dick E. Griffin, of the Navy.

July 4, 1943.
Hello Dad: How are you? I am now in the Navy... I will graduate August 10, I hope. Everyone write me often.

Your cousin,
Dick Griffin, A. S.
Co. 324, U. S. N. T. S.,
Great Lakes, Illinois.

We have seen by your paper that you write about the achievements of your fellow citizens and therefore we took the privilege to write you a few lines on one of your boys, who is over-seas.

July 15, 1943.
Gentlemen:
Just a few lines about one of your local boys: Private First Class Glen W. Rhea.

Private First Class Rhea has been in the Army one year on the above date of this month and was promoted to Private First Class on March 3, 1943, and is now ready for his next step in his military career.

He is a clerk in the Regimental Headquarters of the 97th Cavalary Reconnaissance Squadron, A.P.O. 827, taking care of the personnel records of Troop A. He has as his assistance Sergeant Raymond Freimuth, of Sheboygan, Wisconsin.

Private First Class Rhea in his leisure hours has proven himself the checker champion area of this area. He also has shown great promise of becoming tennis champion also. (You will find enclosed a snapshot taken after his last tennis championship game his opponent is Corporal William J. Shade, III, of Shippensburg, Pennsylvania.)

He is now looking forward to receiving his good conduct medal for having a perfect to this date, recommended by the Commanding General of this Area.

Each edition of the Pocahontas Times is anxiously awaited by Private First Class Rhea and those of us to whom he passes on when finished enjoy it also as a paper from the States is always welcome among the boys away from home.

Sincerely yours,
1st Sergeant George C. Losch.

Mrs. Myrtle Bussard received the following letter from her son, Henry Hunter Bussard, who has been in the Marines, at Parris Island, South Carolina, since June 1, 1943.

July 4, 1943.
Hello Mother: I will drop you a line or two. I washed my clothes today. I have been on Parris Island since June 1, and I like marine life fine. I am on the rifle range now. I think that is the best part of a boot's life. A marine's stay on Parris Island is ten weeks. They are sent to all parts of the world from here. Marine life is very interesting and very educational.

Do not let Dad work too hard. I am expecting a furlough about the 3rd of August and Mother, I will be at home for your birthday.

I will close for this time hoping to hear from home soon.

With love,
Hunter.

Dear Sir:
Just a V-Mail letter to notify you of my new address which is O Battery, 57th C. A. I am stationed at the name A.P.O.

Things are pretty quiet in the Islands. The news of the attack on Sicily caused as much excitement as the "funnies" in a family of eight. The men are not saying much, but I believe that they would like to be on their way to Tokyo.

Signing off hoping to find you

(You will find enclosed a snapshot taken after his last tennis championship game his opponent is Corporal William J. Shade, III, of Shippensburg, Pennsylvania.)

He is now looking forward to receiving his good conduct medal for having a perfect to this date, recommended by the Commanding General of this Area.

Each edition of the Pocahontas Times is anxiously awaited by Private First Class Rhea and those of us to whom he passes on when finished enjoy it also as a paper from the States is always welcome among the boys away from home.

Sincerely yours,

Mrs. Myrtle Bussard received the following letter from her son, Henry Hunter Bussard, who has been in the Marines, at Parris Island, South Carolina, since June 1, 1943.

July 4, 1943.
Hello Mother: I will drop you a line or two. I washed my clothes today. I have been on Parris Island since June 1, and I like marine life fine. I am on the rifle range now. I think that is the best part of a boot's life. A marine's stay on Parris Island is ten weeks. They are sent to all parts of the world from here. Marine life is very interesting and very educational.

Do not let Dad work too hard. I am expecting a furlough about the 3rd of August and Mother, I will be at home for your birthday.

I will close for this time hoping to hear from home soon.

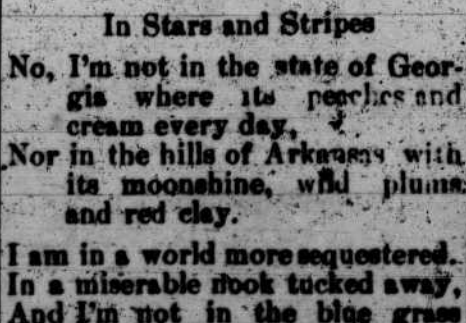

With love,
Hunter.

Dear Sir:
Just a V-Mail letter to notify you of my new address which is O Battery, 57th C. A. I am stationed at the name A.P.O.

Things are pretty quiet in the Islands. The news of the attack on Sicily caused as much excitement as the "funnies" in a family of eight. The men are not saying much, but I believe that they would like to be on their way to Tokyo.

Signing off hoping to find you

Dear Sir:

I am in a state of a letter recently... from Dick E. Griffin, of the Navy.

Hello Dad: How are you? I am now in the Navy... I will graduate August 10, I hope. Everyone write me often.

Your cousin,
Dick Griffin, A. S.
Co. 324, U. S. N. T. S.,
Great Lakes, Illinois.

We have seen by your paper that you write about the achievements of your fellow citizens and therefore we took the privilege to write you a few lines on one of your boys, who is over-seas.

July 15, 1943.
Gentlemen:
Just a few lines about one of your local boys: Private First Class Glen W. Rhea.

Private First Class Rhea has been in the Army one year on the above date of this month and was promoted to Private First Class on March 3, 1943, and is now ready for his next step in his military career.

Private First Class Rhea in his leisure hours has proven himself the checker champion area of this area. He also has shown great promise of becoming tennis champion also. (You will find enclosed a snapshot taken after his last tennis championship game his opponent is Corporal William J. Shade, III, of Shippensburg, Pennsylvania.)

He is now looking forward to receiving his good conduct medal for having a perfect to this date, recommended by the Commanding General of this Area.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Published at the Pocahontas at Marlinton, W. Va., as usual when absent.

GALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 5, 1943

Henry A. Harsh, of Aurora, Preston county, was visiting his brother-in-law, Arthur C. Pifer, last week. Mr. Harsh is 87 years old and a farmer. He owns and lives on the land he cleared.

Mr. Harsh vividly recalls an experience of his childhood more than seventy-five years ago, with a panther. He had been sent on an errand to the home of his grandmother, about a half a mile distant, and mostly through a patch of woods. He heard something walking in the fallen leaves and then, topping a slight rise he saw a large cat-like animal crouching in the path, with its head down to the ground, watching him. The little boy kept saying, "shoo, shoo, and the beast moved away in the woods. When he got to his grandmother's house she noticed something unusual, little Harry said he was scared, and told in detail of his experience. No one told him what he had encountered, but he noticed that when he got ready to go home he was not allowed to go alone.

Home again, his mother asked little Harry what he was shooing so loudly on the way to grandmother's house. Again he told his experience, and again no one told him what he had met up with.

About fifteen years later as a young man Mr. Harsh went to work for a neighbor, a Scotchman, who had recently come into the community. In the front hall was the skin of some large animal, used as a rug. As soon as he laid eyes on the tanned hide, the remembrance of the animal he had seen as a small boy came back as a flash. The owner told Mr. Harsh it was the skin of a panther.

Mr. Harsh is originator of the justly celebrated gourd corn of Preston County. Last year the Pennsylvania Farmer got to blowing about the big corn of certain low land corn belts. Mr. Harsh wrote to them that they had not introduced the big hybrid up there, but stuck to the old reliable gourd corn. Once he was cutting corn when his grandson, aged six years, noticed something in the top of a stalk. It looked like the nest of a hornet, but more like a gourd. He climbed the stalk and bent the top down. The men cut the gourd, and it rattled as it fell down. He cut a hole in it and emptied out a gallon of shelled corn. Since then he has grown no other. He turned his corn sheller into the scrap iron drive for the defense of his country.

Aigrette—white herons, both greater and lesser, were reported on the Greenbrier River in several places last week. Some years ago these beautiful fish eaters came to the Greenbrier after many years absence and the natural mistake was made by observers that it was old ones and their young. The white herons come in two sizes—the lesser and the greater aigrettes. During the mating period the white heron develops long, wavy plumes. Once it was the fashion to trim hats with these plumes, and the cost was no object. Indiscriminate killing just about wiped out the big birds. The plumes were only good at nesting time, and the killing of the old birds caused the young to starve to death. A strong Federal law came just in time to save this beautiful and interesting bird from extinction.

The Staunton News Leader reports the killing of a big white ground hog over in Augusta county. It was a true albino, with pink eyes. It had no tail. The skin stretched 32X18 inches. Its fur was soft like that of a Persian cat.

I have had report after report from farmers to prove that this 1943 is a bull calf year. However the record of Dr. J. W. A. of Charlottesville, Va., says that all out of 28 calves dropped since December 1, 1942 the cows were 25 bulls to 3 buffers. Late arrivals make the score 26 males to 5 females. The Doctor raises Hereford stock. The Doctor says that usually it is around a 50-50 proposition with him in the calf business. He never had one sex to greatly predominate before.

In loving remembrance of our dear mother, Martha J. Friel, who passed away August 6, 1932.

You were so very good, dear mother, until the day you died. God must have loved you dearly when he took you from our side. Far above us, up in Heaven, is your pure soul, this we know; how we'd like to hear you speaking as we did so long ago. Come to us in our sadness, wrap your arms around us tight, ask God to comfort your heart-broken children tonight. Written by her children, Mrs. Alpha Keirn and Mrs. Ethel Taylor, of Elkton, Md.

The Light That Saves Lives

Tens of thousands of lives have been saved since the application of light by the medical profession to the examination of chest x-ray negatives. It is but one of the outstanding contributions of light to the improvement and progress of the human race. Think for a moment, of scores of others with which everyone is familiar and you instantly get a finer appreciation of the importance of light!

Children who must study in cramped positions under poor lights are often victims of illness due to congested chests and improper posture. Eye-strain takes its toll, too. With the opening of a new school year near at hand, look over your lights to see if they need improving. If they do, you'll find us ready to serve you. Uncle Sam has not... and never will... unless good light!

Dear Mack:
Just a line or two to let you know that I am still in the Army. I like it here O. K. with the exception of the cold weather. We are pretty busy now.

How is the school business? I suppose you are as busy as ever. I have traveled over some of England since being here. I have visited Manchester and Liverpool. I have also been in Scotland, far up north as Glasgow. The country and people are somewhat different from us. I mean by this their customs are different. Since we live in a "blackout" their cities are dark dead places after dusk.

One thing that I am thankful for is that we get good food and plenty of it.
Write when you find some spare time.

Leslie.

Dear Mr. Price:

I have received a few issues of your paper of which I take great pleasure in reading, especially the letters from the boys in service, who are serving with the Overseas forces.

Some few months ago we left the good old U. S. A. bound for some country unknown to us then and with our futures very uncertain. But as our good luck was with us all the way, we landed safely in Australia, and after a little rest period we were sent on to the Island on which we are now stationed and known as New Guinea. There is one other boy in my company from my home county of Pocahontas. His name is Gay Fertig.

I would like to give some description of the place where we are located in New Guinea, but since the Censor forbids, I can only say that it is very nice and that the scenery is really beautiful. No civilians live here, except a few. They were all evacuated at the outbreak of the war. Girls are very scarce and I have only seen eighteen since I landed on the Island and they were army nurses of which I could not even rate with.

There are lots of natives here who are very useful as they are adapted to this tropical climate. Some coconuts, bananas, oranges and other tropical fruits grow here. It sure was hot here when we first landed, but it has cooled off some as it is winter time here now. I hear that we soon will be due a rainy period which will last a month or so.

We have very little use for money as we get issues of cigarettes, gum, candy, cigars, toilet articles and other things. The eats are about all that one could expect, some are dehydrated foods and quite a bit of bully beef. Malaria is fever is our most dangerous enemy and the one to be the most feared.

I work with the Battalion Supply which handles our food rations, clothing and other supplies that are essential to our outfit and the work that we do.

I would like to know if there are any more boys from Pocahontas County in New Guinea? I was so sorry to hear of the death of Samuel Hannah.

Should this get in your paper, please tell everyone hello and that I hope the war will soon be over and we boys can soon return home safely to our loved ones. We are doing our part and I do not believe that a soldier is a full pledged soldier until he has seen some overseas service. We cannot all stay in our good old U. S. A. and expect to win this war!

We have boys from most every state in the Union in our outfit, and they sure are swell buddies. I am O. K. and remain,
Yours very truly,
Pvt. George Cameron Burns.

Private Stewart R. Ryder, Bartow, West Virginia.

They will be stationed at Camp McQuade for a period of 13 weeks, during which they will undergo basic training for replacement duty. They will be instructed in the various uses of the Coast Artillery weapons as well as physical hardening, general military law and discipline.

Great Lakes, Illinois.—Selected for training as a specialist in the United States Navy on the basis of a series of aptitude examinations given every Bluejacket during his recruit training, Reed E. Wilfong, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denton Wilfong, Route 1, Marlinton, West Virginia, is now undergoing an intensive 16-week course in the school for gunner's mates here at the Service School of the United States Naval Training Station.

Upon successfully completing this course, he will be eligible for advancement to a petty officer's rating and will then be sent either to the fleet or to an advanced service school for additional instruction. There he will serve under veteran petty officers in his specialized field, receiving more practical instruction and experience.

Service School here at Great Lakes offers courses in 19 of the 49 specialist trades of the United States Navy.

Brown, Wiley, of the Army, stationed in the Hawaiian Islands, writes as follows to his mother, Mrs. Augusta R. Wiley:

July 5, 1943.

Dear Mother:
Just received your letter and am glad to know you are well and getting along fine. Everything is O. K. with me. I am glad to know "Mum" King is married and got a good wife and settled down and getting along good. Tell him to write to me and send me their pictures. How is everybody? Please write and tell me about every one I know and what they are doing.

Mother, I think we can receive packages now so tell Wilbur to send me the maple sugar if he can get it, for I sure would enjoy something from home. How is my old Sunday School teacher, Mr. Cal Price?

Mom, did I ever tell you about the upside down falls here? The water starts to fall down the way it is supposed to and then I think there is an upweep of the wind that takes the water back up and it looks like the water is falling up instead of down.

Then we have rainbows at night over here and I think they are more beautiful than the ones we have in the day time. I wish I could tell you all about this place but I cannot.

Tell Mr. A. and Margaret that I often think of them but am just too busy to write. I just cannot think of anything else to write only, tell everyone hello.

Love, Brown.

Mrs. Margaret Fowler, of Hillsboro, brings in this letter from her son, P.F.C. Virgil Fowler, who is in Australia:

July 16, 1943.

Dearest Mother:
While I have a little time I thought I would write you a line or two. I have written you a couple of letters and every time we have mail call I think maybe I will hear from you but I have not heard from you for a long time. So write to me soon and tell me all the news at home.

How is everybody at home? Is Harry still working? Tell me! I am looking forward to a letter from him when he gets it finished.

Mother, the weather over here is just fine for winter. Some of the Australians were talking the other day about the weather and they said it was about the coldest winter they have had in a long time. But to me it is just like spring back home.

Did you get the money I sent home? I am going to try to send some each month besides my allotment for about all I spend in for something to eat when I am out on pass. We have forgotten about American money. We draw our pay in Australian money. It runs in pounds, shillings and pence.

(The Australians call a pound a quid and a shilling a bob. It costs about two bobs for a hair cut. I have gotten pretty good at making change with it.)
We just had mail call and I got

By E. W. BROWN

Since the organization of the Arbuckle Cemetery Association, and its the work of beautification in progress, many persons express interest in the history of the cemetery and that part of it which was the yard of the Old Log Church. The following facts are matters of record—

In the old Augusta County Land Grant Book No. 1, we find a grant issued to James Barker for 150 acres. This tract of land is situated on the Hospital Run, and now embraces the homes of Monroe and Merle Brown. It is extended to T. L. Brown's line, above the Tabernacle, and across to Arbuckle, being a narrow strip at eastern end. James Barker, Sr., and James Barker, Jr., were from Greenbrier County. They were among the early ones to take up land on the waters of the Greenbrier in Augusta County. They made their surveys on Deer Creek and Hospital Run in the month of June, 1780. This was the same summer that George Washington was having his trouble with Benedict Arnold. The Barkers were land sharks; running ahead of time, making surveys to hold the choice land when the War was won. This 150 acre grant is situated on Hospital Run, between the James Barker, Jr., tract (Moorey Flat) and the Thomas Jarvis grant, now owned by O. G. Arbogast. It adjoined the Barker tract. The title to the old part of the Cemetery, for a duration of 19 years, rested in James Talman; until July 5th, 1831. On that date James Talman conveyed to Benjamin Talman, George Burner and James Woodrell, Trustees of the Deer Creek Union Congregation, and their successors for ever, by meets and bounds, one acre, one rood and thirty-four poles. This lot was for the old church, and was called the Meeting House thereafter. The north west corner of the lot calls for "two oak saplings north of the grave yard." This is proof the Cemetery was there prior to 1831.

The 13 acre tract, which embraces the new Arbogast addition to the Cemetery, was consolidated with 107 acres of the Thomas Jarvis Survey, to make 120 acres. The Old Meeting House lot calls for a common line with James McKenny, but there is no record available to show that James McKenny ever owned the tract in fee. He may have acquired it in the way of barter and no record made of the transaction.

Deed Book No. 2, page 81, records that on March 8th, 1835, James Talman, Executor of Jacob Gillespie, conveyed this 13 acre tract to James K. Rider. Rider conveyed to Rebecca Monroe; she to James W. Gillespie, March 12th, 1836; Deed Book No. 3, page 427. James W. Gillespie conveyed the tract to Patrick Bruffey; he to James Bruffey; he to David M. Maupin; he, on December 1, 1855 conveyed to Adam Arbogast 52 acres of the 120 acres. From Adam Arbogast to O. G. Arbogast, R. J. Arbogast, O. G. Arbogast.

The reason that the Cemetery was located at this particular place is that was the church yard of the Deer Creek Union Meeting House. This was the first church erected in the eastern end of Pocahontas County. The exact date of its erection is not available, but many traditions give the idea it was erected in Indian times. The old people used to say there were loop holes in the sides of the Meeting House for defence from the Indians.

It has been said that Jacob Rumbaugh gave the lot to a committee. If that be true, he had to make the deal between 1800 and 1812; as that was the duration of his ownership of the land. It has been told that James Talman had the church built upon his own land; if this be true he didn't own the land until after 1812.

The organization of the Deer

Creek Union church, which was Presbyterian and Methodist, appears to be the year of 1804, and the church was erected about the time the organization was perfected. The first session of the Presbyterians bearing date of June 12, 1820, calls this organization "The Union Church of Christ of Bath County," and met at the house of Joseph Woodrell, to consult; the interest of the Church, and revive it if thought advisable. At this meeting, Joseph Woodrell and Daniel Kerr, consented to act as their former capacity as Ruling Elders. The purpose of this meeting goes to show that the Church had existed long before the date of 1820. The Log Church or "Meeting House" as it was called, was of medium size, stood east and west, fronting to the east; the pulpit was very high and the gallery was carried to near the center of the building, making room for a congregation on the upper floor, and one on the first floor.

After the erection of Liberty Church and the Church at Greenbank, the people would go back to the Old Meeting House and hold their camp meetings. The last camp meeting was held in 1858. When the Confederate soldiers were encamped on Top Alleghany in 1861, they came down and removed all the ceiling from the old church to cell some of their winter cabins. The Old church stood until the year of 1866 when it was blown down by a wind storm. The day it fell Brown M. Arbogast had gone inside and cut some kindling from one of the cross beams.

This was a great meeting place in the pioneer days of the churches of eastern Pocahontas. The membership, patronage and attendance extended from the Upper Tract, now Travellers Rest, as far west as Buzzards Creek, W. Va., later Mathewsville, now Dunmore, and Browns Creek.

The following is the first roll of Church Register of the Presbyterian Church who were members of the Deer Creek Union Chapel Church and attended this church and bears date from 1820 to 1830.

I don't have at hand the Methodist membership of the Old Union Church, but will have it printed later if it can be found.

April 6, 1831, James Rumbaugh conveyed to Jacob Gillespie 13 acres from the 150 acre tract. This 13 acre tract embraces all of the new part of the Cemetery; the division line passing through the Cemetery near the walk to the Hospital Run.

Still quoting from Bath County records, on June 4, 1812, Jacob Rumbaugh conveyed to James Talman 107 acres, the remaining part of the 120 acre tract. This was consolidated with the old part of the Cemetery.

The title to the old part of the Cemetery, for a duration of 19 years, rested in James Talman; until July 5th, 1831. Auxiliary Ethel Gayle Galford, of the Woman's Auxiliary Corps, who has been stationed in Florida has been transferred to Texas. For the benefit of her friends who might want her address it is: Aux. Ethel Gayle Galford, A-300946, 748th W. A. A. C., Post Hq. Co., Blackland, A. A. F., Waco, Texas.

Ralph Began, of the United States Marines, stationed at Parris Island, South Carolina, was home on several days furlough with his mother, Mrs. Lamb Began and his brothers, Gerald and Kermit.

George Price Adkins, Petty Officer, Second Class, United States Navy, has returned to his station after spending a short furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Adkins, the oldest in Naval Training School, Bainbridge, Maryland.

Deed Book No. 1, page 1, records that on June 7, 1800, Jacob Gillespie conveyed to James Barker 150 acres tract to Jacob Barker of Augusta County.

April 6, 1831, James Rumbaugh conveyed to Jacob Gillespie 13 acres from the 150 acre tract. This 13 acre tract embraces all of the new part of the Cemetery; the division line passing through the Cemetery near the walk to the Hospital Run.

Still quoting from Bath County records, on June 4, 1812, Jacob Rumbaugh conveyed to James Talman 107 acres, the remaining part of the 120 acre tract. This was consolidated with the old part of the Cemetery.

The title to the old part of the Cemetery, for a duration of 19 years, rested in James Talman; until July 5th, 1831. On that date James Talman conveyed to Benjamin Talman, George Burner and James Woodrell, Trustees of the Deer Creek Union Congregation, and their successors for ever, by meets and bounds, one acre, one rood and thirty-four poles. This lot was for the old church, and was called the Meeting House thereafter. The north west corner of the lot calls for "two oak saplings north of the grave yard." This is proof the Cemetery was there prior to 1831.

The 13 acre tract, which embraces the new Arbogast addition to the Cemetery, was consolidated with 107 acres of the Thomas Jarvis Survey, to make 120 acres. The Old Meeting House lot calls for a common line with James McKenny, but there is no record available to show that James McKenny ever owned the tract in fee. He may have acquired it in the way of barter and no record made of the transaction.

Deed Book No. 2, page 81, records that on March 8th, 1835, James Talman, Executor of Jacob Gillespie, conveyed this 13 acre tract to James K. Rider. Rider conveyed to Rebecca Monroe; she to James W. Gillespie, March 12th, 1836; Deed Book No. 3, page 427. James W. Gillespie conveyed the tract to Patrick Bruffey; he to James Bruffey; he to David M. Maupin; he, on December 1, 1855 conveyed to Adam Arbogast 52 acres of the 120 acres. From Adam Arbogast to O. G. Arbogast, R. J. Arbogast, O. G. Arbogast.

The reason that the Cemetery was located at this particular place is that was the church yard of the Deer Creek Union Meeting House. This was the first church erected in the eastern end of Pocahontas County. The exact date of its erection is not available, but many traditions give the idea it was erected in Indian times. The old people used to say there were loop holes in the sides of the Meeting House for defence from the Indians.

It has been said that Jacob Rumbaugh gave the lot to a committee. If that be true, he had to make the deal between 1800 and 1812; as that was the duration of his ownership of the land. It has been told that James Talman had the church built upon his own land; if this be true he didn't own the land until after 1812.

The organization of the Deer

Creek Union church, which was Presbyterian and Methodist, appears to be the year of 1804, and the church was erected about the time the organization was perfected. The first session of the Presbyterians bearing date of June 12, 1820, calls this organization "The Union Church of Christ of Bath County," and met at the house of Joseph Woodrell, to consult; the interest of the Church, and revive it if thought advisable. At this meeting, Joseph Woodrell and Daniel Kerr, consented to act as their former capacity as Ruling Elders. The purpose of this meeting goes to show that the Church had existed long before the date of 1820. The Log Church or "Meeting House" as it was called, was of medium size, stood east and west, fronting to the east; the pulpit was very high and the gallery was carried to near the center of the building, making room for a congregation on the upper floor, and one on the first floor.

After the erection of Liberty Church and the Church at Greenbank, the people would go back to the Old Meeting House and hold their camp meetings. The last camp meeting was held in 1858. When the Confederate soldiers were encamped on Top Alleghany in 1861, they came down and removed all the ceiling from the old church to cell some of their winter cabins. The Old church stood until the year of 1866 when it was blown down by a wind storm. The day it fell Brown M. Arbogast had gone inside and cut some kindling from one of the cross beams.

This was a great meeting place in the pioneer days of the churches of eastern Pocahontas. The membership, patronage and attendance extended from the Upper Tract, now Travellers Rest, as far west as Buzzards Creek, W. Va., later Mathewsville, now Dunmore, and Browns Creek.

The following is the first roll of Church Register of the Presbyterian Church who were members of the Deer Creek Union Chapel Church and attended this church and bears date from 1820 to 1830.

I don't have at hand the Methodist membership of the Old Union Church, but will have it printed later if it can be found.

are required to deposit in a qualified depository within 10 days after the 10th of the following month. Employers withholding taxes of $100.00 or less in a month are not required to deposit such taxes in a depository bank, but there is nothing in the regulations prohibiting them from doing so, and qualified depositories will be expected to accept such deposits when tendered. It is also permissible for employers to make deposits often than once each month. It is our understanding that the Treasury Department expects every depository to accept deposits of withheld taxes regardless of the amount when tendered in funds immediately available to the depository, but does not expect the depository to advocate the making of deposits more frequently than once each month.

MARLINTON POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA, AUGUST 12, 1943

$1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

THIS COMMUNITY HAS A SPECIAL WAR JOB

THIS COMMUNITY is on the spot! We are in a pulpwood growing section and there is now a pulpwood shortage. The country needs vast quantities of pulpwood for explosives, rayon parachutes, gas mask filters, shipping containers and a thousand other uses — yet some of the mills that make these things are actually shutting down for lack of wood.

This is a desperate situation — a war emergency. Something must be done QUICKLY!

And only we who live in the pulpwood cutting areas can do anything about it.

This is OUR responsibility.

How the problem can be solved

Mr. Donald M. Nelson, Chairman of the War Production Board, gave the key to the solution in the following statement:

"If every one of the more than 3,800,000 farmers in the 27 pulpwood producing states were to devote 3 EXTRA days in 1943 to cutting pulpwood, we could overcome the threatened 2,500,000 cord shortage with wood to spare."

Will you enlist for 3 EXTRA days?

If you are now cutting pulpwood part time; if you have cut it in the past; or if you have never cut it but know how to use an axe and saw, will you pledge 3 EXTRA days (at regular pay) to meet Mr. Nelson's challenge?

Fill in the coupon. Mail it to this newspaper and you will receive the pledge badge which identifies you as a Victory Pulpwood Cutter.

This is a war emergency.

Dear Mr. Price:

I am sending to you an article written by T-Sgt. Wm. E. Gulk, of this outfit.

To me it has "hit the nail on the head" and expresses the idea of many men in the service. If this idea can be brought to the attention of the home folk, a great deal of unhappiness for our fighting men can be avoided. I hope you will find it of a value entitling it to a space in the Pocahontas Times.

At present, I am located here at the Army Air Base, Westover Field, and these Yankee people are much nicer than most southerners think — it surprised me!

kindest regards to all.

"GIVE 'EM BACK THEIR HEARTS"

Only a few weeks in this strange new world, this army of the United States, but what a revelation of disappointment — no, not in the Army, but in you folks back at home. So much is dependent on what you do, the way you act — and what you say. One sentence in a letter can throw that soldier of yours into the lowest depth of "Blue", take away from him that new found perspective on his new life. We call it "off the beam," and if you only knew how hard it is to get a fellow back "on the beam," or what it means to a fellow to be in there "Pitching," and making the best that he can out of his Army career. I know that you back there in the world, we came from, might also get a new perspective on everything. Remember one thing — he will come back a better man than when he left, better fitted for the post-war world that is to come. Everything that can be done is being done for him, every opportunity that can be given a person — he gets — to fit into the new scheme of things that will once again bring back that "Peace on Earth Good Will to Men." But you have got to help by giving him peace of mind — and heart. Here is a story you won't find in the files of the Army — but you will find it happening every day in every Army Post of this United States.

Not many weeks ago, after becoming attached to a permanent outfit, there was one fellow in our group, who after a few days in his new job got "off the beam." A world of opportunities seemed to pass him by, mistakes were made — in fact, nothing he would do seemed to be right. He sensed something was wrong and as one soldier to another asked me if I knew what it was. And, as in every case there was a story behind the story, of a wife whose every letter was a plea for him to come home, or for a variety — when can I come over to see you. Then, there was that old story of sacrifice — the most overworked word in the English language. Those men at Bataan or Corregidor, the defenders of Stalingrad or the men at Dunkirk did not cry "I am making a sacrifice." After I heard his story I knew there was only one answer, and to make it simple I told him to write his wife, and ask her to give you back your heart! — SO, won't you please send us letters of cheer, of thankfulness, "cause a letter of "homey" gossip can do so much for that soldier of yours. Won't you help?

But our plea does not stop with you Wives, Mothers and Sweethearts, it goes on to you Dads, Industrialists and Union Leaders — are you really doing your part? Let's forget about those War Bonds and Stamps — they are just a temporary mortgage for a new and better tomorrow. Remember, we soldiers get to morrow's news tonight — a stable here — a failure of a negotiation there — an airplane factory idle for three days — the Government taking drastic action to reopen a mine. Strife — Bitterness — Hate — Lost everything but the unity we need to win this war. We soldiers of the second world war know that we have nothing to gain by our winning of this war — but a lot to lose if we don't. However, there is a little doubt in our minds that if this is the world we are to come back too — and must fight for — is it all worth it? Give us back that peace of mind, show us by your thoughts, your words and actions that you do want us to come back — "Give

How are all the folks around there? Tell them all hello for me. It sure would be nice to get home again and see you both and all my friends and the old town again. Hell it changed much! I don't know anything for sure and can't promise anything but I have strong hopes of seeing you again in the next five or six months. It would be heavenly to get to spend next Christmas at home. As I said before the worst is now but a lot to lose if we don't. I have seen my combat duty and come through it safe and sound so now I should begin getting a few good breaks. Anyway there is nothing left for you to worry over now for I will be safe from now on. Just pray your words and actions that you do want us to come back — "Give

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Taylor received the following letter from their son, Elmer.

South Pacific,
July 22, 1943.

Dear Mom and Dad:

I hope you have not been too worried over me because you have not been hearing from me. This is the first opportunity I've had to write in nearly a month now. I will not say that I have been safe and getting along all right for I have not been but I can say that I am now and I sure do thank God for bringing me through everything safely. I have been in combat but God saw fit to bring me through it in safety and I sure am thankful. I am back in a place of safety resting up now so you need not worry over me anymore for the worst is over and things will get better from now on. I am sound and whole in every way and I certainly am thankful. I am not allowed to tell much but it certainly was horrible and not everyone was as lucky as me I am sorry to say.

I sure hope that you are both okay and enjoying the best of health. I have not received any mail for three weeks now and probably will not get any more for some time. I have been on the move too much for it to catch up with me. I hope it is not so terribly long before I get some more, though, for it would surely be nice to hear from you again, and to know that you are okay. The last letter got from you was dated June 8th I think. I had been saving your letters but through unavoidable circumstances I lost them all but one. I also lost all the big pictures I had of you too, but I still have the small ones. I still have my watch too, and it is running okay.

If you had seen me this morning I doubt if you would have recognized me. I looked like the "old man of the mountains." I had not sure had a crop of whiskers. It was some job shaving them off. I wish I could have gotten a picture of myself. My hair has not been cut for over 2 months but I hope to get it cut this afternoon. I just had two baths in three weeks.

How are all the folks around there? Tell them all hello for me. It sure would be nice to get home again and see you both and all my friends and the old town again. Hell it changed much! I don't know anything for sure and can't promise anything but I have strong hopes of seeing you again in the next five or six months. It would be heavenly to get to spend next Christmas at home. I do not know when I have been more pleased over receiving a book than when "Tales of the Old South" came to hand. It is a 50 page pamphlet by Hon. Henry D. Davenport, of Charleston, made up of twenty stories and anecdotes. Mr. Davenport has done what a lot of other of my interesting friends should do—write down an intimate book of the good stories which have come their way. Here follows one of the fine stories:

(The Port Witness)

One of my very good friends in Clay County was a man whose first name was Ben. When I first knew him he was a house painter and back house carpenter. While he was a poor workman, he had a very bright mind. He was a fine mimic and often entertained his friends by mimicking people whom they knew. I was defending a man charged with murder, and Ben was a witness for the State. His testimony against my client was damaging and I undertook to soften it by cross-examination tending to show that he was not a very reputable citizen. The following questions and answers followed:

Q: "Your name, I believe, is Mr. Smith?"

A: "Yes, sir."

Q: "What is your occupation?"

A: "Well, I sometimes paint houses for people, and also build back houses."

Q: "Where do you live?"

A: "I have no regular home. I usually stay where I am working."

Q: "Then, when you have no work, where do you stay?"

A: "Here and there."

Q: "Then, you are just a 'bird' of passage, you hang up your hat wherever, night over-takes you, isn't that so?"

A: "Well, I notice that you generally know where to find me when you want me to vote the democratic ticket."

That ended the cross examination.

I Make A Narrow Escape From Death

I arrived in Clay, the County seat of Clay County in June 1894, having recently graduated with a law degree from the University of West Virginia. I hung out my shingle and started the practice of law.

At the September term of the Circuit Court one Ward Hanchaw was tried for the murder of Columbus Steele. He was found guilty of manslaughter, and was given a sentence of five years in the State penitentiary. Shortly after his conviction he broke jail, and at this time (1942) is still at large.

Hanchaw was a large handsome man with heavy mustache, one who once seen would always be remembered. I saw him often during the trial which I attended. In the spring of 1896 one Levi Steele came into my office and said that the Stalkers had been cutting his timber and were building a fence on his land, and wanted me to go out and run the line between his farm and Stalker's farm, and bring suit against them for damages. At the appointed time I took a compass and got on my horse and rode the fifteen miles to his place. We went back into the mountain, and I surveyed the line, finding the corner tree and line trees plainly marked. After we concluded the surveying Steele and I sat down on a large chestnut tree that had fallen across a ravine. I then told him the fence was on the line except in one or two places where it was a few feet over on his side, and in a few other places it was on Stalker's side; they had given him as much, or more, land than they had taken and I said to him, "Steele, you should make friends with those people and quit feeding. Your son, was killed, you shot Dave Stalker in the back, and tried to kill old man Hanchaw, Ward's father, and you yourself was shot in the hip. If this keeps up you will be killed. I am told that you are a refugee from Kentucky and had to leave the State for fear of your life. Now, my advice to you is to send the Hanchaws and Stalkers word that you willing to quit fighting and ready to bury the hatchet." He agreed that my advice was good, said that so far as he was concerned he was willing to quit the feud.

In the fall of that year William Jennings Bryan spoke at Charleston in his first campaign for the presidency. An excursion train was run from Clay Court House to Charleston to carry people going to hear Mr. Bryan. I was on that train, and when it reached Davis Creek, 15 miles below Clay, a number of people boarded the train. One of them took a seat by me. He looked at me and said, "I believe you are Davenport. I saw you at my trial."

He further said, "Don't you know you came very nearly being killed last spring?" I asked him who was going to kill me, and he said, "I heard that Steele was going to survey the line between him and Stalker, and I decided to get him. He had tried to kill my old father, and I knew if I got him in the woods I could easily shoot him. I was under that big chestnut log you and Steele were sitting on, with my Winchester rifle, and I heard your conversation, and after I heard you give him the advice you did, I said to myself that you were too good a man to kill, so I did not shoot Steele, as I would have to shoot you also to keep you from testifying against me."

Hello Folks:

How are you all getting along by now? Fine I hope. I am O. K.

My name! Oh, I guess you know it—Well, it is Warren G. Alderman! My classification? Buck Private. But soon a Colonel or perhaps a General if I've got anything to say about it.

I have been busier than the proverbial arm and paper hanger since I hit this camp—and not with drills either. I have become sort of an expert correspondent—but don't get me wrong, I am really learning to be a soldier; the American way.

Getting encouraging letters from home, certainly makes a guy feel like getting in there and punching, when he knows the Home Front is behind him all the way.

What I started out to tell you, is that this correspondence with my parents, friends and people all around, is getting to be the big thing in my life as I hope it will be in their lives.

Yours for bigger and better letters, Just Warren.

The following verses are written for myself and all service men and dedicated to our dear mothers.

How long has it been since you wrote to Mother?

For your the hours may fly, But those hours are years to your dear mother.

When the mailman passes her by, How long has it been since you wrote to Mother?

And told her "you miss her so" Four little words, so simple— Yet they'll set her heart aglow!

Even if nothing is happening, A Mother's heart always pines, And though you may write of trivial things, She'll read lots between the lines.

How long since you wrote to Mother?

And told her little cheerful white lies, To be read to her friends and her neighbors.

With pride in her own dear eyes! How long since you wrote to Mother?

Better get that letter done For Mothers fade like flowers, When they miss their wandering son.

I will send you now a copy of the book "Tales of the Old South" which I have just received. It is a 50 page pamphlet by Hon. Henry D. Davenport, of Charleston, made up of twenty stories and anecdotes. Mr. Davenport has done what a lot of other of my interesting friends should do—write down an intimate book of the good stories which have come their way. Here follows one of the fine stories:

(The Port Witness)

One of my very good friends in Clay County was a man whose first name was Ben. When I first knew him he was a house painter and back house carpenter. While he was a poor workman, he had a very bright mind. He was a fine mimic and often entertained his friends by mimicking people whom they knew. I was defending a man charged with murder, and Ben was a witness for the State. His testimony against my client was damaging and I undertook to soften it by cross-examination tending to show that he was not a very reputable citizen. The following questions and answers followed:

Q: "Your name, I believe, is Mr. Smith?"

A: "Yes, sir."

Q: "What is your occupation?"

A: "Well, I sometimes paint houses for people, and also build back houses."

Q: "Where do you live?"

A: "I have no regular home. I usually stay where I am working."

Q: "Then, when you have no work, where do you stay?"

A: "Here and there."

Q: "Then, you are just a 'bird' of passage, you hang up your hat wherever, night over-takes you, isn't that so?"

A: "Well, I notice that you generally know where to find me when you want me to vote the democratic ticket."

That ended the cross examination.

I arrived in Clay, the County seat of Clay County in June 1894, having recently graduated with a law degree from the University of West Virginia. I hung out my shingle and started the practice of law.

At the September term of the Circuit Court one Ward Hanchaw was tried for the murder of Columbus Steele. He was found guilty of manslaughter, and was given a sentence of five years in the State penitentiary. Shortly after his conviction he broke jail, and at this time (1942) is still at large.

Dear Mom: Will write you a few lines this evening as I know you all are anxious to hear from me. I am O. K. and getting along all right and hope you are well and getting along good. It has been a long time since I got a letter from you but they will catch up with me some time I hope. I will feel better if you get my letters for I do not want you to worry so much.

I have seen lots of country and water, and I have taken plenty of train rides. I have been in Algeria and Oran and several other cities. This country is not bad. They have lots of olives and cherries here and plenty of wheat and grains of different kinds. I will have a lot to tell you all when I get back and I have good faith I will; just one more ride across the pond and that is home.

Guess you all are working hard these days. Tell Dad not to work too hard. I want you all to take care of yourselves. Send me one of your pictures and if I get any made I will send you some. Tell Eula, baby and Bobby and all the rest hello for me. Well, Mom, I will close, hoping you are well. Will write you as often as I can. With all my love, Elton.

P.F.C. Ralph W. Taylor sent the following poem to his mother, Mrs. John Taylor, of Beard:

I looked long at the map today,
And oh, it is so far,
Across the little painted squares,
To that one where you are.

I breathed a single wishing kiss
Across the starry blue,
And unless it tangled in the stars
It should be reaching you.

Under date of July 27, 1943, P.F.C. Delbert O. Cogar, writes to his mother, Mrs. J. O. Cogar that he had arrived safely in Hawaii. He did not even get seasick.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Cogar have received the good word that their son, Roscoe, has been promoted to the rank of Sergeant. He is now stationed at Ocoala, Florida.

P.F.C. Ralph W. Taylor stationed at Fort Lewis, Washington is in the hospital with an injured knee. His address is: P.F.C. Ralph W. Taylor, Tr. A, 115 Cav. (Mech.), N. W. S. - W. D. C., Fort Lewis, Washington. Care of S. Hospital, Ward 16-4.

The number of Pocahontas County residents serving in the United States Navy was increased by twelve last week when that many reported to the Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Illinois, for recruit training. Six of the new recruits were from Marlinton and six were from Cass.

There they will be physically hardened, learn the fundamentals of seamanship, be indoctrinated into Naval customs and procedures, and take a series of aptitude tests to determine the type of work which they will be assigned upon completing training.

Upon graduation they will be given a nine-day leave, after which they will be assigned to a Service School for special training, or be sent directly to active duty, depending upon their respective scores in the aptitude tests.

Our Army and Navy Boys

We met Glenn Harold in front of the Warner Theatre last Saturday night. He was dressed as a sailor and as a soldier. He was a fresh head of lettuce. Either the Army or his wife has taken five years off his age. He introduced us to the little woman and we would give her all the credit if we did not happen to know how the Army is building the boys up and increasing their expectation of life by at least ten years; provided the Germans or the Japs do not interfere with that optimistic estimate.

Glenn, being past 40, has been placed on reserve and has a job in a steel plant somewhere in Ohio.—Highland Recorder.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Griffin were home from Elkton, Maryland, last week. To be with their three sons home on furlough from the Armed Service. Delbert, of the Navy, is home from Sicily. In the invasion of last month his ship was sunk and he floated around in a life boat for more than seven hours before being picked up. Clyde is also in the Navy; stationed at Fort Pierce, Florida. Wilford is in the Army, Flying Corps, stationed at Big Field, Texas.

P.F.C. R. H. Sprouse is home from the Army on furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hidy Sprouse. He has had 28 months service. He is stationed at Fort Benning, Georgia. His outfit is the 176th Infantry. Being as this is the Richmond Blues, it is the oldest outfit in the whole United States Army. Since its organization at Jamestown away back in the 1620's, the Blues have fought in all the wars there have been.

Sergeant Frank Crigger, of the Air Corps, stationed at Tucson, Arizona, is home on furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Crigger of Beaver Creek. He is accompanied by Mrs. Crigger.

Cloverlick—Private Amos Ray Macoe of the United States Army spent his furlough here with his sisters, Mrs. Vaughn, Fertig, and his brothers in Virginia. Mrs. Fertig has one son, Jake, at Greensboro, North Carolina in the service of Uncle Sam. Another brother, Neal K. Macoe has had five years of service and has already spent one year overseas. Ray is at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. All three of these young men like the army fine.

Corporal Daniel Kelley has returned to his home at Dunmore from the Army with an honorable discharge after ten months of service. He has just passed the 28 year old limit. He has been stationed at Fort Dix, New Jersey.

Lieutenant Marion St. Clair Bartholomew, of the Air Corps, United States Army, has been recently awarded an air medal and oak leaf cluster. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bartholomew.

new, recently of Hillsboro, now of St. Albans.

Corporal L. G. Alderman, of Minchaba Springs, son of Dock Alderman, and Private Corwin F. Rhodes, of Marlinton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rhodes, came home on furlough last Thursday from Camp Davis, North Carolina. They are in the Anti-Aircraft service. These young soldiers went out together last March. From Clarksburg they were sent to Fort Hayes and thence to Camp Davis.

Lowery Field, Denver, Colorado—P.F.C. Hubert Shan Rose, aged 20 years, son of Mrs. Robert Lee Rose, of Marlinton, has graduated in the Armanent Department, Air Forces, Technical Training Command. Soldier Rose is a graduate of the Marlinton High School, class of 1942, where he played football. Before being inducted into the service in March 1943, he operated a roller on the State road force.

Jack Carpenter is home from the Army on a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Carpenter, at Millpoint.

CAPTAIN ZED SMITH BOMBS THE JAPS

Monday morning papers published the Associated Press reports of a most successful raid by American Liberator bombers, Saturday night, on Borneo's largest oil port, Balikpapan. The bombers flew more than 2500 miles, and Captain Zed S. Smith, III, of Marlinton, commanded one of them. More than 10 tons of explosives were dropped and heavy damage resulted on oil installations and stores. One bomb hit a tanker in the port and set it afire. All the planes returned.

"The boys did a beautiful job," their commanding officer declared on his return from Balikpapan. "They overcame difficult flying conditions, and the job of navigation, in a way I have never seen equalled anywhere in the world."

"When the pilots can take up such a heavy load, fly such a long way and hit the target accurately you can say they are men to be proud of. They could not have done a better job in daylight."

"I saw the target area after all the bombs had been dropped and it was obvious that the destruction was complete."

Credit for the direct hits on the ship in the harbor was given to Captain Zed Smith, of Marlinton, West Virginia, who described the raid as thrilling from start to finish.

"We flew between the masts of the ship at 60 feet and could not miss," Captain Smith said. "Then we flew at the oil refineries and the gunners had a go at the storage tanks."

Some later bombers reported that the harbor area was burning.

Golden Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Zed Sherratt Smith Sr., observed the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding on Monday.

On the evening of August 16, 1895, they were married at the home of the bride, near Warm Springs, Va. In 1906, they moved to Marlinton, where they have since made their home.

On Monday evening dinner was served to members of the immediate family. In the group were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Campbell, of Huntington, who celebrated their sixteenth marriage anniversary on this date.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of our little son, William Henry Astin, who passed away on Saturday, August 22, 1942.

Little Billy, you are gone, but not forgotten. Never shall your memory fade. Loving thoughts shall always linger.

Round the grave where you are laid. You are sleeping, sweetly sleeping in a little grave today. We are weeping, sadly weeping. For our darling gone away.

One by one the gentle Shepherd, Gathers lambs from every fold; Folds them in His loving bosom, With a tenderness untold.

You are smiling, sweetly smiling, In that glory land above; Where celestial courts are shining With the smiles of perfect love.

One by one the Savior gathers Earthly jewels for His own, And our loving little Billy, Has joined the angels around the throne.

You are blooming, brightly blooming, In the garden of sweet Eden; Where the flowers never blight.

One by one the Father gathers Choice flowers, rich and rare; And transplants them in His garden; They will bloom for ever there.

You are waiting, sweetly waiting, For the ones you love the best. And you will surely be coming;

To the mansion of the blest. One by one the Lord will call us, When our labors here are done; And as we cross the river, We will meet you one by one.

Dear little Billy, how we miss you None but God will ever know; If tears and sighs could bring you back, You would have been here long ago.

Written by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Henry Astin.

POCAHONTAS TIMES

Published at Pocahontas, West Virginia, at the residence of Calvin W. Price, Editor.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 19, 1943

Dear Cal:

During these war times I don't get down into Pocahontas County as often as I would like, but last week I spent three days there with a scientific expedition which may have escaped your notice. Dr. V. E. Shelford, of the University of Illinois, one of the top-notch students of plant and animal communities of the world, was in Pocahontas County last week, making headquarters at Bartow, and studying the animal life of the Cheat Mountain forests. He had a crew of collectors and identifiers with him, and it was my privilege to act as guide.

He and his party were much impressed by what they found, the wealth of the forests, the relatively unspoiled natural conditions, the great variety of plant and animal life, and the varied nature of the region within a small area. Dr. Shelford quite agrees with my contention that the Cheat Mountain ranges hold the greatest reservoir of northern plant and animal life to be found anywhere in eastern North America south of the Adirondacks.

In this connection, I often wonder if the people of Pocahontas county in particular, and of our mountain region in general, are aware of the great scientific interest which this territory holds, and of the number of persons (many of them people of international reputation) who are drawn by this interest to our mountains.

Within the last few years I can think of off-and-on the following scientific groups which have visited Pocahontas county, some of them on many occasions: Dr. Alexander Wetmore and party of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, investigating birds and animals; Dr. E. T. Wherry, University of Pennsylvania, investigating plants; Dr. Arthur N. Leeds, Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences, investigating plants; Mr. Graham Netting, Carnegie Museum, Pittsburgh, collecting reptiles and amphibians; J. Kenneth Douthett, Carnegie Museum, collecting mammals; Gordon McMillan, Carnegie Museum, collecting snails; W. E. O. Todd and Miss Ruth Trimble, Carnegie Museum, collecting and investigating birds.

Also, Dr. George M. Sutton and William Montagna, Cornell University, collecting birds; Dr. Emmett T. Hooper and party, University of Michigan, collecting mammals; Dr. Edward C. Raney, Cornell University, collecting fishes; Dr. William H. Van Dersal and Dr. Edward C. Graham, Federal Soil Conservation Service, collecting plants; the Oglebay Nature Training School, Wheeling, making general biological investigations; a considerable party from Penn State College collecting mushrooms and other fungi; Dr. Lawrence E. Hicks, and party, Ohio State University, investigating birds; but the list could go on and on.

I have had occasion at many different times to bring groups from the University into Pocahontas county, always with pleasure and profit, and I know this has been true of a large number of other West Virginia groups. A regular stop of the Summer Biological Expeditions which the University conducts is on the Brown Beard farm, near Bartow. In fact, the screened-in back porch at the Brown Beards has become famous among visiting scientists; an amazing number of specimens have been prepared there for eventual deposit in some of the principal museums of the country. Thus are the fine traditions of the old stage-coach days carried over into the present.

All this scientific work in Pocahontas county has borne fruit too. There are not so many new races and species being described from West Virginia, but in very recent years a new song sparrow, with type locality at Cranberry Glades, and a new ruffed grouse, a new flying squirrel, and a new water shrew, all with type locality on Shavers Mountain, have been proposed. This is half of all the new species and races described from West Virginia during the past ten years.

The point I should like to make in all this is that it is a paying proposition to keep our mountain areas wild and unspoiled. Many top-flight scientists are visiting the region, and I happen to know that they all look forward to returning, simply because this is one of the few areas in the United States where nearly original conditions may be found in the forests. The money angle too, while not the principal one, is of considerable importance to our citizens.

If we can keep Pocahontas County's forests and streams unspoiled, the region bids fair to become nationally and internationally famous as a collecting ground. I believe West Virginians need to know more of, and work harder toward, these desirable ends.

Cordially,
Maurice Brooks.

This is a potato seed year in the garden of Theodore Moore. He brought in a potato of this year. New varieties of potatoes are brought about by growing the seed, but the way is tedious and toilsome. Each good seed will grow a potato, may be the size of a pea. This tuber may be round or long, smooth or crooked; of almost any color, mealy, moist or downy right wet when cooked. A potato produced from seed which is worthy a try out on the market is literally one of ten thousand.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Johnston and little son, Albert Sidney, of Alderson, are spending the week at Watoga State Park. Mr. Johnston is the son of the late Albert Sydney Johnston, of the Monroe Watchman. Like his father, Duncan became a newspaper man too. The past few years have been postmaster at Alderson.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our deep gratitude and thanks to all the neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted during the illness and death of our daughter and sister, Mattie Jordan.

(WELCOME FRIEND)

...or how to be at home in Hawaii

There are two ways to greet a friend in Hawaii. Aloha No, says the native, and Here a "Coke", says the sailor. Both expressions carry the same note of affection and affection. From Honolulu to Harlan, Coca-Cola has become the symbol of the peace that refreshes—the peace that unites friendly-minded strangers.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Wayne Geiger writes to his mother, Mrs. Roy Kellison, from Somewhere in Sicily, under date of July 26 and postmark of July 29, that he was well and getting along O. K. He can now tell some of the places he was when in Africa. He landed at Cambranza and there he received the presents his mother sent him. He was over quite a bit of North Africa several times and he saw most of the towns of importance, such as Oran, Algiers, Tunis, Bizerte, also Carthage, one of the oldest towns in all the world. Wayne wrote he could not tell much about Sicily, only that it is very mountainous with pretty scenery.

Paul Harris writes as follows to his friend, Jim Brooks, of Marlinton:

July 24, 1943.

My dear Mr. Brooks:

I am located on the tropical jungle island of New Guinea. I am well and getting along fine and I hope this finds you the same.

The island here is very hilly and mountainous. Coconuts and bananas grow here, and for animals we have wild boars, wallabies, kangaroos, and we also have some large snakes. Insects are bad here, especially mosquitoes and red ants which are the worst. We use Australian money here as the medium of exchange. We use or have the three pence, six pence, penny, shilling, florin, one-half pound and pounds. It is a little difficult at first but one soon gets used to it.

The natives are black and very friendly although we do not associate with them. They live in villages in straw huts, and wear very little clothing.

I am wondering if you are getting your tobacco and matches without having to ask for them, ha ha.

A friend,
P.F.C. Emerson Paul Harris.

State of West Virginia, County of Pocahontas, to-wit: I, E. S. Clutter, County Superintendent of Schools and Secretary of the County Board of Education, do hereby state on oath that the foregoing information concerning school funds: unpaid bills, indebtedness, receipts and expenditures for the school year ending June 30, 1943, for Pocahontas County, is true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Signed:
E. S. CLUTTER,
County Superintendent.

Subscribed and sworn to before me in my said county, this 26th day of July, 1943.

G. MOORE,
Notary Public.

My commission expires September 8, 1947.

Dear Mom and Dad:

It is six-thirty in the morning over here in Sicily, guess it is around midnight back home. I have not been able to write you since July 4th, on account of the trip we had over here. This Sicily business I mean. We arrived here several days ago.

I have been thinking an awful lot about you all and wondering how you are and hoping you are not working too hard. I bet you had a hard time getting your hay up. I have not heard from you since I left the States, but think I will get some mail soon. Bet I get lots when I do. Sure hope to hear from Keith. I have been wondering whether Lyle or Hildie has gone to the army yet.

Well, Mom and Dad I cannot say where I am in Sicily, but I can say it is a pretty country and that they have good farming land. I will take mine in good old West Virginia though.

I am getting along fine and I never felt better in my life. One thing we get plenty of and that is fresh air. The food is good too, but I cannot say that about the water. It is pure though or rather they make it that way. Take it easy and do not worry about me for I will be O. K.

Love, Neil.

Sunday, August 8, 1943.

Hello Mr. Price:

How is everyone treating you in West Virginia? I sure would love to be back there myself for a few days.

The Army life sure is a swell life to live. They never let anyone stay in one place long enough to dislike it. One thing that I like about this place is that my top Sergeant is a West Virginian. He sure is a fine fellow.

I only hope that I get a leave while I am here. It has been five months since I have seen my wife and three children, who live at Greenbank.

Mr. Price what happened to your Bear column in the Times? It sure was interesting so keep the morale up and start it over.

Will you please change my address from Fitzsimmons Hospital, Denver, Colorado, to my new address here at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri.

"I'm sorry lady, but you don't have enough points"

Here's real trouble! A burned up motor of her electric refrigerator... no new or replacement units available because of war needs... the family forced to live on highly perishable vegetables, and canned goods... and not enough ration points available for the latter need. The moral of all this is... and applies to all your electric appliances...

KEEP MOTORS OILED

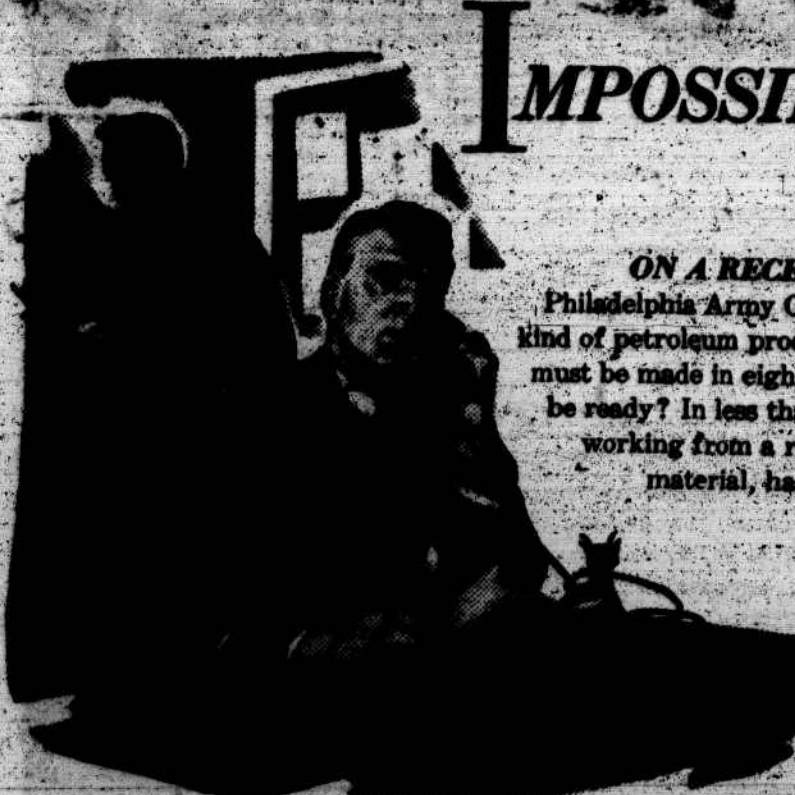

Use only a good grade of light motor oil, preferably electric motor oil.

Lift the cap on the oil sump alongside the motor casing and oil there—nowhere else!

Oil regularly, but not often—once in six months.

Don't saturate the motor with oil. Follow the manufacturer's instructions. If you don't have them any longer, ask someone who knows. Our service department will help you!

MONONGAHELA SYSTEM

IMPOSSIBLE?...NOT IN AMERICA!

ON A RECENT FRIDAY EVENING. Over the phone came word from the Philadelphia Army Ordnance of a rush call from North Africa. A totally new kind of petroleum product was needed—a product never before made. Shipment must be made in eight days. How soon could 45,000 pounds be ready? In less than twenty-four hours our chemists, working from a rough description of the material, had an answer.

MONDAY MORNING. Via Army Jeep a sample arrived at the laboratory. Chemists took it apart, analyzed it. Refinery experts worked out manufacturing procedure. The Army pitched in to help gather needed materials. By Wednesday, as promised, 45,000 pounds of a petroleum product never before manufactured was being produced on schedule.

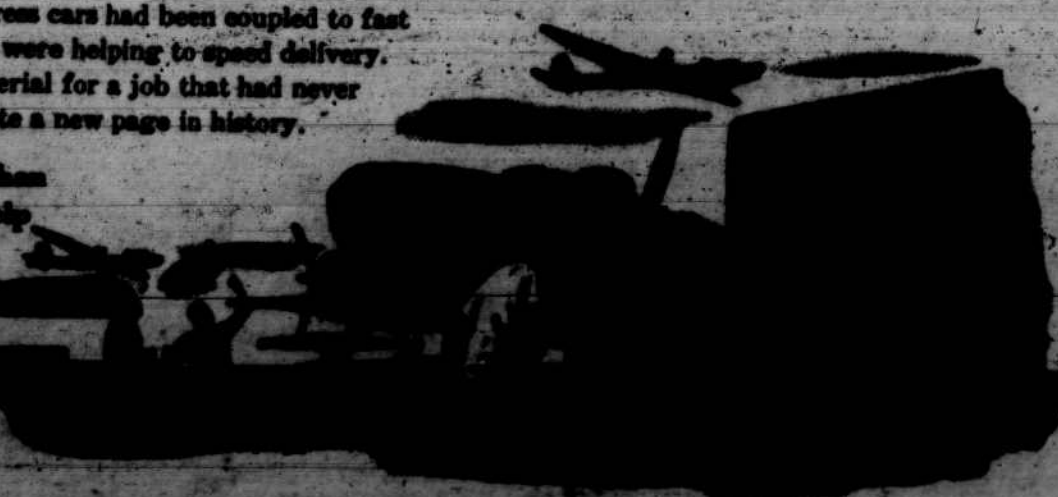

THE FOLLOWING FRIDAY. Another call from Army Ordnance. Could we make an additional 150,000 pounds in less than a week? By mobilizing another plant, we thought we could... even though some of our equipment was breaking down under the strain of making a product it hadn't been designed for. As the deadline approached, still another request came from the Army for an extra 50,000 pounds!

4 A.M. FRIDAY, ONE WEEK LATER. Express cars had been coupled to fast passenger trains... even giant Army bombers were helping to speed delivery. But the job was done! 245,534 pounds of new material for a job that had never been done before—and for an invasion that wrote a new page in history.

A little more than was asked, a little easier than was promised... That is how all of us can help to shorten this war. It is the way the people of this and other organizations all over the country are getting the job done—the American way.

Radio Call:
Well, how is everything back in good old Pocahontas by now? How I hope.

Well, I am really a long way from Pocahontas now as I am in Australia and I like it here although they are quite a bit behind the States in transportation facilities and other things. The people here are real nice.

They have some odd things such as driving on the opposite side of the road to what we drive and the handle bars of the bicycles point straight ahead.

I had a very nice trip coming over and hope to come back before too long.

There has been a change in my A.P.O. number. It is now — instead of — so you can change it on my paper. Although the Times is a few days late when I get it I really enjoy reading the news from home. As it is time for lights out I will have to quit for now.

Lloyd E. Friel.

This letter was received by Mrs. Lonnie McLaughlin from her cousin, P.F.C. Guy A. Sharp, son of Mrs. Willie Ryder, of Minnehaha Springs, Guy has been in the Army since July 27, 1943, and has been in North Africa, since March 1943. He was employed in Canton, Ohio, at the time he was called to service.

North Africa, August 4, 1943.

Dear Stella:

I received your letter and sure was glad to hear from you. I think I wrote last but my letter might have gotten lost.

I had a letter from Glen today and he is O. K. I bet he did have a swell time when he was home on furlough. I sure would like to have been there with him.

My birthday passed and I hardly knew it. It has been a lot cooler here at night; just right for sleeping. I hope that Dorothy gets well. Is Lonnie still working at the mine, when he is he is sure to be glad to be home.

I bet that when everything is rationed back there that it is hard to live now.

Do you ever hear from that half brother of mine? Give him my address, when you write again. Will close for this time. Hoping to hear from you real soon. I was out to Casablanca again and sure wish you could see the place. Answer soon.

Lora to all, Guy.

Camp Peary, Virginia, August 19, 1943.

Dear Mr. Price:

It has been a long time since I wrote to you last. I have changed quite a bit since then. I am not a civilian now, I am in the Armed Forces of the United States helping to keep Old Glory waving high.

I enlisted in the Navy on July 26, 1943, and I was sent from Buffalo, New York, here to Camp Peary.

I enlisted into the Seabees. This sure is a tough outfit. We are a combination of the Army, Navy, Marines and Coast Guard. I am taking up my boot-training soon. I will then be sent to another base for advanced training. My advanced training will be under the Marines. When we have finished our training we will be sent out to build and fight.

I receive your paper every week and enjoy reading it very much. Well I have to go on duty soon, so I will close for now.

Your friend,

Grey Alderman, S-2-C, Platoon 8016, Area D-11, U.S.N.T.C., Camp Peary, Williamsburg, Virginia.

Harry Walton received this letter on August 16, from his brother, Private Imon Walton, who is in North Africa.

August 6, 1943.

Dear Brother: I will answer your letter that I received today; was sure glad to hear from you. I hope this finds you all well and it leaves me O. K. Tell Buddy hello for me and I would like to see him.

I suppose that you all are done working the corn and that it is about ready to cut by now. I wish I could be there to help cut it. Maybe I can help next year if I like the Lord's will.

It is still hot here. I hope how soon it gets cold. I believe I can stand cold weather better than I can the hot weather.

Well, I hope to see you some day soon. I am getting tired of this way of living. Answer soon and I will write often as I can but I cannot write every day.

So goodbye until the next time.

Your brother, Imon.

This letter was received by Miss Nancy Phillips from her brother, Private James H. Phillips who is somewhere overseas;

August 8, 1943.

Hello Sis: How are you by now? Well I hope. These few lines leave me O. K. I received the pictures and sure are nice.

What are you doing now? How are all the rest and them hello for me. What is Henry doing? I have not heard from Hazel for a long time. I had a letter from Betty the other day. I heard John was sick. How is he? I have not heard from Imon yet.

Answer real soon.

Your loving brother, Jimmy.

Miss Nancy Phillips also sends in this letter from Curtis Bennett who is also serving overseas;

Somewhere in Iran, July 23, 1943.

Dear Nancy: I received your letter tonight and sure was glad to hear from you. I am still the same as ever and guess I will never get over being home sick. I was quite sorry to hear that your brother, James has not been home before now but if I were you I would not give up hope just yet. Seeing as he has not been home I know just exactly how he feels for I am in the same boat. I am sure all your prayers will be answered in days to come.

Please do not forget to send me a picture of yourself when you get them. I will be looking forward to receiving it.

ing you should be eating it by the time this letter reaches you.

Yes, Nancy, I hear from home about twice a month. They told me that my brother Brooks was coming into the Army. Honestly, Nancy, from the bottom of heart this is just the way I feel about him: I would rather stay in the Army the rest of my life than to have any of my brothers go through what I have been through.

Thanks for sending me James' address. I will write to him as I get a chance. I am quite busy now and do not have much time to write only at night after work.

There is no news whatsoever over here. Everything is the same and I guess it always will be I know it will be in my mind anyway. I cannot think of anything more to write so I will close for this time.

With love to a swell cousin, From Curtis.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 2, 1943

Dear Cal:
I am getting tired of you bragging about your berry crop in Pocahontas County.
I will bet you a dollar against a dozen that we have as many blackberries on the vines, in Cabell Co. for the young quail and song birds to feed on, after all the inhabitants have gotten their supply, as you raise in the County of Pocahontas.
With kindest regards and best wishes, I remain,
Your true friend,
George W. Slicer.

Dear George:
Every man is rightfully and duty bound to stand back of his own briar patch, but, doggone me, you are just naturally out berried when you put poor little Cabell into the running against the wild domain of Pocahontas. Why, this year the 1939 bears (census figures and correct until proven otherwise) will eat and wallow down more blackberries between now and October 1 in their annual social mazy in the briar patches of Pocahontas county than have been produced in the County of Cabell since the Johnstown Flood. Why if Cabell County were a biscuit, and split wide open, there are enough blackberries picked in Pocahontas county to spread jam on both sides an inch thick.
However, there are compensations: Cabell county does outquail us. But blackberries is not the whole reason why. If it was the answer, we would have quail in number like Moses fed the children of Israel on the Wilderness Journey.
While the blackberry is a chief article of diet in these our Endless Mountains, springing spontaneously from our soil like the coffee bean from the tanks of the Nile, I admit we would be perfectly willing to do with less berries if it meant fewer bears.

Neighbor Bert Smith called across the street the other day to ask what I knew about the Kentucky coffee tree. I had never heard tell of it. He is a lumber operator and a close observer of nature, but in all the years he has worked in the woods he had not run across this tree.
In a lumber trade paper, Timber Topics, published by the Allis Chambers Manufacturing Company, of Milwaukee, the following write up of the Kentucky coffee tree is taken from American Forests:
The Kentucky coffee tree grows from western New York to Nebraska and south to middle Tennessee. Fairly large, it may grow as high as 110 feet and have a trunk thickness at its base of five feet.
This interesting tree is the only relative in America of the genus gymnocladus. Others of the family are found in Southern China. Gymnocladus means naked branch, and this description fits the coffee tree as it shows no evidence of life during six months of the year. In Canada it is referred to by the French as chicoo or dead tree.
A pod bearer, the Kentucky coffee tree has pods resembling those of a pea or bean. These are very long, sometimes growing to a length of ten inches. Each pod contains six reddish brown seeds and a layer of sticky pulp. The early settlers used these as a substitute for coffee, thus giving rise to the name of the tree.

The wood of the coffee tree is hard and durable when in contact with the soil. For this reason it is well adapted for use as fence posts, railroad ties and miscellaneous uses.
At the first convenient time I took up the matter of the coffee tree with my friends the pleasant plant specialists of the Forest Rangers office of the Monongahela National Forest. Yes, sir, the Kentucky coffee tree is no news to them. However, they do speak of it as the Pennsylvania coffee tree. At least one of these trees has been found and reported on within the million acre region of the Monongahela National Forest. This one is on Stuart Run, just below Mingo in Randolph county. This tree is about 15 inches in diameter and 40 to 50 feet high.
The ranger's advice is not to attempt to climb the coffee tree; the bark breaks out too rough and sharp.

While on the subject of trees, let me write some words about the dead leaves on locust trees. This is the work of the locust leaf beetle, and not a blight. Our locust trees were destroyed by a blight, and I have heard the bear expressed that our locust was going the same way. Around in the part of the Greenbrier Valley this tree had year for its last leaf. I believe the locust leaf beetle, a small insect, there are two kinds of them, but mine were not on the locust, but I am not trusting my memory on their Latin names. Leaf miners do kill locusts over, through destroying the leaves. I expect it is more exactly expressed in saying the destruction of the foliage is the cause of falling strength and the tree becomes the victim of disease, parasites and competition of its fellows. As a general thing it appears the ravages of the leaf miner result mostly in retarded growth for the year. It also appears that the Greenbrier Valley is far enough south for the locust leaf miners to raise a couple of families a season. This results in a double play upon the trees.

While excavating at his new home on Stony Creek, Ernest VanRensselaer dug up a very fine Indian stone axe. It is of green stone, fine shaped, and deeply grooved. The axe was found about a hundred yards from the place the salt water flowed about a hundred years ago. This was a notorious saltlick, and the early settlers made salt here. The brine was just the right saltness for corn meal mush. The only trouble was the flow was not great enough to meet the neighborhood demand for salt. Over ninety years ago the late Captain William Cochran drilled to the depth of 496 feet with a boom pole arrangement. One night the well blew up, and nothing more was ever done about it. A couple of generations later a flow of natural gas was struck in a water well in Marlinton at about the same depth. This was about two miles distant. But to get back to the tomahawk Ernest picked up. That green stone is a basic rock and as far as I know the nearest out crop to Marlinton is in the Potomac River about Harpers Ferry. It is a hard, tough stone, wears well, holds a good edge, and from the greater percentage of Indian axes made from it, the demand for it must have been great back in the stone age.

The Rose Beyond The Wall
In Memory of Mary June Chestnut who died August 1, 1943.
Near shady wall a rose once grew,
Budded and blossomed in God's free light.
Watered and fed by morning dew,
Shedding its sweetness day and night.
As it grew and blossomed fair and tall,
Slowly rising to loftier height.
It slowly came to a crevice in the wall,
Through which there shone a beam of light.
Onward it crept with added strength,
With never a thought of fear or pride.
It followed the light through the crevice's length,
And unfolded on the other side.
The light, the dew, the broadening view,
Were found the same as they were before.
And it lost itself in beauties new,
Breathing its fragrance more and more.
Shall claim of death cause us to grieve,
And make our courage faint and fall?
Nay! let us faith and hope receive,
The rose still grows beyond the wall.
Scattering fragrance far and wide,
Just as it did in days of yore,
Just as it did on the other side,
Just as will forever more.
The Chestnut Family.

"Coke" = Coca-Cola
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you know Coca-Cola called "Coke".

...or bow Americans make friends in Ireland

Cead Mile Failte—a hundred thousand welcomes—says the kindly Irishman when he meets a stranger. The American who meets him is comforted, too. Here a "Coke", says he, and in three words he has said everything. It's a phrase that works as well in Belfast as in Boston. Around the globe Coca-Cola made for the peace that refreshment has become the language of the friendly-minded people.

This familiar phrase is as true today as ever—but just where does one put the dollar to best advantage?

Thousands of Americans would like very much to know the answer to this question.

My suggestion for an answer is a sound real estate investment.

War Bonds

Beginning Thursday, September 9, the people of America are asked to loan their country the big sum of fifteen billions of dollars, to be used to support our armed forces, in our fight to retain our American freedom. Our West Virginia part is set at seventy-six millions. Our Pocahontas share is a plenty, but no more than we can profitably loan of dollars now idle.

To conduct systematically this drive to afford our people an opportunity to loan our government this money, the whole country has been organized. Eight hundred thousand volunteers are in line, to do their utmost to see the whole amount and more is raised during the month of September. Eight hundred of these eight hundred thousand workers receive pay for their services.

The four Greenbrier Valley counties of Pocahontas, Greenbrier, Monroe and Summers make up our district. The leader is Col. H. B. Moore and the publicity leader is Captain Edward L. Blake, of the West Virginia News. A meeting for the district was called for Lewisburg on last Friday night. Those in attendance from Pocahontas county were Senator Fred Allen, Delegate June McElwee, Attorney Richard F. Curran and Calvin W. Price.

Our county organization is Senator Allen, chairman; June McElwee, vice chairman; R. S.

Hickman, vice chairman; Banks and Investment, June McElwee.

Publicity and Promotion, Richard L. Curran.

Community Organizations, R. S. Hickman.

Women's Work, Miss Helen Smith.

Advertising, Calvin W. Price.

A Correction

In the county financial statement published last week, the name of Amos Sharp appeared in the list of those receiving public assistance. This was not Amos Sharp, of the Cloverlick road, who has been a used some embarrassment by the publication.

The West Virginia News reports the following patients from Pocahontas county in the Greenbrier Valley Hospital at Ronceverte: Mrs. Ellen Judy, Nancy and Leo Judy, Mrs. Goldie Woodell of Arbovale; Mrs. Betty Parg Dixie Beard, Silas Slaven, William Parg of Frank; Dolly Myers, Hilda and Elva Phillips, Cass; Mrs. Geraldine Halterman, Mary Ellen Cassell, of Greenbank; Miss Ruth Addis Waybright, Durbin; Ethel Robinson, Cloverlick; Patricia Ann Hall of Dunmore.

Announcement has just been made of the marriage of Miss Mae Reynolds of Ronceverte, to Mr. Okey McLaughlin of Dunmore, at the Presbyterian Manse, Warm Springs, Va., at high noon December 3, 1942, by Rev. J. T. McCutcheon. Mr. McLaughlin is now employed by the Bethlehem Steel Co. of Baltimore Md.—West Virginia News.

A recent issue of the Washington Evening Star gives account of the qualifying of three auditors of the APO in a hearing of charges violations of fuel oil regulations. One of these auditors was Miss Helen Plyler, of Marlinton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oren Plyler.

Among the students attending West Virginia University from Marlinton this session are Dotty Lee McLaughlin, Dotty Lee Walford, Margaret Smith and Grace Virginia Williams.

Mr. A. P. Edgell has accepted a position with the Pocahontas Hospital.

Classes now being formed will be held at the West Virginia Wesleyan College, Buckhannon, starting about September 15. Training for engineering aides includes courses in mechanics, materials of engineering, algebra, trigonometry, slide rule, calculators, technical drawing and engineering graphs and formulas.

Soldiers Coming from Elkins

Motorized group of United States Army troops, with light battle equipment, will be at Marlinton this Thursday morning, September 8, at 8:30, for 15 minutes. The idea is to attract attention to the opening of the Third War Loan campaign.

Actually on maneuvers, four groups of troops will leave Elkins at 7:45 o'clock Thursday morning to occupy at least 25 County Seats, and then turn occupied territory to the War Loan sources.

The make of the groups cannot be specifically published, but fast command cars and jeeps will be the principal means of transportation. A commissioned officer will be in charge. The troops will be armed with rifles and equipped with light battle equipment.

Tuberculosis Clinic

On Monday and Tuesday, September 13 and 14, the Mobile X-Ray Unit of the State Health Department, will be in Marlinton at the Health Office from 9:00 A. M. to 4:00 P. M.

It is particularly urged that all people take advantage of the opportunity offered at the Clinic at this time. Due to war conditions we do not know when or how often the Clinic will be available to us in the future.

All men who were rejected by the Selective Service due to tuberculosis should be X-rayed at this Clinic. We also wish to announce that no children will be X-rayed at this Clinic unless they are accompanied by their parents.

All persons interested in this service should contact the Health Department at Marlinton.

DEATHS

Mrs. George A. Burner

Mrs. Mary Catherine Burner, aged 84 years, widow of the late George A. Burner, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Burner Roan, in Columbus Ohio, August 17, 1943. A few weeks before she had suffered a paralytic stroke. Her body was laid to rest in Glen Rest cemetery.

Mrs. Burner survived her husband four years. They are survived by their four children—James A. of Chicago; Paul H., of New York; Mrs. R. W. Foster of Portland, Oregon; and Ruth Roan, of 816 Oakwood Avenue, Columbus, Ohio; twelve grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren.

George A. Burner was a son of the late Allan and Elizabeth Price Burner of Pocahontas county. He married Mary Catherine Jenkins, on the farm of the Round Barn, where the City of Elkins was afterwards built. A country side still suffering from the effects of a devastating war did not appear to hold out much promise to the young couple who were strictly on their own in making their way in the world. They turned toward the west, to the young city of Minneapolis, Minnesota. It was not always clear sailing, but they were deeply religious people for whom all things worked together for good. Their lives continue in a family of fine children, who called their parents blessed.

Ellis G. Dean

Ellis G. Dean, aged 65 years, of Cochrans Creek, died at the home of his son, Alonzo, in Marlinton on Thursday, September 2, 1943, following a stroke of paralysis. On Saturday his body was laid to rest at Mays Chapel on Anthonys Creek.

The deceased was a son of the late Isaac and Rebecca Burr Dean. His brothers are Forrest, Cecil and James and his sister is Miss Blanche Dean.

His body was brought to the home of his brother, Dale Gum at Bartow, Monday, August 24th. The services were conducted by Rev. Dehaston and Rev. Quade Arbovale at the Arbovale church. His body was laid to rest in the cemetery at Arbovale.

He was the son of the late William C. Gum and Ruby Sutton Gum. He was born in Pocahontas county. He left this county some twenty years ago. He was united in marriage to Julia Howell in 1917. To this union eight children were born—Ivan, Edward, William, Cecil, Betty and Johnny, all of Fairview; Paul, Jr. of the U. S. Army; Mrs. Pauline Riffe, of Waco, Texas. His brothers are Bruce and Dale Gum of Bartow; Ralph, of Washington, D. C. Those who attended the funeral from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Mason, his employer, and Freda Bowling, of Fairview.

From us a dear one has gone. A voice we loved is stilled. There is a vacant place in our hearts. That never can be filled.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Jordan, at Mace, on Sunday, September 5, 1943, an infant daughter, who only lived three hours. The little body was laid to rest in the Linwood cemetery, on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

We wish to thank each and every one for their kindness to us at the death of our little baby and for the beautiful flowers they brought. May God bless you all.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Jordan.

Does your Bank still make Personal Loans?

THE ANSWER IS YES

True, the war has put an end to borrowing for non-essential purposes. But you can still obtain loans for numerous sensible reasons. Some of these are preserving health, saving fuel, home maintenance and repairs and consolidating various debts.

Dear Mom and Dad

Just dropping you a line as I have a little time to spare before I take in a movie.

I am really beginning to enjoy the Army. At first I found everything hard and very difficult. We are now in our basic training period, which only has two more weeks to go. This period consists mainly of building up the individual soldier. At first we took short hikes, although to me they seemed like they were ten or fifteen miles. As we gradually developed our legs, the hikes became longer, until we can now march fifteen to twenty-five miles and think nothing of it. The first few weeks, consisted mainly of classes and training movies. Then we learned how to shoot a rifle, and operate a machine gun. Then in rapid order came grenade practice, bayonet training, squad and company tactics, which only means getting into fighting offensive and defensive positions. I have just explained some of the training I have received during my basic training.

Camp life here is very enjoyable, except for the intense heat and dry sand. Our recreation is very good. We have movies, service clubs and our day room. We can buy anything we possibly need. On week ends we can get passes to go into town.

Well, Aunt, I have explained Army life to a certain degree. I would like you to write to me, telling me how you, and every one else are getting along. I appreciate you sending me the Poconates Times.

I will sign off hoping to hear from you soon.

Your nephew, Garland.

Mrs. A. H. Wade, of Minneha Springs sends in the following letter from her son, Private Elton O. Wade, who is somewhere in Sicily:

August 14, 1943.
Dear Mom and all:

Will write you a few lines today as I am thinking of you all. Hope you all are well and getting along fine. This leaves me well and getting along fine. I got a letter from Camie yesterday mailed the 26th of July, so that was not so long.

I am glad the hay was good and that you all got it up. I hope the wheat turns out good.

I am still in Sicily. This is a pretty nice country. It has lots of high mountains. Yes, Mom, I am getting your letters. They are dated from April on down, but I have not gotten any late ones. I have gotten one Poconates Times so Mr. Price's paper goes a long way from home.

I am sure hoping this war will soon be over so I can come back. Try not to worry too much about me and you and Dad take the best care of yourselves. Hope Eula and the baby are fine. Tell them and Bobbie and all the rest love for you. Tell Camie he can read this letter and I will write to him soon. So I will close for this time.

With love to you all,
Elton O. Wade.

Camp Perry, September 1, 1943.
Dear Sir:

I am a steady reader of your paper. It comes to me every week and it is like receiving a letter from home. I am sending you a poem which I think is very good, and I wish you would put it in your paper.

TO A WASH-OUT PILOT

When the cards seem all stacked against you
And you can't even get an ace high.

When you are washed out and grounded and finished
And there's nobody wants you to fly.

Take a brace, can the chatter, and figure
There's a place in the Navy for you.

For if flying is not a part of your program
There are still lots of things left to do.

If you must be a Radio Gunner
Learn your dit-dats and stay on the beam;

Be a son-of-a-gun of a gunner,
Learn your wows are not as bad as they seem.

You know some one must handle the wireless
Coming in on a wing and a prayer
So if nine men are saved by your knowledge

You can be mighty glad you were there.
Then, if messer one o nine are peeling,
Or a zero comes down on the run,
If your gun knocks them out of skyways

You can call it a job that's well done.
Because every man jack in a bomber,
Is an integral part of the team
If you can't be a pilot and fly her
You can fight her and keep on the beam.

For the benefit of my friends
Who wish to write to me my address is:

Dear Cal: I will drop you a few lines to let you know I am still living. How is everything around town? Fine I hope. I am getting along fine and having lots of fun. We use boxing gloves to fight the chiggers and wood ticks off at night so we do not get much sleep. It sure is hot down here in Mississippi. It has not rained for three months and the dust is from six to ten inches deep.

I always thought the Browns Creek road was dusty when I used to travel it but it is nothing compared with this country. I have eaten enough dust already to mix a fifty pound sack of cement with out exaggerating a bit. We are on maneuvers but they will be over September the 5th and then the big ones start.

They sure do grow lots of cotton here in Mississippi.

Well tell everyone hello for me and we are keeping the good work going on. I will see you this coming fall when the snow begins to fall. Write me a line soon.

Yours truly,

Dear Mr. Price and all:

As I have a few hours off I will try and drop you a few lines to let you know that I am receiving the Times and I sure enjoy reading it and to know what the people are doing back home.

I would like to tell you what part of Sicily I am in but you know I cannot do that. It sure was a nice trip coming over here.

I liked Africa better than I do over here. I was in nearly every large city in North Africa and plenty of the small ones. But you will have to wait till I get home to tell you about them.

There is nothing to write about so I will close for this time. Do drop me a note some time. Tell all hello and to write to me.

Your Pal, Barney.

Dear Sir:

Will drop you a line as I want to send in a little poem. The boys here in Camp Cooke made up and I thought you might have room in the Times for it. I thought some of the boys who are left behind might be interested in it. But the army is not as bad as it is described and I like the Army fine. Keep the good work up in your paper for I sure enjoy getting them.

Just another soldier,
Winford Beverage,
CAMP COOKE

Out on the wind swept prairie
Camp Cooke is the spot
Fighting the terrible wind storms
In the land God forgot.

Out in the desert a drilling
Eating a lot of dust,
Doing the work of slaves,
And all too tired to curse.

Out with the cowboys and Indians
Out where the boys are brown,
Out on the wind swept prairie,
For hundreds of miles around.

We are the boys of the Army,
Getting a pittance pay,
Guarding the folks with millions
For a dollar sixty a day.

All night the wind is howling
And it is all a man can stand,
Hell, folks, we are not convicts
We are defenders of our land.

For the duration we will stand it
Tho' years of life we have missed;
Don't let the draft board get you
So you better now enlist.

We are the boys of America,

Buddies from West Virginia, as Pilot, Pianist and Composer
Lt. James C. Congleton, Jr.,
Writes Lyrics in Hospital

Lt. James C. Congleton, Jr.,
son of Mr. and Mrs. James C.
Congleton, of Swann St., Parkersburg, and nephew of J. D. Congleton, of 1709 Virginia St., not only knows his business as a pilot of a B-17 Flying Fortress, but has won distinction among his buddies as a pianist and composer of sentimental lyrics.

His wife, the former Miss Dorothy Satterfield, of Parkersburg, was surprised recently to receive a clipping from a Staten Island, New York, paper telling of her husband's flying exploits as well as praising him as a pianist.

Following is the account written by Foreign Correspondent Art Cohen for International News Service:

Somewhere in Australia, July 6 (INS)—Dear boys: It was a picturesque retreat where mountain meets the sea, a poetic cove that reminded me of lovely La Jolla. Another Red Cross haven for weary fighting men on furlough.

From the recreation room came music, beautiful music, a haunting refrain that stirred sentiment and memories of happier days. Over and over again it sang its song, each time growing deeper, until I could stand it no longer.

"What is the name of that song?" I asked the raven-haired, thin-faced young man seated at the piano.

"It isn't any," he replied and, after a pause, added, "yet."

"Did you write that song?" I asked.

"Yes," he said modestly, looking down at his little book.

"Let me hear the music," I said.

He played a few chords, and then he sang:

"I'm a little soldier boy,
I'm a little soldier boy,
I'm a little soldier boy,
I'm a little soldier boy."

"That's a nice little song," I said.

"It is," he said, "but it isn't my own song. I just wrote it for the boys here."

"You and Irving Berlin, kid," I walked back on the porch and sat down next to Captain Bruce Gibson, a great pilot with a record as long as your arm.

"He's the best pianist in the South Pacific," Gibson remarked. "Who is he?" I asked.

"Lieutenant James Congleton, he comes from a little town called Parkersburg. Do you think he is good on the piano?" You should see him in a plane. He was my co-pilot the time we ran into ten zeros over Rabaul. They drove us more than 200 miles to sea but we fought them off. For one hour and ten minutes, the longest running fight by a B-17 on record in the South Pacific.

"They wounded our radio operator, shot off the tip of his nose, two of our guns jammed, we wound up with 15 or 20 holes but we staggered home. But I was telling you about Congleton."

"At 37,000 feet the chief engineer ran out of oxygen and was gasping for breath. Congleton spotted him out of the corner of his eye and without a second's hesitation took off his own oxygen mask and gave it to him. It saved the engineer's life. You know you don't last long at 37,000 feet without oxygen. Congleton passed out but went down in time to revive him. Jim was cited with the Soldier's Medal of Valor for that. He earned it."

That song was drifting from the other room again.

"How did you come to compose it?" I asked Congleton a few moments later.

"I was in the hospital recovering from malaria, thinking of home, when it came to me. It is just a little note from a lonely soldier to his wife. Dorothy and I were high school sweethearts. We were married two weeks before I left."

"Take my word for it, boss, it is a wonderful song. Best of all it is the real thing, as genuine as the man who wrote it. I made him write down the words for me but do not judge it from them, wait until you hear the music. Here they are:

"I got so lonely just dreaming of you
While I am away.
I'm only wondering if you're lonely too
While I am away.
All the things that I miss,
The little things we said,
Come back to me now
While I am away.
They promise our joy ahead
I know you're wondering if I'm faithful too
While we are apart.
What else could I be when you're part of me
For you are my heart
So keep hoping, darling, as I know you will.
And put all your troubles away,
Though we're lonesome and yearning
It's happy we'll be
When we're back together some day."

Lieutenant Congleton is well known in athletic circles in the state, having played football at Parkersburg high school and at Carson Newman College, Tennessee.

(Editor's Note: Lieutenant Congleton is a cousin of H. H. Schofield, of Marlinton, and he and young Harry Schofield took their flying training together at Maxwell Field, Alabama. Harry is also in foreign service.)

From Colorado

Dear Mr. Price:

Enclosed find $1.00 to pay for your paper and if you will allow me space in the good-old Poconates Times, I'll send you a few items.

My husband is in the Memorial Hospital, had an operation and is getting along fine so far, and we are hoping soon he may get home.

The weather is fine here with several nice rains. The city is really beautiful now.

We have lots of soldier boys here as we have a large army camp—Camp Carson—six miles from town, and if any of the Pocahontas boys are out here we will be glad to welcome them to our home. Then we have Peterson field air base and second air base, moved here from Seattle, Washington. Our three boys are all in the service. Colonel is stationed somewhere in England, has been there nearly eleven months. He is a cook. Lawrence is at Camp Roberts, California. Harlan is in the Navy as a chef, and is on the West Coast.

My brother Blake Sheets' son Glen, has been missing in action since July 26. He was an expert gunner and Technical Sergeant. We are hoping he may be alive yet. They were bombing over Hamburg, Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Munda live here, and are very well. We all read the Times and like to read the boy's letters they write from time to time. Just hope and pray this war will soon end and our boys can come home. It has been a lot of sorrow and grief to nearly every one.

There is lots of fruit in the State but it is high in price. Crops are good in most parts of the State. It is a very good place to live. Most everyone likes Colorado Springs. It is a clean town and no finer or better water can be found anywhere.

Hoping every one in good old Pocahontas is well and doing well. Come out folks when the war is over.

This is all for this time.

War Takes 96¢ Of Each Dollar

Out of every $12.75 that is invested in a War Bond, 96 cents goes into guns, planes, tanks, ships and other military equipment. The 75 cents goes for ordinary governmental expenditures. Out of every dollar 96 cents goes toward the war effort and 4 cents goes for Government "business as usual."

The same ratio applies to all other securities the Government has offered investors in the Second War Loan campaign for 12 billion dollars.

The War Loan

There are so many reasons why the idle dollars of the people of Pocahontas county should be put to work for our country, ourselves and our everything that is dear and worthwhile.

From an investment standpoint—important as that is, it is a minor consideration—columns could be written. There are government securities offered for all classes of investments. If you are not sold, and making your own way I say E bonds. These cost at the rate of $75 for $100, and mature at face value in ten years.

If you are older, with your pile accumulated and in need of income from it, why buy G bonds. These pay interest at the rate of two and a half percent a year, payable every six months.

Older people own the money anyway and much of it is in the banks on time deposit at one and a half percent interest, payable every six months. Of this, of course, comes the one-half percent tax.

The real reason for investing in war bonds is to back up the boys and girls in uniform. They are now winning the war. Of course, the quicker they do, the fewer of them will be sacrificed. Hanging back with the money now means delay and delay means disaster and death to somebody.

Better Sheep

On last Friday night farmers and business men met with the County agent in his office to consider the long delayed step of organized effort to improve the lamb and wool crop of Pocahontas county. A committee, composed of J. A. Sydenstricker, chairman, Emerson Newman, Hevener Dilley, Moffett Williams and Calvin W. Price, was directed to consider ways and means and make report at a meeting to be called by the County agent.

The plan in mind, has been tried out in other parts of the State under the name of the "Master Shepherd's Project." Sheep owners sign up to carry on modern up-to-date feeding, breeding and managing of flocks of given number of sheep; to make reports; to keep records, and submit the results in a competitive prize contest next fall.

Our biggest item of business in Pocahontas county is our sheep industry. Our market lambs and wool are unexcelled. Topography, climate, pasture, soil and water are friendly to sheep. If we will do our part, Pocahontas county can be made a paradise for sheep, through better breeding, better feeding and better flock management.

It is hoped to have an enrollment of two hundred progressive farmers in this project. It is hoped to enroll large and small shepherds alike. Of course, I know the man with a flock of two hundred head of ewes carries a big handicap in a competitive contest with the man who has less than twenty head. However, I am thinking a system of judging by points can be worked out where the big flock can compete with a small flock on an equitable basis. This is much more important than the mere winning of a valuable prize; the records and reports on the successful management of a flock of several hundred head means equally as much and more to the industry as a whole as the records and reports of the intensive care of a handful of sheep.

Through the years the County agent has been encouraging our people in the better farming procedure; now we are ready for the next step—better breeding, better feeding and better flock management for our sheep.

The rearing capacity of the Marlinton hatchery will be doubled with the completion of the 12 eighteen-foot concrete circular ponds under construction and will be ready for use sometime in September.

Will recommended that the proposed construction of a shed over the raceways at the Marlinton hatchery wait until the spray system, installed in June, be given a longer test. The spray system, he said, "is doing the job and it may not be necessary to construct a shed." The spray system, which has reduced the temperature rise to three degrees from the head of the raceways to the point of discharge, was installed at a cost of less than $300. The work was done by himself and the hatchery personnel. Cost of the proposed shed was estimated at $4,000, and it would be necessary to obtain the consent of the federal government.—W. Va. Conservation.

Our West Virginia Conservation Magazine prints a piece this September month materially reducing the size of our black bear, both in length and weight; confining his usual travels to a radius of about one and a half miles; making him a home body, with a den as his home. The piece arbitrarily changes his mating season back from August to June—from blackberry to strawberry time and then puts bears to consuming their own fat in their winter sleep; that no one has much of an idea how many bears range the hills and mountains of West Virginia, but they are known to be quite numerous.

Personally, it is all right by me if they reduced the black bear down to ground hog size, and even remove him from the face of nature entirely, but it just cannot work the easy way. I will have to call the attention of my friend Commissioner Cohen to such careless publicity for the black bear in our State magazine. If would be wiser can not get into the woods, to learn at first hand of the things of nature, there are books.

To begin with, the Biological Survey is to be depended on, and it has made a bear census in the Monongahela National Forest, embracing most of the bear country of the State. They did not check in quite as many head of bear as the 1197 I guessed we had, but I took in more territory.

Seems like us scientific people will never get it over to nature fakirs that bears and groundhogs come out fat in the spring, if their winters sleeping has not been disturbed too much. Hibernation is really suspended animation. The heart beats slow down to almost no pulse and so little or no fuel is burned up in the body. Metabolism is the word—the constant building up of living matter in the system to supply energy; the process by which living tissue undergoes chemical change. Those with low count stay fat on little; with high, stay lean on much.

Bears are travelers. Years of food shortage in the Greenbrier Valley they go to the Shenandoah and Blue Ridge mountains, though the natives may drift back here about the short day of the year to den up. I have heard tell of small brown bears from the Dismal Swamp having been killed in the Alleghany Mountains.

Individual bears have rounds, to be made periodically. Get on to his schedule, and you can pretty well figure to the night when he can be expected to bite a bear tree at a given crossing place.

Years ago there was a big bear with a crippled foot, known to range from the Maryland line in Tucker county south to Bear Run in western Greenbrier County—close to 100 miles. Another marked bear followed the Alleghany from Red Creek, in Tucker, to Big Oogley in Alleghany County—about 100 miles. Some years ago a marked bear, known to be thirty years old was killed on Spice Run. This bear had been a pet over in Giles County around Mt. Lake.

Do not put a bear in a den except to sleep the winter through. In stress of weather, they will tough a cold spell out in storm beds. They have no fixed abiding place.

Bears grow longer than six feet in West Virginia. Seven feet from tip to tip, and six hundred pounds heavy is not unusual.

Over the country there is considerable variation in color of black bears, but not in West Virginia. Ours are all good and black.

The August moon is the honey moon time of the West Virginia black bear. They mate when the blackberry is ripe. The male bears are dangerous at this time and it is no time for women to wander into the woods without a gun or gun.

the bear piece of the West Virginia Conservation, where it says because of the habit of the black bear to eat lamb and sheep, calves and hogs he is disliked by farmers.

Great flocks of black birds each night find roosting places in the trees along Knappa Creek, near the municipal water plant. Mornings they fly away to feed on the farms, particularly on the ears of the growing corn. One big farmer told me he figured his loss from the depredations of these birds on corn ears in the milk and later at not less than $150. Another popular roosting place for these birds is the pine patch near the Huntersville school house. They gather here each night by the thousand. It is nearly time for these pests to be moving south in their annual migratory flight. The question has been raised as to whether these are blackbirds or starlings. They are dusty blackbirds, and as old timers can recall great visitation of them before the English starling was known in America. These great flocks are made up of young birds, and with their dusky plumage at a distance does look not unlike a starling. One hardy citizen killed and cooked himself a mess of these black birds. He still maintains they were very, very fine eating. They do eat the little pests down where they are known as reed and rice birds.

Frank—On last Tuesday evening Sam Spencer and son Virgil of Bartow, mopped up on the rattlesnakes of the old Staunton and Parkersburg Turnpike. They killed a mother rattler and thirteen baby rattlers. The young rattlers were about ten inches long and very vicious—striking at everything.

TWITTERS
By O. H. Adkison.

Catbird is a nasty name for the sweetest of all singers except the Hermit Thrush.

Believe it or not, the English sparrow is said to be a wonderful songster when raised in a cage.

It is called robin-redbreast, but it isn't a robin and its breast isn't red. It is a scarlet breasted thrush; old-timers thought was a robin and called it that.

Real curtailment of travel was the kind Time imposed on the Passenger pigeon.

The farm cynic thinks a few robins stay back to keep their migrated friends informed as to how cherry trees are standing the winter.

Pyles Mountain

A few Sundays back I caught a pretty day to pay a long anticipated visit to Watoga State Park. I was accompanied by my two young friends, Winters and Ezra Dean, who furnished the motive power for my chair. It was pretty hot that long in the sun, but I count the trip well worth all it cost me. Met and talked with the general park superintendent, E. D. Tucker, Jr. I also saw my ranger brother, Gordon Scott, from we bumbled out of some cold pop.

Everything seemed to be running smooth with the park, despite gas shortage. The cabins were full. Did not get to see any game as it was right in the middle of the day. Did see one big hawk, and it was in shooting distance. Killed a blowing viper on the road. Saw a 7 inch bass in Killbuck Lake. One fisherman said luck with him was very poor.

The visit was pleasant and all too short. I am going to try to get back again when I can stay longer and see more. The only thing to mar the trip the least bit was the dust in the road, which seemed to be stirred continuously by automobiles. Fred Starcher and another boy by the name of Bob put air in the tires of my wheel chair and performed other acts of kindness. I want to thank each of them. They are from Seebert and employed in the Park.

The game supply on this mountain appears to be mostly deer and grouse. Hardly any more squirrels than last year and that is hardly any. Of course, they may come in when the mast gets ripe.

To judge by the sign, coons have made the best come back of all game except deer and grouse. Their tracks are seen in the runs everywhere. No coons have been caught here for several years past and I see small show for this season, as there are no coon bounds in this section.

A rabbit here and there but none to speak of. The foxes keep them thinned out.

I think there will be several turkeys around here this season. There has been seen and heard all spring and summer a big old gobbler and his harem. I have heard several reports of hens with big droves of little ones. I saw where a big drove of wild turkeys had walked, but I am not talking exactly where today.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Holy Stone

Cleanliness is the first order of every American soldier and sailor and the United States Government spends millions upon millions of dollars to keep our fighting men as clean and as healthy as circumstances will permit.

"Swab the deck!" cries out a petty officer and the men fall to with their "holy stone" equipment and in a short time everything is spick and span.

Test With Glider Promises New Use

Proves Craft Can Operate Under Its Own Power.

MINNEAPOLIS.—A slender, 35-year-old army air force colonel tossed away his cigar, stepped into a big, snub-nosed monoplane and flew it twice around Wold Chamberlain field here to prove what he had hoped that a glider can be flown under its own power.

The pioneer of this flight, believed to be the first of its kind ever made in this country, is Col. Fred Dent, a West Point graduate of 1923 and head of the army's experimental glider program at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio.

The flight was historic in this respect: It showed that a big glider—can be motorized and flown under its own power, despite the fact that it was never designed with that idea. In this case, a small, air-cooled engine was attached under each wing and these engines can be put on in a hurry.

Dent declined to discuss what the army has in mind for this two-engine version of the towed airplane. However, it is known that these possibilities are under study.

Use of the craft "in our present activities" when it is necessary to get soldiers and equipment across short overwater jumps where no dock facilities are available at the desired landing point. The Germans did something like this at Crete, but with towed planes.

Ability to land in an incredibly small space.

Relieving the overburdened army air transport services on cargo that does not need to move immediately.

Armed Cowboys Drive Herd Into Wyoming Park

JACKSON, WYO.—Cowboys the real stuff—with rifles slung in saddle scabbards and pistols shoved in hip holsters, drove 600 steers onto the Jackson Hole National Monument area.

No trouble was expected and the weapons were carried just in case.

and... near, spokesman for... a presidential... creating the... Wyoming. Cattle... stock across... Mr. Krater...

Livestock regularly grazes in the center of the area now designated as a park. It has been a summer feeding station to drive herds into the area. Officers of the Jackson Hole Cattle and Horse association said this practice would be continued.

Charles J. Smith, administrator of the park said he was not informed of the plans for the armed guard and added he had no intention of stopping the drive. He explained cattlemen who previously had used the area may continue to do so.

Mr. Krater said no permit was obtained from the park service for the drive.

Mighty Bombers Will Soon Be Seen in Action

WASHINGTON.—There's fresh evidence that new and more powerful types of American combat planes will be in action soon.

An OWI release telling of savings effected through contract renegotiations disclosed officially for the first time that this country has for many months been producing 2,500-horsepower aircraft engines, probably the largest in production in any country.

Cost of such an engine was listed as $28,000, compared with $110,000 "approximately a year ago."

There was no indication what planes are being or will be equipped with these powerful engines, but no types now in action are fitted with such engines, whose additional power could be used either to lift greater weight or to get greater speed.

Sailors Saved by Life-Jacket Signal Lights

MIAMI, FLA.—Red signal lights attached to their lifejackets were credited by four members of a navy gun crew with the speedy rescue of 95 men who took to life boats and rafts when their merchant ship was torpedoed late in April in mid-Atlantic by a submarine.

Several hours after the ship went down the survivors heard a plane which had come in answer to the distress signal sent by their radio operator.

"Let's light up, boys," the lieutenant told us, and every one switched on his little red signal light, "one of the survivors reported. After 12 hours in life boats, the torpedoes were picked up and landed in Puerto Rico.

Truck Farm Is Looted After Army Offers Gifts

LOS ANGELES.—The army, taking over a plot of ground here for a supply depot, said the public was welcome to the vegetables growing there. Why not respond was a mystery. Joseph Chin, Chin Wing, Aaron Lee and A. Luna told officers people had taken thousands of potatoes and strawberry plants, beets, cauliflower, and cabbage from their nearby truck garden by mistake.

Transport Jungle Products to Shipping Points.

CARACAS.—Rudy Indian tribes who hacked their way into the jungles of Amazonia a generation ago have once again begun producing rubber in the largely unexplored region of Venezuela.

According to Dr. Carlos Wendehake, who arrived here on one of his few vacations in a 20-year existence in the jungles of the federal territory, the new government price of 2.55 bolivares per kilogram (75 cents per pound) has stimulated the collection of wild rubber which had virtually halted some years ago. He estimated the latex shipped from the territory this year will be in excess of 420,000 pounds.

The amount is not enough for export, but it will partly solve the tire problem in this country. Construction of roads and the introduction of new methods of collecting latex will probably multiply the production many times in 1943.

Until 1912 Amazonia produced large quantities of rubber. The product was placed in canoes, paddled down tributaries of the Orinoco river to deposits and loaded on river boats to Ciudad Bolivar, where it was transported to ocean-going vessels and carried to New York or La Guayra.

At that time rubber brought 1,200 bolivares per quintale (425 at the prevailing rate of exchange). When the Far East began to send its products to the market, the local price for rubber dwindled to 32 bolivares ($7.25).

Dr. Wendehake is a brother of Dr. Rafael Wendehake, expelled from Panama because of his close association with former President Arnulfo Arias.

Finds 'Outpost' Shopping Better Than Back Home

SEATTLE, WASH.—Isabel McCullough, Red Cross recreational supervisor stationed in Alaska, spent her leisure for more than a year planning that shopping trip to Seattle.

Back to civilization she started out. Two hours later she reappeared at the hotel.

"The shopping trip was a failure. It took 45 minutes to get off small items and I quit. No clerks, no stocks.

"My favorite restaurant had no steaks at all and in fact little meat of any kind. I could get but one cup of coffee and one pat of butter."

But in Alaska—ph! "There the steaks are two inches thick. We drank all the coffee we wanted and there isn't any limit on the butter."

"She's ready to start back."

"You'll always be glad you did"

None of us will be completely happy until the day of Victory. The day our boys are back; our sons, husbands and husbands. We want our way of life to go on, and we're fighting to make sure it does. We want Jim or Bill (you know his name) to be sitting right there in his easy chair with his pipe or studying in his own room. We want him safe in for dinner again... and a big round loaf for them. We want to be able to take a long drive in the country, buy a new car, have fun, be happy. We want to live again on that sunny side of things of which Coca-Cola, back in such a special. There are so many things we want back. Yes, so many. None of them will come unless we win. All our sons, and men, will come when we win. The War Bonds you buy will insure the day... the day of Victory.

IT'S A FACT!

THE midsummer growth which burst up the pasture and field crops in a large part of Southern States territory cost a bill of about $20,000,000. To make up for this serious loss of grain and grain farmers will need to fertilize more heavily than ever this fall to produce more food.

Fortunately nitrogenous fertilizers are now available in the form of a small grain and for the grain on the plentiful side. Farmers can now use nitrogenous fertilizers on small grains without restriction.

Fertilizing heavily this fall means more grain to harvest next summer and a bigger hay crop to follow. Southern States 4-12-4 is a good fertilizer for small grains and for the grain and clover needed with the grain. Like all Southern States fertilizers, it is open formula.

Farm machinery and tools that stand out in the rain and snow and storms all winter are apt to be pretty sorry looking next spring. The place for them this winter is in the barn or shed where they're protected. Before you put your machinery and equipment away for the winter, wipe off the dirt and rust and give them a good coat of Southern States Implement Paint.

Now that you drive your car only when you absolutely have to, the amount of shade that gets into your motor is apt to increase. To keep your motor in top-notch condition during the winter at least three oil changes should be made—in October, December and February, for instance. It's good insurance to get a supply of Unico Motor Oil from your Southern States Service Agency—and to change your oil regularly this winter.

that the Baltimore Portland Plant of Southern States Cooperative is the largest fertilizer factory in the world owned and operated by farmers.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Attorney P. T. Ward, Catholic, writes to his brother, in Christ, Calvin W. Price, Protestant, about the figures for April showing great religious work: 1,440, 696 attended services conducted by U. S. Army Chaplains in one month.

Dear Cal:

I'm writing "U. S. Army Chaplains," as stated in this article, to include all denominations and certainly is very encouraging, and this good example should be followed by all in civilian life.

Pat.

Washington—U. S. army chaplains in April conducted 101,706 religious services, which drew an attendance of 7,440,696, says a report issued by the office of Brig. Gen. (Monignor) William E. Arnold, chief of chaplains. The figures are incomplete for 700 reports from chaplains in the field are missing.

Other statistics for work of the chaplains in April include—Communion and other sacraments administered 66,320 times to a total of 1,206,789 persons; guardhouse and hospital visits—65,962; persons reached in pastoral visits—4,386,037; marriages 4,429; professions of religion, including adult baptisms—2,308; Testaments and Bibles distributed 168,140; religious tracts distributed—293,557; religious articles distributed—61,888; religious magazines and newspapers distributed—226,184; radio broadcasts, 50.

I promised to write to you so I will. I finally reached my destination O. K. and would have written sooner but have been rather busy.

The weather has been fine here but the storm season is now ending in and we can look for some pretty bad weather.

Some of the boys went fishing the other day and I think about all they got was a good case of sea sickness.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Harris, of Marlinton, R. F. D. 1, sends in this letter from their son, Paul, who is serving with the Armed Forces overseas:

Somewhere in New Guinea, August 20, 1943.

Hello Mother and Dad:

I decided to drop you a few lines this morning, and will also send you one of our papers we get here. I hope this finds everyone well there and getting along O. K. I am well and getting along fine. It is awfully hot here this morning.

Tell Howard if he was here with his dog he could chase wallabies. One was hopping around here the other day. The natives were chasing one yesterday. They kill them with spears and bow and arrows. They eat them. The wallaby looks like a kangaroo but is much smaller and it has actions like a rabbit only they hop on their hind legs.

The Aussies are very friendly chaps. Their expressions are fun to us, such as "Cheerio, Old Chap," "Give Her the Bloody Go," "Hi Ya Yank," "The word bloody is very common with them. If they call you a "bloody bastard," they mean they like you. They call us "Yanks." I would like to spend a little time in Australia but I don't know whether I will ever have the opportunity or not.

Tell Dad to show this paper to Cal Price and tell him I will send him one later.

Tell Carl Sheets he should be here. He could get plenty of excitement here for him. Answer real soon.

As ever,
P.F.C. E. P. Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Carpenter received the following letter from their son, who has been in Africa since last November:

Africa, August 8, 1943.

Dear Mom and Dad:

I just finished writing to "Loretta" so I thought I would write to you all also. How is everything going these days? Fine I hope. I have been getting mail right along now I am glad to say. The mail kind of slowed up for awhile but it is doing better now. Jacobs said you all got one letter from me in eleven days. That's very good and I hope they keep going like that.

Well, Mom, I visited a place the other day. I will try and tell you something about it. This is the historical site of the Colosseum. It took 24,000 slaves under the cruel lash of the Roman masters 100 years to produce this mammoth arena. It was started by the Emperor Vespasian 800 years before the birth of Christ. It seated around 60,000 people. The Emperor Nero ground this Colosseum by his presence, and his box still stands among the arches. Carrara marble from the famous quarries of Italy decorates the principal parts. The Colosseum measures 148 meters long and 132 meters wide. The arena itself is 65 meters long. Here is located the cells where the Christians were jailed on one side of the arena and the savage lions caged on the other side. At a given signal the lions were raised to the arena and devoured the devout Christians chained to the stone posts. A tunnel 32 knots long extended from the Colosseum out to sea, where supposedly the slaves unloaded the galleons from Rome. In those days the population of the city surrounding the Colosseum totaled 400,000, but now there remains little evidence of the great Roman empire. The mud huts and winding streets are a mute reminder of the fate that befell Rome. That is about all I can think of to say about it. It sure was worth going to see.

Mom, I am going to send a money order real soon. That is about all I can think to write at this time so I will close and write again soon. Tell everyone hello. Love to all, Winton.

Cpl. Clyde W. Carpenter.

Somewhere in New Guinea, August 20, 1943.

Hello Mother and Dad:

I decided to drop you a few lines this morning, and will also send you one of our papers we get here. I hope this finds everyone well there and getting along O. K. I am well and getting along fine. It is awfully hot here this morning.

Tell Howard if he was here with his dog he could chase wallabies. One was hopping around here the other day. The natives were chasing one yesterday. They kill them with spears and bow and arrows. They eat them. The wallaby looks like a kangaroo but is much smaller and it has actions like a rabbit only they hop on their hind legs.

The Aussies are very friendly chaps. Their expressions are fun to us, such as "Cheerio, Old Chap," "Give Her the Bloody Go," "Hi Ya Yank," "The word bloody is very common with them. If they call you a "bloody bastard," they mean they like you. They call us "Yanks." I would like to spend a little time in Australia but I don't know whether I will ever have the opportunity or not.

Tell Dad to show this paper to Cal Price and tell him I will send him one later.

Tell Carl Sheets he should be here. He could get plenty of excitement here for him. Answer real soon.

As ever,
P.F.C. E. P. Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Carpenter received the following letter from their son, who has been in Africa since last November:

Africa, August 8, 1943.

Dear Mom and Dad:

I just finished writing to "Loretta" so I thought I would write to you all also. How is everything going these days? Fine I hope. I have been getting mail right along now I am glad to say. The mail kind of slowed up for awhile but it is doing better now. Jacobs said you all got one letter from me in eleven days. That's very good and I hope they keep going like that.

Well, Mom, I visited a place the other day. I will try and tell you something about it. This is the historical site of the Colosseum. It took 24,000 slaves under the cruel lash of the Roman masters 100 years to produce this mammoth arena. It was started by the Emperor Vespasian 800 years before the birth of Christ. It seated around 60,000 people. The Emperor Nero ground this Colosseum by his presence, and his box still stands among the arches. Carrara marble from the famous quarries of Italy decorates the principal parts. The Colosseum measures 148 meters long and 132 meters wide. The arena itself is 65 meters long. Here is located the cells where the Christians were jailed on one side of the arena and the savage lions caged on the other side. At a given signal the lions were raised to the arena and devoured the devout Christians chained to the stone posts. A tunnel 32 knots long extended from the Colosseum out to sea, where supposedly the slaves unloaded the galleons from Rome. In those days the population of the city surrounding the Colosseum totaled 400,000, but now there remains little evidence of the great Roman empire. The mud huts and winding streets are a mute reminder of the fate that befell Rome. That is about all I can think of to say about it. It sure was worth going to see.

Mom, I am going to send a money order real soon. That is about all I can think to write at this time so I will close and write again soon. Tell everyone hello. Love to all, Winton.

Cpl. Clyde W. Carpenter.

Living Costs UP!

Electricity

DOWN!

• Food, fuel and clothing are higher. But electricity is still cheap! Since August, 1940, the cost of living has gone up 22%. In the same three years, the average price of household electricity has dropped 9%.

• Today, electricity for the average household costs only about half as much as it did fifteen years ago. If your bill is a little higher than it was then, that's because you use a lot more electric appliances. And you're getting just about twice as much for your money.

• Why is electricity so cheap? Because the electric companies under experienced business management have done a better and better job of bringing the burden of electricity for more and more families at lower and lower prices.

MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA, SEPTEMBER 23, 1943

$1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Our Army and Navy Boys

Charles Gay Ware was at home from the U. S. Army, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Ware, on a sixteen day furlough. He is in the mail-transport service and has been in for eight months. He left Saturday afternoon, September 12, returning to Camp Breckinridge, Kentucky.

September 10, 1943.

Dear Mr. Editor:
I have been thinking about you a great deal lately. As for me, I am doing just as well as I can. I have been around quite a bit in the past year but I have not seen anything yet that I liked better than Pocahontas County. I am separated from all the boys who left there with me.

I sure enjoy the Pocahontas Times. I look forward to it every week. It sure keeps me up to the minute, not only of me, but of a lot of other boys who also look forward to the paper's coming too.

I sure would like to have been there to help you haul in some of those nice trees. I just imagine you tried as hard as anybody to catch the biggest one. I see in the Times where you had a pretty successful fair this year. I sure wish I could have taken it in.

I am supposed to get a furlough in the near future. Maybe I will be there for several seasons. Well, as I have to keep my truck rolling I will close. Keep Times rolling to the Army boys for I know they all enjoy it.

A Friend, Minter C. Moore.

September 13, 1943.

Dear Mr. Editor:
As I don't know just when my subscription expires I am now sending you a dollar to renew it when it is necessary.

I look forward each week to receiving the Times which usually comes on Saturday or Sunday, so the news is not so stale. Getting news from Pocahontas County is about as good as receiving a letter from home.

I was living in Pennsylvania at the time I was inducted and had been for nearly two years, but I formerly lived at Cass and had received my schooling there; terminating it at Greenbank School. So you see the Times is really of interest to me. I have many and very dear friends in Pocahontas County.

I have been stationed down here in Texas since I was drafted in February. There is quite a comparison between the hills of West Virginia and the rolling plains here. The climate here is also quite different from that in West Virginia or Pennsylvania either, as it is hot and dry. It has rained twice since the first of June.

As you can see by my address I am in the Infantry, a part of the 86th Division which is really a rugged outfit. We probably will be going on maneuvers soon, so we will see just how efficient and effective it really is.

I received a letter last week from my brother who is in Africa. He has now spent three years in the Army and of them in England and Africa. He says that he has now seen enough of the world and is ready to come back to the States and settle down, but that he still has a job to do over there before he can come back home. People here complain because there is food and gasoline rationing but nothing here compares with the life that a fellow lives on a battle field of a foreign country.

I am sorry that I cannot go on but I will have to devote some of my time to other letters that I have to write. I still remain a

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Sharp send in the following letters from their son, Dewey.

September 5, 1943.

Will try and write a few lines if I can keep from looking at the scenery long enough. What a country! We are in No Man's Land in Wyoming; the roughest country I have ever seen. The elevation is over 6000 feet now. There are mountains on every side and not a tree in sight; nothing but sage brush in the little ravines. The mountains and hills do not have a spear of grass.

Along in the low spots is alkali that looks like snow. I have seen pictures of the western country but have never seen anything like this. Have not seen a tree for eighteen hours. Well maybe I will get this mailed here. I write in one state and mail it in another. Will write more later.

Love to all, Dewey.

September 6, 1943.

Dear Mother and all:
Will drop you a few lines this morning. Am away out in the western plains. What a lovely country! This sure is an ideal time to travel through this country. Corn fields with hundreds of acres, prairie dogs, geoberts, and jack rabbits. I wish you could see the west. They have run their watches back about 8 hours. We have been riding since 8 o'clock. At 2 o'clock we have to do is eat, sleep, write and pull guard. A great life! But still give me good old West Virginia.

I guess you have heard from Irene by this time. Gee, I wish I was home with her and all of folks. It is cold here. I could have stood it with all my winter clothes on last night. I guess I had better close for now. We are on a different route from what I came through on before except some big towns.

Love, D. S.

New York, September 16, 1943
Private Jerry S. Gray, Cass, West Virginia, has reported to the College of the City of New York for special instruction under the Army-Specialized Training Program. It was announced today by Colonel Raymond P. Cook, commandant of the Army unit at the College.
More than 1800 soldiers have

Crop & Feed Loans

Loans for the seeding of small grain and other crops are available to farmers of Pocahontas County. It is announced by Field Supervisor, R. E. Harbert, of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan office at Elkins. He is now accepting applications for crop and feed loans which are made on a 4 percent interest basis and mature in August of next year. In addition to loans for the production of crops, he stated that livestock growers or dairymen may obtain loans for the purchase of feed. Feed loans are secured by a chattel mortgage on the livestock to be fed and crop loans by a mortgage on the crops to be financed.

Farmers in this county desiring more information on crop and feed loans may communicate with Field Supervisor, R. E. Harbert at Box 267, Elkins, or contact him at the County Agents office in Marlinton, on Wednesday, September 29th from nine to ten thirty o'clock. He plans to be in the county at the following places during the week:

Greentank, Postoffice Monday, September 27th, 9 to 10 o'clock.
Dunmore Postoffice, Tuesday, Sept. 28th, 9 to 10 o'clock.
Millpoint Postoffice, Thursday, Sept. 30th, 9 to 10 o'clock.

been assigned to the College for special training in such fields as engineering, foreign languages and areas, and the "basic phase." They will remain at the College for periods ranging from nine months to a year, and on completion of the courses will be assigned to troop duty as technicians or sent to officer candidate schools. Private Gray attended Morris Harvey College.

Deming Army Air Field, Deming, New Mexico, Frank D. Kincaid, of Huntersville, West Virginia, has recently been promoted to the grade of Corporal. Corporal Kincaid is engaged as an Airplane Mechanic and is assigned to the 975th Aviation Squadron. Prior to entrance into the Army September 20, 1942, Corporal Kincaid was employed by the State Road Commission of West Virginia. Corporal Kincaid is the son of Mrs. Florence Doyle, of Huntersville.

P.F.G. Clarence C. McLaughlin, Jr., of the United States Army, stationed at Camp Robinson, Arkansas, spent a 15 day furlough with his wife and small daughter at Baltimore, Maryland. While on leave he and his wife visited Mr. and Mrs. Ray Horner, of Dunmore. He returned to Camp on September 16.

Robert L. Aldridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Aldridge, of Mill Point, who has been employed by the United States Rubber Company at Detroit, Michigan, left Monday for initial training at Great Lakes Naval Training Station, after a short visit with friends and relatives in Roanoke, Virginia, and Huntington, Charleston, and Mill Point.

Dear Sir:

Enclosed is one dollar for my paper. Thought I would get to see you when I was out to see P. M. Townsend but did not have time as my son, Leon, had been inducted into the Coast Guards and I had to get him back here in time for his leaving date. Keep my paper coming. I have to bear the news from back home and a big bear or panther story once in a while.

Sincerely yours,
J. E. Armstrong,
636 Forrest Avenue,
Hamilton, Ohio.

September 10, 1943.

Dear Mr. Price:
I sure do enjoy reading your paper. I lived in Marlinton a good while and know all the boys that are in the Army and Navy. I saw one of the Boggs boys, (Ralph) at Harris Island, South Carolina, for training. I have been writing to the boys, getting their address out of the Times.

I guess nearly every boy in Marlinton is in the Navy or Army by now. I came in the Marlinton in May, and I sure do like it.

It sure is cold here in New Jersey now. Well, Sir, it is time for chow, and I am not much at letter writing, so just keep The Pocahontas Times coming my way.

Sincerely yours,

Private Charles Rock,

To the People of this Community:

HURRY-UP JOB!

The Third War Loan is a hurry-up job for the home front. The government must rush billions of dollars to the fighting fronts in the form of extra munitions.

It's actually a matter of life or death for Americans in uniform. Once the invasion got under way we committed our use of large numbers of troops and great stores of supplies. Any let down or crack-up in the supply trains could prove fatal.

Your job is to see to it that there is no shortage of anything needed to make the invasion swift and sure. We do not want another Bataan or Corregidor.

Get that extra War Bond today. Show that you are with our boys in this critical hour of invasion.

Wesley Mollahan, a great lawyer and one of the most agreeable men I ever knew, said to me one day during a recess in the trial of a law suit at the Nicholas Court House, "Davenport, if you ever have occasion to hire a lawyer, get the poorest one you can find. There is money in having a poor lawyer. Take the case of Mrs. Clark, for instance. She had married a no account Methodist preacher who eked out a miserable existence trying to show his flock from the doors of hedges. His wife had inherited a tract of mountain land in McDowell County, on which she had kept the taxes paid up for a number of years by practicing the strictest economy and self-denial. She had a cousin in McDowell County, a kind shark by the name of Davy Jones. The pinch of poverty getting tighter all the time, she decided to write to Cousin David and ask him to sell her land for such a price as he could get. In answer to her letter, David wrote her that the land was utterly worthless, but rather than see her suffer he would buy it himself for a dollar an acre. There was a thousand acres in the tract. She answered him and told him to send on the deed and she would execute it. Davy drew up a deed in accordance with the statute in such case made and provided, and mailed it to her to execute. When the deed arrived her husband was holding "distracted" meetings in another county, so she went and consulted her lawyer, who was probably the dumbest in the State. The lawyer advised her that as the land was here all she had to do was to scratch out her husband's name in the draft of the deed and execute it herself. This she did and mailed it to Cousin David. In the course of time she received the deed back with a letter from him in which he advised her that in West Virginia the husband must join with her in the deed to convey his wife's land; and he enclosed a new draft of the deed. Again Mrs. Clark consulted her lawyer, and he told her that as she had already executed one deed, she could strike out her name out of the second deed and have her husband execute that one, and then mail both of them to Cousin David, which she did. In due course both deeds came back with a letter in which Cousin David advised her that husband and wife must join in the same deed, and he enclosed a new deed. "Well," said Mrs. Clark, "if Cousin David is so particular about getting a good deed that had must be worth more than one dollar per acre, I am going to McDowell County to see about it." So she went to McDowell County, and found that her tract of land was in the heart of the great Pocahontas coal field, and she sold it to the United States Steel Corporation for One Hundred and fifty thousand dollars, thereby making One Hundred and forty-nine thousand dollars by hiring a poor lawyer."—Hon. Henry Davenport in his "Tales of the Elk."

Dear Col:

Your comments concerning the Kentucky Coffee Tree in Pocahontas Times of September 2, were read with much interest. Your first-hand acquaintance, and familiarity with the nature and value of good old West Virginia commodities my utmost respect and I always hesitate when tempted to offer any contribution. However an experience I enjoyed in the summer of 1929 over-rule all caution and I shall tell you about it hoping that the story may be of interest to you personally.

On a certain day in June of the year mentioned, Dr. Andrew T. Wilson, of Wheeling, West Virginia, introduced me to a wooded section on one of the large neighboring estates. I believe it was Whitman Hills, although I am not too sure about the name. It was wooded there were a number of fine specimens of Gymnocladus. As I recall the mental pictures of those trees, I think there were some of them that were at least three feet in diameter. There were many smaller ones also. I believe Dr. Wilson told me at the time that a number of them were growing on his farm but far distant. I have seen large Kentucky coffee trees in both Ohio and Indiana, but I do not recall ever having seen any larger ones than those I saw in the Northern Panhandle of West Virginia. I do not happen to know if these trees still exist but I sincerely hope they have not been cut or otherwise destroyed.

I am your good friend, Raymond (Uncle) Wilson, every now and then I can see you in the pages of the Pocahontas Times.

Yours truly,

Raymond (Uncle) Wilson

P. S. I presume you know that our mutual friend, Dr. Earl L. Core, has been selected to be a member of an expedition that is being sent to South America to explore for cinchona—source of quinine. I believe he leaves Morgantown on or about September 30th.

Mrs. J. W. Longacre died at her home in Ronceverte August 30, 1943. She passed away from her earthly home to that "home not made with hands eternal in the Heavens. She loved her home and church and was always faithful and devoted to all relationships of life, exerting strong and positive influence for good. Her life of service has been an inspiration to all who knew her and her helpful spirit shall go on in the lives of others to draw them closer to the God she loved and served.

Life's race well run, life's work well done, Life's crown well won and now comes rest.

One of the commonest mistakes in life is to lay such emphasis upon secondary things that in our thinking they seem to be of supreme importance. In other words we make the by-products of life our principal aim. The result of such a course cannot but be spiritual failure. Happiness, for example, is a by-product. We find it not by seeking it but when we are whole heartedly doing something else. Peace of heart is another by-product. It does not come to those who strive after it, but is the result of our doing the will of God. He who would possess these values, therefore, must build his life in accord with the admonition of Jesus to "Seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness." This must be our supreme purpose. All other essential values will come as a result of our faithful pursuit of this one that is supreme.—Christian Observer.

Up from the primal muck and mire, Upward and upward, ever higher, Thoroughly mixed years of stress and strain.

Accompanied by joy and pain, From lowly form to nobler type, Emerging when the time was ripe Poems of memories doomed to fade.

But Spirit-filled, erect, and in the image made Of One, who saw them worthy products of creative plan; Stood forth a race, whom God called Man.

Man, ascended and ascending creature, free, But more a mortal spirit made for immortality.

For love, for wisdom, and for life eternal, Triple gifts of gracious God Drawn from heaven's most precious treasure.

Incorruptible, and above all measure, Granted unto those of upward gaze.

Who, through the passage of their days, With forward-looking faith their future scan For aid, in passing from the old into the coming man.

When of the times their fullness did arrive, Sent from the Ancient of Days with man to strive, Out of richest heaven to poorest earth

Through the mysterious miracle of birth Christ came. That by his wondrous incarnation He might work out with man their true salvation.

For that he came from realms supernatural That on, and up, and into Life Eternal He might lead them through all their mess of doubt and strife From sin and blame to praise and life.

Thus by example, holy, just and shorn of all evasion and pretense As living man to living men, without offense He did live forth, alluring earnest of sublimest living.

In all his plans and actions giving Man a goal, toward which a further ascent Might yet be made, and a richer reason lent To man from God for forward journeying, erect

In all his ways, and strivings to perfect Within himself that image inherent and divine, Implanted portrait of the deathless Christ sublime.

Case.—Six members and three visitors met at the home of Mrs. Frank Sutton for the September meeting of Back Allegheny Farm Women's Club. The leader was not present, but the members took it all over. Lesson on new clothes made from old ones. We were sorry to give Mrs. Bragg up, but hope she gets along good wherever she goes. Refreshments were served. The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. Walter Beverage the second Wednesday in October.

DRIVE DEPENDS ON YOU!

Would you like a free ride on a wonderful motor? That's exactly what you would be doing if you did not do your duty in the Third War Loan.

Your life weight would be felt by him on the battlefield. Every civilian counts in this kind of war. Every civilian must make his energy and his dollars work for victory.

Keep in mind that while our national goal in this drive is 16 billions of dollars, this money is being borrowed from you and you and you. You are an individual, the deciding factor as to whether we reach this goal. An extra $100 War Bond becomes an extra rifle, extra bullets and extra fighting power of every type.

To the People of this Community:

ARE YOU REALLY AT WAR?

What does being at war mean to you? Less gasoline for your auto? Less sugar in your coffee? Higher prices for your food and clothes? Separation from your husband?

Sure, it has meant all those things, some serious and some really trivial for a period when our actual safety is at stake.

But has the war meant BLOOD, SWEAT AND TEARS to you? In many instances YES. The first stage of invasion has already pushed our casualties over the 100,000 mark.

The gold stars which decorate thousands of our homes today are a challenge to the vast majority of us to do our best in the Third War Loan. No good American wants to see one more gold star added to the firmament of glory. We educate our youth for life, not for death. If they die, they die so that we might live. Every extra War Bond you buy today will back the invasion so that there will be less blood, sweat and tears for you and your friends.

Dear Mom and Dad:

I made the trip just fine out side of two pretty bad spells of sickness. We have lots of tropical fruits such as coconuts, bananas, dates, etc. Also some snakes, mosquitoes and bugs if you know what I mean. The climate here is hot at times but the rainy season is on now and it rains most every day.

Our money is different also. We have rupees and annas instead of dollars and cents. It takes sixteen annas to make a rupee, and about three rupees to make our dollar.

We seem to spend more here than in the States for there are so many souvenirs to buy. Wish I could send you a few. We can buy a pet monkey for three rupees. They have two wheel carts which are drawn by oxen, and carriages drawn by horses in which we ride.

Jane, I hope I get home soon.

Ready to "call the signals" that will mean Naval victories for America is Harold L. Crist, age 19 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Estes F. Crist, of Arbovale, West Virginia, who was recently graduated from the Naval Training School (Signals) at the University of Illinois, Urbana, Illinois.

The Bluejacket was sent to this specialty school upon the basis of "boot training" aptitude tests which indicated his ability along this line. The completed course receiving and sending International code by blinker, searchlight and semaphore. He also received instruction in the use of the pelorus and navigator's range finder as well as fundamentals of weather, tides, light and sound, optics and electricity.

How are you by now? I am O. K. and getting along fine. I sure would like to see you on a ship when it starts to rocking. Boy, I was really sick for a day. I was seasick the first eight days. This is a pretty good place but I have seen better. I like it better every day. I think that we will move from here unless some of us stay at Ship's Co. The country has quite a few hills and I feel right at home. The sand is the worst thing. The people are French and Arabs. The French look like very nice people. I have not been through town but once or twice.

How did you make out on your vacation? My leave was just a little too short. I guess Mom was surprised when I wrote her from Norfolk.

You should be getting tired of being a dry land sailor. Why don't you join the Navy and see the world. But I am not. I am ad- vanced to my very own ship. I think Maynard's brother is somewhere here close around here but I have no way of finding him.

Well, as the ship is going out I must close.

Just a Sailor, Earl.

Samuel and Clara Frank Col- line is home on furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Col- line, of Frank. For the past year he has been stationed at a Naval base in Bermuda. His brother, Victor, who recently left for the Navy, is the fifth son of Mr. and Mrs. Collins who are serving in the Armed Forces.

Clay Houshin, M. M. 3-c, of the Navy, who spent a few days leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Houshin, near Darbin, has returned to his base at Nor- folk, Virginia. He has been in the hospital for some time with a broken leg and has not yet been released for active duty.

Sergeant Woodrow Beverage, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harper Beve- rage, of Bartow, has been awar- ded the Order of the Purple Heart. Sergeant Beverage has been in the North African area since last November.

Mrs. Mary Hall, of Hillsboro, sends in the following letter from her son, Roy Hall, who is serving with the Armed Forces in Sicily: August 28, 1943.

Dear Mom and all:

Well Mom, I know you will be surprised to get this letter from me and find me in Sicily. I have been here since the 10th of July. That is why I have not written to you. I am getting along fine. I have had lots of things thrown at me since I have been here but have never gotten hit yet—but we never know when we will. Mother, please do not worry a- bout me for I will get along fine.

How is Granddaddy getting a- long? I bet he is reading the papers every day and listening to the radio at night. How are Neal and his family getting along? I would love to see them and the two babies. Tell him to send me the picture of them.

I got a birthday card from Ruth and one from you too. I was glad to get them. Did not know when my birthday came till I got your cards. I celebrated my birthday—you know how, I don't have to tell you.

I had a letter from Dot some time ago. I don't remember if I answered it or not but tell her to write to me again for I like to hear from her. And she did get married at last.

Are Herbert Hill, Hunter Hill

and Harry Fowler still at home? Please tell them hello for me. I have Page Hamrick still at the same place. I guess Robert is a big boy by now. Ask him if he thinks he can whip me when I come home.

I am running short of paper, so goodbye.

Private Floyd McLaughlin has returned to his camp in Missis- sippi, after spending his furlough with his parents at Cass.

The following interesting letter was received from our young friend, Marshall Casdorph, of Ronceverte, who, with his father, C. J. Casdorph, are owners of the CJ Stores.

Thursday, Sept. 2, 1943. 5 p.m.

Dear Mr. Price:

Perhaps you will be surprised to hear from me. I am now on maneuvers, somewhere in Missis- sippi, but I will leave for Louisi- ana for big maneuvers sometime around the 17th. We will be on them for two months. We have three to five days problems on these maneuvers and then a days rest. We average hiking 15 to 18 miles per day, sometimes carrying our weapons that weigh 135 lbs., which are broken down into a three man load. Every time we stop we dig in. Digging slit trenches or fox holes. If all the slit trenches I have dug were laid end to end they would reach a- round the world. We eat when our chow trucks catches up with us. Sometimes it is very irregu- lar. For instance I have eaten three meals in eight hours; then have gone 28 hours without food. This 99th Infantry Division is a rugged bunch of fellows. Most of them are from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Ohio, and some of us from the best State in the Union.

This State of Mississippi has the most varied assortment of bugs, ants, snakes, mosquitoes, etc. I have ever seen. They also have quite a variety of different trees. Several types of oak, hickory, magnolia, sweet gum, pine, maple. I have seen very few rock formations. Plenty of swamp land. I have been in pine groves, 20 to 30 years old; full of cotton rows. It seems they use the land until it is worn out, then let it grow back up in long leaf pine. The people are the fin- est I have ever met anywhere.

Buddie (my wife) is living in Centreville just about two miles from our former camp. She is staying there until we are sure where my next regular camp will be. The only part I don't like about the Army is being sepa- rated from Buddie, Mother and Dad and my friends.

Today is a rest day and pay day. And the usual army pas- time is going on: card games and crap games. I often wonder if we as a Nation are ready for peace. We are forgetting God in our plans. I have been at- tending the Presbyterian Church in Centreville, Mississippi, since I have been in Camp Van Dorn. They are one swell bunch of peo- ple. Write Dad for an article on "The Cost of Drunkenness" by Mrs. H. W. Street. She is one of the finest Christian ladies I have ever had the privilege of knowing. Drop me a line if you get the time. Let me know the news. Tell all my friends hello for me.

Your friend, Marshall.

P. S. If you write after the 12th of September my new ad- dress will be:

Sgt. Marshall M. Casdorph, (A.S.N. 35745190), Co. M, 894th Inf., 99th Division, Care of Postmaster, Shreveport, Louisiana.

Somewhere in Tennessee. September 9, 1943.

Hello Mr. Price:

Just a line to let you know I am still one of those "hillbillies" and proud of it. I have been here a little over a week. I have been stationed down in Georgia for the past two months. Boys, it sure is heaven to get out of those swamps, mosquitoes and gnats. It is a little better here than it was in Georgia. At least it does not rain everytime a cloud passes over. But I can't see much dif- ference in the beds. The ground is just as hard here as it was there if anything a little harder, as it is not swampy here like it was there. I don't think I would wake up for a week if I would get to sleep in a bed again.

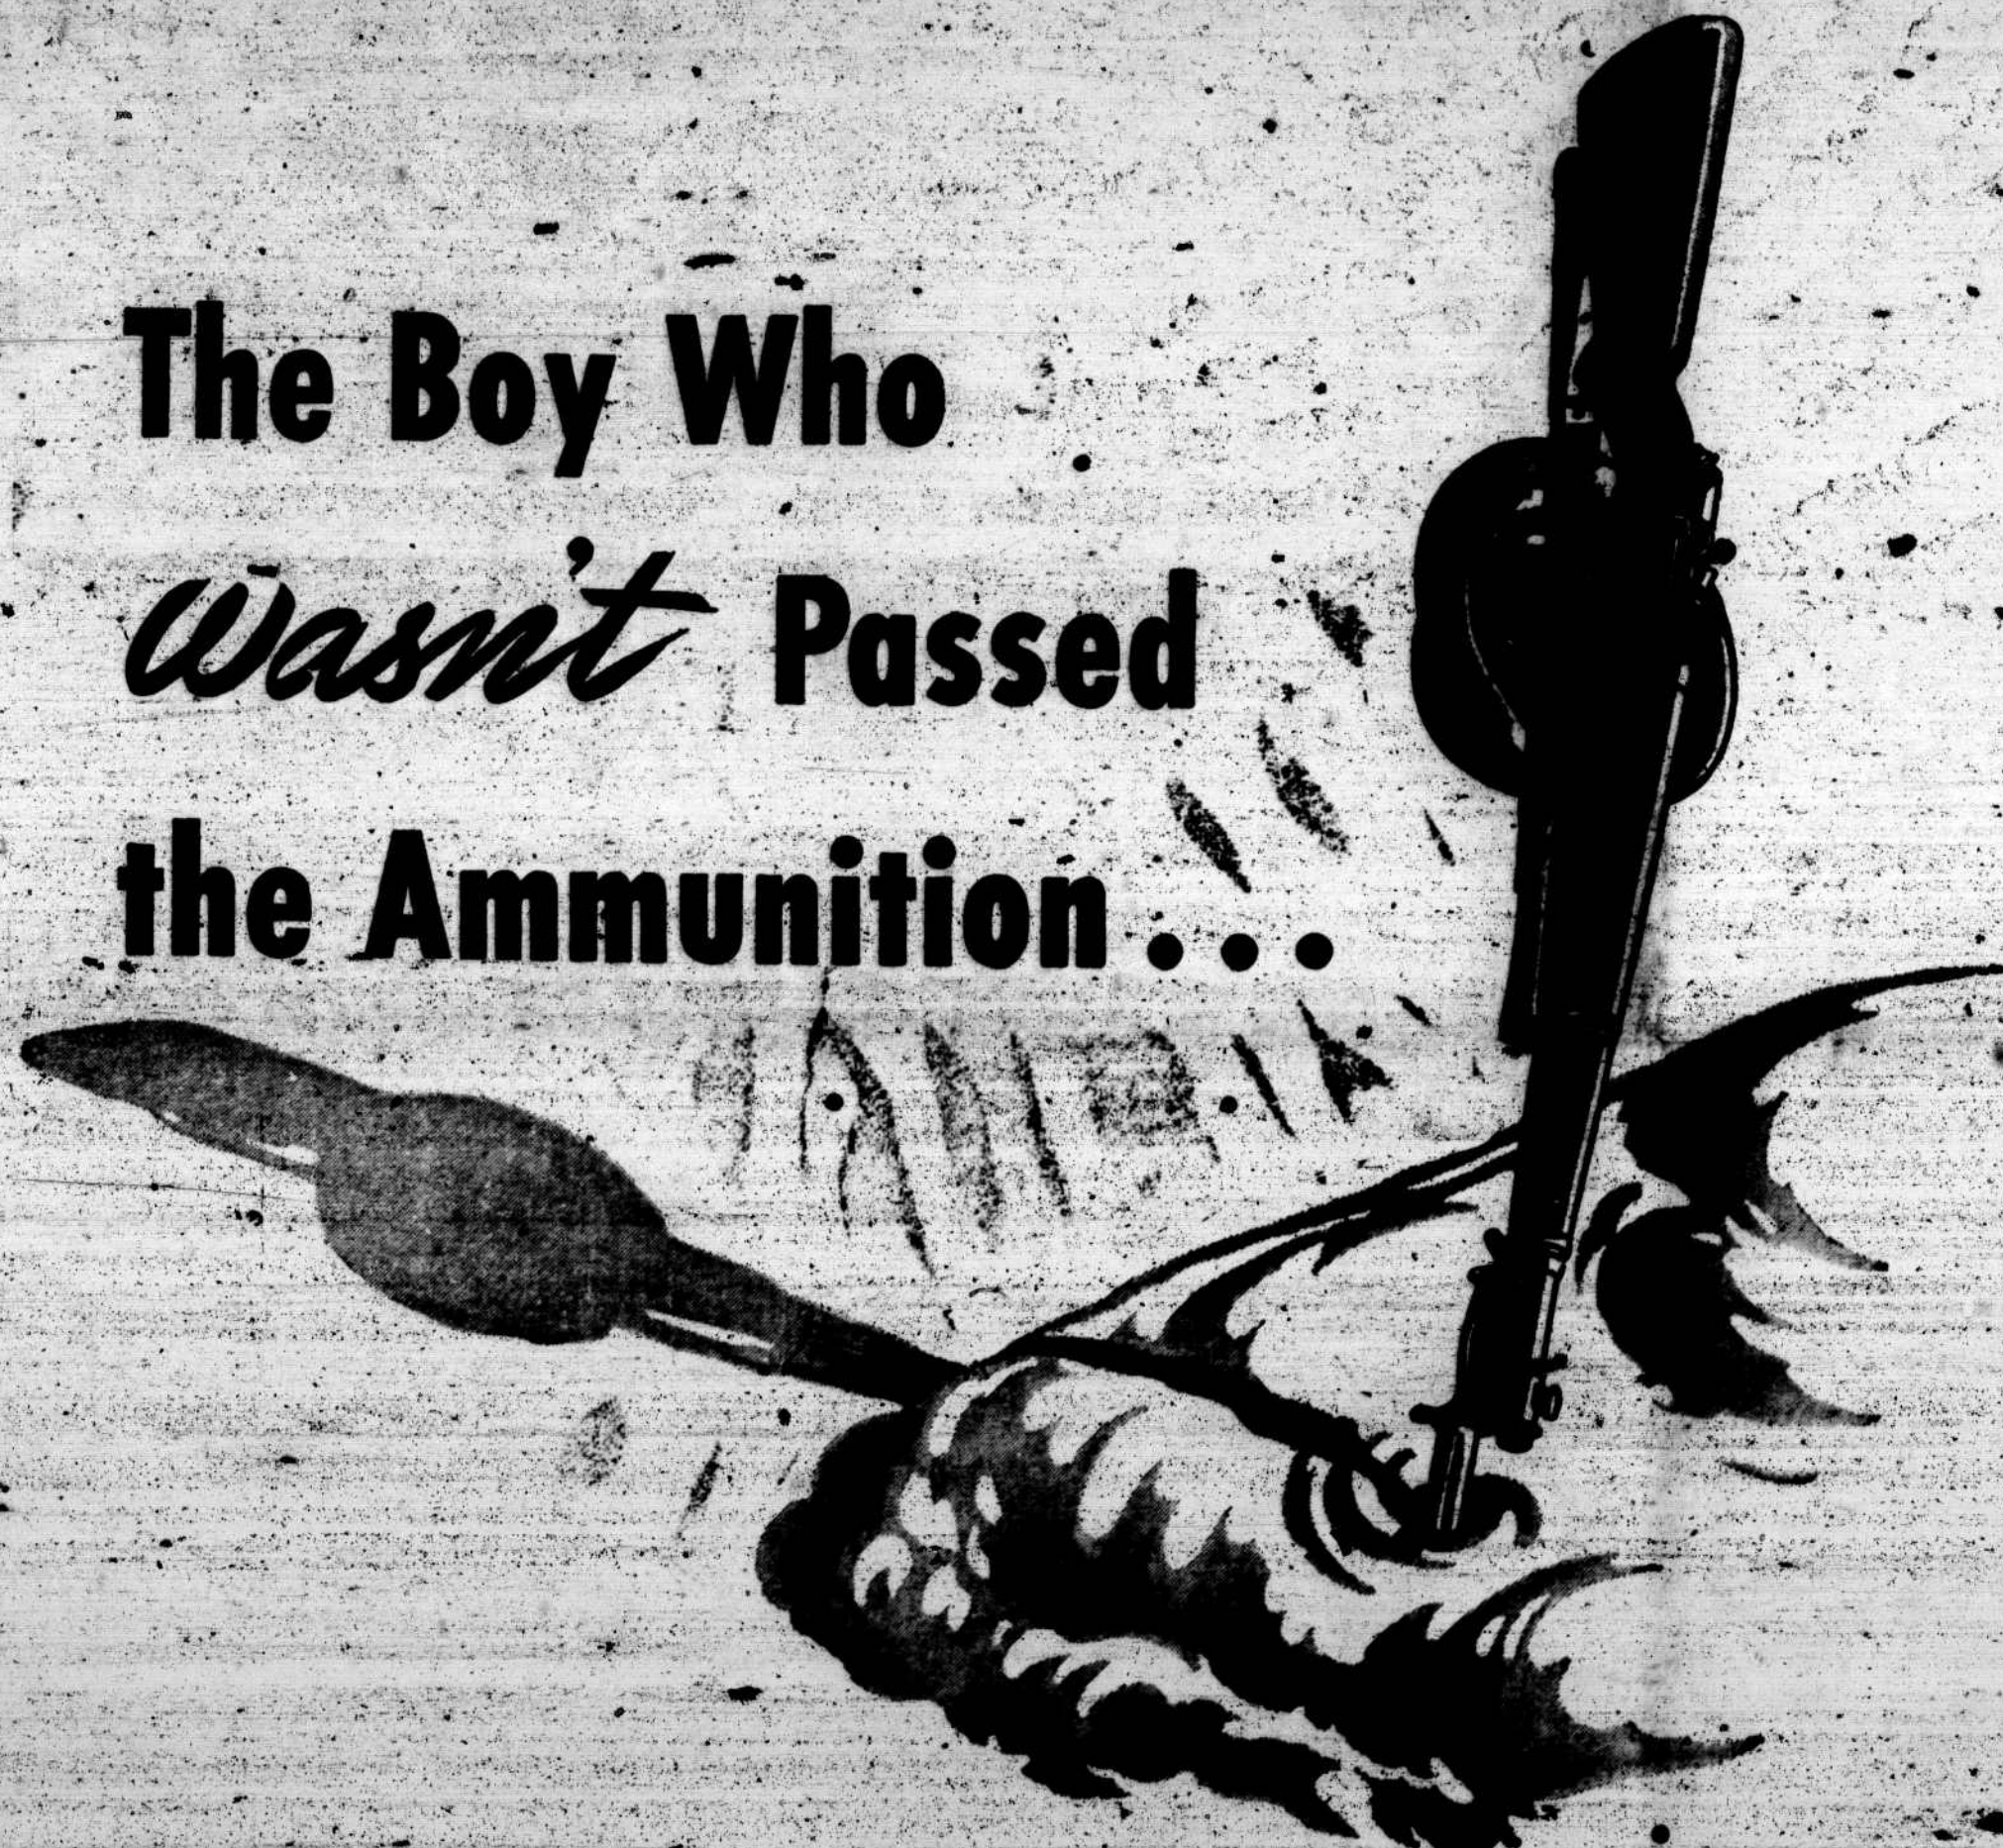

I guess the schools in Poca- hontas have opened by now. I sure would like to be there to play foot ball this season. I played two years under Coach Basil Sharp at Hillsboro, and only wish I could play another season.

Mr. Price as I have moved will you please keep the Times coming to this address. Thanks.

Cpl. Wallace Kershner, Jr., (A.S.N. 35398561) Battery A, 353rd A. A. A. A. W. Bn. A. P. O. 409—Care Postmaster, Nashville, Tennessee.

Miss Myrie Pyles returned to Charleston after spending several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pyles. She will teach in the Kanawha County schools this winter.

Indictment Of Profanity

A Chinese proverb reads, "He who strikes first, acknowledges that he has run out of ideas," which reminds us of the comment that he who resorts to swearing and habitual profanity demonstrates that he has a limited vocabulary. We can well foresee in time of war, with its accompanying strain on people's nerves, it may be more difficult to preserve and promote decency of speech. Scarcely anybody defends swearing as a gentlemanly practice or a good habit. It is usually the reflection of a bad mood, lack of refinement, of poor upbringing, lack of reverence for sacred things, or of a weak conformity to an unfavorable environment. Too often it is the uncovering of the moral cesspool within the soul of a person.

A Christian business man of Pittsburgh once had a business card on the reverse side of which was the following: "The man who swears does all these things at once: 1. He breaks the third of the Ten Commandments; 2. He violates the law of the land; 3. He transgresses the rules of good manners; 3. He outrages decency; 5. He insults good people; 6. He profanes sacred things; 7. He does what in his better moments he is ashamed of; 8. He does what he will one day regret, for God will not hold him guiltless who taketh the Name of the Lord in vain." Watchman Examiner.

- EDUCATION

Educate and inform the mass of the people—enable them to see that it is their interest to preserve peace and order and they will preserve them. Enlighten the people generally and tyranny and oppression will vanish like evil spirits at the dawn of day. —Thomas Jefferson.

Education does not mean teaching people what they do not know. It is teaching them to behave as they do not behave. It is not teaching the youth the shape of letters and the tricks of numbers, and then leaving them to turn their arithmetic to rogues and their literature to lust. It means on the contrary training them into the perfect exercise and kingly composure of their bodies and souls. It is a painful, continual and difficult work to be done by kindness, by watching, by warning, by precept and by praise, but above all—by example. —John Ruskin.

Each year the Rotary Club of White Sulphur Springs invites the older men of the community—those of seventy years and more—for a dinner. It is a considerable of an occasion, and this year there were perhaps sixty men present who had crossed the allotted line of three score and ten years. Along with these is provided a feast of reason and flow of soul. This year I was the exhibit picked on by Ken Gillispie, to play my mental bones in vain efforts to be entertaining for a stretch of thirty minutes or so.

You cannot tell old men anything, and you should not if you up this I will say again I'd keep could, running to and fro over the state I will have to get myself a new joke book. Seems like there are too many people can now tell my little line of wheezes better than I know how.

You know the older people have the money, and they are the ones who exert the influence to keep our affairs on an even keel. Of course they make mistakes. However time takes care to cure the effects of a wreck from win or lose procedure may still be evident in a generation.

I have known the time when I felt human progress was being made in spite of the old folks sitting on the brake beam. I realized later we certainly would have gone faster, and maybe, not to arrive at all from full speed ahead on down grade. There is all the difference in the world between having the eggs already in the baskets and having laid eggs to get out and put in baskets.

The politician is coasting to a fall who does not know about the influence the older people wield in our elections. Look back on many a popular idol who had us boys dancing crazy to his words, who either failed of election by reason of the influence exerted by maturer minds, on who was elected only to hear his spurt and burst his machine, just like the old folks allowed he would.

Let no man deny the enthusiasm of youth, but you know about men without knowledge. Youth movements as such had best be watched carefully, to see what old boys is pulling the strings. Totalitarian movements usually begin with the so-called youth movements, to wind up disastrously for all concerned, particularly for young people.

Away back, most a thousand years ago, the children's crusade was the possession of infidels—the innocent children to do what the Knights could not accomplish. Few ever returned home, many died and a remnant sold as slaves. You know the Spirit of Seventy-six is the picture of grandeur, son and grandson.

White Sulphur Springs is not what she used to be—she is better. For a century and more it was a world famous watering resort. The last half generation it was the convention meeting place of the Nation. The war came along, and when it became general like America waded in. The palace hotel and its surrounding seven thousand acres was taken over by the Federal Government; to be changed from a place for recreation to a place for care and healing of the broken bodies of those who had risked their all that freedom should not perish from the earth.

While there were always earnest souls in White Sulphur, seems to me that the presence of a great hospital in their midst has had a decidedly sobering effect upon the community. As an industry, I would say as regards most lines of endeavor, the hospital is a better business feeder than the world famous hotel ever was.

This land and this time for rumors. One such rumor I heard the other day was that the government was negotiating for the sale of the White Sulphur property back to the company. The rumor went on that the company was not particularly interested in buying back.

Judging from the number of soldiers present at Rotary luncheon last Thursday, I got the idea the men in charge of the Ashford hospital are entering into the life of the community.

Down at the former flying field and former golf course and former polo grounds, are hundreds of barracks for prisoners of war. Many of these buildings were formerly used as CCC barracks. Here are quartered Italian soldiers captured in North Africa. I am told these men welcome their release from a war they never had any heart in. Along the roadside I saw a dozen or more of these prisoners of war busy picking up potatoes in a big field.

The next lap of the trip was down to Huntington, where the annual meeting of the Affiliated Sportsmen of West Virginia was held Friday and Saturday. This is a state wide organization of local sportsmen clubs. The Federation is the creature of the clubs, and not their creator. It is a truly democratic representative organization. While it exerts great influence in shaping the ends of conservation of natural resources in West Virginia in a general way, it in no wise interferes in the least with the affairs of the local clubs. The idea of the Federation is to furnish the member clubs means of expression on issues affecting sportsmen beyond the ken of local organizations. Perhaps not as efficient as a more centralized body with control over branches in every county, nevertheless it is popular with member clubs which are jealous of control over their own affairs.

There about 150 local sportsmen's clubs of various kind and name in West Virginia. Of these about one fourth have membership in the affiliated. Naturally, the attendance this year was down to a token basis, but most of the clubs were represented. The St. Albans Club won the attendance prize—the Tom Cheek plaque—with seven delegates present. Of course, Huntington clubs had more, but host clubs do not compete for this prize.

President Joe Dingess and Secretary George Slicer performed so well in their respective offices and teamed up so well, they were asked to serve another year as a war measure.

John Mock, of Pittsburgh; Messrs. Short and Stuver of the Ohio Commission, and Col. Barlingame of Tennessee, the formal program was about the best ever. At the banquet, Riley Wilson, of West Virginia, entertained.

Five of the seven members of the State Conservation Commission were present. Conservation Director Jack Spillman the technicians of the various departments gave comprehensive reports of stewardship.

The convention pledged the Commission its cooperation, to work in every way possible under its leadership for the cause of conservation of our natural resources of game and fish, for

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

School Days

When our fighters fly at 400 miles an hour with a .50 Zep or a Messerschmidt on their tails there isn't much time for cogitation so the Army and the Navy show as many motion pictures of actual dog fights and air battles as possible to our student fliers.

Pictures of trainer flights, bombing flights and flights by fighters are all a part of the routine for our student pilots and must be drilled into them just as it is necessary for us to remind ourselves daily of the necessity to buy an extra $100 Bond in September. U. S. Treasury Department

LOOK around town these days. This button will spot for you a new group of patriotic "fighters"—men and women who are out to cut more pulpwood...for pulpwood makes smokeless powder, and a thousand and one other things needed at the front.

Uncle Sam needs more pulpwood. So it's up to us to find ways and means of cutting more...and more.

It's a tough job but it can be done and everyone in this community can help. We are in the heart of the pulpwood area. This whole community is just like a big war plant and just as important to winning this war as any airplane, auto truck, or munitions plant.

Enlist today for a few extra hours of your time...HELP THE FARMER WHO HAS SOME TREES TO CUT and if your regular job is cutting pulpwood GIVE 3 EXTRA DAYS at regular pay. That's all Uncle Sam asks you to do...to keep some boy at the front from asking, "Where's the ammunition? Who at home has let us down?"

WOODCUTTERS:

Give 3 EXTRA days at regular pay.

FARMERS:

You're busy but a few extra hours of pulpwood from your woodlot will help a lot. This pulpwood shortage is serious, and every cord is needed. If you haven't pledged your support, do it now.

Dear Mother and Dad: I received your letter today telling me Uncle Louis had died. I was so sorry to hear it. He was a mighty good friend of mine. I sure feel sorry for Aunt Minnie and the family.

Am glad Ray got home on a furlough. I could not get one before I came Overseas. Sunday, September 8, makes me one year in England. Sure would like to come home. I get mighty discouraged sometimes but it does not do any good.

We are a lot safer than we were when we came here. Hardly ever have an air raid anymore. If Ray comes over here let me know and I will try to find him. Well, I am getting along all right and feeling fine. Tell all hello for me and write often.

Always, Oran.

Corporal Norman Dilley, of the United States Army Air Corps, stationed at Gray Field, Fort Lewis, Washington, has returned to his base after spending a week's furlough here with his sister Mrs. G. W. Gilmore. He also visited his sisters, Mrs. A. K. Martin and Mrs. Hallie McClung, at Rupert.

Benny Goins, Second Class Seaman, United States Navy has returned to his station after spending a three day leave with his father, at Mount Hope. He has been on active duty in the South Pacific for the past fifteen months. He has been in the Navy four years and was in Pearl Harbor during the attack on December 7, 1941. On Thursday evening before leaving for his station, supper was served at his home and his brothers were all there: George, of Kopperston; Phillip, of Smithers; and Harry, of Winifrede.

Private First Class Luther H. Mace has returned to his base at Westport, Washington, after spending a week's furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ligon Mace. He has been in service 17 months and this was his first furlough home.

Mrs. Eugene Kelly, of Cloverlick, sends in the following letters from her sons, Bernell Kelly, of the Army and Loren, of the Navy.

Dearest Mother and Dad: Just landed here from California. I am just fine and I like Oregon just fine for it is just like good old West Virginia and there is where I like best. The town I am in is Pendleton, Oregon. I do not know how long we will be here but do not worry for I will be home as soon as I get some Japs and Germans. Please tell everyone hello.

Your son, Bernell C. Kelly, 61st Q. M. Trk. Company, 2125 Service Group, A. A. B., Pendleton, Oregon.

September 16, 1943.

Dear Mother and Dad: Thought I would write you a few lines to let you know I am O. K. and sure hope you are the same. I have been awfully busy and have not had time to write. I like the Navy fine. We have Change in our closest town but I will not get to go there for a week or two. That is when I will get my "best" training, then I will get about nine days furlough and I plan to come home then.

Did Rhoda get in home right? Tell her I will write to her as soon as I can find time, probably tomorrow. Tell everyone back home I said hello. I suppose Dad is still working up on Orest. I guess you all have the work about done back there by this time.

We have not taken our shots or vaccinations yet but guess we will this week. There are boys here from all over the United States and new ones coming in every day.

Well, Mother, I guess I will close as it is about bed time and we have to get up at five o'clock in the morning. So write back real soon. I am sending you $30 per month and you can buy what you want with it. I hope Junior Griggs comes to this training station.

As ever, your son, Loren O. Kelly, Co. 1379, U. S. N. T. S., Great Lakes, Illinois.

GARDEN CITY, Army Air Field, Kansas, Sept. 15.—Chief Warrant Officer Willard L. Boblett, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Boblett, Sgt. W. Va., has arrived at this basic flying school for the second phase of his flight instruction.

Warrant Officer Boblett graduated from Aircraft Armament school in 1937 and "Bombight Maintenance" school in 1940. He was a bombardier instructor at Albuquerque, N. M., prior to entering flight training.

Warrant Officer Boblett completed elementary flight training at Victory Field, Vernon, Texas. He is well along in his nine weeks' course of intensive air and ground schooling here, after which he will graduate into a single or twin-engine advanced school. Upon successful completion of advanced training he will be awarded the silver wings of a flying officer in the United States Army Air Forces.

Our president also urged us to buy more War Bonds. Our recreation leader gave us a contest; Mrs. Gilbert VanReenen was the prize winner. Mrs. Shafer gave a demonstration on darning socks. Before her marriage Mrs. Sheldon was employed at the Talon, Inc., and Mr. Sheldon is employed by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission.

The Edray Farm Women's Club met with Mrs. Allan Sharp on September 16, with seven members and two visitors present. Mrs. Sharp opened the meeting, and led the devotional. The lesson, Care and repair of clothing, was led by Mrs. Walter Shafer, and was discussed by all members. We were asked to have our project filled and turned in at the next meeting. Our president also urged us to buy more War Bonds. Our recreation leader gave us a contest; Mrs. Gilbert VanReenen was the prize winner. Mrs. Shafer gave a demonstration on darning socks. Mrs. George Shrader also gave a demonstration. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Reid Moore on October 21st.

Ranger's Information

By W. L. MAULE

District Ranger

Fall is here with its maturing of field crops. Farmers are hard put to get sufficient labor to put away their crops. Fall weather and frosts bring the fall of leaves in the forest. Fire danger is thereby increased. With so many men gone to the armed forces or to industry, those of us who remain must be more careful of fire in the woods. If added care on our part is required to keep fire out of the forests, let us use that care.

If a fire occurs, its control drawn men from harvesting crops or working in the woods. These fires must be controlled at all costs since lumber is vitally needed by the armed forces in huge quantities. If mature timber is merely killed it can be harvested without too serious loss, but what about the reproduction, or timber too small for the saw? We must think and act now because the future must be cared for as well as present needs.

Pulpwood is badly needed as well as all kinds of timber. Put your timber to the best possible use. If good for pulp timber put it into pulpwood. If it can go into longer lengths it may be used for ship timbers, boards or planks, or the 1,000-and-1 other urgent needs of a nation at war. Despite all this, think of the future and improve your timber stand and do not seriously deplete it by illogical cutting. Remember that a too small log will not pay its way even despite high prices. In a few years, with good care and management, the tree that is now too small to cut will provide more lumber and demand a higher price. Your good judgment in cutting timber now to improve your stand of timber rather than make a source of little or no income and a drain on the pocketbook in paying taxes, by poor judgment in cutting. If you have timber for sale find out its ultimate and best use and then see that it is so used.

It is true that we must keep up our own establishments, but new buildings if not urgently needed must wait until after we win this war. We will be more loyal now in seeing to it that fire is kept out of the woods, that timber is cut and used to further the war effort, than to have timber burned or go into things not directly aimed at winning the war.

Southern States Farm Life

RIGHT now in the nation's poultry houses there are 100 million more chickens than there were a year ago. There isn't enough feed to raise them all. Here are some good points to remember:

One—You can't afford to feed a single "star bird" this year. Keep your catching hook handy and cull out every week the birds that aren't producing.

Two—Get rid of the rats. Three rats will eat enough feed in one year to care for two laying hens.

Three—Keep the birds comfortable so they can use their feed to best advantage. Each 100 layers should have about 20 to 24 feet of hopper space. A one-inch lip in the hoppers will keep the birds from billing feed out on the ground.

Next time you order feed, ask your Southern States Cooperative Service Agency for some All Mash Ration. This mash is fortified with vitamins and high protein ingredients—and makes your regular Southern States feeds go farther. All Mash Ration is equivalent in feeding value to a mixture of equal parts of Super Laying Mash and coarse scratch. You don't need to feed any grain when you feed All Mash Ration.

If you need new feeders, talk over your needs with your local Southern States Service Agency. If anyone can get them for you, he will.

IT'S A FACT!

that the layers on the farms of Southern States patrons laid enough eggs last year to supply every man, woman and child in Baltimore, Richmond, Wilmington, Wheeling and Washington with an egg for breakfast every morning for a year.

Para-Ski Troopers

When will this war end? Nobody knows, so the Army is continuing its training of Para-Ski Troopers. They're parachute troops who know their way about on skis or any other place in snow covered mountainous country.

A great measure of the success of Russia's victories last winter is attributed to these troops who move with the silence of a snowflake. Our work on the home front is not so hazardous as that of the Para-Ski Troopers but it is important that we purchase our daily needs and make every effort to increase our regular purchase of War Bonds.

Don't Mother! Just a few lines to let you know I am well and getting along fine. I am not here now even when I am home now. I think we are all loved now to let you know we are all well. We were just home from Fort Dix, N. J., and we were just home from the States. We left there the 11th of October and boarded the ship that night for Paris. The first half of the trip was along fine but when I started to eat supper my stomach turned over and for the next five days I was about everything. I am now back up. We must have crossed the ocean about three times as long as we were on the water. We went through the Strait of Gibraltar on Christmas Eve and spent Christmas Day on the Mediterranean Sea. We had a slight Christmas though for there were big mountains running along the coast and the land of them were covered with snow. We could see the snow from the ship but I can't see it now. I am now in the States and I am just a few days from home.

Oven hunting season begins on Saturday October 9, for squirrel, grouse and turkey.

The open season for squirrels is from October 9 to November 31, both dates inclusive. The bag limits are six a day and twenty-four a season. This includes gray, black and fox squirrels. Red squirrels do not count.

Ruffed grouse—native pheasant—the open season is from October 9 to December 31, both dates inclusive. The limits are three a day, twelve a season.

Wild turkey, October 9 to November 27; one a day; one a season. Report of kill to Conservation Director is required within twenty days after close of season.

Quail, November 11 to January 10; eight a day, 35 a season. Cottontail Rabbit, November 11 to January 15, six a day, forty a season.

Raccoon, opossum, skunk and muskrat, November 11 to January 30. Two coons a day, ten a season. No bag limits on skunk, opossum and muskrat.

Deer, six days, November 29 December 4, inclusive. One buck with at least one antler branched a day; one a season. Kill must be reported to Conservation Director.

There will be controlled shooting in Seneca State Forest for deer, ruffed grouse, rabbits and gray squirrel.

Down in the quail counties there is considerable dissatisfaction with the extended open season of sixty-three days. I would not be surprised if the Commission did not cut off the two weeks in January when they meet next week.

The extending of the grouse season to January 31 is plenty long—almost ninety days. Admitting that probably only ten percent fatalities of the grouse hatch is chargeable to gunners, and that there is something to this waxing and waning cycle of seven years as regards grouse, I have serious doubts as to the wisdom of an open season of three months with the present supply in sight.

The deer hunting area in Pocahontas County is the same as usual. The usual areas like Wagon, Park, the game refuge at the head of the Greenbrier and Cranberry, and a certain area of the Gauley District of the National Forest are closed as usual. In their public notice the Conservation Commission listed in one paragraph all the counties which were open all over. That caused some confusion here because Pocahontas was not one of these.

The usual supply of squirrels and maybe more as they migrate here to eat the oak mast. Good hickory crop on lower grounds, but hick is a failure.

The chance for grouse seems better than for a number of years past. The turkeys appear to be coming well too. The usual increase and more in the deer herds.

As for bears, I was over on Cranberry, recently. They certainly have been giving the black haws a beating down. The best guess is these bears will be moving into the ridges east of the Greenbrier River and on to the Alleghenies to eat the plentiful crop of oak mast.

As for ammunition, I have a dozen or so rifle loads, and just three shells. My farmer friends just cleaned me down to the bone yesterday, borrowing shells to shoot crows and black birds out of their corn. I kept a half dozen to protect the home garden from rabbits. Then the town police requisitioned a couple of these to kill a couple of homeless dogs. There is provision whereby a farmer can get shells to protect his crop. While I am a farmer, could not qualify for ammunition for this was one year the big flight of black birds missed my corn patch entirely.

However, the promise is out there will be an allotment of ammunition to dealers for hunters between the first and the middle of October. The dealer I talked with said an allotment of ten rifle loads and a box of shot gun shells would be the portion of each customer. And that is fair enough, says I, at least until I run out of shot gun shells.

I do hear of a black market on ammunition, but I have not connected up with it yet.

From this time on through the month of November, I am never surprised to hear reports of panthers being heard or seen moving out from the Black Forest to the South of the main Alleghenies. Well, the reports have begun to come in.

As a farm home above Arbovale and over the last week the lady of the house heard the unmistakable screams of a panther.

Her husband told me that he doubts about the matter until he went out to hear and he was convinced. Just then the mother and the panther came down to him from the hill pasture, where the panther was running by. The argument was traveling from Cheat toward the Alleghenies.

During the recent Virginia squirrel season Bartholomew, of Frost, now of the United States Navy, saw a big panther and heard another on Townsend Draft. His uncle, Herbert Mace, of Fairfield, Rockbridge County, Virginia, had come with his son Keith to hunt squirrels. They had been directed to a salt place on Crooked Ridge Road as good squirrel territory. As they approached a herd of deer was jumped out and scattered. Around the salt place the bushes grow thick. From this thicket came the hair raising screams of a panther. They could see the bushes shaking. By stooping low and looking under the brush Bartholomew could see the long, rangy body of the panther, with its maddly brown coat only a dozen steps away. The only trouble about this was his uncle had the gun, and he could not get his eyes on the varmint as it moved away under the heavy cover. Every little bit this panther would scream until it went out of hearing. On the opposite mountain side it was answered three times by another panther.

Since that time the night watchman at the mill at the mouth of Townsend Draft has heard a panther scream on Big Side Mountain opposite the mill.

This is October—the month the cock grouse goes crazy. On Friday morning, October 1, a big cock grouse killed himself, flying into a window of the Marlinton high school building. The big pane of glass was pulverized and bird never knew what he hit. Lanty Hoggett and Odie Clarkson were standing near.

Harry King caught a small mouth black bass twenty-one and a half inches long, four and a half pounds in weight, last Saturday in the Greenbrier near the mouth of Beaver Creek. For five years hand running Mr. King caught two and a half pound bass in this pool; this year he did better.

Mr and Mrs Dale Adkison the other day at Renick caught five bass which weighed fourteen pounds. The large one was a big mouth twenty-one and a half inches long, weighing four and three-fourths pounds. This one fell to the rod of Mrs Adkison. Two others were small mouth, weighing three pounds each.

Editor Monroe Watchman: I read with much interest in your column headed "Field Notes" in the issue of September 9 in regard to the Coffee Tree. Mr Price of the Pocahontas Times referred to a coffee tree being in the Monongahela National National Forest. I wish to say you can see a coffee tree just outside of Monroe county. I have one of these trees on my farm at the mouth of Second Creek, Greenbrier county. This tree is 3.1-9 feet in diameter and is very tall. It has pods or beans about three or four inches long. The bean resembles

New Zealand Is Geared for War

Entire Male Population of Country Up to Age 65 Lined for Service

WELLINGTON, N. Z.—New Zealand, in the fourth year of the world-changing conflict, is a state organized almost entirely for war.

The army has called up and mobilized the whole male population up to age 45. All workers up to the age of 65 are covered by labor decrees and may be held in their present jobs if these are deemed important or drafted to other tasks of greater moment to the nation.

War industry, within the limits of New Zealand possibilities, has been greatly stepped up. This country is now making light tanks for its own use, supplying large quantities of fuses for anti-aircraft shells under a plan which was intended to link Australia, New Zealand, India and South Africa in a munitions production line, building ships of various types for employment in the Pacific operations.

Mobilizing for Defense

Earlier in the South Pacific struggle, when New Zealand did not know just how much aid she could expect, a large army was mobilized to defend these shores against possible Japanese invasion under a plan to sever the eastern sea lane to Australia. The improved Pacific situation and the fact that many men may now be rated as trained soldiers has enabled the army to let some of the reservists go back into the production line.

But these things could be had only at a price in the industrial field. Not only luxury trades but industries of first importance have been forced nearly to shut-down level. The building industry, long maintained because of the shortage of homes, is barely moving.

Transport has also been throttled down to necessity level and the many foreign traders who used to thrive on the spending of a community always well supplied with cash have had to find other jobs. What comes into New Zealand now is what is needed to help win the war.

The change in the whole national setup was apparent last Christmas, when stores closed over Christmas and New Year's because the strain on their stocks had made it not worth while for them to stay open.

What They Can Do Without

For the New Zealander the war has been a revelation in what he can do without. With his gasoline ration cut to a mere dribble, tires unobtainable for pleasure motoring, with newspapers refusing new subscribers and even cutting off their lists those who go away for vacations, with telephones so short that he is unable to get one when he moves house, luxury foods vanished out of the shops and tea and candy available in small supplies, with even such things as vegetables scarce in places and at high prices, the native inhabitant has found that he can still live a comfortable life.

In any event the New Zealander has tailored his life to helping the war drive. The men left now are mostly in essential industry or are over age even for industrial mobilization, which reaches up to 65. They frequently toil long hours and on top of this have some home defense job.

Women, besides running family homes, knit and sew, staff soldiers' clubs, pack prisoners' parcels, drive autos for civil defense units and belong to various auxiliary outfits with the fighting forces. Today they have a new task: they must help entertain American boys who are eager for home life and quickly responsive to what they get of it.

Americans, looking over the New Zealand scene, never fail to wonder at the things New Zealanders can do when so many of their men have been mobilized.

WAR BONDS

In this war our wounded fighting men have a greater chance for recovery than in any previous conflict because of the medical aid and services that have been developed by the War and Navy Departments.

One of these aids is the Hospital Transport Plane service that has been bringing our wounded back from Africa.

Your increased and continued purchase of War Bonds is required to help the Treasury Department finance this hospital transport service. "Back the attack with War Bonds."

Dear Mr. Price: I am writing you from the States. I am writing you from the States. I am writing you from the States.

September 4, 1943. Hello Sir: Just a line to let you know I am O. K. Have just completed moving again. My new A.P.D. number is 22-Unit C. I cannot tell you where I am at present but maybe I will be able to tell you later. I can tell you something about our surroundings. At the present time I am sitting in my tent in the middle of the jungle and of all the noises one can hear at night.

Yesterday morning there was a monkey in the top of a tree over my tent. I have been expecting to see an ape grab me out of bed some night. There are plenty of coconuts and bananas here.

The natives are about 4-5 feet tall. They can speak our language fairly well. I asked one of them yesterday if there were any apes or baboons here and he said "No, no, only monkeys."

If you think it ever gets hot back there you should be here. If you walk around a few minutes you are wet with sweat. How I would like to get my hands on a good cold Coca-Cola or I would even settle for a beer or even a tom collins or anything cold. If you can get me a camera and film and send them to me I will send you some pictures of this place.

I got two letters from Mary today. I have not heard from you for quite some time so how about taking time out and give me all the news.

I suppose Guy is getting ready to kill his quota of squirrels. I sure would like to be there to get him. It is a lot more fun hunting squirrels than Japs. I guess I had better say so long for this time. Write soon.

Love, Gay.

Dearest Ginger:

Your letters have been coming every day this week and sometimes two at a time. Sure hope you keep up the good work because it helps build up my morale.

We have been having air raids and they are too close for comfort. Pieces of shrapnel and planes have fallen close to some of the tents. The other morning I went to the morgue to see some of the casualties and it was really terrible. Just now we are be-

Southern States Farm Life

Now that the crops have been harvested the big job ahead is feeding and caring for the dairy herd during the long feeding season. Full cream soured cream butter and soured cream are the best for your dairy herd because they're fed and cared for in the best way. But any calf will grow better if you buy it from a good source. Look it up in the Yellow Pages and then look it up in the Southern States Farm Life. Let it lick the calf starter from your fingers while it's still wet with milk. With Southern States Dry Calf Starter you can save from $15 to $20 in raising a calf to 4 months of age. In addition to the money saving you receive from $50 to $1250 pounds of milk for human consumption.

It's good business to treat a dry cow just as you would a place of business. Build up her body with good roughage and low-protein Southern States Dry & Freshening Ration or 15% Quality Dairy. Feed her enough to get her on the fat side before she freshens. A cow that's up in weight at calving time will require less feed during her lactation.

If you have a full of good roughage, Southern States 15% Quality Dairy is an excellent feed for cows in milk or for young stock and dry cows. It's made from high quality ground grain, it contains some high protein ingredients and is fortified with vitamins and minerals. Ask your local Southern States Salesman for more details. Agents to include 15% Quality Dairy in your next order.

By L. L. STEVENSON

Original stuff alone in a downtown Broadway street, could considerable speculation among other businessmen because of inability to determine whether he was a Chinese or a Jap. A little girl, who was a man, evidently just father, sitting a little further back, was not at all interested in knowing whether he was a friend or enemy since her attention was centered on a brightly colored, toy balloon which she allowed to fly, here and there. Several times, her father, speaking in a low voice, warned her that she might be annoying those about her, but the child continued her play with a loud pop. The Oriental not only all but jumped out of his seat but glared at fellow passengers who laughed. And so there was a general opinion that he wasn't Chinese.

Doing His Bit: Michael Calabrese is a taxicab driver. His earnings average $25 a week with which he supports not only himself and his wife, Tessie but also his two sons, Peter, nine years old, and Joseph, two. Six months ago, a passenger gave him a $5 bill in mistake for a one. When Calabrese discovered the error, he couldn't find the passenger so he turned $4 over to the police. No claimants having appeared in the time set by law, he went to headquarters and was given the money. He didn't take it home, however. A young woman was collecting for the Red Cross and without hesitation, Calabrese thrust the $4 into the box. He admitted to police officers he could have used the money, but to give it to the Red Cross seemed "the right thing to do."

Repatriate: Another Broadway trolley incident concerns a very fussy woman in a hurry to get to her destination. The car, proceeding along in the morning downtown rush, seemed to make just about the average speed which isn't fast or steady, but taking everything into consideration, is about the best that can be accomplished. The woman, instead of sitting quietly, kept picking at the motorman and finally, just before getting off at Fifty-ninth street to take a cross-town car, accused him of deliberately making her late to work.

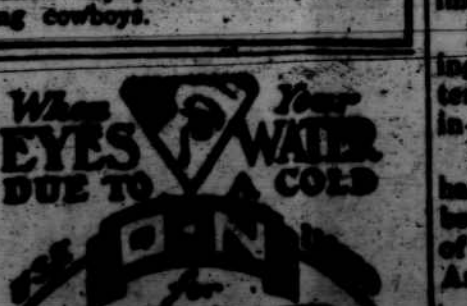

"I'm sorry, madam," returned the man at the control, "I can't do anything about it today, but if you come back tomorrow morning, I'll put wings on the car."

Differed: New York's first "black-out marriage" took place in the Venetian lounge of the Hotel Forrest. Blackout curtains were installed and all lights were dimmed while air raid sirens were simulated by turning the radio on full blast. It seems that the novel ceremony was merely a whim of the bride, and the Hotel Forrest had been selected because the lives in Forest Hills. But there were no further revelations to identity of bride, bridegroom and wedding guests so possibly it wasn't merely a publicity stunt.

Faith Restored: Lottie Lehmann, soprano, was selling defense stamps in one of New York's large department stores recently and in the crowd was a small, meek-looking woman who waited her turn to make a purchase very impatiently. When she reached the table, her face flushed with excitement and she burst out, "Oh, Madame Lehmann, I'm so glad I heard your last concert—it was such a worth-while experience." She paused a moment, then went on, "You know, I was beginning to get worried about you. Your concert before was such a disappointment—but your last one restored my faith in you." And that is Madame Lehmann's current favorite story about herself.

Called: Police of Manhattan, L. I. rushed to a house in which neighbors the other afternoon heard sounds of a gun fight and struggle. The officers strained their way in and, to their amazement, found, instead of a raging battle, merely a peaceful family scene. It seems that Jay Jorgin and his wife had been listening to a recording of the radio program in which Jorgin plays the title role and the neighbors had mistaken the canned revolver fire for the real thing. Master Shepherds Project Plans have been underway for several years to set up a special sheep program in Pocahontas County. This program, to eventually grow into a demonstration sheep program for the entire State to follow. These plans are beginning to crystallize and a definite program has been set up by a committee, composed of J. A. Gendrick, Hevener Dilley, Emerson Newman, Moffett Williams and Calvin W. Price. Some of the high lights of the program are:

PURPOSE—To stimulate greater interest and wider participation in the better sheep production practices so that producers might make more money from the sheep industry.

1. Contest year begins two weeks prior to breeding date and closes when lambs are marketed.

2. Entry blank should be filled out prior to breeding date and filed with County Agent.

3. The flock must contain a minimum of fifteen breeding ewes, yearlings or over, when bred. All ewes in the flock must be entered and figured in the production record of wool and lambs per ewe.

4. All lambs must be docked, and all ram lambs castrated, preferably when 10 days to 3 weeks old.

5. A complete report of the sales of wool and lambs must be made a part of the records, to be filed with the County Agent for this contest.

6. The sheep growers of the County will be divided into three groups according to the number of ewes in flock, as follows:

Group 1—15 to 40 ewes
Group 2—40 to 80 ewes
Group 3—80 ewes or more

The first place winner in each group will be awarded $25 cash, with suitable awards for other placings in each group.

RECORDS—Each contestant will be required to furnish the following information:

1. Total weight of wool produced from ewes bred, number of fleeces, average weight per fleece, grade and price received.

Master Shepherds Project Plans have been underway for several years to set up a special sheep program in Pocahontas County. This program, to eventually grow into a demonstration sheep program for the entire State to follow. These plans are beginning to crystallize and a definite program has been set up by a committee, composed of J. A. Gendrick, Hevener Dilley, Emerson Newman, Moffett Williams and Calvin W. Price. Some of the high lights of the program are:

PURPOSE—To stimulate greater interest and wider participation in the better sheep production practices so that producers might make more money from the sheep industry.

1. Contest year begins two weeks prior to breeding date and closes when lambs are marketed.

2. Entry blank should be filled out prior to breeding date and filed with County Agent.

3. The flock must contain a minimum of fifteen breeding ewes, yearlings or over, when bred. All ewes in the flock must be entered and figured in the production record of wool and lambs per ewe.

4. All lambs must be docked, and all ram lambs castrated, preferably when 10 days to 3 weeks old.

5. A complete report of the sales of wool and lambs must be made a part of the records, to be filed with the County Agent for this contest.

6. The sheep growers of the County will be divided into three groups according to the number of ewes in flock, as follows:

Group 1—15 to 40 ewes
Group 2—40 to 80 ewes
Group 3—80 ewes or more

The first place winner in each group will be awarded $25 cash, with suitable awards for other placings in each group.

RECORDS—Each contestant will be required to furnish the following information:

Melvin Wooddell lives on his farm near Edray. His helper is his brother Arch, just graduated from high school. The machinery outfit of tractor, plow, harrows, thrasher, binder, trailer, drill, mower, etc., is a bit heavy for size of the farm. So the needs of neighbors is taken care of on a mutually profitable basis. From April 1 to June 4, these Wooddell Brothers disced 129 and plowed 64 acres. From June 22 to July 29, they cut 160 acres of small grain. From July 12 to September 22 they threshed 129 crops. For fall seeding from September 17 to 29, they disced 73 acres. This was all in addition to cultivating their home farm with its crops of corn, hay, grain, potatoes, garden and what not. Looks to me like it has been a busy summer for these Wooddell Brothers.

This one comes from the Huntersville District. It may be old to you, but it is new to me. It sounds like a moving picture fantasy. Some weeks ago a citizen of the county was looking up his sheep and checking up on game prospects in the Beaver Lick Mountain. He sat down on a high cliff, to rest, eat a bite and look the country over. There was a well defined game trail at the foot of the cliff. Some thing attracted the man's attention. Two large wild cats were seen approaching from opposite direction, to meet immediately below the interested onlooker. As the varmints met, they reared up for a fight, and mixed it with each other. The smaller one climbed up the larger one as far as he could go, and then the larger one climbed up the smaller one as far as he could go, and so on up and up until they disappeared from sight in a low hanging cloud. However, for an hour afterwards, cat hair came settling gently down.

O. D. McKeever, of Columbus, Ohio, writes that he read the note in editorial column on profanity in a recent issue. He said it made him think of something which happened during the Spanish-American War. Captain Phillips was a very religious man, and on board ship he often took over the worship hour. One day a gunner got a shell stuck in a gun. He worked and sweat in the hot sun to get it out but made no headway. Captain Phillips watched him and saw he was not much skilled at his work. He stepped up and told him to stand aside; he would take the shell out. He worked for about twenty minutes, until he was all in a lather. Then he sent for Bill, the most notorious cussier in the Navy. Bill seldom ever used the same cuss word twice; he invented his own. Cap. told him to take the shell out. He went to work; he tried all his skill. Finally sopping wet with sweat he stepped back and told the gun a few things in new cussing that had never been heard before on deck. Then he walked over to Captain Phillips and said "I cannot get it out." The Captain said, "I knew you could not get it out, but but I wanted you just then to do what I could not do; you did a good job!"

To circumvent the black market and chiselers generally, persons who intend to slaughter meat this fall must have a permit - if 1. they are farmer and intend to sell some of the meat; butchered; if 2. they live on less than three acres of land.

These permits are secured on application to the War Meat Committee of which Wilbur Moore is chairman. His address is Marlinton.

In this paper is published the simple form of application. If you will clip it out and mail it to Wilbur Moore, chairman, War Meat Committee, Marlinton, W. Va., your permit will be forthcoming.

Farmers are those who live on three or more acres of land. These do not require a slaughter permit unless they expect to sell some of the meat.

All persons living on tracts of less than three acres must have slaughter permits to butcher any animal.

No permit is necessary for sale of live animals. However, a record of the date of sale and name purchaser should be kept by the seller.

"Naturally, I don't know when the war 'll end..."

"The sooner the better, is all I can say. But I know that until it ends, you and I have a duty to your car that gets more important every day..."

"EVERY CAR that still runs is an essential cog in the country's whole transportation scheme. As the older cars quit, the ones still left get more and more essential."

"I'm not making scare-talk when I say that even standing in a garage most of the time, your car gets run down. Metals corrode. Oil gets dirty and sludgy. Grease dries out. The battery runs down. Spark plugs get fouled up. Radiator hose connections go bad. Tires get soft, so the sidewalls bend and crack."

"In these times, it's a crime to let this happen. Because you don't have to! Almost anyone's car can see him through, if he'll give it a chance."

"We're still here with everything it takes to help protect your car, whatever make it is. You find us short-handed sometimes, but we're long on experience and good equipment and reliable Esso products. "However little you drive, you need winter oil and a winter grease job. Your battery fit and strong."

Your radiator tight and ready with anti-freeze. Your tires checked over, maybe switched around to get the most out of them. This is mighty important right now—to keep your car in service for the duration. Come on in. Right this week. Winter's getting close!"

Dear Mr. Price:
I sent Grandmother at Charleston one of my pictures. I sent home. How is everything at home? O. K. I hope. They must be having a time getting school teachers this year, aren't they?
I heard Kenny Haines has to go to the Army.
Well, I will be closing now. I guess it is about time for the lights to go out. Do not worry about me for I am just as well here in the Army as I would be at home. Tell everyone hello for me.
Your son, Jerry.

A SOLDIER'S PRAYER
Dear God, watch over her for me. That she may safely guarded be. Help her each lonely hour to bear As I would, Lord, if I were there. When she is sleeping, watch her then, That fear may not her dreams offend. Be ever near her through the day, Let none but the good come her way.
Sweet, faithful wife who waits for me Beyond a wide and spacious sea— Be merciful, Oh, God, I pray, Take care of her while I'm away.
James (Curley) Wamsley, of the United States Army, stationed in Sicily, writes to his wife as follows:
September 19, 1943.
Dearest Della:
While I have some time I thought I would write to you again. I sure hope you are well. I am well and getting along fine now. I am sending you one of my pictures. It does not look much like me but it is. I have lost a lot of weight but that is caused by having the fever. I feel fine now so please do not worry. Tell all my friends hello for me. I sure would like to see every one back home. I am trusting in God we can all be back home soon.
I sure would like to be there to go hunting this year but guess I cannot be. You tell Marvin he will have to hunt in my place and I sure will make up for it when I do get back. I am sending all my money home to you as I do not need it here. You do as you wish with it.
Well, as it is almost bed time I will have to close for this time. Please say well and try not to worry. Write me real soon.
Lots of love, James.

Mrs. Willis Cassell sends in this letter from her son, Jerry, who is in the Service:
Dear Mom:
It has been raining here for the last four days and things are really in a mess. Water is standing around everywhere and mud is almost knee deep. Maybe it is the end of the hot weather, for it has cooled off quite a lot now. Outside of that everything is going along pretty good. I have seven more days of school in the hangar and then right in the woods. The woods is better known as Guadecanal. It is only a field test. I do not know where I will be sent after that; either to a factory or gunnery school.

I sent Grandmother at Charleston one of my pictures. I sent home. How is everything at home? O. K. I hope. They must be having a time getting school teachers this year, aren't they?
I heard Kenny Haines has to go to the Army.
Well, I will be closing now. I guess it is about time for the lights to go out. Do not worry about me for I am just as well here in the Army as I would be at home. Tell everyone hello for me.
Your son, Jerry.

The following letter is from Kenton Chestnut, Jr., of the United States Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kent Chestnut, of Frost. He has left the States so is impossible for us to print his new address:
Friday night, Sept. 24, 1943.
Hello Everyone: I just got back from the show and I just have to write you folks a letter. The name of the show was, "So Proudly We Hail." It was a good show and it made me realize what we are fighting for. We are fighting for you folks at home. We are fighting to keep the Germans and Japs from coming over here and bombing this country to pieces. Mom, it is awful the way the Japs bomb the people. They do not stop for anything. They bomb hospitals as quick as they do any other place. The nurses are doing a grand job too. They are risking their lives for you as well as we soon will be doing. We are on a draft now. We will soon be shoving out of this place. We are not allowed any more liberties. I do not know where we will go.
Mom, I am not afraid to go out and fight for the rights and freedoms in which we believe. We have got to subdue the Axis countries so we can live a peaceful life. I sure do feel for the people in the countries that are being bombed. You all keep your chins up and try to realize what we are fighting for. Mom, don't only pray for me but pray for us all for we sure will need your prayers. Mom, you keep on writing me here, Mom, for I will get it wherever I go. I will send you my new address when I get it. Well, so long for this time. Excuse the writing. Write real soon and often.
Your loving son, "Juco."

September 22, 1943.
Hello Mr. Price:
How is good old West Virginia treating you? I sure miss all my friends back home.
Would you be kind enough to change my address from Jefferson Barracks, Missouri to my address here in New York?
I have a piece of rhyme enclosed in this letter. I hope that it reaches you.
Trusting that you will forward the Times on to my new address for it is sure a comfort to one's hungry mind. Tell my wife and children hello for me.
I am very truly yours,
P.F.C. Loran S. Jordan.
"MY WIFE'S PRAYER"
God, Father of Freedom, look after that I shall be glad when ever to say to you. Walk in upon him during the silent watches of the night, and ever him to turn away from the cruel fate. Transfer my prayer to his heart.

Keep my husband inspired by the never dying faith in his God. Throughout all the long days of a hospital victory, wherever his duty takes him; keep his spirit high and his purpose unwavering. Make him a loyal friend. Satisfy the hunger of his soul with the knowledge of my daily prayer.
He is my husband, and my children's father. Take care of him, God. Keep him in health and sustain him under every possible circumstance. Touch him with my smile of cheer and comfort, and my full confidence in his every brave pursuit.
Fail him not—and may he not fail you, his country, nor his wife and children.
P.F.C. Loran S. Jordan.

Mrs. Preston Galford received the following letter from her brother, Private L. Pusey, who is somewhere in Egypt:
Wednesday, Sept. 22, 1943.
Dear Shirley and all:
I received your letter and was really glad to get it for as you know every little bit helps. Also the pictures, they were really swell. I am in the best of health and I sure have put on weight over here, about 15 pounds so far. I weighed 148 pounds when I took my examination on January 3 and now I weigh 163. Boy, I wish I was back in the States for as I am really tired of this Middle East. You cannot understand any one but the Americans so you can see what you can do here. There are all kinds of nationalities here: French, Greek, Egyptian, Arabian, and many other kind and no one talks the same.

I was out on a night riding tour yesterday and went to the Zoo. I guess they have everything there that walks, hops, crawls and swims. They really have a swell zoo. I took several pictures and will send you some when I get them back. I also visited the Pyramids. They are really a sight to look at and the Sphinx. I never thought I would see it, or at least be close enough to touch it. It looks just like the picture except its nose is knocked off. Otherwise it is just the same.
And you would wonder how these people got so many big rocks to build the pyramids without machinery. The largest pyramid is 451 feet high and covers over an acre of ground. They also had to bring the rocks about three miles across the river in barges. It took fifteen hundred slaves thirty years to build it. The king was supposed to be buried in it, but they threw his body into the sea instead. But anyway it is really something to see. I also saw a tomb with the remains of a Prince, and several other things too numerous to mention. Anyway, I will send you the pictures, if they come out good.
I guess this is all for now but

Southern States Farm Life

NOW that the crops have been harvested the big job ahead is feeding and caring for the dairy herd during the busy feeding season.
Fall calves usually grow best for them spring calves because they're fed and cared for in the barn all winter. But any calf will grow better if you baby it to the end of the year. Teach it to drink from a pail and then teach it to eat Southern States Calf Starter. Let it lick the Calf Starter from your fingers while its mouth is still wet with milk. With Southern States Dry Calf Starter you can save from $15 to $30 in raising a calf to 4 months of age. In addition to the money saving you release from $50 to $125 pounds of milk for human consumption.

It's good business to treat a dry cow just as you would a piece of fine machinery. Build up her body with good roughage and low-protein Southern States Dry & Freshening Ration or 12% Quality Dairy. Feed her enough to get her on the fat side before she freshens. A cow that's up in weight at calving time will require less high protein feed during her next lactation.

If your barn is full of good roughage, Southern States 12% Quality Dairy is an excellent feed for cows in milk or for your young stock and dry cows. Built mainly from high quality ground grain, it contains some high protein ingredients and is fortified with minerals and vitamins. Ask your local Southern States Cooperative Service Agency to include 12% Quality Dairy in your next order.

IT'S A FACT! that the cows on the farms of Southern States patrons produced enough milk last year to provide every man in the United States around dinner with a glass of milk every day in the year.

Salute To Wood

The U. S. Army's "Salute to Wood" caravan, which has already toured ten southeastern states and has been seen by thousands of persons, has extended its itinerary for two weeks to include stops in West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Western North Carolina. The caravan, which is designed to emphasize the vital needs for pulpwood, lumber and other products, made its first stop in this state on Tuesday at Marlinton.

The War Department organized the caravan to show the wood cutters of this area the importance of the production of pulpwood and other forest products to the war effort. This traveling exhibition is tied in with the Victory Pulpwood Campaign which this newspaper is supporting.

The caravan comprises 350 infantry troops, small artillery and battle equipment, jeeps and other combat vehicles. War heroes, just released from hospitals, will be on hand to tell how important pulpwood and other forest products are to the men fighting on the battlefronts. Captain Hale Nelson, U. S. A., is in charge of the caravan, succeeding Captain John Edwards, who conducted the caravan through southeast.

Under-Secretary of War, Robert T. Patterson, in announcing the objectives of the caravan, said it was designed to stimulate the production of pulpwood and lumber and overcome the threatened shortages which otherwise will hamper the progress of the Allied fighting forces.

Shortages of 2,500,000 cords of pulpwood and six billion board feet in lumber now threaten the war effort.

The War Department realizes the magnitude of our actual impending operations cannot be maintained without more adequate supplies of forest products. More supplies must come from all parts of the country, with particular reference to the South at this time.

The basic economy of the country, of course, must be maintained, at least at its minimum requirements, and overall increases in production are imperative.

The South produces normally about 40 percent of the domestic output of pulp and lumber.

A variety of exhibits showing how pulpwood and other forest products are helping to win the war form a large part of the caravan. These exhibits, on trucks, include: the new jetison paper-board gas tank made for war planes; life rafts made of rubber skin and toboggan sleds; supply and flare parachutes made of paper and rayon; smokeless powder made of pulpwood; walkie-talkie radios; water-tight paper board containers used to transport ammunition, food and other supplies; a Higgins landing boat and assault boats; a ten foot section of a pontoon bridge; a laminar aircraft propeller blade and charcoal.

Army equipment in the caravan includes amphibious and land jeeps, scout cars, flame throwers, anti-aircraft searchlights, Very (flare) pistols, anti-aircraft machine guns, 37 mm. tank guns, sealed machine guns and fixed mounts, bazooka guns and other weapons.

Six War heroes, fresh from the battlefields and just released from hospitals, participate in the nightly shows. Four of these are from the Army, one from the Marine Corps and one from the Navy.

While unable to reach all the pulpwood and lumber producing areas of the Southeast, the Army selected the 38 stops with the aim of reaching the centers of some of the most productive areas. The caravan draws spectators, however, for miles around.

The caravan was worked up with the assistance of U. S. Forest Service, the War Production Board, the War Man Power Commission, the War Activities Committee of the Pulpwood Consuming Industries, the Southern Pine Association War Committee, the Southern Hardwood Industry's

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Galford and son, and Mrs. Wilfred Smith, all of Meadville, Pennsylvania, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Galford and other friends at Greenbank.

Mrs. Myrtle Faulkner returned on Monday from a week's visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Reed, and her little granddaughter, Myrtle Carol, at Meadow Bluff.

Pocahontas Times

MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA, OCTOBER 21, 1943

$1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

TO THE CITIZENS OF POCAHONTAS COUNTY—

You are aware that we are in a War Fund drive to raise $2,500, to be distributed through the associated charities for the comfort of armed forces, both at home and in the war zones; refugees of our allied nations, along with help to our boys held by the enemy; and many other worthy causes.

We have around 1,300 men and women from our County, fighting to defend our liberty and democracy that we can live happy at home.

Now, let's get personal. Ask yourself the question, What have I done? If you have not contributed liberally, see some worker in your community and give him a donation. If you have contributed and feel that is not enough, give again. When we read and hear of our boys being wounded and killed, what is it all about?—FOR US!

Our County papers are going all over the world to our armed forces, and they see who is helping them. Come on, folks of Pocahontas County, let's not sell our men and women short.

Every individual, and every lodge, club and civic organization in Pocahontas should make some worthwhile contribution to this Fund.

Very sincerely,

HARPER M. SMITH, Chairman

Pocahontas County War Fund Committee.

Richwood Road Is Closed

There seems to be a great deal of misunderstanding about the Millpoint-Richwood road. Quite a few local people seem of the opinion that the road is open and strangers are often informed that it is and have been inconvenienced by trying to get through. This road has never been opened to the public and it is in no condition for public travel. The stone base is now being put down which makes it impossible to permit traffic over it. The road is closed by locked gates and any trespassers within the closed area will be prosecuted.

I would appreciate it if you would publish a statement to this effect in your paper. It would be a benefit to the people of our community to know that this road is not open and will not be any time this year.

Yours truly,

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR

THURSDAY, OCT. 21, 1943

A few years ago, Theodore Moore was keeping the fish hatchery over at Petersburg. In the woods he noticed a running vine which was new to him. He brought one plant home; it prospered. However none of us had ever seen it and did not know what to look up in the book. Harry Sturm of Clarksburg checked up on it, and found it to belong to the Crowfoot family, Virginia's Bower (clematis) division. The popular name is Leather Flower; clematis viora. It is found in rich soil from Pennsylvania to Missouri and southward. I expect we are just a little above its altitude, to be found growing wild, but it certainly has done well over at the home of Mr. Moore.

Some days since Bert Smith, the lumberman, brought in branches of a shrub with pods and seed of striking beauty. I checked leaves and stems and bark and said bittersweet, though I had to admit I had never seen pods so deeply scarlet nor berries so red. I hit my feet up the street for the office of Forest Ranger Gordon Mirk. He had only seen what I had seen, but Mr. McClelland, of the Elkins Forest office, checked it right off as Burning Bush. He had seen it in New York State often and knew the book name Evonymus atropurpureus. Look it up in the book as belonging to the staff tree family. That evonymus is spindle tree division. Besides the descriptive name of burning bush, it is also known as wahoo. Any way, the burning bush is a most striking ornamental shrub in the autumn woods, its copious crimson fruit drooping on long flower stalks; the large fruit pods being dark crimson. Its home is from New York to Wisconsin and south.

Belonging to the same relationship is the shrubby bittersweet, locally known as the climbing bittersweet or waxwork. The coloring of the orange colored pods and red covering of the seeds are not so brilliant as the burning bush, but very ornamental nevertheless.

In moving around in the book a looking up bittersweet, you are looking for a tree which is a most shade loving climber. This is the bittersweet found around many old buildings. It is poison. It is naturalized from Europe.

Talking about wild flowers, it was my treat last week to see the motion pictures in color of wild flowers of the Alleghenies by Harry P. Sturm of Clarksburg. Two years ago he turned his attention to color photography and the study of wild flowers. How busy he became and how fruitful have been his studies. Neither a skilled photographer nor a trained botanist, Mr. Sturm, without knowing any better essayed the impossible, and how he got away with it.

This year Mr Sturm has laid out his studies of wild flowers according to families. For instance the lilies. He pictured the various lilies in their homes with natural surroundings and back grounds; giving particular attention to lights and shadows to bring out all shades of coloring and texture to best advantage. Then individual blossoms are pictured on greatly magnified scale.

I do not know how to describe the sensation caused by the great dash in the face of the huge volume of exhilarating reds from a greatly expanded Greys lily or grass pink orchid. It has the uplift to it all right.

The other night, as the pictures were unreeled before a mixed congregation of men, women and children, there would come breathless sighing gasps from artistic souls when floods of color would flow from the screen. Sometimes this involuntary response to beauty, would be prompted by a pea sized flower expanded to big cabbage head size.

An interesting matter to me is the fact that of all the general run of people, the average business man is more deeply stirred by the beauty of moving pictures of flowers than the average member of a woman's garden club.

Still writing about the out of doors, my friend, Ray Bird, who lives in that trough of the Alleghenies in which flows Big Back Creek, of Bath County, tells me there is certainly some sort of a big varmint stirring up the deer on the Allegheny and on Big Back Creek Mountain. In spite of the fact that the meat crop is high up this year, the deer are low down along the farms in the valley. This was the range of the wolf killed in Bath County three years ago. Mr. Bird figures another wolf I suppose it is a panther.

Last Wednesday morning, I got up in the summer home of the Honorable Charles B. Johnson of Clarksburg, over in that trough of the Alleghenies where flows the Big Back Creek. Mr. Johnson was preparing breakfast, and he was heard to remark that it was going to rain. The good old cook stove was not a drawing exactly right. The local expert took issue, as his own pet signs still held for dry weather. However, the next morning the six weeks dry spell had broken.

P. H. Arbogast, of Neola, sends in for identification a couple of nuts he found in the woods while hunting. The pod is pear shape, yellow, fleshy fruit, size of a large plum. The seed is a round nut, resembling a small hickory nut. The bush is about six feet high, with dark green bark. Squirrels had been eating the nuts.

I am sure this is a buffalo nut. It is also known as elk nut, oil nut, rabbit wood. Found in the rich mountains from Pennsylvania to Georgia. I have never seen it in Pocahontas County, but some buffalo nuts were sent me from Greenbrier County a few years ago. The book name is pyralaria pupera. It is little pyre from the pear shape of the fruit. It is a member of the mandal wood family. The book says the whole plant, including fruit, is imbued with acrid oil.

Baltimore, oh Baltimore, you moth eaten town, With brick row houses which should be torn down; Your winters are cold, your summers are hot; Your air is just awful with mill dew and rot; The place for bad colds, sore throat and flu, Stiff, aching joints and the pneumonia too. You're a blot on the landscape, the Nation's eye sore. Your people dull witted, and how they do bore. They make us pay double for all they can sell, So, after this war they can all go to, well. They do not speak English, just talk Baltimore; The steam of the Bay they call a sea breeze;

The place of hard bumpy ways and flights of white stairs, The rough riding street cars and of ten cent fares, Baltimore, Oh Baltimore, it is not all gray To be put on your door step by Army and Navy, The W. M. C. and the draft board too. Have frozen us down to be stuck with you. You are not worth this paper, nor worth this ink; Take it from me you're not what you think.

—Written by Stanford McClore, of Monteville, W. Va., who works in Baltimore.

Local county anti-tuberculosis associations are being sent $1,000,000 Tuberculosis Christmas Seals in anticipation of the 47th annual sale which is to commence on November 22. It was reported this week by the West Virginia Tuberculosis and Health Association. This is 2,000,000 more Christmas Seals than were utilized last year. It is hoped by the state and local associations that this additional number will help them realize the goal set for this year which is $82,000, the amount headed for continuing and expanding their program of tuberculosis control.

The tuberculosis associations, with the money raised from the sale of Christmas Seals, conduct throughout their territories diagnostic clinics, X-ray and tuberculin surveys, nursing service, health education activities, rehabilitation work and other efforts directed and extended if progress against the disease is to be made. Also, increased appropriations for hospitalizing the tuberculous and caring for their families will be needed, it is stated.

The Trunk of the Tree

FIRST there was just wilderness. Then some men came and cleared away the trees and the underbrush. Pretty soon they started to build a factory—way out to nowhere and gone.

The reason was simple—the land was cheap. Also, they knew they could depend on the railroad's laying a spur line over which they could bring in people and raw materials and ship out to market their finished product.

It wasn't long before a little cluster of houses sprang up for the workers. Roads appeared. An enterprising merchant arrived and opened a general store.

Soon a doctor came and a dentist. A garage went up. Then a drug store, a barber shop, a movie house.

And to the town grew. Nobody planned it that way. American initiative made it that way.

The town grew as opportunity grew. It grew like a tree—slowly, surely. And the trunk of the tree—the trunk through which the life sap flowed—was the railroad.

Every man who made his living in that town made it from goods that came in by the railroad, or that went out over its bright rails to markets beyond.

The men who built that town in the wilderness believe with all their hearts in free enterprise. But some of them may not appreciate the extent to which their continued economic freedom depends on freedom of the railroad.

The sirens of regimentation may fill us with the theory that it is all very well for private businesses to remain free, but that public carriers should be owned by the government.

But what would this mean in practical terms to every business man in the community we have described? It would mean that his dealings with the railroads would now be on a political instead of a business basis.

And would railroad service be improved? With bureaucrats in charge, and no more competition between lines? You can read the answer in any country in the world where railroads are government-controlled.

Before you listen to those who would "regiment" our railroads, consider whether our business structure could long remain half slave and half free.

And whether, if the axe is laid at the trunk, the whole tree would not suffer.

JOHN IS ONE of our most loyal men. He's been with us a long time... so long that his work, in the "underbelly" of the big generating plant that supplies Electricity for a wide section of northern and central West Virginia, is his life, his creed. Yes, he says he'd like to see an Army-Navy "E" pennant flying from the station, but he thinks Electricity's value to the war-winning effort is so well recognized and understood that it doesn't matter whether flags fly or not. More important to him and to hundreds of others of our workers is the fact that the power is flying, generating Electric Power 24 hours every day, and that there's plenty of it for all essential uses... and will continue to be if none is wasted.

Let's Work... and Conserve... for Victory!

MARLINTON POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA, OCTOBER 23, 1943

$1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Our Army and Navy Boys

Uncle Sam's Soldiers

On Monday, Elmer McLaughlin received word from the War Department that his daughter, Second Lieutenant Decima McLaughlin, a United States Army Nurse, had died on October 6, 1943, following an operation. She was serving in Sicily.

Washington—On Monday the War Department announced the names of eight West Virginians wounded in action while serving in the North African area, including Italy. Included in the list is P.F.C. Raymond G. Tracy, son of Mrs. Elsie Tracy, of Arbovale.

Private Lyle E. Tracey, of the Tank Destroyer Bn., stationed at Camp Cooke, California, returned to his home Monday after spending a short furlough with his mother, Mrs. Elsie E. Tracey, of Mace.

Edward A. Moore is home from the Army with an honorable discharge.

Corporal Roscoe Dilley stationed overseas writes to his father, Heverer Dilley as follows:

Dear Dad:
I am O. K. and getting along fine. I received your V-Mail letter a few days ago and sure am glad you are sending me the Pocahontas Times. It will seem more like home to read the County paper. I have not received it yet, but will be looking forward to it. Will write more later.

Mrs. Lawrence Alderman, of Van Etten, New York, sends us the following letter from her son, Grey who is stationed somewhere overseas with the U. S. Navy:

My dear Mother: I have arrived at my new base safely. I cannot tell you where I am though. I like it fine. It is a beautiful country and the days are hot but the nights are cool. I guess I will be home in a few months.

I want you to send me some pictures. Send me a picture of your self as that is what I want for Christmas. Also enclose a snapshot of Budge. How is Hilda getting along in school? Tell her to write. I won't be able to write very often but I want you all to write to me. Tell Aunt Hallie to write to me.

When we were issued our over sea luggage back in California we were each given a small bag containing many useful articles. They were donated to us by the Red Cross. In each bag was the name of the Red Cross member who donated it. I want you to write to her and thank her for me. I won't have time to write to her. Her address is Mrs. John Campbell, Overcoat Road, Orfordville, Indiana.

Well, I will have to close. Write soon and as often as you can. Do not worry about me.

With love, your son, Grey.

October 13, 1943.

Dear Mr. Price:

I have been getting the Times regularly since last December when I received a year's subscription as a gift. I must say I enjoy reading it very much; especially now as I have been on maneuvers in the Oregon desert since the 18th of July.

My home is on Droop Mountain. By reading the letters from the men in Service, I find that most of my old friends are scattered throughout the globe. If there is a small corner in your column for this, I would like it entered as a means of saying hello to them all and especially to my brother, Clifford, now serving Overseas.

Please send my copy of the Times to:

M-Sgt. Harold R. Brown, 6996311 Hq. & Hq. Detachment, 108th Med. Battalion (Sep) A.P.O. 304, Camp White, Oregon

October 15, 1943.

Dear Mr. Price: I will drop you a few lines to let you know my address again.

How is everything back in good old West Virginia by now? Fine I hope. We sure are having some hot weather but I guess we can take it.

How did hunting season come out back there this year? I suppose you have killed you a turkey by now. I sure would like to have been there to hunt a few days but I was doing something more important for our Country. Be sure and put some of those bear stories in the paper for I sure like to read them.

Well I will close for this time and give you my address so you can send me the paper. I wish you lots of luck. If anyone else wants my address give it to them for a letter sure helps things.

A subscriber, Jesse Arden Shinnberry, S-2 (We will be glad to give Arden's address to anyone calling for it but we are not permitted to print addresses outside of the States.)

Sergeant Clinton Hedrick, formerly of Boyer, has returned to the United States from service in North Africa. Volunteering in the United States Army in September, 1940 for service in the Panama Canal Zone, he was later transferred to an airborne division and sent abroad. At the expiration of his twenty day furlough he will be stationed at Maxton Field, North Carolina.

Elmer Wymer, of Hillsboro, has been promoted to Corporal. His present address is: Corporal Elmer Wymer, 35746549 420 Bomb Squadron (H) Army Air Base, Clovis, New Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Long send in the following letters from their sons, Ernest, who is in Hawaii, and Ralph, who is stationed in Sicily:

Hawaii, October 16, 1943.

Dear Mom, Dad and all:

Received your letters today. The mail seems to be a little better these days. I guess they have a lot of it as it is getting close to Christmas. Last year things were awful slow. I received Margaret's letter and I must get busy

Funerals

Miss Bertie Nancy Lester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lester, of Stony Bottom, became the bride of Clinton Henry Dean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dean, of Droop, on Thursday afternoon October 20, 1943 at 12:45 p. m. at the Methodist parsonage at Greenbank, Rev. Quade Arbogast, officiating minister. The bride was given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. Henry Lester.

A few close relatives and friends were present at the wedding, as follows: Mrs. Albert Dean, the bridegroom's mother, Mr. and Bob Sparks, sister and brother-in-law of the bride; Miss Anna S. Good, of Droop; W. K. Good, of Stanton, Va.; Mrs. Quincy Cutlip and Miss Bessie Cutlip of Dunmore.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Quincy Cutlip, consisting of the wedding party and Mrs. Samuel Sharp, Mrs. Leonard Dean and Valrie Ray, of Dunmore.

The young couple will reside with the bridegroom's parents on Droop.

and answer. We have been awful busy these days. You know cooking is quite a job. We have very good food but it is not like the good old fried chicken we had back home. You should see me mixed up in some of this stuff. I wish you could have some of my lemon pies. What I mean they are right on top. I was sorry to hear about Mrs. Fortunes being sick. Tell her to take care of her self.

Mom, I wish you would not go to any trouble sending me anything for Christmas. I do not need anything and I appreciate your letters more than anything else. Tell Margaret hello and tell Dad and Jay not to bag too many of those squirrels. Maybe next year I can be back. I sure hope so. Well, Mom, I will close for this time. Answer soon.

Lots of love, Ernest.

Sicily, October 7, 1943.

Dear Mom and Dad:

Received your letter today with the picture of Jerry in it and thanks a lot for it. The picture was well of him and very natural but he does not look as if he had grown much since I have seen him. Ask him if he still wants to come over here and get these Germans!

How is everyone at home by now? Are you still getting the allotment regularly?

Give everyone my best regards and tell Mrs. Fortunes she is not forgotten. I think of all my old friends a lot but just cannot find a lot of time to write.

When you do not hear from me do not worry. I will make it O. K.

Love, Your son, Ralph.

Business and Professional Women's Club

The Wide Awake Business and Professional Women's Club of Marlinton, has really been doing a lot toward the war effort, during Business Women's Club Week October 10 to 16. The National theme for that week was "Living on the Home Front." We checked upon our girls to see just what they were doing. We found that the most of them were working for the Red Cross, either sewing, knitting or making surgical dressings.

On October 12, when the Army Wood Caravan passed through here W. B. P. Club and Rotary Club sponsored a dance in the High School gym which was a huge success. The Club also sponsored the F. E. A. Ball.

In most of the stores you will find a box labeled "Japs with Junk Jewelry." This jewelry means a lot more to the boys than to us. The boys stationed in the South Pacific can trade this jewelry to the natives for food and materials with which to make chains and talismans etc. We must be needing our jewelry in any "Junk Jewelry" box today. Two members of the Club are now in the armed services: Miss Mary "Lib" Berry and Miss Genevieve Moore.

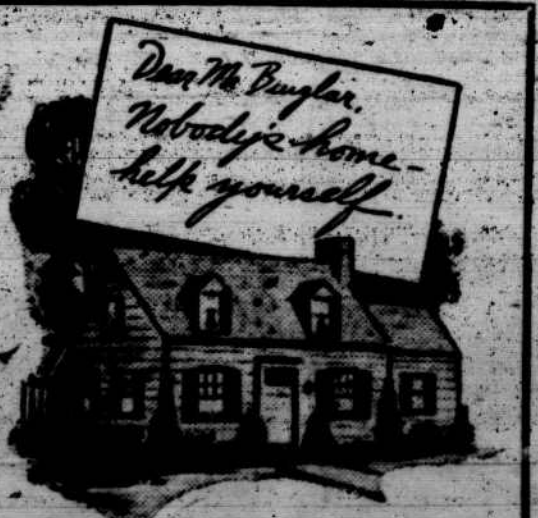

To all citizens the theme "Living on the Home Front" is of vital concern. We know that before our Country can win the war and the peace in the world, we must win it on the home front, in our country.

The Business and Professional Women's Club is struggling with problems here at home, under the leadership of Miss Edith May, our president; and Mrs. Mary W. White, our state president.

May success attend their efforts.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR

THURSDAY, OCT. 28, 1943

One day last week Clark Baxter, of the Marlinton Fish Hatchery, took a truck load of little trout over to the streams of Nicholas county. To help balance the load Mrs. Elmer Baxter and Mrs. Andrew Galford went along. They traveled by way of the Forest Road across Black Mountain and down Cranberry River, both going and coming. On the way back up Cranberry some where, a big black bear crossed the road in front of the truck, and paused on the bank to look back. Then a chunk of a cub came down the bank in the road, and started to outrun the truck. Clark's idea was to run the bear little by little down with the truck, but his mother's plea was to save the life of such an interesting creature.

Henry Galford was hunting turkeys on Gauley about the head of Tea Creek one day last week. He came upon a good sized black bear. He happened to have some buck shot shells in his coat pocket. Changing over from turkey shot to buckshot, the first charge crippled the bear so he could not get away. However, that bear required a lot of killing, for it took four more shots to put him out of business.

Lowell Grimes, of Akron, Ohio was not nearly so lucky with the big bear he walked upon while hunting turkeys over Black Mountain way. He saw the big bear walking along and then it raised up, looking as thick as a barrel. All the time Mr. Grimes was fidgeting around in his pockets trying to locate that pumpkin ball load he had carried along for just such a happening. Before he could find the heavy ball load the bear had ambled away in the forest.

Moody Kincaid, clerk of the County Court, had a bear experience on the first day of the squirrel and grouse law. He and Reuben Aldridge were hunting in the High Rocks country at the head of Stamping Creek. Moody went through a patch of briars, to root out some grouse. Instead of birds he jumped out a good big bear. To show he meant no harm, Mr. Kincaid shot at that bear with a charge of number five shot. If hit, the bear did not appear to mind. A little farther on Mr. Kincaid came on to that bear or another one of the same pattern. He took another shot. This time the bear shook his head and made off in the forest at a great rate. Ever since, Mr. Kincaid has not ventured out in the woods without pumpkin ball loads.

Frank Rider was down from the High Top of Alleghany Mountain one day last week, to get this paper sent to his son in the army. The neighbors on Meadow Creek staged a hunt for a big bear the other day. One shot drew blood, but the bear was able to get away.

Two weeks hand a running, my friend C. C. Riddle, on Williams River got himself a bear. One day he shot a medium sized bear on Tea Creek Mountain, opposite the Dead Water. Just a week later to the day a bigger bear was discovered eating elder berries in a thicket not far from the house. It took just one bullet to make this a good bear and supply the family with a winter's meat.

One of the McNeill boys on Swago, killed a nice bear near the Lock McNeill place the first of the hunting season. I never did hear of so many bears being walked up in the Black Forest as this year.

Back in the bear country, of the Black Forest there is just about a complete failure of nut crops the bears like to eat, but a fair chance of various berries, thorn apples, hawes, mountain haw, cherry and the like. Bears are using on this to beat the band. There is a good oak mast crop on the Alleghenies, and the ridges east of the Greenbrier generally. Bear will certainly work over in this direction, but they have not moved over as soon as expected.

Farm Meeting

On last Thursday night there was a big meeting of the members of the Marlinton branch of the Southern States Farm Cooperative in the dining room of the Marlinton Methodist Church. A big supper was served. The speaker of the evening was District Manager, Conway, of the Southern States Cooperative. He first gave outline of present conditions facing the farmers as regards supplies.

There is a shortage of corn and protein for the egg and milk producer. It is more profitable for corn grower to market his crop through pigs than to sell it on the market. The lesson is to sell off the boarder cows and hens, curtail broilers and hogs; go in strong for eggs and milk.

As for fertilizers, there is a shortage of nitrogen and potash; sufficient phosphate. Shortage in labor and transportation facilities. This is being gotten around by a year long production, but it will only prove successful if the farmer will buy and store for his spring needs, rather than all barge in for what they want when they want it.

So far the outlook is for a plentiful supply of both field and garden seeds. Of course this may change should a great demand come from the now devastated European countries for seeds next spring.

The petroleum situation is uncertain. With war demands, no one can tell, but it is good policy and patriotic too for the producing farmer to keep himself in business with a full tank of gas.

As for farm machinery, there will be a decided increase in the amount to be made available, but the demand will be more than greatly exceed the supply.

The matter which evoked much interest and long discussions was the main business of the meeting—post war planning as regards cooperative purchasing and marketing services. The first embraced farm machinery, human foods, household supplies, home quick freeze units, shot gun shells and what not. The marketing discussion dealt with cooperative facilities for fruits, vegetables, soy beans, grains, poultry, livestock freezer locker and egg hatchery services.

It was all great indoor sport. The voting was by secret ballot.

THE COLONIAL SWIRL IN MODERN CRYSTAL

Foster's Colony pattern has proved to be one of our most popular. Its many accessory pieces have built up a demand for matching stemware. And here it is!

Colony is particularly effective for Colonial settings. It brings a warmth of old-time hospitality, brightens every gathering with its lucid beauty. Open stock, of course. And prices are ridiculously low for such irreplaceable quality. Come in to see our Foster's displays.

"We are constantly receiving goods bought 6 to 12 months ago which are now off the market. You may be surprised to find it here. Try us."

Also, "Christmas is not very far off. Our Gift Department is well stocked and new goods are arriving daily. The early buyer this year will certainly have the best selections."

Three local Award Certificates were received by the Pocahontas Post No. 50 of the American Legion from the Department Headquarters at Charleston. These certificates state that the local County Post was awarded three trophies at the State convention for their membership record for the past year.

The A. G. Haan Trophy is awarded each year to the Post having secured the highest percentage of membership quota during the National Spring Membership Roundup. The Morris Trophy is awarded to the Post having the highest percentage of membership quota as of Armistice Day and the McGinnis Trophy is awarded for the highest percentage of membership for a four year average.

Pocahontas Post is justly proud of their record for the past year in winning these three trophies and are working hard to establish another record this year. 1944 enrollment is now in progress and already fifty membership cards have been sent to the State headquarters, and more are being added from week to week. Service men of this war, who have an honorable discharge are eligible for membership and are invited to become members of this organization.

But Your Ration Board is still at WORK!

The men and women on your local War Price and Rationing Board, your friends and neighbors, are working hard to see that everyone in your community gets a fair share of food and fuel and other rationed commodities.

They work long hours. They work without pay. But — they're glad and proud they volunteered to do this job.

Every day they answer questions, listen to complaints, issue ration books, and handle endless household detail. It's a tough job. And often a thankless one! But it's one of the most important war jobs in your community.

Maybe you don't always agree with them. Maybe their decisions seem unreasonable just at times. But — please remember — they try to be fair with everyone. So — be patient. Give them all the help you can.

60 CENTS A YEAR IN ADVANCE

War Fund

HURRY your contribution in for the WAR FUND! The time is short, and Pocahontas County is far short of her goal of less than three dollars per service man sent out. If the collector does not call, and your money to this office. I was supposed to write a piece, but I cannot write with the compelling power of this letter from a widow lady of Marlinton with two sons in the Service.

Mr. Harper Smith:
Marlinton, W. Va.

Dear Mr. Smith:
I am sending you two ($2.00) dollars for the War Fund. I have two sons in the service. I may never see them again, but hope this may do them some good; it does not reach them, I know it will do some mother's son some good.

It is just awful to think about our poor boys being prisoners, and the way they say they are treated, the greatest amount of money that we can give might be the means of one poor boy made happy.

They have been called to fight for us, and so many people don't see the serious side of this awful war. I see the list in the papers of our own people giving so little, it makes me wonder if they are really human; I mean the ones who are really able to give.

I certainly hope you have success in this worthy cause.

Very sincerely,

A Mother.

Enrollment Campaign Nov. 1-15

The enrollment for the Service Campaign of the American Junior Red Cross is being held from November 1 to 15. The enrollment of all pupils in all the schools of this County is our ideal and our goal. The motto is "Enrollment for Service" and it is desirable and appropriate that we stress it. Membership in Junior Red Cross enables boys and girls to share in all Red Cross work appropriate to their ages and abilities. There were over seven million young Americans in Junior Red Cross last year.

In Pocahontas County for 1944 our goal is 100 per cent membership in each and every school. The chairman, Mrs. Beatrice H. Gledwell, urges that all schools conduct their enrollment campaign as soon as possible and get the forms and fees in by November 15.

Honor Roll

To Be Dedicated Armistice Day

Some time ago the Rotary Club of this city conceived the idea that a suitable Honor Roll, showing the names of all the boys of Pocahontas County who have entered the service of our country, should be erected at a central point. Funds were collected from the various organizations and the citizens of the county to erect such a Roll, which was placed on the vacant lot next to the Young People's Club of Marlinton. It was found that the original board erected was not large enough to contain all the names and as soon as material can be obtained, two wings will be added so that all names can be recorded on the Honor Roll.

This Honor Roll will be dedicated on Armistice Day, November 11, 1943, and the sponsors have requested the Pocahontas Post of the American Legion to arrange the program for this dedication. The Committee in charge, especially invite the parents of the boys in the service to attend this dedication which will be held at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, November 11th in front of the Honor Roll.

The Marlinton High School Band will be on hand to play several numbers before the program as well as during the service.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Miss Eleanor McLaughlin, of Huntersville received this letter from her sister, Lieutenant Denna McLaughlin, who was serving with the United States Army Nurses' Corps in Italy. This letter was written just ten days before her death on October 6, following an operation:

Somewhere.

September 26, 1943.

Dearest Sis and all:

Well, here I am again and sure wish I was there having a talk with you all, telling you these things I am unable to write you. It is now 7:00 p. m. here and it is so dark. We go on duty at 7:30 so it seems as if it is in the middle of the night. We have been awful busy this week, worked 11 hours a couple of days, so you can figure we are working some now. It is a pleasure though to be busy for one doesn't have time to think.

I wrote to Jim and also to his mother. I received mail once this week but it was all old mail. I got one letter from Axel. I was so glad to hear from him. I wrote to him even though I could not say where I am.

There is a movie tonight—so that's a break, although I am not going. Guess I will go to bed as usual at 8:30 p. m. Sure do get plenty of sleep these nights.

It is raining now. It sure will be a mess if it rains much, and the raining season will soon start. Then I guess we will wear overalls all the time and big heavy shoes. I do not think I'll like that.

I hope you all are well. I am fine so far. Tell everyone hello for me. Sure hope I hear from you real soon. Love and kiss to all.

The following letter was received by Mrs. Susan Brock, of Hillsboro, from Chaplain J. P. Mahoney, who was with her son, Carl Brock, when he was killed in action on July 2, 1943:

October 10, 1943.

Dear Mrs. Brock:

After 33 days of combat, conditions now permit me to write and express to you my heartfelt sympathy. Your dear son, Private Carl D. Brock, made the Supreme Sacrifice for his Country on July 2nd, 1943.

Your brave son was with us when our regiment established the beachhead on Rendova Island. A few days later we were heavily bombed by the enemy, and suffered many casualties. Carl was amongst them. He returned to his Maker in an instant—the way every soldier desires to go, to die is God's Holy Will. He was given Christian burial on Rendova, and we are now removing all our heroic dead to a beautiful, and well kept cemetery overlooking Munda airfield, on New Georgia Island. Any personal effects will be forwarded to you through military channels.

As one of his Chaplains, I came to know Carl very well, since he joined our regiment at Camp Shelby. He was a prince of a fellow, and served faithfully his God and country. He won the friendship and respect of all his comrades, and now, by his heroic sacrifice, he has certainly merited the Eternal Reward of Our Heavenly Father, who has assured us that "greater love than this no man hath."

I pray that the God of all consolation will grant to you and his loved ones strength and courage to be brave, as was Carl, who now rests in Eternal Peace with God.

Sincerely,

Chaplain John P. Mahoney.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Beale, of Slaty Fork, have received word that their son, Flight Officer John E. Beale, has arrived safely Somewhere in England.

Ralph Nottingham, S 2-c, of the United States Navy, has finished his basic training at Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Illinois, and is spending a nine day furlough here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nottingham. Their oldest son, James, left Monday for active duty in the Army, and their other son, Everett, is also in the Navy, stationed in California.

Mrs. Albert S. Moore has received a letter from her daughter, First Lieutenant Virginia S. Moore, of Army Nurses' Corps, now stationed Somewhere in Australia. Her brother, Albert S. Moore, Jr., Ph-M 1-c, of United States Navy, was also in Australia when last heard from. Another Marlinton boy in Australia, who is getting along fine is John William Candler.

Private Leo Davis, is at home from Fort Benjamin Harrison, on a twenty-one day furlough.

Walter Rhodes, of the United States Navy, spent a short furlough here with his wife and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rhodes.

Private Ray L. Sutton has returned to his camp in New Mexico, after spending a fifteen day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Sutton, of Arboreale. He has been in the service for fourteen months.

Spartanburg, South Carolina—The promotion of two officers in Camp Croft, South Carolina, 7th Regiment, I. R. T. C., was announced by the War Department.

The two officers who were advanced in grade from 2nd Lieutenant to 1st Lieutenant were Shellee C. Calhoun, of Thornwood, West Virginia, Supply Officer of the 38th Battalion, and Louis Uribe, of San Francisco, California, Special Service Officer of the 38th Battalion.

Lieutenant Calhoun is a boy from Pocahontas County. He is the son of Mrs. May Calhoun and the late Virgil M. Calhoun.

Sergeant L. W. Noonan writes as follows to his sister, Mrs. Earl Tallman, at Cloverlick:

Dearest Sis:
I thought I would write you a line to let you know I am O. K. I got back to camp alright but I am near froze to death in West Virginia, after being used to North Carolina. It sure is hot down here.

Well, Sis, you wanted to know something about the parachute troopers. I will say this much, it takes a good man to stay with the job and when you jump the first time you find out whether you are a man or a mouse. Sometimes you light easy and sometimes hard. I think we are the best trained soldiers in the world. We practice shooting at us down. You know, Sis, it feels queer up there, falling through space; time runs out quick, and your mind does tricks, but when your chute opens up you are all right again.

Well, I guess I had better sign off as it is chow time. Answer and I will write more next time.

Your brother, Roundy.

Sergeant L. W. Noonan, Hdq. Company, 1st Battalion, 617th Parachute Inf., A.P.O. 452 Camp Mackall, North Carolina.

Mrs. Simpson Gragg received this letter from her brother, Sergeant Cassell H. Ryder, who is serving Somewhere in Iran:

October 9, 1943.

Hello Sis: Will answer your letter received yesterday and sure was glad to hear that everyone is well. I got the children's pictures and they have not changed any to me. I could have picked those two birds out of a thousand.

Well, Sis, I am making it fine. I sure have a real Master Sergeant. He is from East Virginia; down there where Lee Spiggle and those fellow that used to build lines through home came from.

There sure is lots of malaria fever over here but I haven't taken it yet and maybe I won't now as the weather is getting cooler and the mosquitoes are getting less. I guess there will be snow by the time this gets home.

I sure would like to see every body over there although I have not gotten the least bit homesick yet. In this army life you have to wait just a little on yourself.

Tell S. F. G. I begin to believe what he said about France for there sure are some people over here. Well, I guess I will close. Answer soon with all the news.

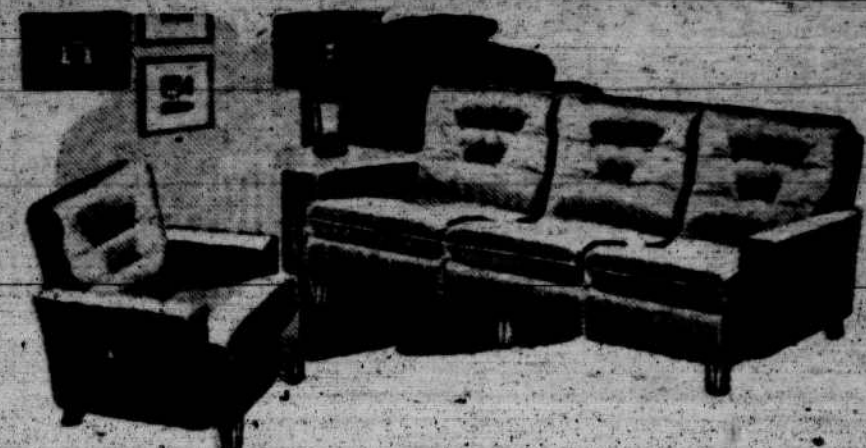

As ever, Kay.

MARLINTON, W. VA.

Game Protector Robert McComb, was in the office last Wednesday with a black duck. Its distinguishing feature was a black bill with a yellow protuberance at base. I tried to say coot but as near as I got was grebe. Then the book said the specimen was an American scoter, and really not a coot at all, though universally known as a coot. Scoters are diving ducks, there are three kinds of them—black or American, surf, and the white winged. The red nose is a family mark. These are not supposed to be eating ducks. It is said that up New England way they do hash up scoters by parboiling to make a dish which tastes a little bit like crow. One bird, authority once wrote that a cultured Boston lady assured him that a boiling scoter drove the people out of the house, and that she had to throw away the kettle it was cooked in. Net fishermen on the Atlantic Coast and in the Great Lakes have taken scoters in nets set fifty or more feet below the surface. The black scoter nests away up in Alaska, and is common both in America and Asia.

As for that name, scoter, as near as can be figured out comes from the good old word scot, to move rapidly. One book says coot is just the French form; search me, I do not know.

J. O. Cogar of Edray, reports the killing of one big hawk. Its wing spread was four feet. This old hawk had been around all summer, and probably got about $50 worth of chickens for Mr. Cogar and the neighbors.

The past several weeks reports have been coming in about the number and the size of the wild geese flocks flying south this fall. They see them in the day and hear them at night. One day last week a flock of eighteen big Canada geese lit down in wheat field of Dewey Sharp, near Fairview. These were busy eating the young wheat and scattered corn grains. One of the geese was posted as a sentinel, and in addition there were several heads in the air, looking out at all times.

These were big outstanding flocks, with a white ring around their necks. There is a smaller goose or brant with a white neck ring. That Canada name is not from Canada, the country. It means northern.

That reminds me of a crack I got pinched in years ago. A gentleman called me up from the hotel to come up and tell him about the Cranberry Glades. I was lining out details with painful accuracy. I was a telling flow in this wonderful land of plants there was the Canadian, Virginian and Carolinian; that Canadian is not from the country but means northern; that Virginian is middle ground and Carolinian is southern and not from the States. Directly the gentleman began to slip in some really comprehensive questions. Man alive, I says, what do you know about botany anyhow! Just enough, says he, to have held down the job of botanist for the Biological Survey the past thirty odd years. My face felt pretty red.

The other morning about ten o'clock Ray Ryder of Elk, went out hunting on Elk Mountain. He came upon the tracks of three big wild turkey gobblers. Soon he came in sight of one and he laid him out twenty pounds in weight. Heading home, he caught sight of something brown moving. Looking closer, he saw it was a big wildcat—bay lynx. One shot, and that bob cat was a good one. Still heading for home, he got his limit of squirrels on the way in. Ray has kept an account of his wild turkeys, 21 in all. This is the first one he has killed in nine years.

Ecuador Makes Panama Most panamas worn in the United States come from Ecuador and Colombia where they are hand woven by Indians from split and bleached leaves of the palmlike toquilla. Hat-making is a home industry, generally a side line to farming. A simple hat may be in the making for six months.

Pay Pirates In 1795 the United States paid the Barbary pirates of Algeria tribute of $202,000 to allow United States ships in the Mediterranean.

Community News

The annual meeting of the Pocahontas neighborhood was held in the school house Friday night, October 18th. The Program report was read by the Senior neighborhood leader, showed that the people have made some contribution to the war effort in spite of the fact that thirteen of the men of the community are in the armed forces serving our country. The people have been able to produce in their gardens vegetables to meet their family needs during the summer. They have canned, brined, and dried sufficient vegetables to meet their family needs during the winter. Five hundred quarts of berries were canned and in spite of the failure of the fruit crop, with fruit left over from last year the people are well supplied to meet their needs for the coming winter. There will be sixteen boys to butcher this fall in the neighborhood. Sufficient corn has been produced for fattening purposes and to feed the poultry and to provide feed for the milk cows. The report shows all families active in the salvage campaign, and all families contributed to the Red Cross. The War Fund Drive is underway, and at the annual meeting thirteen dollars was raised, as part of their quota of twenty-five dollars, and there are evidences that their quota will be raised, due to the sincere efforts of Miss Dunlap and Moody Wilson, a veteran of World War One, who are in charge of the drive. The twenty-five dollars was set as a goal to be raised by the local people. Their report further states that eight persons in the neighborhood took the Red Cross First Aid Course. Nine women completed the nutrition course. The school collected 1169 pounds of scrap and 155 pounds of rubber. The proceeds were used for the purchase of War Savings Stamps by the children. In spite of the fact that all have been busy at war work, the people, generally, attempted to beautify their yards by planting flowers and repairing fences. No one was arrested in the community during the past year and no acts of juvenile delinquency. The people have taken advantage of the health clinics and there were no epidemics in the community during the past year.

After the reading of this report, Dr. C. F. Hopson, Director of the Bureau of Negro Welfare and Statistics, gave an interesting talk on social diseases. Dr. Hopson seemed well pleased with the progress made during the year. Dr. Calvin Price gave a very interesting and instructive talk, touching upon the coming of the Negro to America, and said in conclusion that he felt sure that if those persons who came over on that slave ship, to Jamestown, could have seen this day and how their offspring was making progress and having that sense of security which is given to us through the American way of life, they would have endured cheerfully hardships far greater than they experienced to make it possible. An interesting and instructive talk was made by County Agent Morgan, who offered his co-operation and assistance to the people of the neighborhood. Mrs. Moore, Club Agent, spoke briefly on the progress of the neighborhood and said that our next problem would be, after having produced the food for our families, we must apply scientific methods in using it by better planned meals and methods of serving.

The progress which has been made during the past year, is due to unselfish and sincere effort on the part of the local leaders led by Miss Dunlap, the teacher, and the spirit of cooperation shown by the minister, Mr. Johnson. A meeting will be held before the first of the year and plans will be developed for a continuation of the work during 1944.

Battle-Snake Flag
Historical records of the U. S. marine corps show that the battle-snake device first appeared on the drums of Revolutionary marines who were recruiting a marine regiment in Philadelphia in December, 1775. A yellow silk flag bearing the device and motto "Don't tread on me," was hoisted by John Paul Jones on the flagship Alfred at Philadelphia the same month.

Files Carry Dysentery Germ
Dysentery germs ingested by the fly can live in its intestinal tract for as long as five days. The source of contamination need not be in the immediate neighborhood, for flies can travel as far as eight miles in one day. Flies have the pernicious habit of vomiting just before feeding. They therefore contaminate food in this manner, by deposition of germs adherent to the hairs of the legs or other parts of the body.

Cattle Slaughter Canceled
The number of beef cattle slaughtered last year was about 2,700,000 over the average year of World War I, and the number of calves was about 2,000,000 head greater. Hay slaughter last year showed an increase of about 21 million head and sheep and lamb slaughter about 21 million head over the previous year. Slaughter of World War I.

Science and Light

Studies of painting of ships are revealing properties of paint that are not known to most of us. These studies have been made by the Navy Department, and the results are being made known to the public. In these studies, many new type paint ingredients have been tested. When these are properly compounded, they produce paints having substantial resistance to flame.

These studies have developed a special blast lamp test to determine the efficiency of fire retardant paints upon metal surfaces. This is of interest, since the interiors of practically all ships are now painted with special rust inhibitive primers followed by newly developed types of fire retardant paint having low gloss surfaces.

Low gloss paints are highly light reflecting, without which the interiors of ships would be relatively dim, a condition which would retard the efficiency of the crew. It is understood that the use of the above type of paint is now a requirement for all ships. Thus, fire retardance, light reflection, and protection against corrosion are now being afforded to all ships through the use of successfully designed paint coatings.

Light reflecting interior paints are now also used for the interiors of planes, tanks, submarines, and other important instruments of war.

China Ahead of U. S.; Used Iron Penny 2,000 Years Ago

Distribution by the United States treasury of iron pennies is not a novel idea, according to Thomas T. Reed, Vinton professor of mining at Columbia university, who points out that the first iron coins were issued in China nearly 2,000 years ago.

"Then, as now, they were introduced because of a shortage of copper supply," Professor Reed says. "Wang Mang, who had been made regent in 2 B. C. had, by A. D. 8, consolidated his power enough to declare himself emperor of China, and to increase his revenues, began to issue coins made of iron, which was much more plentiful."

"Instead of being made of steel, as our new pennies will be, they were made of cast iron, since everywhere in the world at that time coins were made by casting instead of by the modern practice of 'minting' them from blanks punched from sheets of rolled metal."

"The successor of Wang Mang returned to the use of copper, but at various times in the thousand years that followed iron coins of low denomination were still cast."

Explains Shellshock
The explanation of an abnormal condition which takes place in the soldier between his instinct of self-preservation and the opposing claims of soldierly ideals and disciplinary reactions, says Dr. E. A. Strecker, psychiatrist. In other words, when the conflict within the soldier, which is common among all of today's active combatants, becomes too strong, the soldier responds by a state of shellshock.

Dr. Strecker outlined methods of treating shellshock and pointed out that many of these mental casualties could be prevented through greater care in the selection of fighting men and through more thorough conditioning for battle among those who are selected.

Domestic Soap Sources
In pre-war soap manufacture, the soap industry used an average of two parts of domestic to one part of imported fats and oils. With the loss of imports, plans went into effect for "stretching" the imported oils that were on hand or that do come in. More and more, the nation's soap "kettles" have depended upon tallow and oils from our own country, and limited imports, largely from South America, and to some extent from parts of the Pacific not under Japanese control. The Latin American countries are a great potential source of important oils for soap, but lack of shipping and other difficulties still stand in the way of imports in the large quantities needed.

Rabbits Good Food
Homemakers who have never served rabbit have missed an excellent food. The meat on a domestic rabbit is white and delicately flavored throughout. Young rabbits, in food preparation, can be cooked by the quick methods of frying or broiling. Older or heavier rabbits are good as roast or fricassee. Most of the domestic rabbits are marketed at 5 to 10 weeks of age when they weigh from three to four pounds. In food value, rabbits fall in the class with poultry and other meats as a source of efficient protein.

Shade Light
Raw, irritating light is harmful to the eyes. Avoid glare by using small shades on all ceiling fixtures and wall brackets, by using diffusion bowls on portable lamps to soften light, and by choosing shades deep enough to cover the bulbs and a base broad enough to allow for a wide spread of light.

Arrange lamps so you can sit within three feet of the light source. The light should shine over the left shoulder of a right-handed person and over the right shoulder of a left-handed person.

German Marriages Up 3 Per Cent
The Berlin radio, in a broadcast issued by the United Press at New York, said that there were 105,779 marriages in Germany in 1942, an increase of 3 per cent as compared with 1941.

Polish Males War Goods
Polish industries have gone to war. Already war contracts totaling many millions of dollars and affecting more than 100,000 inmates in more than 100 state prisons are being filled.

In the Third War Bond Drive, Pocahontas County people were asked to buy their government bonds and stamps. This quota was exceeded by over twenty thousand dollars. The State of West Virginia nearly doubled its asking for seventy-six million dollars, and we led the nation in exceeding our quota. The country as a whole went nearly four million dollars over the asking for fifteen billion.

The only thing short about the whole business was that the popular E bonds for ordinary people were not more heavily subscribed for, both in number and amount. However, just about one billion dollars more of E bonds were sold in September than in April. In Pocahontas County we were just a little bit short in the number and amount of E bonds subscribed for.

Remember, please, buying War Bonds is just an every day responsibility for us who are left behind to hold the home front and supply the fighting line with equipment and ammunition.

The Edray Farm Women's club met at the home of Mrs. Reid Moore, October 21st with eight members and our new Home Demonstration leader, Mrs. Esther LeFosse, also two visitors, Mrs. D. W. Mrs. Young gave a very interesting demonstration of aprons and pillow cases made from feed sacks, also pillow cases made from the corners of worn sheets. Our recreation leader gave us a contest. Mrs. D. W. Williams was the winner. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Frank Young.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. 14 NO. 15

MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA, NOVEMBER 11, 1943

12.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

LET US HURRY

The quota of the War Fund accepted for Pocahontas County is $5500—less than $2 for each Pocahontas man and woman in the armed service.

This money is divided among all different organizations serving our soldiers and sailors at home and abroad and our allied people. The one notable exception is the American Red Cross. It's all important money raising campaign will be early next spring.

As this is written on Monday, there remains less than eight hundred dollars of our quota, $5500, to come in to the treasurer, June McElwee.

County Chairman Harper M. Smith, his district and community workers, and the rest of us interested in the welfare of our soldiers and sailors, are anxious that the asking be reached and reached as speedily as possible. If you have not been seen by a worker, mail contribution to this office.

One elect lady, and she a widow, figured each of the eighteen organizations sharing in the War Fund, was worthy of a dollar of her money. So, she sent $18 to the treasurer.

Little Levels District is coming up just fine; a few more people to be heard from and the lower end will be over the top.

Here are some good returns—Stony Bottom $71.80, Linnwood $76; Woodrow $74.40; Greenbank and Arboreale $801.50; Brownsburg Community $40.90; Lower Camden Ave., Marlinton, $194.50.

FIELD NOTES

Last Monday night, along three o'clock in the morning, cousin George Beard was awakened by the loud squealing of one of his killing hogs-out in the pen, and the frantic barking of his collie Jack dog in the house. Rolling out of bed, Mr. Beard let the dog-out and followed as soon as he could get his shoes on. He found that a big bear had tackled and badly injured a hog of nearly two hundred pounds in weight—clawing and biting and smashing its hinder parts. When the house-lights went on and the dog came out barking the bear had made off. The dog could be heard giving chase for half a mile or more. The hogs run in a large field, with a comfortable sty for sleeping quarters. Since the bear visit the hogs have been shy about coming about the sty. Mr. Beard lives at the John G. Beard homestead at the foot of Caesar's Mountain, not two miles from Hillsboro. The way I read the sign this was a hungry old bear moving out from the Black Forest to the oak mast east of the river. In passing through he came by these hogs and allowed he would help himself to one.

Carl Jones works in the lumber camp of the Cherry River Lumber Company upon the headwaters of Gauley. The day was some weeks ago, he heard the strangest racket far up the side of the big mountain—raking, scraping, pounding, thumping, growling, grunting, growling. He could not make it out, so he got down his gun and went for to see. Coming up to the place, he saw a big bear standing up to a tree, and pounding it to a fare you well. He had got a front paw caught in a big steel trap and he was trying to pound it off against the big tree. Mr. Jones made a noise which attracted the bear's attention. As he turned his head a well placed bullet in the neck made that bear a good one. This bear was of good size, in fine eating order, and dressed out at 190 pounds. There is no report of any one having a steel trap carried away by a bear.

The next day Mr. Jones and Will Fitzpatrick back tracked that bear several miles, over into the Bergeon Country.

A few weeks back I printed an item about County Clerk Moody Kincaid running on to two bears or the same bear twice back in the Black Forest. Having no pumpkin balls for his shot gun, Mr. Kincaid gave the bear a couple of token shots with bird charges, just as expressions of sentiment against them.

In the course of a few days after the paper was out Moody got a whole hand full of pumpkin ball and rifled slug loads for his twelve gauge guns. There is no marking to tell from whom they came. Later there comes a letter from an old friend in another state, confessing the good deed, but imploring no return of thanks.

Here is the story. Years ago the father of this friend traded in the Indian country, and some of the Indians were continually begging powder and ball. When given, they never thanked him nor made any mention afterwards for the kindness. The man asked an old chief about their seeming rudeness. The chief said if the hunters had thanked him for the bullets, their luck was spoiled and they would not kill.

Curtis B. Trent, Jr., of Logan, went turkey hunting up in Pocahontas County, a few weeks ago with a 16-gauge shotgun, but he came back with a 275-pound bear. He had to shoot the bear several times before he brought him down. Trent encountered the bear on Swago Mountain, on McClintic Run, near Marlinton. Curtis only had No. 8 bird shot in his shells, but he took one shot at him just for luck. He had to chase the wounded bear for one and one-half miles, after giving him a pretty hard jolt with the opening barrage from his turkey gun.—W. Va. Conservation.

One day last week two big bull elk got into a fight for the master's place at the head of the herd at Wyllie Manor, Minnehaha Springs. Both were big, fine specimens, with immense antlers. It was a fight to death; one bull succumbing one day and the other, the next. Their carcasses went to feed the fishes at the State trout hatchery.

Miss Alice Nell Hively became the bride of Major Jack G. Milne, of Mitenell Field, New York, in a double ring ceremony at 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, October 22, 1943, in the Central Christian Church, of Fairmont, with the Rev. Ashley Booth officiating.

For her marriage the bride, an attractive brunette, was gown in a gray wool dress with brown accessories. She wore a corsage of orchids.

She is a daughter of L. R. Hively, of Knappa Creek, Huntersville; and is a graduate of the Marlinton High School and received her Bachelor of Science Degree in 1940 from West Virginia University. For reasons which need not here be gone into at length the subject of iron ore in Pocahontas County has not been one to get enthusiastic over for the past several years. However, our Congressman Jennings Randolph has been active and successful in getting Congress to appropriate adequate sums for to investigate raw material resources for steady production, under the Bureau of Mines, for the all important matter of National Defense. Eighteen strategic or critical war materials are found in the United States. In the list given the State of West Virginia at least one of these strategic materials which the Bureau of Mines should explore and possibly develop.

This brings the Bureau of Mines into the picture, and the letter the Acting Director, Mr. Harrington wrote to Congressman Randolph under date of October 19, concerning the possibility of investigating more thoroughly the iron deposits of West Virginia under an appropriation Mr. Randolph was largely instrumental in having Congress to pass.

A number deposits have been examined in a preliminary way and to date the most promising that has been found occurs in the Oriskany formation in Pocahontas County and surrounding territory. This one area is 20 miles long and there are probably several others in the state that warrant attention. As the first step, before selecting any particular place for intensive exploration, we feel that it is desirable to do further reconnaissance and examination work.

An allotment of $25,000 will be made to conduct a preliminary work. Whether or not more intensive exploration will be undertaken will depend upon the results obtained by this first step. In selecting localities for reconnaissance study, the Bureau's District Engineer, Mr. James N. Bell, would welcome for consideration such suggestions as the State Geologist or the State Planning Board may care to make.

My word is out on the dated line that at least once a year I am to write an article on this newspaper business. This time an abler hand does it. The annual meeting of the West Virginia Newspaper Council was held in Morgantown last week. Our president is William H. Barger of Keyser. Like the true Methodist he is, he spoke out in meeting, and when Will speaks he says something. Here is what he told us:

Another year has passed with all the stress, the trials, the hardships occasioned by war, our sons and our friends sons in battle, we find ourselves assembled for the 22nd annual meeting of the West Virginia State Journalism Conference.

Despite these trials it is my hope that the days, weeks and months have been profitable to each one of the newspaper fraternity.

In the very outset of this meeting, as your acting President, I desire to justify the holding of this conference, if, I may: In these days of emergency when we are fighting Hitler and the Japs to the death, we publishers certainly have a most powerful weapon in our publications with which we will help win the war, and, with our printed service win the peace. Each newspaper in the state has already published thousands of inches about the boys and girls from their respective areas in the service of Uncle Sam, columns about the local war and defense organizations, pages of vital Government campaigns to stop useless traveling, prevent rising prices, collect necessary taxes, get scrap, fats and greases, sell bonds, deliver vital war messages, contributed pages of advertising for drives of every conceivable description.

Without the full support of the newspapers much of our success to date would have been impossible. A great deal more is yet to be done. I am not ashamed, but proud that our West Virginia editors are so patriotic that they left their busy offices to have a part in preparing for a better service to our America.

"Free Press—Free People," was the theme for Newspaper Week. It is significant that whenever human liberties are endangered, Freedom of the Press is always first on the list—This does not mean the press is given special privilege, a peculiar right bestowed upon the publisher—not at all, it is much larger than that—it embraces the right of every man to know of those happenings which may affect his welfare.

I would like to leave a word of encouragement with the students of Journalism under one of the best instructors in the land, our own Dr. P. I. Reed. I wish I could make you believe as I do, that the field of Journalism, of newspaper work is most promising for the ambitious and intelligent young lady and young gentlemen. It is largely a matter of the individual man or woman, and individual community. Not all newspapers are money makers, as money goes. But if you have the urge to serve your fellow man and to serve the community in which you cast your lot you will find gold there. A dollar mark is not always a mark of success.

Here is what George Mathew Adams says about "The Newspaper Man":

I doubt whether there is another profession so fraught with genuineness and replete with knowledge as is the profession of journalism. The newspaper man has to be an observer, an encyclopedia, a psychologist, a student of human nature, broad in his understanding, sympathetic in his outlook, courageous in his opinions, and far reaching as to vision.

The true newspaper man loves his work and counts not the cost, either in time or strength. Get the news, spread the knowledge, search for the truth, spare not—these are a few of the things that power within his brain.

Actors and newspaper men get very close to human beings and you find among them some of the most tolerant and wholesome of men.

The newspaper man seems to have been born with a deep sense of loyalty. The paper and the public he serves always come first. In himself he is an example of service. Always he seeks to interest, instruct and to lead. He has a sort of composite soul.

You rarely ever hear of a rich newspaper man—except where he is an owner. And even then, you find the same sterling qualities that are embedded in the humblest reporter or writer. There is a wonderful camaraderie among newspaper men, too. They understand so much that the ordinary human never knows anything about. They seem to be embedded in a flow of events, happenings and achievements.

Of course, we would not suggest making a request for money during these days of anxiety, but, as soon as the war is over, and things become normal, let us, as one man cry out for that long desired Journalism Building. With a beautiful building on University campus, equipped with all the latest devices in printing and publishing, reporting and news.

writing. Dr. Reed would be turning out graduates whose knowledge of the latest developments in journalism would match that of the graduates of the largest schools in America.

Just like the recent best seller "So Little Time"—we have much to do and very little time today. All of them seem important. But some of them are vital to every newspaper. May I suggest that we thoroughly discuss the most vital of them first, then, if time permits, discuss the lesser.

First then let us consider the newspaper situation, it is most critical. With cuts in usage of 5 to 30 percent, and the suggestion of 50 percent, every publisher has the shivers. If we have no newspaper certainly there can be no newspapers.

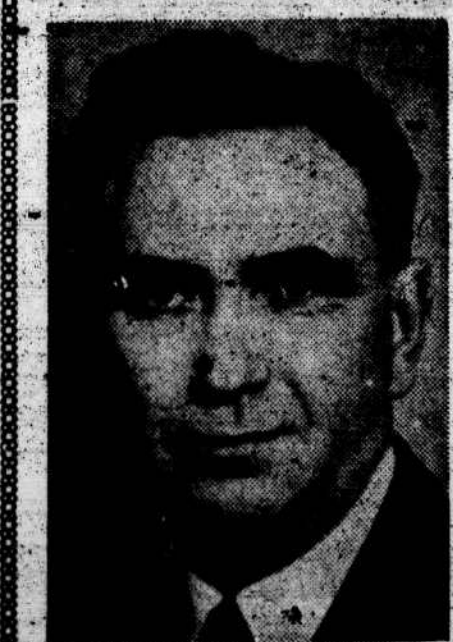

Second on the list is probably the matter of securing sufficient and capable operators and printers. Probably some publisher can help his fellows by relating his experience.

Next comes the problem of the loss of local advertising that has been so keenly felt by certain newspapers. Those who have overcome that situation by creating new business, will have an opportunity to serve those who have been less fortunate.

Having weathered the terrific situation that confronted newspapers during World War I, I feel I might list a few blows that fell on this editor's head. We had hardly entered the war when five of our men entered the service, some volunteered, others were called. Two of us were left, a boy too young and I too old for service. Before the war ended we paid 16c a pound for newspaper. Advertising was hard to get and the going was tough. We weathered the storm and managed to keep our head above water.

This, I say to every newspaper man who has any doubt of his paper existing through the duration of the war: When Global War began we made a survey and found things in much better shape than they were before the war began. Without a doubt you will survive. Don't be afraid to hit the ceiling with prices, subscription, job printing, and advertising. There is plenty of money, and the demand for our products, and we've got "the supply."

Malaria Follows Wars
Following every war there have been outbreaks of malaria in regions where malaria was not formerly recognized. Russia had eight million cases after World War I.

And a mighty fine "Judge" on Your Ration Board

He's a friendly fellow, and mighty accommodating — knows more about the inside of an engine than anyone else in town. He's patient — accurate — and proud of his job!

That's why he's such a big help down at his War Price and Rationing Board.

He works long hours, without pay, hearing complaints, making decisions, solving many perplexing problems. He wants to make sure that everyone gets a fair share of food and fuel and other rationed necessities.

He doesn't say much about it — some things a fellow doesn't have to talk about — but he's proud of being an American. He thinks it's something worth working for.

Think of it that way the next time you visit your Ration Board. He's there because he volunteered... to help you and your neighbor. Help him in turn.

Egbert knew all the answers but ONE!

He KNEW the capital of Afghanistan. He knew that Plasmodium malarious is the cause for a robin. He knew that a theobro is a musical instrument.

But he didn't know how much cheaper electricity is today than years ago!

Don't blame Egbert. It's easy not to realize how far electric prices have been reduced, because while they were coming down and down — Egbert's family, and families all over America, were adding new appliances and enjoying the use of more and more electricity!

But in any true-fake quiz, you can mark this statement as true: The average American household today gets just about twice as much electricity for its money as it did fifteen years ago!

What helped make it true? Expert business management. Years of doing a job efficiently and economically have given the men and women of your electric company the know-how to bring you friendly, dependable service at low prices — even in wartime!

Dear Mom and Mary Kay

Written by Pauline Zimmerman, who is employed in Washington, D. C., in memory of his son, Pauline, Jr., who is now missing on the "See Somewhere." He is with the submarine division.

Somewhere on the sea my son is sailing.
The little boy that knelt beside my knee,
And made to God his earnest prayer,
For all those on land, in sky, and on the sea."

Somewhere on the sea, O God, stand by him,
And grant him strength and skill to do his part,
And may each crucial moment find him ready,
No bitterness or fear within his heart.

Somewhere on the sea my son is sailing:
Just where I do not know, perhaps 'tis best,
For did I know each daring brave adventure,
Anxiety would never let me rest.

Somewhere on the sea, O God, be near him!
My bleeding heart would shield him from all ill,
But oh, I know Thou dost love him greatly,
So yield him gently, to Thy wisest will.

Mrs. Binnie Hoffmanns, of Huntersville, sends in this letter from her son, P.F.C. Okey Hoffmanns, who is now Overseas Somewhere:

Dear Mother: Just a few lines to let you know that I am well and hope these few lines will find you all well and enjoying life. I would love to see you all and be with you now. I have not heard from you for a long time.

I have had some bad dreams about you and I am uneasy about you all. I sure hope I hear from you soon and all are well. Mother if you do not hear from me for some time do not be worried for I do not have much time to write to anyone right now but you write to me as often as you can for I love to hear from home. I have not heard from Cecil for a long time. I don't see why he can't write to me but I guess he never thinks of me any more. It has been a long time since I have seen any of you all but I don't think it will be as long as it has been until I see you.

Mother tell little Theodore to save all the money he can until I get back and he and I will take a long trip. I want to go to South Carolina. I have a lot of good friends there. I have a good time over here but I do get homesick sometimes and want to see you all so badly. Answer real soon and write often. Give my love to my little sisters. Okey.

Mrs. L. H. Harouff, of Lobe-belia, sends in this letter from her son:

October 3, 1943.
Dear Mother and Dad: Will try and write you tonight to let you know I am well and happy.

We left Cincinnati at 2:30 p. m. yesterday afternoon, got to Chicago at 9:30 and laid over there all this morning. We arrived here at 9:30 this morning. I wish that we could have come all the way in day light.

I do not know what to think of this place, all scrub oak and cedars and they are not very high. We are on top of a mountain. I think that it is nothing like the West Virginia hills. We are about nine miles from the nearest town, LaCrosse.

It was 39 degrees below zero here last winter. They say it begins to snow about the first of November and lasts until March or April. There are lots of swamps and lakes. We must not be very far from Canada. I think we are about three hundred miles from Chicago. This sure is a large camp; it is nine miles square.

This is a new battalion; the 250th Engineering Combat Battalion. The Commander said they had been waiting for us since the 23rd of July. He said that we did not have a famous name but that we would make one out of it. The Army engineers is the toughest thing the Army has got.

I wish I was not so far from home. We are around 800 miles from Charleston. We get no furlough until after our basic training which lasts 22 weeks.

Tell all my friends hello for me and to write me a line. You all keep well and take good care of yourselves.

Hoping to hear from you soon I will close for I need some sleep, just catnapped last night as we did not have any sleepers.

Your son, Neuman.
Pvt. Neuman Harouff, (35773673) Co. C, 350th Engr. Combat Bn., Camp McCoy, Wisconsin.

Mrs. A. H. Wade, of Minnehaha Springs, received this letter from her son, Elton, who is now in Sicily:

October 12, 1943.
Dear Mom: Will write you a few lines today as I am thinking of you all. I received your letters last evening, dated September 20th and one the 15th. I was sure glad to hear from you. The pictures were real good and I was glad to get them. The baby sure is a cute little fellow.

Well this finds me well and getting along all right and I am sure am thankful for that. I am still in Sicily. I came here when this Island was first invaded, but came through O. K.

Guess you all are about through with the work by now. Are the hogs as good as they were last year?
Hope you can go on your visit. They can get along all right with you, so go if you can. I think I get all your letters now and I am glad you hear from me. Yes, I got the Times paper dated on August 14th but have not received any since. Hope Clara gets along O. K. I bet that it will be lonesome over there. Tell every one hello for me and take the best care of yourselves that you can. Love to all. Elton.

Clarence Dunbrack, of the Army Air Force, stationed at Miami Beach, Florida, writes as follows to his mother, Mrs. Della Dunbrack:

October 19, 1943.
Hi Mother and family: Just a few lines to say hello and to let you know that I am O. K. and am getting around. I received the box of candy and candy yesterday and sure did enjoy them. I hope this finds you and the kids well.

I guess Marlinette is getting better every day with the boys leaving for the Armed Forces. I bet to hear that Sommers passed. How does Ralph stand with the draft? When did you hear from Harry last? I have not had but one letter from him. I guess Dad likes his new job at Pipers. Is Ralph still working for Rexford? How are Betty and Carl getting along in school? Fine I hope.

I sure would like to be back there for one of your good home cooked meals. I go in swimming every day and it is the ocean nice.

I think that I wrote and told you that I had seen one of the boys from Marlinette, Sergeant Robert Sharp, about three weeks ago. I guess winter is just around the corner up there.

Mother, I like the Army Air Force just fine. Well, I guess I had better close and go eat chow. Hope to hear from you soon. Lots of love to you all and tell everybody I said hello.

Your son, Clarence.

Mrs. Lucy Davis brings in this letter and poem from her son, Clarence, of the Navy, who is now on active sea duty:

October 11, 1943.

Dearest Mother and all:
I sure was a happy lad when I received 8 letters at mail call this evening. I received five from Gladys, two from you and one from Duffy. I am so overjoyed to hear that you all are well and getting along good. I hope the ration is sufficient that you will have plenty to live on.

I am sorry that Leo is so close the draft but the Lord will take care of us all. I know that you all are praying for us and that is a great part of our wonderful success. Some of the boys make fun of soul salvation but not long ago I saw several calling on Higher Power.

We are doing a great work over here but I cannot tell you a thing about it. Just listen to the news and take the best when it comes from over here. I know for I have good eyes.

You asked me about those pictures and I answered you but a few letters got lost. I would like to have them if you can send them. I will send home a little money real soon. Have you received any allowance yet?

Well, I am feeling fine and very happy over so much mail. Thanks a lot. Pray for the boys in service. With my love and best regards I will close.

Your boy in service, Ace.

MY CALLING

I have heard it in the mountains, I have heard it by the sea, Where the plains are vast and vaster,

I have heard it calling, calling, ever calling unto me!
In the night time, I have heard it Through the darkness and the gloom,
In the morning when the sunrise Bursts in splendor through my room.

Oh, what is it, that is calling, me. There is not much I can use. Do not send my cigarettes for I can get them for fifty cents a carton. Any cookies or candy would be appreciated, but I would like to have a good pipe.

There is not anything else I can think of to write so I will close. Answer soon.

Love, Harold.

Dear Sister:

Just a few lines to say I am well and getting along fine. I hope everyone back there is well. Well, it is not near so hot here now as it has been; it is just cool enough to make it nice. Nellie, it looks like I am going to have it much easier than I did last winter. We have big tents now that hold eight men to a tent and the German planes do not bother us any more. It is just like being in the States, with the exception of a few things.

You asked if I had seen Carl any more. No, I have not as he was leaving Africa the day I saw him. He never saw any action here but I guess he is seeing plenty now. I wish I could have gone with him. Well, there is nothing to write about so I will close.

With love, Hubert.

BOY'S RECIPE FOR CAKE

WOULD FIX THE AXIS

Blanca, Colorado, (UP)—A small boy of Blanca, Colorado, has propounded a recipe for a cake that is guaranteed to satisfy the appetite of every American.

The boy is Raymond Fostick, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Fostick, of Blanca.

The recipe reads as follows:

INGREDIENTS
2 cups of Hitler
1-2 cups of Mussolini
6 cups of Japs
1 teaspoonful Rising Sun
1 teaspoonful of Manila

DIRECTIONS

"Sift Hitler three times through barbed wire." Chop Mussolini, then crack and shell Japs, add Rising Sun and beat like hell. Then add Manila; the more you beat the better. Grease pan, America, pour the mixture in it, put in oven and slam Corridor. Turn on gas to 95,000 degrees. Then go to see "Gone With the Wind." On returning home, put on gas mask, open all windows and doors to let the odor out. Remove from oven and submerge in the Atlantic to cool. Then return home and Buy War Bonds so all the boys can make the same thing.—Charleston Mail.

Dear Sister:

Will answer your letter of August 25, and sure was glad to hear from you. This leaves me O. K. Well, Sis, I try to write as often as I can but when you have to write the same thing all time, well, you just do not feel like writing. But I have a little news this time. I can tell you a little about where I am. I am on an island that was recently occupied by the Japs.

I have been here since August 15 and I have never seen so much dark wind and rain in all my life. There were not any Japs here when we arrived but there were plenty guns and a few Jap ships. I have seen lots of dug outs. There is not a tree on the island. We are digging in for the winter (or should I say wind.) The sun shines on an average of one day every two weeks. See, what I mean when I say wind. But we do have lots of fun. Nellie, you write like you are worrying about me—please do not for I am making it fine.

I have several Jap souvenirs. One is a piece of a Jap Zero plane. Well, I have an idea you are thinking about a Christmas present for me. Don't worry about me. There is not much I can use. Do not send my cigarettes for I can get them for fifty cents a carton. Any cookies or candy would be appreciated, but I would like to have a good pipe.

There is not anything else I can think of to write so I will close. Answer soon.

Overweight Motor Oil Proved Non-Essential

See how safe and economical a surprisingly Light grade can be with your engine Winter OIL-PLATED

A motorist who kept a record for a month averaged only 2.7 miles between stops. Maybe you average twice that. Yet the "coupon shortage" means short runs—lots of stopping and starting. That's extra bad for your oil. The first hardships of Winter will find it unfit. This year, of all years, the height of economy is to change your oil promptly.

The lightest suitable oil you can use is best for your engine—your battery—your gasoline economy...best for lengthening your car's future! You needn't risk any overweight grade...not when you have your engine OIL-PLATED for Winter by changing to economical Conoco Nth motor oil.

The "magnetic attraction" that seems set up by a certain synthetic in Conoco Nth oil—patented—enables it to OIL-PLATE. All good plating forms a staunch protective surface, and that gives you the idea of OIL-PLATING. Now think of any OIL-PLATED part in your engine facing another OIL-PLATED part...double OIL-PLATING in between—plus Conoco Nth oil's regular-type liquid film that's extra strong! You can't get more protection than that, while with overweight oil you'd only invite needless drag and dangerous "absorber" lubrication in starting cold. Don't risk it. Consult Your Conoco Mileage Merchant for your lightest grade of Nth, and face Winter fully confident, with your engine OIL-PLATED. Continental Oil Co.

Overweight Engine Acid is Fought by OIL-PLATING

Normal combustion always leaves acids inside of your engine when it stops.

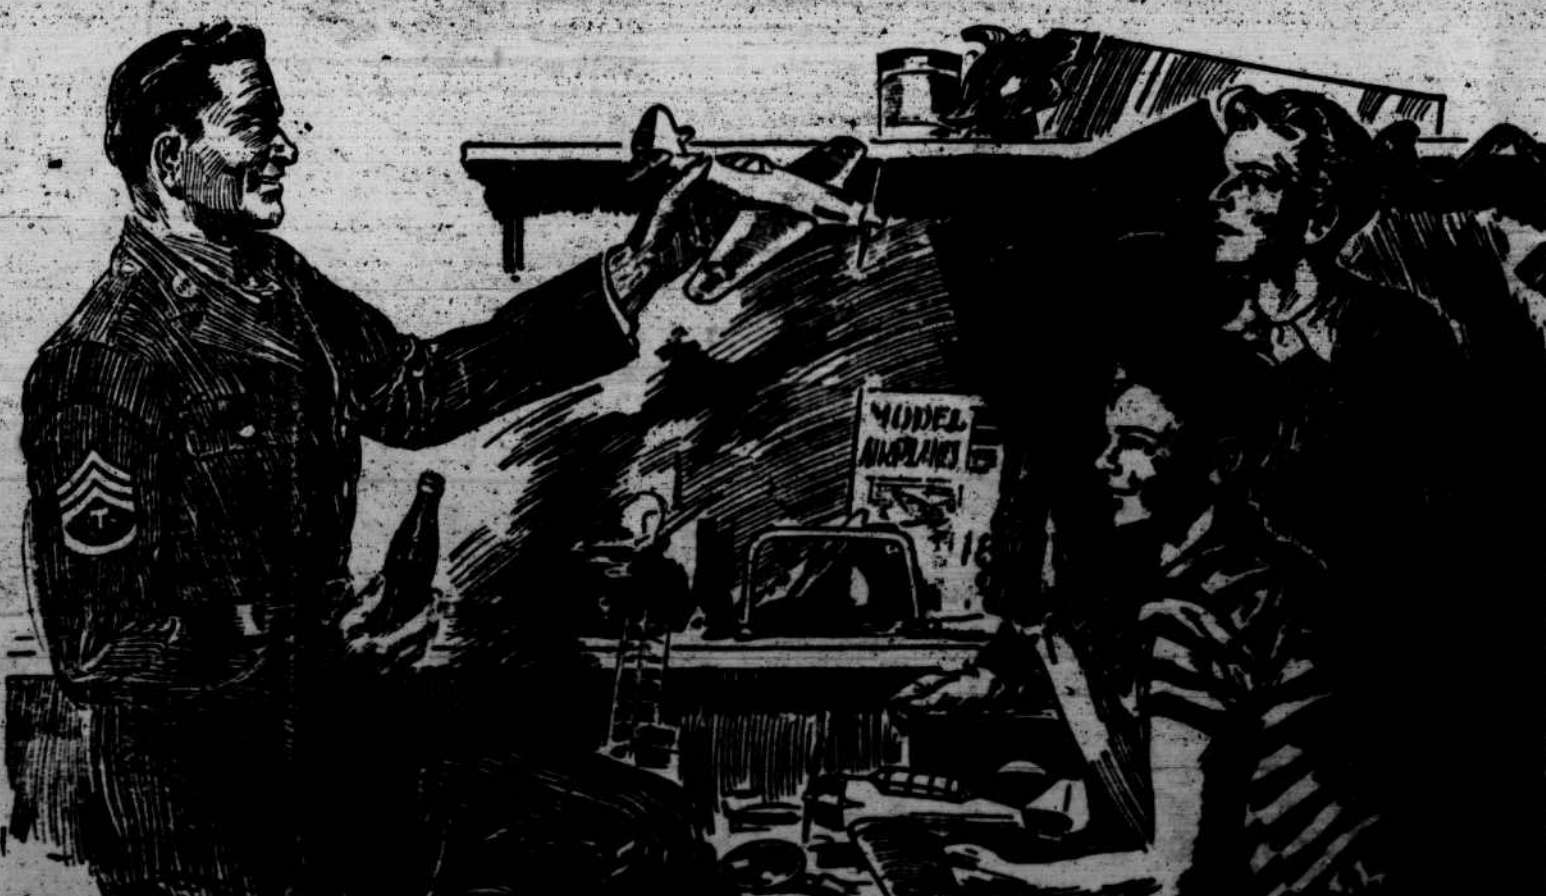

Formerly it seldom stood this long. Soon mileage and speed heated your engine enough to cut acids.

But nowadays refinishing may force long runs, while corrosive acids gnaw. To combat corrosion, acids are phased. You combat acid corrosion with your engine OIL-PLATED.

Your American soldier carries the keys to comradeship wherever he goes. Have a "Coke", says he to the eager youngsters at home, and it's like saying, "What's the good word? It's a phrase that's understood in New Zealand or Newport, at home or in far-off places. Around the world Coca-Cola stands for the same that refreshes—has become the grammar of good will, saying Let's be friends."

FIELD NOTES

Clifford and Marion Sharp, William, Alex, Dennis and Ralph Perry got a couple of big bears on Meadow Creek last week. On Wednesday they got a she bear in Laurel Run on the Little Allegheny; on Friday they killed a big he bear on the Hog Back. This hunt checks out the 80th bear for that veteran hunter, William Perry.

Dan Carpenter killed the big bear Moody Kincaid marked with a load of bird shot, out on Red Oak Ridge. He is holding for Moody the ounce of shot picked out of the bear's back. One of the little pellets was wedged tight in a crack of the skull. Some grouse hunters had jumped the bear. They sent for Dan, and he came with his dogs. The bear was soon up and going, but before the dogs could bring him to bay, Dan got in his good shot.

On Monday, November 8, sixteen men and eleven dogs went hunting on Gibbons Knob for the big bear which has been raiding Sam Galford's sheep. Rain washed out the hunt and the chase was a water haul. Mr. Galford is short thirteen head of sheep.

One night last week late way-farers on the Marlinton bridge across the Greenbrier met a big raccoon, traveling east. This coon seemed to pay no mind to automobiles, but to get out of the way of foot passengers he climbed up on the guard rail and jumped off into the river, about thirty feet down.

Pocahontas Pelt Tops South Charleston Pelican

Down near Beard, Pocahontas county, recently a group of young men piled out of their car to have rocks at what they thought was a large groundhog as it waddled across a highway. The lumbering creature failed to duck one, high and inside, wound up with a broken skull. The assailants ascertained during a brief inquest that their victim was by no means a groundhog. Harboring a secret fear that they might have been guilty of destroying a protected oter, the group nevertheless succumbed to the suggestion of Chester Bourne of 1010 Stevens Av., Charleston, and brought back with them the pelt of the creature.

The pelt was taken to Stacey Groscup, Morris Harvey student body president and experienced taxidermist and amateur naturalist. Groscup at present is curing the hide which he identifies as that of a badger. Our natural history editor, despite the recent example of the South Charleston pelican, says it can't happen here—but here it is!

Badgers (the technical people recognize four races of them) range from Saskatchewan through the central United States in prairie country. They live principally upon ground dwelling squirrels and prairie dogs which they dig from their burrows and seldom have been seen in timbered regions. The natural

Achievement Day

On last Saturday 70 of the 188 members of the Pocahontas County Farm Women's Bureau held their annual Achievement Day meeting at the Marlinton High School. The reports showed a satisfactory year.

The officers elected for the ensuing year are Mrs. E. L. Outlip, of Lohalia, president; Mrs. Grace Yeager, of Marlinton, vice-president; Mrs. A. T. White, of Minnehaha, secretary; Mrs. Ethel May of Beard, treasurer; Mrs. Walter Shafer, divisional leader. Dinner was served in the dining room of the Methodist church.

County Agent Ben Morgan presented the achievement award, won by Minnehaha Springs Farm Women's Club. The speaker was Miss Gertrude Humphreys, of the Extension Department. Her theme was "Food Fights for Freedom."

Service Board Dedicated

On last Thursday, Armistice Day, Pocahontas Post, American Legion, dedicated with proper ceremony the big board on which are the names of more than a thousand service men. Incidentally, the board has been enlarged to take care of additional names ready to be enrolled.

The speakers were Frank Johnson, Aubrey Ferguson, Adolph Cooper, Paul Overholt, Rev. Fred Oxendale and Rev. J. K. Fleming. The Marlinton High School Band played, led by Miss Edith May. In spite of the severe weather, the attendance was good.

This board was erected by popular subscription, the Marlinton Rotary Club taking the initiative and leading part in setting up an inter-organization committee to get it done.

al history editor suspects this Beard badger had escaped from captivity, but hastily adds that anything is possible in Pocahontas county—where such wonders as Cal Price, the folded rocks, the Beartown ice caves, the Droop Mountain ghost and sheep-killing fairy diddies.

He notes also that the badger would be an excellent mascot for a congressional ways and means committee, because its technical monicker is "Taxidea taxus."—Charleston Gazette

An account in the Nov. 7 edition of The Charleston Gazette of a badger killed by a group of Charlestonians near Beard, Pocahontas county, in October has brought information from Pocahontas county to the effect that a badger escaped from a wildlife exhibit at the Marlinton fair grounds "on or about Aug. 27." Information was provided by Miss Alice Bean, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Bean, of Droop Mountain State Park. Alice hazards the opinion that the escaped badger and the one whose pelt was brought back to Charleston by Chester Bourne were the same animal. Bourne is having the badger hide prepared by Stacey Groscup, a Morris Harvey student and amateur taxidermist.—Charleston Gazette

To the Graduating Class of Greenbank High School my sincerest best wishes to you all. Even though I have been away since May, 1940, I have not forgotten any one of you and I hope some day to once more be with you again. Soon they will be given a series of aptitude tests for determining whether they will be assigned to one of the Navy's service schools, or to immediate active duty at sea.

Upon completing their recruit training, these men will be home on a nine-day leave. They are: Calvin E. Sheets, 18, Rt. 2, Durbin; Lloyd B. Cassell, 18, of Cass; Simpson F. Selection to the specialty school was made on the basis of her past civilian experience and "boot training" aptitude tests.

At Indiana she is receiving expert instruction in storing, recording, reporting, requisitioning and invoicing stocks. Classroom curriculum is supplemented with physical training and recreation periods.

Advancement to the petty officer rating of storekeeper third class awaits her upon graduation.

Deming, New Mexico, October 31, 1943.

Dear Mr. Price:

Just a line from another Pocahontas County boy in regards to my subscription to the Times. I don't know exactly when it expires but I sure do not want to miss any of the issues so enclosed you will find $1.00 for which you please renew it. I sure do enjoy the Times, especially the letters from the boys in the Service all over the world.

As you know I was back there on furlough the first part of this month and I sure did enjoy it too even though it was a short stay. But I will always come back to Pocahontas County every chance I get no matter how short the stay is.

Well, as I do not know any thing of interest to write about I will sign off for now. Tell every one hello for me and keep the Pocahontas Times coming.

Yours truly, Cpl. Frank D. Kincaid, (35396173) 975th A. A. F.—B. T. S. D. A. A. F. Deming, New Mexico.

Pvt. Dennis K. Small was home on a twenty-one day furlough from Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana. While here Private Small spent several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Small, of Beard. He also spent some time with friends at Durbin. While there he visited his brother-in-law, Tom Daniels, of Barlow, and Russell Galtier, of Boyer, the latter whom he wishes to thank for the opportunity they are taking of his daughter, Donna Jane Small, while he is serving his country and her mother, Mrs. Naomi Small is doing her part in the war effort by working in a defense plant in Baltimore. He also visited Mr. and Mrs. Ben Kellison, of Beard. Private Small left a few days early to visit his sister, Mrs. H. G. Slaven, of Ranelle. He will leave there to report back to camp for duty on November 18th.

Corporal Wade Gillispie, who is stationed in California, is home on furlough with his mother, Mr. Howard Underwood, and many friends at Huntersville.

The Bayonne, New Jersey, Journal under date of November 2, publishes the picture of Private Charles Rock, of the Marines, as one of three marines who upheld the tradition of their branch of the service by going to the assistance of Bayonne firemen to aid in the rescue of a man in the room of a brick building swept by fire. CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR

THURSDAY, NOV. 15, 1943

The trip last Saturday was over to Point Mountain, to attend the formal opening of the completed highway from Webster Springs, County Seat of Webster County, to Randolph County line. The invite came from Frank Baxter, District Road Engineer for the counties of Pocahontas, Randolph, Tucker and Pendleton. I was glad to be allowed to go; this scenic highway is a favorite of mine.

Hon. W. S. Wagoner, late Attorney General of West Virginia, was master of ceremonies.

The completion of this road gives a modern, hard top highway between the county seats of Marlinton and Webster Springs, 61 miles, and Elkins and Webster 62 miles. I was about to say all weather or all year round highway, but roads at an altitude of around four thousand feet above sea level in this latitude can be depended upon to catch heavy falls of snow at times.

On Saturday in the bright sunshine of a fine November day, following a cloudy morning, citizens of Webster, along with their fellows from Randolph and Pocahontas gathered on high ground for to enjoy social fellowship, to eat a good lunch, to be inspired by high school band music, to hear a message from our State Road Commissioner, Hon. Ernest Bailey—all so fittingly mark the long look-forward day when the heart of Webster would be joined by a modern highway with adjoining counties and other points east.

By the nature of things, proposed highways east and west in West Virginia, if anything, have right of way over highways running north and south. If this be so, the answer is easy—the flow of travel through the state east and west is certainly so much greater than north and south. Over in Virginia on the other hand, it seems to have been the rule to build up the north and south highways first to catch that line of traffic.

Just here let me put in that it was most appropriate that Commissioner Bailey should do the honors at the formal opening of the Point Mountain road. Ten years ago as Road Commissioner he had handed on to him this thirty mile trail over one of the high mountains of the State. It had been scratched at both ends and some places in the middle, for it had been designated to receive State money through the years when the County Courts had the say of when and where. The first five miles of hard top was put down on the Webster Springs end, and it came only to the place to really climb this mountain or lay off on Elk River to continue on a water grade. The next stab was a like distance on the Randolph county side up to Monteville, where the road lay off one down Valley Fork to Elk River and the other along Point Mountain to Pickens on the north.

All this is just leading up to say the stretch of about twenty miles of road across one of the really big mountains of West Virginia was just another cross-eyed step child with practical engineers. The scenic wonders of the route are acknowledged to be breath taking at first, but our practical school of engineers still hold out against putting general road traffic over a mountain for the view when a way can be surveyed around on a water grade. About the time it looked like the mountain route would be abandoned finally and for all, there came the development of the good coal seams on Point Mountain. The opening of these mines brought in a lot of people, and there came the demand for road improvement to keep these families out of the mud. Public sentiment put one over the practical minded engineers: a prison camp was moved in, and the work is done and everybody happy.

As for the effectiveness of prison labor in road building, we had the public statement of Commissioner Bailey last Saturday that the work of this particular prison camp had meant material saving to the state in comparison to what this job would have cost under contract construction.

Still speaking about roads, Commissioner Bailey states that the department was not only concerned with current problems of maintenance and construction, but was ready with plans for the future; particularly so, as regarding post war problems and conditions. Should peace come soon or be unduly delayed, it will bring with it the problem of employment for the service men and the defense factory worker. To help in meeting this situation the State Road Commissioner has planned ahead for sixty million dollars worth of much needed road construction. He pretty strongly intimated, too, that the road up Elk was one of such projects, laying off to Route 212 in Randolph county by way of Valley Branch and on to 219 in Pocahontas County by another branch of Elk River. You just can't head off these practical engineers with their heads set on water grades. And they are right, even if I do have a weakness to head over the higher points just to look out for the satisfaction of soul.

Point Mountain is a big link in the height of land, extending across West Virginia, to separate the drainage of streams which flow toward the north from those which flow toward the south. Years ago the name of the Bison Range was given to this height of land. The name never seemed to register in popularity. It may be so that the foreigners we hire to get up our school books never did hear tell of Point Mountain and the rest of the Bison Range. I always did deplore the ignorance of educated people.

Trace the Bison Range by starting at a point on the Allegheny in Pocahontas County where divide the Potomac and Greenbrier waters; follow around the head of the Greenbrier to Shavers Fork; thence on the divide between the Shavers Fork and the Greenbrier; thence on to Valley Mountain and Point Mountain between Elk and Tugarts and Elk and Buchanan Rivers; thence to the Ohio, between the watersheds of the Great and Little Kanawha Rivers.

If space permitted, I fail would diverge on the subject of "pirate" streams. A typical example is the great cut by erosion between Valley and Point Mountains. In this instance, of pirating streams, I can only guess that in the millions of ages to come the Elk will have stolen the drainage of Tugarts Valley.

Any way, as for my trip to Point Mountain on Saturday, I can only echo the sentiment of an old timer on Point Mountain. He said forty miles in six hours into Elkins on a good sledding snow. The sun came out, the snow went off, and it took him seven days to draw back in the mud to his mountain home. He said he had enjoyed a pleasant journey. So say I of my trip to the Point Mt. last Saturday.

Our Army and Navy Boys

166th Bomb. Sq. (H) AAF,
459th Bomb. Gp. (H)
Westover Field,
Chicago, Ill.; Massachusetts.
Dear Mr. Price:
It sure is great to be back east again. I did not know until now that the climate could make so much difference in one's morale and feelings. It is just cold enough here to make everyone frisky and full of pep.

We had a nice trip from Tucson stopping for a few minutes at some of the most important cities, to exercise and shake the wrinkles out of our bones.

From the looks of things I should see a white Christmas this year if not a Thanksgiving. At least that will be quite a change.

I suppose hunting season is going over with quite a bang as usual. Maybe there was not as much ammunition available as there was in previous years. If I know the hunters in West Virginia they would go back to the bow and arrow before they would let the deer, squirrel and birds haunt them at night.

I have been rather busy since I came here, not having time to look the town over or meet any of the people here. I have been working practically day and night. I expect to get a day off soon and look around.

Well there are other things which have to be done right now so I will cut this letter short. If it won't be too much trouble, change my address on my paper. I have not received it for almost a month—of course I could not expect to because I never did have the address changed when I left Del Rio. It has to be forwarded through about three different fields to reach me. Give everyone my regards.

Yours truly,

Sergeant Frank B. Crigger

The following is copied from a letter from our young friend, Robert Auldridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Auldridge, of Mill point:

October 20, 1943.

Dear Mr. Price:

It has been a long time since our paths crossed and many changes have taken place, the most of which we can attribute to the war. I know you have received word that I am now in Service but contrary to most boys I am enjoying it. I must say, however, that I am glad it is the Navy and not the Army—thirteen buttons and all—I'll take it.

I did not have too bad luck with my service school examinations.

I wish every fellow had the golden opportunity of receiving military training. You certainly have to think for yourself here and at the same time look out for yourself and everyone else at one and the same time. Our course in airplane recognition, signaling, first aid, etc., are things most appealing and terrifically interesting. I am getting a "bang" out of the whole thing and I hope I can become a good sailor.

As ever,
Robert Auldridge, A.S.
Company 14-B,
U. S. Naval Training Station,

Great Lakes, Illinois

P.T.C. John S. Chappell, of the United States Marine Corps, writes as follows about his trip from his former home in Jacksonville, Florida, to San Diego, California, where he is now located:
We left Jacksonville on October 5 about six o'clock. Boy, was I glad to get away from there! We are in sleepers and did I sleep last night. I slept in the top bunk, and did not even know when daylight came. But when I heard the call forchow I hit the deck right now.

We have seen some nice country so far. I have seen corn, sugar cane and soy beans. Some of the places were getting ready for the next crop.

We finished chow a little while before we hit Mobile, Alabama. We had steak and it sure was good. While in Mobile we saw a large English ship pull out of the docks. We never did see all of it. The ship yards are so long that we couldn't see from one end to the other.

I am trying to write some each day so I can keep up with my trip across the states. We are almost in Mississippi. The conductor said we would be in New Orleans, Louisiana, about seven o'clock. There are orchards all around us now.

I think most of the fellows are playing cards or something to pass the time away. Some are writing, some reading or sleeping. The time seems to be going fast so far, just hope it keeps going that way. Only have four more days and nights to ride.

Well it is almost time for chow. I had to stand watch for half an hour but it passed real quick.

Every meal we have to put on our khaki shirts and field scarfs. The waiters said that this was the best bunch of fellows they had ever fed.

I am back from chow. We had baked Virginia ham and it sure was good. It will not be long now until we will be in New Orleans and will get to see the Mississippi River. I have been in 14 states now as well as I can figure.

We are in New Orleans now and I am too lazy to get down from the upper sack to see what the station looks like, so I suppose I will stay up here and take it easy. We are supposed to stop in Houston, Texas, tomorrow for several hours. I have an aunt who lives there but I do not know her address or I could call her up. I am sleepy and tired from the ride, so will close until tomorrow.

October 7, 1943.

Well, here I go again. Last night after I stopped writing I got up enough to get down and take a gander at the Mississippi River. It was too dark to tell much about it though then I went to sleep and woke up in Marshall, Texas, about 7 o'clock. We have passed through several small towns, most of them about the size of Hillsboro.

We saw two sets of oil fields. The frames were as thick as hair on a dog's back. They seemed to be burning gas or something off the top of them. A pipe was run up about 15 feet and the fire was coming out of the top of that.

This country is certainly something to see. Sometimes I think

I would like to be here. I would get me a job on a ranch some day. We have been doing pretty good since we started. We ate breakfast in Alabama, dinner in Mississippi, supper in Louisiana, and breakfast again in Texas. We are about half way through Texas and will hit the other side tomorrow morning. This state is filled with defense factories and air bases, and most anything else you would want to see. The oil fields are really thick here. I wish I had a couple of them. I would not have to worry about anything then.

I finished the story I was reading while ago, and about that time my eyes started burning. I could not figure out what was causing it so I went out in the fresh air. The porter came by and I told him what had happened, and he told me had put formaldehyde in the car as a disinfectant.

Well, I will close again for the night.

October 10, 1943.

We are now in San Diego, and I have seen every kind of a house from brick down to mud, and what nights, I have never seen before. The orange groves were the most attractive of all. We saw acre after acre of them, and vineyards too. The deserts here are the worst thing of all—that is when we first came into California. It is really beautiful all along the coast though. By jingoes, I have seen both oceans now. I like it fine here. It is a hundred per cent better than Jacksonville.

We sure had a swell trip. When the Corporal took up collection for the porter on our train it amounted to $119.00, and he grinned from ear to ear. He was a nice guy. P.T.C. John S. Chappell, A. E. S. 21, A. B. G. 2, N. A. S. San Diego, 35, California.

Mrs. Henry King, of Paw Paw, sends in the following interesting letter from our young friend and neighbor boy, Elmer Taylor:

October 28, 1943.

Dear Mrs. King:
I received your letter yesterday and was very glad to hear from you. I was sort of surprised to get a letter from you but I knew you had gone to Paw Paw. I saw in the Times where Margie had been visiting you there. I guess you'd miss being in Marlinton and with your children but I suppose we all have to get separated from our families sooner or later. I have not been at home or seen anyone from there in 18 months now.

You asked me to tell you about myself. It would take a long time to tell about all the places I have been and all the things I have seen but I will try to give you some of it. I left the States a year ago, on October 6th 1942, on the luxury liner, "President Coolidge." It hit two mines and sank with us on the 26th of last October just as we were entering the harbor of our destination. It sank just about 100 yards from shore so nearly everyone got off safely but we lost everything we had. I just did get off in time. It was a fine ship and a great loss. I will never forget seeing it go under.

I was on an island in the New Hebrides group for 5 months. Then last March I was moved to Guadalcanal just a short time after the fighting there was over. The Japs still made a lot of air raids but they were not so terribly bad and they never did so much damage. On June 30th I was on the invasion of New Georgia Island. I guess you read about that in the papers. It sure was tough up there and I am certainly thankful that I came through everything alive. I was in two big air raids there and bombs dropped all around me but I was lucky enough to come through them safely. I was in the midst of some heavy Jap mortar shell barrages too and I sure was pretty lucky to come out alive and safe. I was finally evacuated to the Fiji Island on July 17th. I arrived there the 1st of August, stayed there a month and was then sent back to the States and I have been here a month now. I was not lucky enough to get any Japs but they did not get me either.

I guess you saw in the paper that I was injured. The War Department sent my parents word too that I was seriously injured but it was all a mistake. It also said in one issue of the Times that I was in Africa too, but that was also wrong. My only injury if you could call it that was just a mere scratch on the arm made by a tiny piece of shrapnel from a mortar shell. I hardly felt it and it didn't even bleed but a few drops. It could have been my whole arm blown off just as easily though so I sure was lucky. I was sent back to the States on account of nervousness but I am really not bad off. We can get passes here every day and I have been to town lots of times since I have been here.

Life over there was pretty tough and it sure feels great to be back in the States again. All we had over there was just the bare necessities of life. We were lucky to even get a bar of candy once in a while. Ice cream, soft drinks, beer and such stuff were practically unknown. We lived in tents all the time and the ground was one floor. I saw only two towns while I was across and only a half dozen or so white women in 11 months and they were French women. One town was a very small French town and I only visited it once. The other was an English town on the Fiji Island. I visited it half dozen or so times but there was not much in it. There were some English women there however.

One thing I saw enough of was coconut trees. Every island I was on had several big coconut plantations on it. I have no desire to go over there again but I do not really regret the time I spent over there. It sure was some experience. I traveled a round fifteen or sixteen thousand miles just on the ocean while I was across. I spent over two months aboard ships. The trip from the Fiji Island to San Francisco took twenty-two days. That is a long time to see nothing but water.

I do not know just when I will get to go on home but I sure hope that it is not so much longer. I think that I will get there between now and Christmas anyway.

Is Guy still working at the tannery and living in Marlinton? Is Margie still working in Lewisburg? I had heard that Guy was married. It seems as if I am getting left behind. Tell them and Harry hello for me when you write to them and ask them to drop me a few lines sometime. I guess that I had better be closing now but I want to tell you again that I surely appreciate your letter and will be glad to hear from you again anytime.

Your friend, Elmer.

VOL. 41 NO. 15

MARLINTON POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA, NOVEMBER 25, 1943

$1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Over The Top Again

To the Citizens of Pocahontas County:

Our National War Fund Quota for Pocahontas County has been subscribed.

I want to thank every one in the name of our Armed Forces and Associated Charities sharing in this, who in any way contributed to this cause, especially the district chairman, solicitors who worked so diligently, and our county newspapers who kept the issue before the people.

We hope our share will help bring this horrible war to a speedy end.

Pocahontas county has again showed her patriotism and loyalty. Very sincerely,

Harper M. Smith,
Chairman Pocahontas County War Fund Committee

In a statement today, J. G. Hamrick, Manager, U. S. Employment Office-War Manpower Commission, Lewisburg, West Virginia, warns all persons against leaving home to see or to accept jobs away from home until they have secured a Statement of availability.

Mr. Hamrick further states that several persons have left the Lewisburg Area (Greenbrier, Pocahontas and Monroe Counties) within the past two weeks without securing a Statement of availability and gone to other areas. These workers being unable to secure work without a Statement of availability have been forced to return home for this reason, which has caused them considerable loss of time and money. Mr. Hamrick advises every person to contact his office before leaving home to seek employment in order to have this needless waste of time and money by workers who do not possess a Statement of availability. The War Manpower Commission Regulations now in effect make it necessary that any person migrating to another area to seek or accept employment possess a Statement of availability before leaving home.

Elizabeth Hope Wooddell, American Red Cross staff assistant, whose safe arrival in England has been announced, is the daughter of Mrs. Rachel C. Wooddell, Greenbank, W. Va. Until her Red Cross appointment, Miss Wooddell was a student assistant at West Virginia University, Morgantown, and previously taught in the Cass Graded school and was a summer water safety instructor at the State 4-H Camp, Jacksons Mill, Weston, W. Va. She is a graduate of Greenbank High School and West Virginia University, B. S., 1942.

Forty-eight men were called for the Army in Pocahontas County last Thursday for preliminary examination and blood test; all married men and nearly all thirty years of age or older. Pocahontas County now has about ten per cent of its population in the Army and Navy.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Howard H. Hamrick, Clover Lick, on Wednesday, October 27, 1943, a daughter, named Cathleen Joyce Hamrick.

AHEAD AGAIN

Pocahontas County Awarded High Honor

Morgantown—For distinguished service in the production of food and feed during 1943, Pocahontas and Barbour counties have been chosen to receive Agricultural Achievement "A" Awards to be given by the War Food Administration at appropriate ceremonies tentatively scheduled to be held at the respective county seats by mid-December. J. Ward Wood, chairman of the West Virginia USDA War Board, announces.

These counties were chosen for the citations by the War Food Administration from nominations submitted by the State USDA War Board. "A" award will be in honor of the efforts of all farm families within the counties. Comparable to the Army-Navy "E" Award, the "A" award includes a flag and certificate of citation, which will be presented at the ceremonies, accompanied by a special message from President Roosevelt.

The flag has a green field or background, symbolic of agriculture, on which appears a blue "A" surrounded by a white wreath of a head of grain and a half gear wheel symbolizing the relationship of farms and industry in food production. A white star on the flag indicates a first-year award, and others may be added later for subsequent years if earned.

Representatives of the Army will participate in making the award, Mr. Wood says, indicating recognition by the armed services of the farm people, and the award will be made somewhat like a military citation for gallantry.

In determining the counties to be given the awards, the nominations by the State USDA War Board were based on the considered judgment of those familiar with the obstacles to be overcome and the accomplishments. Considerations included production records, improvements in production efficiency, fuller use of land and resources, and the overcoming of severe handicaps. Details of the plans for the program in connection with the awards will be announced soon, Mr. Wood states. Local people in the counties to be honored are planning suitable celebrations for the occasions. In a sense, the awards are recognition of the efforts of farm people in the state and all should feel they have a share in the honor.

Hat Capital
Montecristi is the "hat capital" of Ecuador. It has been a hat-making center for three centuries. Here are made the world's finest panamas and cheap ones, too.

Get Best From Oil
Through a special process, many a natural oil or fat can be separated into individual fractions, each of which is better in quality than the original oil.

NOTICE
On Wednesday, December 1, a committee under the leadership of Mrs. Layman Davis will collect the annual offering of canned foods for the Davis Stuart School and Orphanage at Lewisburg.

Hello Mr. Price:
How are you these cool evenings? I am glad for winter to come this year for I sure hate the mosquitoes.

Would you please send the Times to my new address? They sure are a comfort even to sit around and read.

I am enclosing a poem. The ones who have read it liked it, so I thought I would send it to you. I hope that it reaches you.

Give all my friends my address. I sure miss good old West Virginia. Always a friend,
P. F. C. Loran S. Jordan

"TO MY WIFE"

I know that you are lonely—but there's nothing I can do. Till this troubled world is peaceful and I'm home again with you. I can't even send you flowers to express my love in part. But a car load of flowers—couldn't ease an aching heart.

Now, Alma, you keep on smiling and at times if you feel blue, remember other husbands are fighting. And their wives miss them, too. So you wives stick together, please. Do not worry about us men. And before you even know it, we will be coming home again.

Great Lakes, Illinois, November 13—Willard A. Eskridge, 30, husband of Mrs. Virginia Eskridge, Marlinton, West Virginia, has won an early promotion in the Navy as result of his past civilian training. Because he has had sufficient experience in a trade essential in the Navy, he was advanced to the rating of specialist (M) third class, upon completing his recruit training at the United States Naval Training Station here.

Now home on leave, he will report back to the Station for reassignment to active duty aboard a navy warship or to some naval shore station.

Mr. Price: Will you please change my paper to the address below. Everything is going fine here; hope it is the same there. Willard A. Eskridge, Sp (M) 3-c, Main Post Office, Great Lakes, Illinois.

James E. Beard, Machineist Mate 1st Class, has been transferred from Camp Beary, Williamsburg, Virginia, to Camp Edcott, Davisville, Rhode Island, for advanced training with the Navy Seabees. His address is: James E. Beard, M M 1-c, 14th Battalion, Company C, Platoon 4, Camp Edcott, Davisville, Rhode Island.

Mrs. Myrtle Swisher, of Cass, has received word that her son, P. F. C. Arthur P. Swisher was wounded in action in Italy, on October 1, 1943.

A recent letter from Sergeant Norman R. Had been through an earthquake of considerable violence, but the Army was little damaged, as they had nothing to shake down except tents and grass huts. Sergeant Price says that when the Army left from San Francisco, Cal., in January, 1942, he stated to a comrade that they would be gone five years on this trip, which seemed an exaggeration to most, but now thinks his estimate might not be far wrong.

Private Eugene Hamrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hamrick, of Marlinton, has been transferred from the Infantry to the Anti-Tank service. He is stationed at Camp Shelby, Mississippi.

P. F. C. Carl VanReenan, of an Air Force Division, has arrived safely in England.

Machinery Repaired

The Farm Machinery Repair Class at Hillsboro, W. Va., will start operating November 26, 1943 at 10:00 a. m. in the School Bus Garage. Instructor for the class will be Walter Shaffer assisted by H. B. Fowler.

The classes give Farmers an opportunity to repair their farm machinery. Classes are sponsored by the Food Production War Training program.

For the year of 1944, 368 machines were repaired under the program in Pocahontas County. The farmers attending the Hillsboro class repaired 140 machines.

Pocahontas County was one of the leading counties in the North East Region, which includes 13 States, in repairing farm machinery under this program.

All farmers in reach of Hillsboro should take advantage of this program. The idea back of this program is to keep the present supply of farm machinery in operation for the duration. This is necessary if we are to supply our civilian population our Army and our Allies with the food essential to winning the war.

Very little new farm machinery will be available this year, but repair parts will be available.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR

THURSDAY, NOV. 25, 1943

I guess there is no better way to start this editorial on things in general and farming in particular than to say that neighbor Milbourne Sharp on the Jerico Road, grew 1045 measured bushels of ears of corn on five measured acres of land. All this, besides the stalks the old cows ate and trampled down when they broke into the field and the amount shaded out by the several apple trees standing in the field.

Of course, the answer in part is good ground properly farmed in one good season for corn. The other part of the answer is that Mr. Sharp used for seed the John Johnson strain of dent corn, which he and other descendants of the late John Johnson and others have grown for 135 seasons and brought to such a high state of perfection for yield, quality and maturity through cross breeding and years of careful seed selection.

What burns me up is that the hide bound technicians up at the State Experimental Station have not given this strain of corn the recognition it deserves as the one particularly suited by reason of early maturity, heavy yield and high food value for the higher levels of the Alleghenies' highlands. Their objection to the John Johnson corn is that it was not fine enough haired as yet to be considered pure blood; they say it too often throws a red ear. Why doggone an occasional red ear is sign of good corn. A red ear is traditional as adding zest to any husking bee.

I know how how wild the country has gone over hybrid corn. It is still in the experimental stage. There is much to recommend, and there is still much to learn. No one can give hybrid corn higher, more intelligent recommendation than I do, when I say that if I could not get the seed of the John Johnson open pollinated corn, I would be tempted to plant some one of the hybrids which have proved out to be satisfactory on our soils and at our altitude.

I have not time nor space nor as yet the preparation to write a needful article directed to the corn doctors on the necessity of beginning to look a little cut in order to take steps to preserve the better strains of open pollinated corn. It is from such the hybrids are bred. If we ever get out of parent stock, we will be out indeed. The outcome from hybrids is any thing but uniform to say the least.

Anyway, a thousand and forty-five measured bushels from a measured field of five acres is not to be sneezed at by any corn belt farmer, nor overlooked by any cross-eyed corn doctor, plant pathologist—even if there was as much as a bushel of red ears in the whole turnout.

John Johnson was an Indian fighter and Revolutionary soldier. As a mere boy he was at the defeat of General Braddock in 1755. He carried home from this battle a foot adze which is now in the possession of his descendant, Theodore Moore, of Marlinton. It was said of John Johnson that he was a large raw boned man, who had double teeth all round. He ate his trout whole, never bothering to bone them. In 1710 he was living on his plantation, Jerico, of more than a thousand acres. The word had come that corn had matured on Muddely Creek, in what is now Nicholas county in the season of 1809, and that such could be bought for seed. Early in the spring John Johnson went across Black Mountain to bring back some of this seed corn. On his return the clouds came down and he was lost for four days. He got so hungry he tried to eat a snake, but it was no go. He toughed it through without ever giving up his precious seed corn. Ever since, this good corn has been grown in the farms of the Jerico Road, mostly by the descendants of John Johnson.

In 1905, the late Andrew Moore began to cross the Johnson corn with a pure bred champion strain of Dent corn. He got a few ears ripe enough for seed. In a few years he had a superior strain, just as early and dependable as the Johnson Corn, but heavier yielding. I have known Mr. Moore to grow as much as 400 bushels of ears on two acres.

Milburn Sharp, another descendant of John Johnson, early took an interest in the corn grown on his father's farm, a part of the Johnson lands, also in what his neighbor, Andrew Moore, had done in improving the strain. He carried on the work, and it has been highly successful. It has developed into an expert seed corn picker. Milburn found that two distinct types of ears showed up. Some were on the flint order while others showed the true dent characteristics. Through the years, by careful seed selection, a uniform ear leading toward the typical, softer dent corn has become pretty well fixed.

I do not contend that this particular strain of corn should supplant tried and true varieties down in real corn country. I do contend that our own people should quit wasting time and effort to no good purpose by sending out for new strains of corn, good elsewhere and no good here, when local seed is available from high yielding, early ripening corn, with almost 140 years of successful growing behind it.

For many years, until suspended for the war's duration, we had a yearly farm event in the Grain and Potato Show. This did wonders in the way of crop improvement in our Pocahontas. Year in and year out John Johnson corn won blue ribbons at this show.

Do they raise John Johnson on my little farm? Sure, up on my Jerico this year there is a dozen acres. While the yield per acre is not up to Milburn's record, on paper and in the field it looked like an Iowa corn crop.

Incidentally, being as I am signing off, let me say it would be good for Pocahontas and other high ground farmers to place early with Milburn Sharp an order for some real seed corn. The charge is reasonable.

There is much I should write on our basic industry, agriculture. I have in mind a chapter on sheep, and the progress which is being made with the Master Shepherd's Contest. The big idea is to get in line 250 of our best sheep men; for to have them keep records of production cost, to arrive at annual profits per head of the ewes kept.

For a generation or more, Pocahontas sheep were on the down grade. I know about parasite infestation, over-pasturing grass on sheet-eroded land, breeding from scrub bucks. These are all mighty bad, but much has been done to enlighten ignorance along these lines. Ever since the lamb has replaced the yearling wether as our market mutton sheep, the farmer has had the temptation to face—to sell his prime ewe lambs at half price, to save the low priced ewe for breeding. This has produced like, with the result of all too many cull lambs.

A chapter must well be written on the tax on acre of good ground is a public asset, while an acre of poor ground is a public liability, no matter who owns it. This, of course, would lead to comment on the logging and fertilizing of pasture lands, which is bringing back our blue grass.

Then, too, I hear indignation, rumor and even report there is possibility and even probability that of all the fifty-five counties of West Virginia, good old West Virginia, good old Pocahontas will be crowned queen of them all, for "exceptional production," seasonal food processors and outstanding production marks by her people. The award is by the War Food Administration. We all did her, boys, by hearty, loving cooperation. Really, it is worth mentioning the intelligent interest manifested by local newspapers, banks, business and professional people generally. And in saying, it is not taking any of the glory from those who actually did the work.

I do not know what we are going to do with the decadent counties of Greenbrier, Monroe and Randolph, if and when we carry off this big E for top excellence in food production, and they have not attained. I can tell Editors Ed and Will Blake, of the West Virginia News, if they had devoted more editorial space to the gentle art of farming and the heavenly grace of peace among neighbors, and less space to political controversies, such as scandalizing poor Wendell Willkie, why old Greenbrier would raise more taters and less hate to the acre.

Our Army and Navy Boys

November 8, 1943.

Dear Mr. Price:
Just a line to inform you of a slight change in my address so I will be sure to get my Times OK. I am enjoying the paper. It is a treat to any Pocahontas County boy. Only what is wrong with the big hunting tales!

I am sure there have been very few turkeys killed. If you hunters do not get busy we can rest assured that there will be a little game left when the boys come marching back. What has happened to the Tacey boys? I have not heard of any bear tales from them.

I know the Pocahontas County hunters will have a big time killing deer in the Watoga State Park, especially with bow and arrow. I worked 13 months there in the CCC and I know there are plenty of deer there.

We could track them down good here today for it has snowed all day and can the wind ever howl across these Ozark mountains? The Ozarks are beautiful but give me the good old West Virginia mountains.

If I get in until the 28th of this month in the Army I will be in three long years. If you remember I was the first to leave Pocahontas County under the Selective Service Act. I guess I will close by saying keep the papers rolling and we will keep the Japs and Germans "Running." I enjoy reading the many interesting letters of the boys scattered all over the globe. So please keep them coming. My address is:

Staff Sgt. Carl Kismore,
Service Battery, 730 F. A. Bn.,
A.P.O. No. 451
Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri.

The following poem was sent in by Delbert Cogar, who is serving in the Pacific area:

"THE HOME GUARD"

By P.F.C. James A. Johnson.

(The author was killed in action shortly after this poem was written on the beach at Gona, New Guinea.)

I'm pulling all my punches, I've flung my week away,
I think it's been two months at least, since I last drew my pay.
I'm tired of being a "dogface," so me God, I am—
Of eating molded biscuits, with margarine or Spam—
Of fighting dirty, stinking Japs in the bushes on my own.

When I think of dear old America and my pals, who stayed at home,
I can see them walking down the streets, their chests puffed out with pride.
And hear them telling to the girls, as they save their precious hides!

While I'm here in New Guinea, not even safe to show my head
For fear some skulking Jap might fill it full of lead.
Back when I told the folks at home that I'd volunteer to fight.

They said "God Bless You, son and return you home alright."
They called me a chocolate soldier, a twenty-one-dollar tourist, too.
They said "You'll never see the front, or even get a view,

What's more, you'll have a plane across the ocean's foam.
But they made damn sure they didn't get they preferred to stay at home.

You know those guys were not bad shots when they trailed a rabbit track—
But hell, there ain't no danger, see, for rabbits don't shoot back.

They shine among the "stay-at-homes" and brag of the United States,
But dance halls, bars and pool rooms are where they meet their fate.

A cue stick is their rifle, and their beer is rich with foam;
They have no bullets to dodge, my pals who stayed at home.

So I'll mount my post with my rifle, and buckle my belt about, I'm only a common dogface, but I'll see this damned thing out.
And if a bullet's got my number, I'll just die without a moan;
But I want to dedicate this especially to my pals who stayed at home.

November 7, 1943.

Dear Mr. Price, I am writing to you to ask you to put this poem in your paper and want you to let me know how much your paper costs for one year. There are seven boys on this ship with me from Pocahontas County and we would all like to get the news from back home. Thanking you for printing the poem, I am Yours truly,

Dlen Mayes, S. C.

KEEP 'EM FLYING!

Remember the day at Pearl Harbor,
When bombs hurled down from the skies
Causing death and destruction,
And forced many heroes to die.

They dropped on our land without warning,
It was part of the enemy's plan
To show us how common and filthy,
Are things that are made in Japan.

For years we have treated them kindly,
We traded with them as a friend;
But now since that day at Pearl Harbor
They've started a fight to the end.

We're all in it now to the finish,
So let's all be stony and brave;
And the flag that will fly when it's over
Will be ours and long may it wave.

Our heroes will meet them in battle,
On land, in the air, on the sea;
But to keep them supplied with full armor
Is the job that's for you and me.

It's all for the sake of our buddies
And after the Victory is won,
We'll all stand together in Freedom;
And see what our efforts have done.

It's worth quite a bit to be working,
With friends that are faithful and true;
And try hard to just keep 'em flying,
Those Planes that are Red, White and Blue.

(Unsigned poem from the Aberdeen Flaming Bomb.)

Private Dennis K. Small, stationed at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, sends in this one:

KEEP THIS IN MIND

Oh, somewhere there is some one,
Your mother, sweetheart or wife,
Who is waiting for your letter
To brighten a dull life.

They do not ask for a long one,
A little note will do,
To make them very happy,
Because it came from you.

So write these letters promptly
And send them off today;
You like to get mail, don't you?
Well turn about is fair play.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Brock received the following letter from their son, P.F.C. Arl Brock, of Camp Forrest, Tennessee. They live in Rocks, Maryland:

Arizona, August 14, 1943.

Hello Everybody:
At last I am on my way back east, after being here almost five months, but it seems like a year.

I got on the train this afternoon at 1 o'clock and as the train moved slowly off you could hear the beat of the drums and the bugles as the band played, "Hail, Hail, the Gang's all here." The sound of the drums died softly away as the train increased its speed as it headed further east.

The weather here is a awful hot and dry and it is some cloudy in the west, the wind is blowing and the sand is terrific. The desert here has more vegetation than was in the camp which we left. There are not any mountains in sight. The sand is blowing so bad we cannot see for any great distance. To look at it from a distance it looks like fog.

We are now close to Phoenix, Arizona. There is some farm land here and some cattle. This is a real nice place to be in the west, compared to some places. Personally, I think the good old days in the west have passed, especially in this part. We are now Phoenix. From what I could see, the majority of the people are Negroes and Mexicans.

The sand storm has cleared and you can see plenty mountains; it also seems some cooler. There is plenty of vegetation here from the look of things. As the train moves on eastward you can see more farm land and herds of cattle. It looks like we are off the desert but there is more to cross.

August 15—We have come through Arizona and we are now going through New Mexico. The country here is somewhat like Arizona, but the mountains here are lower and have some vegetation and it is somewhat cooler here. There is nothing here very interesting to write about.

We are now in El Paso, Texas. This is a real nice place. "Deep in the Heart of Texas." I am sure you have all heard the song. Movie star "Miss America" known as Rosemary Japant came from Texas. You know it is a beautiful state.

We are now leaving El Paso, and are passing Camp Bliss. It is a real nice place what I can see of it.

It seems like it is chow time. Well here it is. It is a racket as they call it in the Army. You sit in your seat and they bring you your chow. All you do is to eat, sleep and write.

As the train moves farther east we cross more of the desert. There are some mountains on both sides of the tracks. There are a few small farms through here but they are quite a few miles apart. I call them farms but they are all old ranches that have been there for many years.

We are now back in New Mexico. We just came through part of Texas. We just stopped a few minutes at a little Mexican town. Some of the soldiers gave some little Mexican boys pennies and nickels to sign. They think they are rich to get an American nickel. It is about three times the value of their nickels.

August 16—We are going through Oklahoma. There is some nice country here and I see lots of cotton and corn. There are no mountains in sight. This state is really nice; it's level as far as you can see.

We just came through El Reno, Oklahoma. There are some oil fields here. It is awful hot. A hose broke on the train and while it was being repaired people came along and gave us books and papers to read. The country now is rolling land with some stretches of wooded area.

August 17—We just came through Little Rock, Arkansas; crossed the Arkansas River. We came through some mountains. The country here is rough; some farm land; most of it is grazing land. There is some breeze now and it is very nice and cool.

We are now in Tennessee. We crossed the Mississippi River at Memphis. The country here is rough and there are a lot of small towns. Memphis is a nice town. Most of the people I saw were Negroes. Of course every city has two sections; one the colored, one the white. It always happens we go through the negro section. We crossed the Tennessee River through to Tullahoma and arrived at Camp Forrest at 5:00 A. M., Wednesday morning, and that was the end of our journey.

Probation Of The Just
By Adversity

"Rejoice in the Lord, O ye just."—Psalm 124

1. Joy is eternal in heaven; sorrow is eternal in hell; both dwell occasionally on earth to prove the good and the bad.

The sky is pure and serene in summer, dark and cloudy in winter; so also is it with the devout soul; when the grace of God comes and illuminates it, it discovers many truths which were before unknown, and understands what before it understood not, and expresses in songs of gladness the happiness which it feels.

GOD'S COUNTRY

There was one event in our history that gave us the greatest heritage that has fallen to any people in the history of the world. It was the greatest human achievement since the creation and marked the greatest event in six thousand years of world history save only the birth of Christ.

Picture the condition of the country before the constitution was written. The mob drove our congress from Philadelphia into New Jersey. Shay's rebellion assailed the constitution in the State of Massachusetts. Money was worth two and one-half cents on the dollar. We had no credits anywhere. Grave concern was on every side. Many of the people wanted to abandon further effort of independence and turn back to the monarchies of Europe.

In that black hour of chaos and darkness fifty-five men sat in Philadelphia in a constitutional convention. After five weeks of futile effort, after looking over the history of governments of the world they found a startling fact. That in reviewing the centuries of history prior to the constitution they found that in no country to which the historians could point and truthfully say: There was a government that worked well and was a success. After five weeks of futile effort to get ideas from six thousand years of world history of governments and found nothing that worked well in any country in the history of the world. They found no fundamental ideas they could agree upon. They were discouraged and felt defeated. They were ready to abandon the great purpose for which they had met.

In a heated discussion when they were about to move to adjourn and end the convention, Benjamin Franklin arose and addressed George Washington (Chairman) and said: "In this situation of this assembly, groping as it were in the dark to find political truth and scarce able to distinguish it when presented to us, how has it happened, Sir, that we have not hitherto once thought of humbly applying to the Father of Lights to enlighten our understanding?"

George Washington called the convention to prayer and they asked for Divine guidance. Then happened the miracle of the ages. There was revealed to that tired, discouraged, defeated convention the seven fundamental principles of government that had never been granted to any people in the history of the world. "In all those thousands of years there was no government that secured for the people religious freedom, or freedom of speech, or Civil Liberty, or freedom of Press, Security of Individual Rights, or Universal Franchise, or Popular Education."

Where did these seven fundamental principles of government come from? George Washington recognized the author when he said, "The event is in the hands of God."

 Columbus, Ohio.

The other night, Penick W. Underwood, of Beaver Creek, heard a commotion among the chickens. He took the shot gun and Mrs. Underwood held the lantern. A great horned owl had caught the old rooster. The big eyes of the owl glowed back like head lights. Mr. Underwood took the head off that owl, but a stray shot fixed the big rooster at the same time. It was found this owl carried a half-pound steel trap on one leg. It had been on for some time. The owl had a wing spread of four feet and six inches. The rooster he was holding down weighed seven pounds.

Teacher Fred B. Mouser, of Minnehaha, shot at a wild turkey one day last week. One broken wing was the serious damage to the fowl. Look where he might; Mr. Mouser could not locate his game. He let things quiet down a bit, and then came a fox, chased the turkey out and killed it. The fox got away.

Some weeks ago over at Richwood, Mr. White was out hunting. There was not so much doing. A crow came flying by to light on a dead snag, and how he did him over something. Taking a long shot, Mr. White brought him down. No sooner did the dead crow hit the ground than out of the bushes came a wildcat, leaped upon it. Another shot and the wildcat was dead also.

Obviously, Cecil Curry, operator of the municipal water plant, found under the big water wheel the famous fish which he shot off the pier at night. Recently he has not been finding any fish, and so the other night he did not. Next morning he was sick at heart to find that a four pound bass had come through the flume, to perish when the water was shut off.

Jimmie Gibson got a 20-lb wild turkey gobbler; Leonard Mace and Marion Sharp, each a gobbler. All on Elk Mt., but on different days.

For a couple of days the last storm the wind was from the east bringing rain to flush out the streams. The day after, big white sea gulls were seen feeding in Greenbrier River. Just occasionally, days following high winds from the east, do gulls visit this valley.

One Tuesday night, not long since, clouds hung low over this town of Marlinton. Seuddling before the searching wind of late fall, the mist reflected the town lights. There was mottled places where the shine of a growing moon almost showed through. The creeping chill of coming snow was in the air, as this beated householder hurried home, to a warm seat in the chimney corner and the nine o'clock news broadcast. Then I heard soft whisperings of flying wild geese, as they gently broadst their positions to each other thro' the mists of a foggy night. I stayed out, a looking and a listening until I got cold pain in the back and crick in the neck. I saw no flying phantom forms nor heard rustle of angels' wings. However, the gentle whispering persisted. I could not make up my mind whether this was a great flight of geese, requiring half an hour to pass a given point, or merely a flock of a dozen or two, lost in the fog and circling the lights of the town.

C. C. Sharp, of Frost, was visiting his children, Mary Opal and Earl, in Pearisburg. While there he tried his hand at elk hunting, but had no luck. Earl got a 900 pound bull with fine, big antlers.

Along The Way

By Susan A. Price, M. D.

Looks like the history market might be showing signs of rallying. I have received letters from as widely separated localities as Fort Arthur, Texas, and Hampden Sydney, Virginia; inquiring about lines of descent making it possible to qualify for membership in the honorable and steadfast organization, Daughters of the American Revolution. I wrote back the best I could—that descent from Jacob Warwick, soldier of the Revolution; was one of their lines which made them eligible for membership in the D. A. R.

As an after thought I dug deep in my archives for the following obituary notice of ancestor Major Jacob Warwick, published in the Richmond Enquirer, of Tuesday, January 31, 1826:

ANOTHER REVOLUTIONARY WORTHY GONE

Departed this life after a short illness, at the house of Colonel Charles Cameron, of Bath County, on the 11th day of January, 1826, Jacob Warwick, Esq., late of Pocahontas County, and in the 80th year of his age. For the last 60 years Mr. Warwick has filled a large space in the public eye; his virtues were, however, rather of the domestic and retiring character. In the relations of husband, father and friend, he was worthy of all imitation. His charities extended relief to all the sons and daughters of want and affliction within his reach; his hospitalities anticipated the wants of every human being who called at his mansion, seeking shelter or refreshment; his benevolence and good will to man embraced the human family. Having devoted his time to the education and respectable establishment in life of a very numerous family of children and grandchildren, in which his success even surpassed his enterprise, he sought not, indeed he declined, all public honors and appointments although none within the gift of his acquaintances could have been withheld. Thus lived and thus died Jacob Warwick. Mark the just man; surely his later end is peace.

The paper says Jacob Warwick was born 1745, died January 11, 1826.

The historical virus is in our blood; paper, pamphlets, magazine collect from generation to generation, to the end that the long dead still speak.

These historical societies give convenient and permanent means of preserving family records for coming generations. I have been more or less of a joiner in my time; too often neglecting to take the expense budget seriously enough in time to avoid the embarrassment of falling behind in dues.

The U. D. C.—short for United Daughters of the Confederacy—was about the first of the initial letter society I joined. I belonged to the charter society of the King's Daughters at the Old Stone church in Lewisburg. To my knowing, no one ever referred to it as K. D. in that unforgotten day. Mrs. Alex Mathews was head of it. I still have the membership certificate which I was (and still am) so proud of.

I have attended few meetings of the King's Daughters. I have done somewhat better in the way of attendance by the U. D. C. here and there in my wanderings from home and friends and relations.

Not so long ago, in attempt to boost membership in the U. D. C., the name of a lady citizen of public spirit and enterprise was suggested. She said she would like to join with her neighbors and associates. However, she wondered if she was eligible; her father had been a guard over President Jefferson Davis when he was imprisoned at Ft. Mifflin. That was the last I heard of that.

Sea Bee Mann, of Modesta, California, now stationed at Camp Peary, was sitting with Mrs. Mann on the front porch of Marshall Lodge, when he asked me if I ever knew any one in Marlinton, West Virginia. I said I had seen the day when I knew every one in Marlinton, West Virginia; that being my home place. Did I ever know Mr. B. E. Hamilton? Seebe Mann as a youth in Oklahoma had known him as a fine man. He liked to dwell on this friendship of days gone by.

We all are getting warnings from the post office here about congesting the Christmas mail service. So, my small store of Christmas cards and mail is now going out. The building seems to be enlarged each year to care for increasing mail. With Christmas greetings to all, go the good wishes for a speedy victory and a glad return to our usual way of living at Christmas. Marshall Lodge, Williamsburg, Va.

There is little cause for mirth in occupied Europe and even the children have little stomach for play. Millions have been orphaned by Nazi guns or labor camps; all are undernourished and will bear the scars of this war to their dying day.

Expert Says Soldiers Have Better Voices Than WAACs

Soldiers have better natural singing voices than the WAACs; in the opinion of John R. Jones, one of eight USO music advisers now conducting group singing and training song leaders at USO clubs. Although the WAVES show an eagerness to take song leader training courses, sailors make better song leaders; the conclusion reached by Oren L. Brown, another USO music adviser, from his experience with both groups at USO clubs. "Soldiers sing 'The Caissons Keep Rolling Along' with thrilling snap and abandon," Jones said, "but when it comes to songs my mother taught me, the WAACs impart a delicacy and sweetness beyond the reach of men."

Jones said that a greater proportion of WAACs have brought the habit of singing with them into the service, and sing well. "Soldiers are slower getting started," he said, "but once they get under way they take a second seat to no one; not even the WAACs. I have no doubt that the WAACs themselves would candidly admit that they prefer a male chorus to a woman chorus any time."

Women's voices with all their contrast and color sound best when they have men's voices for a foundation. In the average WAAC and soldier's groups musical ability is about on a par.

Explosive in Rivet Now

Radio frequency energy now is used to detonate explosive rivets and spread production of aircraft.

The radio unit assures instant control of temperature in the firing tip, eliminating time consumed in heating an electric iron to operating degrees and in frequent changes from one tip temperature to another. This method is adaptable only to large scale production. The electric riveting iron, now used widely, is still preferred for many types of work.

Explosive rivets were introduced two years ago, breaking a bad bottle-neck in fastening airplane sections where riveters could work from only one side. They are installed at a rate of 15 to 20 a minute, as contrasted with two to four a minute for most "blind" fasteners.

The rivet has a high explosive secreted in a cavity at the end of the shank. Heat applied to the rivet head detonates the charge. The explosion expands the charged end of the shank, forming a "blind" head and setting the rivet.

Says Soil Losing Nutrition

The human species is degenerating as a result of declining soil fertility, Dr. William A. Albrecht of the University of Missouri declares. "The nutritional bases for our plants have been slipping to lower levels," Dr. Albrecht says. "The plants, in turn, are giving forth of lower nutritional values to animals. The human species, likewise, is moving to lower levels. Keen minds among the doctors of medicine and of dentistry have seen degeneration in bodies, minds and souls taking place at the highest rate among our peoples—claiming the maximum of knowledge, invention and standards of living. The soil fertility on an individual farm can be depleted enough through failure to return

FARM RECOGNITION DAY IN MARLINTON

Friday Afternoon, December 17, 1943
AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Pocahontas County was placed at the head of all West Virginia Counties in the 1943 Food For Freedom Campaign. In token of appreciation of the efforts of the Farm Families of Pocahontas County, the War Food Administrator will present a Banner and Certificate of Achievement to County Agent Ben Morgan, at public exercises to be held Friday afternoon, 2 o'clock, December 17th, at the Marlinton High School. A good program is being arranged. A message from the President; a representative from the War Department will be present; the High School Band will play.

FIELD NOTES

I am still holding out for a record kill of 300 head of deer killed in Pocahontas County last week. The returns should be in from Charleston by next week.

Any way, there were 26 head killed in Seneca State Forest and 19 in Watauga State Park.

While I think of it, if you have a deer hide to donate to the Armed Service, to help keep our flyers warm, why give it to Game Protector Robert McComb, or leave it at A. B. McComb's store in Huntersville. Bobby had 25 nice hides the last I talked to him.

Here is a true story from Alleghany Mountain. The drive was around the head of Laurel Run, and two big bucks and some does came out where a visiting hunter was standing at the game fence. He picked out one of the bucks, emptied his gun, and the deer went away from that place, unhurt. The hunter then began to look for the other buck. Believe it not, there lay the deer; dead from an accidental shot through the head.

Hubert Pyles, of Seebert, got the big white buck deer in Watauga State Park. It was clean white in color, with fine antlers, four spikes to the beam. We all have been hearing about this deer for several years, in and around the Park.

Brown McComb and party in Buckley Mountain, head of Stillhouse, came where a pair of buck deer had been fighting. The ground for a quarter of an acre was torn up. By a log lay a big deer, dead for several days from deep body wounds—gored to death. This deer had fine, large antlers, four points to the beam, and both beams alike. The horns were on the crumple order, the beam ends almost touching; good to look at, poor to fight with. The hunters read the sign that the other deer had straight horns—maybe a spike, or a fork horn, or a cow horn—to get under his rival's guard and punch his liver and lights out.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Naval Training Station, Sampson, New York—Bluejacket Melvin Dale Hollandsworth, S 2 c, of Hillsboro, West Virginia, has completed his basic recruit training at this model naval training station on the shores of Seneca Lake and has been granted leave.

Upon his return to Sampson, he will be eligible for further assignment which may qualify him for a petty officer rating.

Norfolk, Virginia—Harold F. Byrd, 20, son of Mrs. Clyde E. Byrd, of Cass, West Virginia, is in the latest group of aviation cadets to complete training at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Florida, and has been commissioned ensign in the United States Naval Reserve. Ensign Byrd took the elimination course last April, May and June, and reported at Pensacola July 29. His commission is dated November 16, 1943.

Simpson Gragg, Jr., of the United States Navy, is home on a nine day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson Gragg of Cloverlick. He has finished his boot training at Great Lakes, Illinois, and will be sent to a Training School upon his return.

Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana—Private Eugene P. Dilley, son of Hevener Dilley, of Huntersville, West Virginia, has been transferred to A. A. F. B. T. C. 1, Jefferson Barracks, Missouri, for basic training.

Grant LeRoy Edley, 1908 N. Charles Street, Baltimore, Maryland, a former resident of Marlinton, has enrolled in the United States Maritime Service in Baltimore. He will undergo a training period from three to seven months at one of the United States Maritime Service Training Stations. Upon successful completion of this course he will be qualified to serve on a merchant vessel in the department for which he was trained.

ing Center, here, for duty with the Army at Howard Signal Depot, Baltimore, Maryland.

WAC girls here are at work with the Army on more than 268 posts in all 48 States, the District of Columbia, and overseas.

Jobs with the Army in which WACs now supplement soldiers, number well over 400, ranging alphabetically from accounting to weather-observing.

Ready to join the ranks of the "huskies" these ground crew members who "keep 'em flying" for Navy, is Charles Ayling McLaughlin, 27, son of Mrs. Charles A. McLaughlin, Route 2, Box 43, Dunmore, West Virginia, who recently graduated from the Naval Training School for Aviation located at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Navy Pier, Chicago, Illinois.

The Bluejacket, who has earned the rating of Aviation Machinist's Mate, third class, was sent to the specialty school on the basis of his "boot training" aptitude test scores which indicated his aeronautical proficiency. He is now awaiting active duty assignment to a naval air base or to the fleet at sea.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory E. Anderson have received word that their son, Emory, Jr., of the United States Navy, has arrived safely overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schofield have received word that their son, Harry J. Schofield, of the Air Service has been promoted to the rank of First Lieutenant. Recently Lieutenant Schofield was awarded the Air Medal and the first bronze Oak Leaf Cluster for meritorious achievement while participating in anti-submarine patrol flights in the Atlantic area. The citation stated that "accomplishment of many of these missions were made under the hazards of unfavorable weather conditions and the possibility of encountering anti-aircraft fire."

Fort Sill, Oklahoma, November 26, (Special)—Archie D. Sharp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Sharp, of Marlinton, and husband of Elizabeth Sharp, of Marlinton, West Virginia, has arrived at the Field Artillery Replacement Training Center, Fort Sill, Oklahoma, for basic training.

Private Sharp has been attached to Battery C, 32nd Battalion, 8th Training Regiment. He was inducted into the Army at Clarksville, West Virginia, on November 1st. At the time of his induction he was employed as a machine operator by the International Shoe Company, at Marlinton.

Junior Officer Jimmy Slaven, of the Maritime Commission spent a short furlough with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Holesapple, of Renick, and R. B. Slaven, of Marlinton. Junior Officer Slaven recently graduated from Maritime Officers School in St. Petersburg, Florida. On his return he went to New Orleans, Louisiana, where he was assigned to sea duty somewhere in the South Pacific. He was accompanied by Junior Officer William Weiss of Bridgeport, Connecticut.

Maynard (Pete) Knapp, formerly of Second Avenue, Marlinton, has enlisted in the newly organized Ship Repair Unit of the United States Navy, as Carpenter Mate, Second Class.

Homar C. Gordon, Seaman 2nd Class, has completed his "boot training" at U.S.N.T.S., Great Lakes, Illinois, and spent a nine day furlough here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Gordon. He returned to Great Lakes last Thursday and will be sent to a service school from there.

W. Robert Miller, of the United States Navy, returned Saturday, to Great Lakes, Illinois, after spending a 12 day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Miller, at Dunmore.

Charles Moore was home from the Army last week on furlough with his mother, Mrs. Elmer Moore.

Ensign and Mrs. C. O. Roberts are spending several days of Ensign Robert's short furlough from the United States Navy with relatives at Marlinton and Point Pleasant.

Washington—Army personnel wounded in action in the Mediterranean area included four West Virginians, three of whom are from Pocahontas County, the War Department has announced. They are Corporal Roy W. Hall, son of Mrs. Mary J. Hall, of Hillsboro; P.F.C. Arthur P. Swisher, son of Mrs. Myrtle Swisher, of Cass; Corporal George D. Thompson, son of Grover C. Thompson, of Millpoint.

Corporal Craig C. Sharp, stationed at Camp Butler, North Carolina, was home over the week end with his father, Cliff Sharp, at Frost. He is wearing bars denoting Pre-World War Service, American Theatre of War Operations (Overseas service), and good conduct. Corporal Sharp is back from 22 months foreign service. He was back in the States last year on a short furlough, making the trip by plane.

Headquarters, European Theater of Operations—Light planes, originally designed for "pleasure flying" serve as "winged observation posts" for a United States Field Artillery unit now training in the British Isles. Among the soldiers in this outfit is Calvin Wilfong, of Boyer, Pocahontas County, West Virginia.

The planes, Piper Cubs, are piloted by trained artillery observers and are used to spot targets for 105 and 155 millimeter howitzers.

Besides getting used to working with airborne observers, this artillery unit is getting "toughened-up" training preparation for Invasion Day. This training includes long route marches, range firing with the guns, and firing with small arms which are carried for security purposes.

The Cass P. T. A. will meet December 21 at 7:30 p.m. A pageant, Christmas Night, will be presented under the direction of Miss Arbuckle and Miss Harper.

Pocahontas Ahead Again

Morgantown—Lime is basic and fundamental to soil improvement and soil maintenance in West Virginia, and much remains ahead to be done, when all soils in the state are considered, says J. Ward Wood, chairman of State AAA Committee, reporting the extent to which the lime maintenance requirements of the soils of the state are being met by lime supplied in connection with the AAA farm program.

Up to this time, he states, considering the state as a whole, only about 50 percent of the lime maintenance requirements of the soils are being supplied by means of lime furnished or obtained or obtained in connection with AAA program. Maintenance requirements, he points out, do not take into consideration the amount of lime needed to bring the soil up to the desired condition but only the amount needed to hold in that condition after the basic requirements have been met.

Requirement Test Advised

Agronomists of the West Virginia Agriculture Experiment Station advise that in order to use lime to the best advantage a lime requirement test should be made, and state that few soils will require more than five tons of good ground limestone per acre on crop land or two tons per acre on pasture to bring them up to desired condition. Many soils will require that much. Applying more than is needed will not benefit the crops, and is not making the best use of the lime available in increasing food production.

After the basic requirements have been met, applications equivalent to 400 pounds per acre per year on cropland and 200 pounds per acre per year on pasture will in general meet the maintenance needs, the agronomists say. It may be more practical, however, to apply larger amounts at intervals of two or three years than to make yearly applications.

Some counties, Mr. Wood points out, are approaching the amount needed to maintain the lime needs of the soil, but many are falling far below the maintenance needs, to say nothing of the amount needed to begin with.

Leading Counties Given

The leading counties outstanding in their lime activities over the last five years, and including 1943, as compared to their respective cropland and pastureland are as follows:

Pocahontas 110 percent, Ohio 90 percent, Randolph 89, Tucker 86, Hancock 85, Brook 85, Preston 81, Greenbrier 80, Jefferson 80 percent.

Mr. Wood states that while the amount of lime being used under the AAA farm program in the state, which averages $29,000 tons per year during the last five years, looks like a big sum, it is far below the total maintenance needs calculated at 700,000 tons of ground limestone per year. It is even less than what it should be.

Much has been done as compared to pre-AAA days, Mr. Wood comments, but in the years ahead there is still a great deal to be accomplished in the matter of soil-building in West Virginia.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR

THURSDAY, DEC. 8, 1943

In the last couple of generations it has become an unwritten rule in American politics not to make direct personal attack upon the man occupying the station of President. This of course, does not apply to the little rindies who have allowed their feelings to be stirred to the point where they decide themselves that they hold personal hatred for the man himself. The big shots, who make heavy medicine for the opposition, are none too good to string poison and set fire, but they know how a turn in the variable winds of politics could blow the poison gas and smoke back into their own faces. They remember how the venting of personal hate by self-seekers against Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln, Cleveland did so much to bring the common people to their senses to defend their champions. You know the old saying, they loved them for the enemies they had made.

The attack upon an administration, according to hoyle, is to pick out some member of the cabinet to put the heat on, and there center the fire. For instance, early in the Roosevelt era, the attack was on the postmaster general. They said he was this and that, and something else and all to the bad. He thrived on abuse, and under his management the second term election was a greater popular triumph than the first.

Then push was changed to pull; they fed him on soft corn to choke him on the cob. The place there of soon knew him no more, and great was the fall therefrom. The last I heard tell of him he was confabbing with the republicans, and he was a telling of them to spend their campaign money in Kentucky if they wanted to realize on investment.

Then the fire was concentrated on the devoted head of the lady member of the cabinet. She stayed put, and it gradually dawned on the old gray wolves that the two things they had in common with the number one labor agitator was their mutual dislike of the President and this particular member of his cabinet. So the hounds were called off a long time back.

All this tedious writing is mere preamble to say that along last summer plans were laid deep to take a fall out of the Secretary of State, being an international relations were in the forefront of public interest by reason of the favorable turn in war affairs. The querulous charge was made that we had no international policy. They, as I read the sign, had been plunging with Cordell Hull's heifer for the intimation was strong that if Sumner Welles were given room according to his strength all would be well; we would have foreign policy; we would bring home the bacon from Moscow. Welles was willing; for a show down he submitted his resignation. He was taken at his word, and the place thereof knows him no more.

Under date of September 6, Time Magazine published among other things under the head of "One More Scarp." Cordell Hull had again got his man. . . . The endorsement of the press of Sumner Welles was surprisingly wide spread, its condemnation of Franklin Roosevelt and Cordell Hull, surprisingly severe.

The political cemetery is full of head stones carved with the names of those who have crossed the will of the feuding, cussing Tennesseean, who heads the State Department. . . . The U. S. still wants clarification of its foreign policy, and the forced resignation of Sumner Welles made an already murky issue even more obscure. Until that issue is plain, angry Cordell Hull can expect peace. — End of quote.

The scene is still Washington, but the time has changed from late August to early November. The President has again been proven right in his refusal to send a boy to mill. Cordell Hull is back from his great success at the Moscow agreement conference with Churchill and Stalin. You cannot keep a good man down.

So, under date of November 8, Time Magazine, published among other things, under the head of "New Horizons." Out of Moscow comes an agreement of such scope few men had dared hope for. . . . The spirit of the whole meeting had been amazingly good. State Secretary Hull deserves a great deal of credit for that spirit. . . . Now as of November 1, 1943, good, grey Cordell Hull has placed himself and his men squarely on the record, the U. S. Government like the U. S. people, wanted no more compromise with Fascism or with Fascists or semi-Fascists. . . . The plain problem of the immediate present was victory. The greatest virtue of the Moscow Conference was that its first purpose was to guarantee victory. — End of quote.

Then under date of November 22, Time Magazine published, among other things, under the head of "Return of the Eagle." Cordell Hull, 72, had stood his first plane trip well. . . . He stepped out of the Douglas Skymaster to hear cheers, such as he had never had in his ten years as Secretary of State. . . . Said Franklin Roosevelt, "We'll give you the keys of the City." More and more nos. gavs fell at the feet of Mr. Hull. Winston Churchill termed him a gallant eagle; Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden called him the father the Moscow Declaration's security clause. The left wing U. S. press, which had clubbed him over the head for months, stammered apologies. End of quote.

Annual Community Meeting And Exhibit

The Annual meeting of the Frank neighborhood was held a few days ago at the school house. The program report showed that something has been accomplished during the past year. Six families butchered 4650 pounds of pork, 500 bushels of corn was produced and 100 bushels of potatoes. Every family in the neighborhood grew a garden and has vegetables canned and stored, sufficient to meet their needs through the winter. The families have all purchased Defense Bonds and contributed to the Red Cross and the War fund. The Four-H Club under the efficient leadership of Ida Choise, has completed their projects one hundred percent. A Red Cross First Aid class is being conducted by Mrs. Choice in cooperation with Miss Dunlap of the Brownsburg school. The production of food in this community has been accomplished by the people without any man losing one hour from his regular work in the tannery. Too much cannot be said in behalf of the local leaders and the teacher Mrs. Choice, in their enthusiastic leadership, nor for the community as a whole for their very fine work in contributing to the War effort.

At their Annual meeting Dr. C. F. Hopson, Director of Bureau for Negro Welfare, gave an able talk on health and the dangers of social diseases.

Opl. Charles D. Shrock, of Camp Haan, California, and Miss Mary Elizabeth Eagle, of Renick, West Virginia, were quietly married Monday, November 22, 1943, by Rev. Sprague, of Oakland, Maryland. The bride was dressed in a navy blue coat and dress, with black accessories; her shoulder corsage was red and white sweetheart roses.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Eagle of Renick, and is a graduate of Renick High school.

Following a brief honeymoon trip in southern West Virginia, the bride will return to Washington, D. C., where she has been employed for the past year. The groom will return to duty at Camp Haan, California. — E.

Pointing out the desirability of purchasing fertilizer and other supplies for 1944 crops, well in advance of the planting season, Field Supervisor R. E. Harbert of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office at Elkins has announced that he is now accepting applications for crops and feed loans for spring planting.

The war Food Administration is urging the early purchase and storage of farms of fertilizer required for 1944 crop production. Due to the tight labor situation, transportation difficulties, and limited storage facilities off the farm, considerable quantities of fertilizer must be purchased and delivered to farmers over a six month period rather than the usual sixty day period.

In order that farmers in this section may cooperate and purchase their fertilizer, seed, and other supplies at this time, the emergency crop and feed Loan Office is prepared to make loans up to $400 to those farmers who are eligible. Advances on these loans will be made as the money is needed.

Crop loans are secured by a first lien on the crops to be produced and feed loans by a chattel mortgage on the livestock to be fed. The interest rate is 4 percent per year. Farmers who wish to apply may communicate with Field Supervisor Harbert, Box 267, Elkins, West Va., who will arrange to accept their applications.

He's delighted to find his own room unchanged—everything just as he left it. He's pleased, too, to discover other familiar things, such as, the pause that refreshes with ice-cold Coca-Cola. This happy custom is part of American home life. Yes, for friendly refreshment nothing takes the place of Coca-Cola. Have a "Cola" is the universal invitation to relax and be yourself. Our Army and Navy Days

Mrs. W. A. Sage, of Slavy Fork, sends in this letter from her son.

William C. Sage, S. 2-c, 32nd & First Avenue, South Brooklyn, New York, November 6, 1943.

Dear Mom: I will write you a few lines to let you know that I am alright and getting along fine. We are in Italy now but will not be here long. I hope we start for home pretty soon for I sure would like to see home. This is a nice town to go out in but it is not so safe.

How is everyone at home? Is Russell still working at Baltimore? Has Ray gone up there yet? I suppose Dad is still working every day as he always did. Does Denn still hear from Keith? When will he get a leave?

Well, Mom, I will close for this time for I have to wash a few clothes. I hope to see you soon. Your son, Cecil.

November 21, 1943.
Dear Sir: I would like for you to change my mailing address from Durbin, to the address below as I am very anxious to get the Times once more and see what is happening back in old Pocahontas.

I like it real well out here. The weather has been just fine so far. It gets a little hot in the afternoon but the mornings and the nights are swell. The leaves are just beginning to fall here and are real pretty on the trees, only they do not have the variety as we have back home. About all the ones I have seen so far are oak and not so large at that.

The Cadre here are all men who have served in the Engineers overseas. They are really a nice bunch of men, and are well qualified for the job, to which they have been assigned. Their job is plenty tough too, for it is no easy task for officers to take a bunch of rookies, who come from every walk of life and turn them into soldiers, and especially engineers, in the time they are allotted for the task.

Looking forward to receiving your paper in the near future, I am
Respectfully yours,

Mrs. T. G. Alderman, of Beaver Creek, sends in the following letter from her son, Glenn Spinks.
England, November 13, 1943.

Mother:
Will write today as I want you to hear from me again. Maybe you are not getting all my letters but please do not worry I will be alright, and will try to write to you more often.

I have been well and like my work and I do not mind it over here. It is rainy and damp most of the time and gets a awful muddy. I would not mind seeing a little snow myself.

Hope you all are O. K. and you must take care of yourself. I am sending you our papers, maybe you will like to read them and if you get the Times maybe you can send it over here sometimes. I get these papers every day and "The Yank" on Saturdays and if you like them I will save them all for you.

I had a couple of letters from Vivian the other day and one from Opal and Clyde. It is about time for mail call again. Maybe I will get some mail tonight. I have only heard from Warren once, and Nelson once in a long time. I had a letter from Kathleen too, the other day. Has Teddie gotten alright?

Well, mail call is over and I did not get anything tonight. Just have to wait it out until tomorrow night.

Be sure and send me Warren's address when you get it. I wrote to Uncle Guy for Harlan's address.

Have received no more packages yet. Have been looking for one from Vivian and Aunt Sally. They have been mailed for quite a while.

Well that is about all I know to write but will write again soon. Good night and best wishes.
Love to all, Glenn.

Pirate C. A. Baker, who receives his mail in care of the postmaster, Los Angeles, California, sends in the following poems:

"We've Done Our Hitch In Hell"

I'm sitting here and thinking Of the things I left behind, And I have put on paper what is running through my mind. We've dug a million ditches and Cleared ten miles of ground. A meaner place this side of Hell is waiting to be found.

But there's one small consolation, Gather closely while I tell, When we die, we'll go to Heaven, For we've done our hitch in hell. We've built a million kitchens, For the cooks to stew our beans, We have 'todd a million guard mounts, And we've never acted mean. We've rolled a million blankets And washed the Captain's duds. We've washed a million mess kits And peeled a million spuds. The number of parades we've stood Is very hard to tell, But we'll not parade in Heaven For we've done our hitch in hell. We've killed a million bugs that Have crawled from our ears, We've pulled some million centipedes From out our dirty sheets, And we have 'marched a million miles

And made a million camps, The grub we've had to eat at times Has given us the cramps. But when our work on earth is done, Our friends behind will tell, "They surely went to Heaven, for They did their hitch in hell." When final taps are sounded and We've laid aside life's cares, We'll do our last parade upon Those shining golden stairs. The angels all will welcome us, And harps will start to play. We'll draw a million canteen checks And spend them all one day. The Great Commanding Officer Will smile on us and tell, "Come, take the front seats, gentlemen."

For you've done your hitch in hell."

Lament of the D. T. C.

(The D. T. C. is Desert Training Center, and it sure is desert enough. Some boys in Arizona made up the poem.)

Out on the windswept prairies, The D. T. C. is the spot, Fighting terrible dust storms, In the land that God forgot.

Out in the brush with rifles, Eating the dry old dust, Doing the work of convicts, And too darn tired to fuss.

Out with the snakes and scorpions, Out where the skies are blue, Out on the windswept prairies, Two thousand miles from you.

We are the boys of the D. T. C., Earning our meagre pay, Guarding the folks with millions, For a buck and a half a day.

No one cares how we're living, No one gives a damn, Back home we're soon forgotten When we're loaned to Uncle Sam.

All night the wind keeps howling It's more than I can stand, Folks we are not convicts, We are defenders of our land.

For the duration we must stand it Many years of life we'll miss, Don't let the draft board get you And for Heaven's sake don't enlist.

November 13, 1943.

Dear Mr. Price:

This evening I will drop you a few lines as I do not have much to do. How is good old West Virginia treating you? I sure miss all my friends back home.

How is the weather out there by this time. Guess there has been some snow back in the hills. We are sure having plenty of rain and fog today you can hardly see your hand in front of you.

Face in your paper I am receiving that the Marlinton football team sure is getting along swell this year. I also see they have been killing a few bear over on Williams River. I guess they must be getting pretty plentiful around there.

I sure would love to be back there for deer season, but I guess I will be hunting a different kind of game. You can kill one for me.

I am sending you a poem. You can print it if you will. I sure enjoy reading your paper. It sure brings news from home too.

Thanks for sending the paper to me. Well, I will close for this time.

A Friend,
Jesse A. Shinnberry, S. 2-c.

"Somewhere In the Pacific"

Somewhere in the Pacific where the sun is like a curse, And each long day is followed by one slightly worse; Where the coral dusts blow thicker than the shifting desert sands, And the white man ever dreams of cooler, fairer lands.

Somewhere in the Pacific, where your sweetheart back home is never seen, Where the sky is never cloudy, and the grass is never green,

Where the clouds are never white, and the rain is never clean,

Where the stars are never bright, and the moon is never keen,

Where the flowers are never red, and the leaves are never green,

Where the birds are never free, and the fish are never seen,

Where the wind is never soft, and the rain is never clean,

Where the clouds are never white, and the rain is never clean, or two weeks. We can go into town every night if we want to.

It took us four days and four nights to come here from Great Lakes, Illinois.

Send Bernell my address, and tell him to write to me.

The weather is like summer here. I will be glad when my ship comes in so we can go and get this war over and all come home soon. Tell Teddy as soon as I get my pay I will send him candy. Tell Dad to get him a job where it is warm this winter.

Do not worry about me for I will be O. K. Guess you are tired of reading this Mother, so I will close for this time. Answer real soon. As ever, Your son, Loren O. Kelly.

Mrs. Dennis Jackson, of Baltimore, sends in this letter from her brother, Earl.

Africa, October 16, 1943.

Dear Sis and all:

Just a few lines to let you know that I am O. K. and hoping that you all are well. I guess you have been wondering why I have not written. The only excuse I have is that I was too lazy.

I am in Africa now but I was in Italy for awhile.

Are Dennis, Della and Opal still working? How are Edgar's and Grace's? I have not written to them either. I do not know Grace's address. Has Granyll been up lately? I guess he is still stationed in Washington. Have you all been home lately?

Well as news is scarce in Africa I will close. I will try to write more often from now on.

Your brother, Earl.

Mrs. C. W. Dilley, of Dun-more, sends in this letter from her son, Kyle, who is in Service:

In Camp, November 18, 1943.

Dearest Mom and all:

I will try and write you a few lines. I am O. K. and hope you all are fine. It is a nice day down here. I know there is snow back home by now. I hope to get a letter from you all today. I got a letter from Doris Wednesday. She and Clark were well. I would love to see them. He is a big boy by now. I know that Doris would like to see me but we are leaving here any time for a new camp. I would not have time to see her. But do not worry. Mother, for I will be O. K. I hope to see you all soon. This might be my last letter from this camp but I hope not. I had a letter from Lawrence. They were all well. Skip Ruth was going back to work. That will help them a lot. He said he would get out his cook books again and cook.

What is Dad working at now? I wish I was back home helping Dad get wood. Yes, I got Calvin's box of candy. I would like to see him. I had a letter from Mabel and one from Edna.

I would like to be with you all tonight. Do not send me any more boxes. I do not know where I will be Christmas but I hope to be in the United States. I hope to be home for Christmas. Well, I will close for this time. So good night. Love, Kyle.

VOL. 41 NO. 21

MARLINTON POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA, DECEMBER 16, 1943

$1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Our Army and Navy Boys

Mrs. Raymond Shrader, who is with her folks in Ellicott City, Maryland, sends in this letter from her husband:

Hi Honey:

I am off this afternoon, and this will be the only time I will have to write today, so I will try and catch up on my correspondence.

We had a strict inspection this morning, a lot stricter than usual, but everything was fine. I sure do hate inspection mornings, and they are always on Saturday morning. We spend several hours after work on Friday night, getting ready for Saturday's inspection and it is always a relief when it is over.

You asked how I am taking the long hikes now. They do not bother me much any more. We had a twenty-four mile hike one day this week, and the first four miles had to be made in forty-seven minutes. We were in a dog trot most of the time, but we made it in record time. The men are taking the hikes better now, than at first. I can remember that first long hike, when sixty or more were sent to the hospital afterwards. I wasn't one of them, but could not have taken many more miles.

The weather down here has been warm for the past few days. Hasn't rained very much since I have been here. I expect it will be really cold, when it does turn cold, for we are not very far from the coast. The cold here won't be like it is in Pocahontas, for it is very damp, and I expect it will seem like it goes through a person.

We were out on the rifle range practically every day last week and three days this week. Last for practice, and this week to determine our scores. I made a good score—195 out of 210—the highest score of any Private in our Battery. This qualifies me as an expert. The Lieutenant made a score of 194 and the Corporal's score was 196. The officers said me how I learned to shoot. It was unusual for a Private to make that kind of a score. They have not been so good on the rifle range for a long time.

One day I was detailed to haul coal in one of the big trucks. I went to the motor pool, but did not haul any coal all day, just beat in time most of the day. I sure appreciate days like that, for they do not come very often in the Army. Maybe my getting Government driving license helped a little after all.

I want to go into Wilmington this afternoon. It will seem good to get out among civilians again. We had pay day this week, so I expect most of the men will be out of camp. I had so much money I had a hard time getting back to the barracks with it. I might have enough to take me to town and back. Use your own judgement on how much pay I got.

I must shave and get dressed or I won't get started for town today. Give my regards to the family—and I'll be thinking of you.

All my love, Raymond.

Corporal Lyle E. Meeks has arrived safely Overseas and writes as follows to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Meeks, of Stony Bottom:

November 29, 1943.
Dear Mom and Dad:

Maybe I had better get busy and write a few lines to let you know I am O.K. Hope these few lines find you both well. I suppose you have heard that I have not written. I have not had time to write for a couple weeks. Guess you wonder where I am. I am somewhere in England, and Mom that is a long way from home. I was pretty sick for a few days but I am feeling fine now. I believe I am going to like it fine over here.

Have you heard from Short lately? Send me his address so I can write him a few lines. This

This letter was sent in by Mrs. Glenn Moore, of Cass, from her brother, Gerald Nottingham, who is in the Navy, and is going across:

December 3, 1943.

Dearest Sis:

I will try to answer your letter I received today and I sure was glad to hear from you and to know that all are well at home. I was sorry to hear that Glenn has gone to the hospital, and I hope he gets along fine.

I was stationed in (censored) for about three weeks and liked it O.K. We rated liberty there every night but there was nothing but sailors there, so sometimes I just went to a movie, which are free to us on the base.

I have been transferred to my ship and I like it fine. We get liberty every other night and we go out and have some swell times.

The weather here is very changeable, first is nice and warm, then it gets cold with a heavy wind. I have one cold right after another.

I sure did hate to miss out on all the hunting back there in West Virginia for I always did like to hunt.

I get letters almost every day, and I really enjoy reading about the things that are going on back home. I get mail from a lot of friends and from Mother and Dad.

I suppose there has been a lot of snow in West Virginia this year but I have not seen a bit of snow and I miss it. No, I do not know where Jim Collins is. I have not seen him since we were in "boot training" at Bainbridge, Maryland. I sure have gotten acquainted with a lot of swell guys since I have been in the Navy but you no more than get to know one than he is shipped out.

I have not seen Lucille since we left Bainbridge, but here is hoping it will not be long until will see you all. Will now sign off in hopes of hearing from you soon.

Love, Your brother, Gerald

Brother Meets Brother

While on leave from his transport, Sergeant Edward L. Poague of Spice, was fortunate enough to meet his brother, Garland W. Poague, also a Sergeant, who was on leave from his post somewhere in England. It may be interesting to note that these two brothers who had not seen each other in almost four years, would meet on one of the shores of our greatest ally, both in the uniform of our country and both having achieved the rank of non-commissioned officers. Needless to say a mighty good time was had as far as they both were concerned. These boys are sons of Mrs. Ruth Poague, of Beard.

Mrs. Edith A. Bussard, of Minnehaha Springs, sends in this poem sent her by her son, James, who is serving with the United States Navy in North Africa:

BIRTH OF A GREETING CARD

'Tis the month before Christmas and I'm going mad.

All my cards should be mailed and there's none to be had; I've searched the whole neighborhood. I've really worked hard but they ain't got it, they ain't got it, they ain't got it.

No, I have no alternate, what could be worse.

I'll sit in my foxhole and write my own verse.

No, tinsel, no garland, no ribbon so bright.

Not a chance in a million that Christmas'll be white.

No tree in the window, no wreath on the door.

No last minute shopping, we don't have a store.

As for Dunder and Blitzen and the rest of the crew

There is no place for reindeer, they simply won't do.

Dear Santa, to remain on the ball, some camel or donkey replacement call.

Or better, St. Nick, so as not to get stuck.

Requisition a jeep or a good GI truck.

But, whatever is lacking, the spirit is here.

We'll celebrate Christmas with plenty of cheer.

And what I'm sending with this rhythmic trip.

Is the same old greeting to smoke in your pipe.

May your Christmas be merry

Farm Family Day

On Friday, December 17 at 2 o'clock, at the Alpine Theatre, the County Agricultural War Board, Wilbur Moore, chairman, will receive banner and achievement certificate as awards to the Farm Families of Pocahontas County for outstanding excellence in producing war food among all the counties of West Virginia.

The Army will present the banner and the Department of Agriculture the Certificate.

There will be music by the Marlinton High School Band; and a well arranged program. There are a good many on it, but the promise is that all will be short and to the point.

The Farm Families of Pocahontas County did most excellently in carrying out the program of increased food production. Of course they were short handed, and of course there was a shortage of machines and repairs, and of course there were some few who said it could not be done. But the Farm Families of Pocahontas County did it, and in addition improved their lands by the application of 3,000 tons of AAA phosphate and 200,000 lbs. of AAA lime. Over 1200 farmers signed up under the AAA program.

and your New Year day! (And may I be home by the end of May!)

Two local boys, Jody Moses and James Michael, write home that they have met in Sicily.

THURSDAY, DEC. 16, 1943

Talking about deer fights, up on Paddy Knob, the two Wal-lis brothers of Minnehaha Springs, heard one powerful rack-et of whistling, snorting animals down in the woods. They fig-ured bears a fighting. Getting closer they saw it was five big buck deer. Two of the deer made for the young men. These they shot down. For a little time it looked like the other three bucks might have to be killed in self defense.

Earl Sharp of Frost, is working at Pearisburg, Giles county, Vir-ginia. Over twenty years ago, a number of elk were brought from the Yellowstone country, and in Wyoming, and turned out in the Mt. Lake, Angels Rest and No. Business parts of Giles and Bland counties. For the past several years there has been an open season on elk in Giles and Bland counties and this year was no exception.

During the open season Earl had half a day off, and with a friend, Edward Morris, he walked to the woods to see where the elk were staying. Late in the afternoon, they found the elk were low down on the ridges, in the flat woods, where there are swamps, big timber and acorns. There was some snow and finally they came to fresh sign of seven elk, where they had been rooting in the leaves for nuts. Too late to locate the game, the hunters called it a day and quit.

Early next day Earl and Ed were again on the job. Climbing the mountain in the dark they heard a wild cat squeal. On top they had to wait for day. Soon they picked up a couple of fresh elk tracks, but they had not fol-lowed far when they saw where another hunter was following the same tracks. Cutting across country towards the swamps, they came upon two more tracks, which they figured were made by the same elk they had first fol-lowed. Finally Earl saw one of the elk—a spike bull. The cover was thick, but he took a shot. He hit it but not in the right place. The elk went into a hollow and there another hunter killed it.

That was rotten luck, but the hunters continued towards the flat woods. There they found another elk. Here the woods were open, with a vision of a couple hundred yards or more. Directly Earl heard some-thing: walking and hitting the trees like a man with dry pole on his back. He hunkered down and soon out walked as big a bull elk as any one would wish to see. He was walking along and horn-ing the small trees out of his way as unconcerned as if no one were around. His antlers came in sight first; then his big body, as high as the shoulders of a man's head; from the shoulders back a kind of a roan color.

When the big elk came to an open place with no brush between Earl whistled, and he stropped broadside. The first shot was right behind the shoulders, but with a grunt the great animal reared to his hind feet and pranced around. Four other deadly shots were required to get him down, though the second cut the jugular vein. Any one of the five shots would have stopped any deer right off.

His elk was lumped off at 900 pounds or more. The fine ant-lers carried six points to the beam; 33 1/2 inches across from tip to tip and 45 inches from head to end of beam. That was a big rack to carry through the woods.

It was all mighty interesting hunting and bagging such big game, but a considerable of a problem to get the game out of the woods. There was a walk of nine miles to get four men and a truck. The six men had to carry the meat, head and hide about five miles through the mountains to the truck.

This was the largest elk killed in that region this year. It was number 55. Earl estimates the number of elk left in the moun-tain where he hunted at one hun-dred and fifty head.

A young farmer friend of mine runs a trap line during fur season along Greenbrier River and Knapps Creek. He had been do-ing real well by muskrats, but this entailed looking the traps each morning. During the six days of the deer season, he knew he was not going to have any too much time to run his trap line, so he changed over to muskrat sets. Except with water sets, he al-ways figured it took three or four days for a set to weather up for a muskrat. The fourth day, the trapper did take time out from deer hunting and sure enough he had two muskrats as big and pretty as any one would like to see. They were perfectly matched in size and color. They were caught close together, one on one side of the river and the other on the other. I hear fur prices are high this winter, and those muskrats are liable to bring in the price of a good big calf.

A couple of the sons of Morris Friel have been trapping for fur around their home on Swago. The other morning they went to look their traps, and in one steel trap they found two nice, big raccoons—one a piece. The way they read the sign is that a couple of coons were coming along together; both saw the bait and each reached a paw to grab it. The timing must have just per-fect for both of them to get caught as the jaws of the steel trap sprang shut. Who ever heard of the like of that!

An old timer and his boys have been coon hunting down in the Oldham woods east of the Green-brier, opposite Beard. They are not seeking publicity, but on the quiet way they told me there are at least two panthers working on deer herds of the Oldham woods and the Watoga State Park. The other night they heard two pan-thers squalling to each other, one from the High Gap and the other from the Horse Face. Another night they came upon the freshly killed carcass of a deer, so fresh the meat was still warm. The panther had eaten his fill from the neck and shoulders and cover-ed the rest with leaves. At an- other time the tracks of a big panther were found in a soft place on Oldham Run.

A hunter over on Anthony's Creek killed a chunk of a rattlesnake on December 3, while deer hunting. On December 2, P. W. Underwood, of Beaver Creek, hunting deer on the top Beaver Lick Mountain, came onto the biggest "hop" toad he ever saw. The toad was a bit stupid from the cold. Mr. Underwood did his good deed for that day by dig-ging a nice round hole and bed-ding the toad down in leaves.

WINTER plays no favorites

WE'VE HAD JUST a little touch of win-ter up to now. The biting winds, snow flurries, and heavy freezes are yet to come. We've put everything in readiness for weather emergencies and we hope our electric users also have taken a "stitch in time" by checking over their appliances, their fuse plugs, their lighting fixtures to make sure they'll go through the winter without preventable difficulties. It's patriotic—and good sense, too—to keep your electric helpers working full time. Just take care of them... and they'll take care of you!

In Memoriam
In sad but loving memory of my dear son Berlin S. Fitzgerald whom God called away two years ago the 16th day of December. Today recalls sad memories of a dear one God called away And the ones who think of him now.

Are the ones who love him best today. That dark morning in December, The saddest day of all the year—I shall always remember it, My eyes will always fill with tears.

That sad morning Olen came and told me That Berlin dear was dead: Oh! the sorrow, I could hardly stand it, Wish it had been me instead.

The world will change from year to year.

Our lives from day to day. But the love and memories of you dear Berlin Shall never, never, fade away.

In my heart your memory lingers Sweetly tender fond and true, There is not a day, dear Berlin, That I do not think of you.

Do not ask me if I miss him, There is such a vacant place; Often I think I see him coming And can see his smiling face.

Days of sadness still come over me, Tears in silence often flow Memory keeps him ever near me, Though he died two years ago.

No one knows just how I miss you In these dark and trying hours, But I know it will soon be over And we'll live where there is flowers.

Where there will be no more sorrow And we'll never say good bye In that home where Christ our Savior Has prepared for us on high.

Two lonely years have ended, My broken heart unhealed, Why it was God's will to take you Some day Christ will reveal.

Written by mother, Mrs. Brown McComb.

Page of Hillsboro, Fred of Cass, Woodford, with the U. S. Army; two stepsons, Earl and Eugene Copen, of Cass, two step daugh-ters, Mrs. Myrtle Smith of Ports-mouth, Va., and Mrs. Beulah Smith of Freeboro, Md.; one full brother, and sister; six half brothers and three half sisters; also thirty-three grand-children, two great grandchildren and two step grandchildren.

And thus closes the life of a remarkable man in many ways. He was a kind husband, father and neighbor.

His funeral was conducted in the Methodist Church by Revs. Blackburn and Arbogast. He professed faith in Christ a few days before his death and left his testimony that he was all right, and for his family not to grieve for him. He was buried at Stony Bottom. H. B.

On Wednesday afternoon the funeral was conducted from the home by her pastor, Rev. N. M. DeHaven. Her body was laid to rest in the Wantless Cemetery.

She was married to Winters W. Sutton, December 18, 1895. She was a life long member of the Methodist Church and a friend to all.

We've all been sad this lonely year through. For our dear Mother so loyal and true.

But in all your suffering through night and day God in His wisdom took you away.

Our hands were willing our hearts were true. In every kind act we did for you. Like a flower you faded and passed away.

But will live in our memory from day to day. We still miss you, but we will miss you.

There will be one vacant seat, But in Heaven we will meet you. When our journey is complete. The Family.

A Message from the

PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

Food is a decisive weapon of war. Victory depends as much on our ability to produce food as on our ability to manufacture guns, planes, and ships. Our army of farmers and processors are fighting an important battle on the food front. Working diligently and skillfully, they are speeding this Nation and our Allies on to victory.

Franklin D. Roosevelt.

AGRICULTURAL ACHIEVEMENTS

OF POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA

1943

Pocahontas County farmers have met their 1943 goals for Agricultural War Crops. At the same time the soil fertility of the County has been maintained and in many cases improved through the use of 8,000 tons of 90 percent phosphate and 20,000 tons of lime.

By using information furnished through our Neighborhood Leader System and other organized groups, Pocahontas County people are feeding themselves better, and are contributing more to the total food supply. They have produced, preserved and stored more vegetables, meat, eggs, milk and cereals than ever before to make our County recognized as outstanding among all the Counties of West Virginia.

Our success has been due to the cooperation of individuals and organizations. A spirit of neighborliness prevailed throughout the County. Each farm family, by working harder and for longer hours, has made its definite contribution to the total War effort.

The War is not over. Still greater efforts on the part of the people of Pocahontas County is required to produce the County Food Goals for 1944.

Is he still there? I received a letter from Geneva mailed the 28th of October and she said he had not gone but was going soon.

How have you been? Do hope you are lots better and the rest are all well. I suppose Wilson and Neill are going to school and hope they are getting along fine.

I finally received a letter from Arnold. He sent me two pictures of Diana but none of the boy. Diana sure is cute and of course a lot larger. In case they did not tell you they call the baby Arnold John. Said they were getting along fine and he had a much better job.

Did you receive the bag check I sent? I also sent another bond receipt in the letter. Are they sending them to you now and how many do you have. I have not received any for some time and thought maybe they were sending them to you.

I am still at the same place and am well and getting along fine. I do not know how long I will be here but hope it will not be much longer as I could stand a change. It is still hot here as usual. I suppose it is getting cold there by now. It has been so long since I felt cold I would not know what was wrong with me if I was frozen. ha ha.

How is Aunt Clef and does she still come up to see you? I answered her letter quite a while ago but have not received an answer as yet. Do hope she is real well. Has Woodie ever been drafted or did he get deferred? I suppose Wilma is still working in Baltimore.

How are Leona and the children? Hope they are real well and getting along fine.

Went to church this morning and enjoyed the services very much. The chaplain is young but is a very good talker. He is very friendly and all the fellows like him. Do hope you are able to go to church as I know how well you like to go.

I will have to stop for now but will write again real soon. Do hope there is not anything wrong and you and all the rest are well. With lots and lots of love to all, Berthol.

The following letter was received by Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bruffey, who is serving in the Armed Forces somewhere in India:

November 24, 1943. India.
Hello Mother and Dad:
I will try and answer your letter this morning while I am waiting for the sun to come up. Some of the boys are not up yet and what are up are talking and going on like a bunch of little kids; all seem happy and well. I was up at five this morning. I do not guess you know that your son puts the great Flag up and takes it down. I do not mind it one bit, but I do wish it was back where it belongs and I was with it.

How is everybody in Lobelia? That it is a wonderful place now since all the boys are gone. Are there any boys at all around?

Now we will talk about India. Let's start with the country itself. There are some places that are very nice, what I mean by that is, along the small streams is green grass and a few trees. But most all that I have seen is rocks. There are a few mountains as they call them, but they are just a small hill to me. It really is a wonderful place to be but not to stay for any length of time. The people here are just about two thousand years behind the times. They still use the old oxen and bull carts. Their taxi is a cart drawn by a horse. They have a vehicle called a rickshaw, it is a three-wheel concern, one man sits in it and paddles it like a bike. They have a few cars but they are old.

Well, Mother, that is about all I can think to write and I have to write to Glen and Delbert, so I will close for today. Write to me real often for I love to hear from home. So goodbye and here's wishing you loads of luck.
Love always, Your son, Hunter
November 16, 1943.

Dearest Mother and all:
How is everyone at home? Fine I hope and as for me I am getting along just fine now and am expecting to get out of here most any day now and boy, will I be glad for I have not gotten any of my mail since I came to the hospital and that don't work with me.

Today is the first time I have gone out of my ward and it felt pretty good to, but my throat is a little sore yet.
How is the weather at home? I suppose you are having snow there by now and boy, would I love to see some good old snow for I have not seen any since in March, 1943, and that is a long time when one has been used to it all his life.

Well, there isn't much more for me to write but tell Dad to kill a buck for me and I will try to get him a German or a Jap.

So bye bye mother and tell all hello for me and to write to me real often and tell me all the news.
Love always, Your son, Hunter

Mrs. Clyde Sheets sends in this letter from her son, R. W. Sheets of the United States Navy:
November 14, 1943.

Dear Mother and all:
I am really ashamed of myself for not writing for so long but I have been waiting to hear from you. The last letter I received from you was written on October 19th. Do hope nothing has happened and you are not sick.

Did Dad come down and if so runs it and paddles it like a bike. They have a few cars but they are old.

Well, Mom, I am a s. n. today and will have to get going and will finish later.

Well I have taken the flag down and had supper. While I am waiting for the show to start I will finish this letter. I have not heard the name of the show yet but most anything looks good over here—even the India women are getting whiter every day.

We sure have fun with the women over here. We ask them something and they just look at us foolish like. But I shouldn't be talking, I am the same way when they talk to me. In another year I will be able to understand them better. I know a lot of words now in their language. Boy, what a country! You all will never believe me when I get back and tell you about the place.

Well, Mother dear, I will close for this time. Tell everyone hello for me and remember me in your prayers. And tell them at the church that I would like for them to pray for me. Answer real soon. Love,

Y. Wilson, Junior.

Mansfield, Vt.—Vermont is buried in snow. Our deer hunting season came in on November 20. Also the most terrific storm that has come to Vermont for over fifty years, so the old timers tell us. The storm lasted about all week. The snow is about twenty four inches deep on the level. Two men were lost while hunting deer. One has been found dead. The other has not been found yet it is feared he is buried under the snow.

There has been two accidental deaths; due to the hunting season. This is November 30—the last day of the hunting season, and there have been 2,198 deer reported taken up to date.

Here is one my son, who likes the forest and fields, told me. While out in an old pasture he saw a hawk flying over and it made a quick dive and picked up something, flew up and dropped it, then dove down and caught in the air, and flew up again and dropped it again. It was a snake about two feet long. The hawk would fly up and drop it and dive and catch it in the air by the head and again by the tail. He played the drop and catch game while and then flew away. This is another one. He was standing close to a beech tree when a partridge flew down and began picking the beech nuts, then a chipmunk came chattering under the tree and ran up to the partridge chattering so loudly the partridge ran off. The chipmunk came back under the tree and sat up and chattered, looking after the retreating partridge as much as to say, Keep off my premises.

Here is a dollar for the Pocahontas Times.

Mrs. Frank Morrison was hostess to the Lobelia Farm Women's Club on November 26. There were fifteen members, seven visitors and one home demonstration agent, Mrs. LaRose. Mrs. Otto Kinnison had charge of the devotional which consisted of Thanksgiving poems and stories. The annual election of officers for the coming year was held: President, Mrs. Nettie Kinnison; vice-president, Mrs. Frank Morrison; secretary, Mrs. J. Clifford Hill; treasurer, Mrs. LaRose. Mrs. LaRose gave us some demonstrations on making our own Christmas cards, which is indeed helpful during war time. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. The last meeting of the year will be with Mrs. R. N. Williams, December 31st.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Dear Editor:

The 244th F. A. Battalion has again advanced into new fields of action. Having conquered Fort Benning, we were ordered to Camp Gordon, Georgia, to clear out the enemy there. Our first scene of action was after going into bivouac at Camp Wheeler, we advanced to Macon with our foot troops to rout the forces there. About 4:00 o'clock the next afternoon, November 24, we reached our new area at Camp Gordon, Georgia. The Commanding General here informed us that the forces we are to oppose are rather well versed in jiu-jitsu, so we have to have training in that field. Having training in this already it is my duty to teach the men in the Battery the masterful art of unarmed defense. I do not know how long it will take us to conquer this camp so we can move into new territory.

Let me know when you need more denary for a paper, and send it to me at the below address.

By the way, my name appears twice on the Honor Roll on the corner in Marlinton; once as Woodrow and once as Jacob W. Sigerely.

Mrs. W. A. Sage, of Slaty Fork, sends in this letter from her son,

William C. Sage, S-2,
52nd St & First Avenue,
U. S. Naval A. G. Center,
South Brooklyn, New York.
November 17, 1943.

Dear Mother:

I will try and write you a few lines letting you know that I am O. K. and getting along fine. We are in North Africa again and I just got back from a little trip to Italy. We got along very well down there. I got me a little dog while I was down there. It is a cute little thing. I don't know if I can get him home or not but I am going to try.

I guess it is getting pretty cold out there isn't it? It is turning cold here now and we are having a lot of rain.

How is everyone getting along there? I guess it is pretty dead around there by now. I would like to be there for deer season, but I don't guess I will get there. I have a good chance of getting there for Christmas, though.

How is Dad getting along and Ray, Glen and all the rest? Tell them all hello for me and I hope to see them soon. I will have to close for now.

Your son, Cecil.

Sunday night.

Dear Mr. Price:

I am enclosing a little poem that I hope will find a place in your paper. It was written by a friend of mine here on the station.

Mother sends me the Times every week and I sure do enjoy reading it, especially the letters from the boys that are Overseas, because I know practically all of them.

I have been down here in Key West for about five months now and I like it very well even if it is the most southernmost town in the United States. We are kinda cut off from every place but we can go up to Miami on a 48 hour pass once a month.

Well, it is time for me to go on watch so I will have to stop for this time.

Sincerely,

Beverly C. Kenney, 1-36,
Box K, Naval Air Station,
Key West, Florida.

TOO LATE

(By Harry Stowell Cate, Jr., S-6, Naval Air Station)

There once was a sailor who was shipped far away
And for a letter from a loved one each night he would pray.

He begged for a note that would shed a little light,
On a soul full of darkness and a heart black as night.

But no letter came though he wrote and he hoped,
Then one day his loved ones received this little note.

We regret to inform you and yet it's with pride,
For his flag and his Country your loved one has died.

So to have written a letter was such a small deed,
But now it's too late, THAT mail-or can't read.

Mrs. Howard Underwood sends in this letter from her son, Condo who is serving with the United States Armed Forces Overseas.

Another son, Corporal Wade Gillespie, is stationed at Camp Beale, California.

November 13, 1943.

My dear Mother:

Will answer your letter I received yesterday and sure was glad to hear from you. This leaves me well and O. K. and hope you are the same.

Mother, we had our Thanksgiving dinner yesterday and a good one. You said you sent me a box I hope I got it. Aunt Lucy said she had sent me a package for Christmas. Have not heard from Norman for several days. And so Wade is a Corporal now. I am glad to hear that.

Well, Mother, a friend of mine has gone back home and you may hear from him some time. I hear from Aunt Lucy pretty often. I guess the snow is falling around home by now. I sure would like to be home now.

You may not (censored) from me for (censored) so don't worry. All will be well and O. K.

Tell Wade to write to me. I will close for this time. Answer soon. Lots of love.

Your son, Condo.

Mrs. Esby Wilfong, of Clover Lick, sends in the following V-Mail letters from her son, Hunter who is now serving Overseas:

October 31, 1943.

Dearest Mother:

Today I will write you a few lines as I have not heard from you for a long time but I hope you all are well and getting along fine. As for me I am just fine, only I have a little cold now, and my throat has been giving me some trouble. I think I will go to the hospital and have my tonsils taken out, and maybe it won't bother me any more, at least I hope it won't.

I had a letter from Delbert yesterday and he said that Dad had gone home about two weeks ago. It was written the 5th of October to you so I do not get my mail so often now as I once did and maybe that is the reason I have not heard from you but when you write send it V-Mail and I will get it a lot quicker.

How are Dad and Sis getting along? Tell them to write to me often, for I cannot write as often as I would like to, but you can write to me often.

Well, Mother, I am coming home in (censored) and that is all I can tell you at the present time.

Just a Mournful Line . . .

To say there is enough time and there are enough subscribers back on annual dues for the 1943 year's business to show modest profit come January 1. . . I F . . .

Enough of you Johnnies-Come-Lately will bestir yourselves to even up accounts and maybe extend same into and over the coming year.

This fleeting, tantalizing sight of profit is in spite of material falling off in national advertising business and material increase in production costs along every line.

I think I have done pretty well so far by you in this emergency to keep the paper up to standard, and (its cost down to you. Now, you come across with your part.

Prospecting in Iron Ore

Mr. Argyle, mining engineer, with the Federal Bureau of Mines, came to Marlinton last week, with instructions to thoroughly investigate and report upon the iron ore deposits at Beaver Lick and Brown's Mountain, between Dunmore and White Sulphur Springs. This work is being done under a special act of Congress, to investigate and explore many outcroppings of vital war materials in various states—from New England to the Pacific Coast and beyond. So far as I now recall the Beaver Lick iron ore was the only project listed for West Virginia.

Naturally we are all delighted that this work of prospecting by a government agency has been begun. If this iron ore deposit is worth while and suitable for development, we will be glad to know it, for we can expect the setting up of some sort of a furnace in the Greenbrier Valley; at least for the smelting of what they call "sponge" iron.

On the other hand, if we have nothing much in the way of iron ore, we want to know the worst too. Already we have had too much disturbance and loss by wild caters messing around, to mulch credulous persons investing good money.

Sharp, secretary, announces a meeting of the board of directors of South States Marlinton Cooperative at Johnson Restaurant on Thursday afternoon, December 16, at 1 p.m. The feature of the meeting will be pressing farm problems. State Corporate Taxes Rise. During the 1942 fiscal year the most remarkable increase of a single state tax was that of corporate income which increased by 51.4 per cent over 1941. Second highest increases were from tobacco taxes, rising 24.4 per cent more than during the preceding year. Next were public beverage taxes with a rise of 14.7 per cent.

It kind of looked to me at one time last month like I might be getting a new subscriber to the Pocahontas Times. May be I had better say the half of one new subscriber, as the proposition was only for six months. The order came by mail, and said to put name of R. J. Funkhouser, Charles Town, Jefferson Co. W. Va., down for six months, and send bill. I replied with manifest for a whole dollar plus two percent tax with the explanation that life is too short to fool away in bookkeeping 50 cent items which one may never get; that light doses of the Times, like six month subscriptions are reserved exclusively for invalids and children; that grown men only get and pay for a full twelve months course of treatment. Naturally, if certificate from family physician accompanies the order, to the effect the state of the would be subscriber's health is such it would be endangered, adjustments can be made and the dose tempered down to the patient's capacity for punishment.

I have had no rejoinder from R.J. and I have about given up expectation of putting him on as the new Times subscriber, or rather the half on one new subscriber, as it were.

No word has come back direct from R.J. in reply to my counter proposition to the effect that only if he come across with a dollar plus tax, cash on the barrel head, so to speak, will his name go down on the list. However I do see where he has broken down into print. Among other places he done got his pictures, from various exposures and angles into the Saturday Evening Post. There is his heavenly exposure, where he is up a preaching in a church; his rough and ready exposure where he is out a directing the farm hand; his artistic angle a checking on an unprinted type page in his printing office. The printed text gives other exposures of this several sided man: a telling about his home poker table, his family altar, and the house hold slot machines—then one arm hand, of the colored gamblers.

By golly, it has come out that R.J. is running for Gov. of W. Va. It do look like his idea is to work each side of the street both the broad way and the narrow way, as the saying is.

The ambition of this Johnny come lately to be Gov. of W. Va., carries no weight with me at this writing. Not only is R.J. seeking the republican nomination, which is no point of concern of mine, but he is doing it as a renegade democrat. He is running around in circles in his blind hatred of our great President. This is political skin off me only if he makes the grade.

It do look like when that great turncoat, Wendell Wilkie, so successfully stormed the last republican national convention, to carry away the nomination while the old gray wolves were making up their minds on a regular, he started a school for and put premiums on party disloyalty. It used to be when a renegade deserted to the other party, he was put on probation for a period. Now, he goes over as a shouting brother, demanding to be named for the best and biggest office in sight.

R.J. intimates he is a considerable of a business man. I can well imagine he has piled up considerable wealth if he is as close in every transaction as he was in his proposition to become the new subscriber to the Pocahontas Times—that is one half of a new subscriber, as it were. It is said of him he has diversified in interests which include among other things a farm, a printing office, a stable horse, a saw mill, a poker table, a family altar, a Sunday School class and a couple of slot machines.

They do say, his interest in a world war waged in defense of free peoples has not been manifested apparently to any great degree. While some poor sticks have been elected Governor of W. Va., all I can now say of R.J. in this connection is that it would be one whole of a way to hold the home front by slipping such as he into office while the boys and girls are away fighting our battles, and thus unable to defend themselves politically.

R.J. got off on the wrong foot with me when he laded back in

W. Va. from up north somewhere last month. He had at least a political residence. Anyway he laded running. If he had concern about being a West Virginian, why get no closer to the warm heart of the good old Mountain State than the chilly edge of Old Virginia Iron dromps which is the shirt of Jefferson?

Finally, we all have heard of things too good to be true and I am kind of hinting around that R. J. Funkhouser is one of these things.

I have read over the foregoing bitter words. I hurry to write down that I am not sore nor sour over the failure to list R.J. as the Pocahontas Times new subscriber—or rather, one half of one new subscriber—for the Christmas present rush has just about sold me out on subscriptions.

Dear Calvin: This is a yelp for help for another man in distress. Horace Reynolds of classic Harvard wants to know something about that apparently idiotic song "Turkey in the Straw." He has appealed to me as a West Virginian supposed to be familiar with folk lore, not knowing that my life has been spent only along the western edge of the State.

It is true that in my callow days my feet have shuffled to a tune called "Turkey in the Straw," but I never learned the words and I couldn't tell that tune from Old Dan Tucker or Yankee Doodle. So I wrote Mr. Reynolds confessing my lack of intelligence but promised to try to get some sort of satisfaction for him.

He wants to know the meaning "day-day" in the line "I say day-day to the wagon tongue." Also what is meant by "tuckahaw" in the chorus.

"Turkey in the straw, turkey in the hay, Roll 'em up and twist 'em up a high tuckahaw, And hit 'em up a tune called Turkey in the straw."

It seems nonsensical to me, but these literary fellers some times see things we lesser mortals miss.

He knows about "tuckahaw," at least as much as I do. But he doesn't mention "Quoher" which I have heard means folks west of the Blue Ridge. Is that correct?

Enclosed is a prefabricated envelope, but I wouldn't object to an exhaustive treatise of a few columns in the Pocahontas Times. It would be interesting and a reprint of the whole song could be appreciated.

Water tonight back to the spring in the original, for whatever it might have meant.

Tuckahoe Plantation, I have always heard, was on the James, not far below Lynchburg. East of the Ridge the people were Tuckahoes; also the cattle. In the Valley the people were "Co-bees" or Quohera, but the nickname did not stick to come down through the ages.

Getting back to Turkey in the Straw, I never could bring myself to believe it to have come to America from Africa. It did not have that sound. Nor could I ever get it fitted in among the walk arounds our people brought from north Europe. So I just fall back on the tradition that it was Indian and let it go at that, with the weak resolve to call the matter up when the service of an ethnology sharp was available.

Now talking about tunes, some years since I was interested by the motion picture, Trader Horn. Down on the Congo, or where ever the naked boatmen broke out their paddling song. Of course the words had no meaning to me, but the tune was certainly familiar. About the second time around I found myself following along under my breath the Congo boatman's song, and not improvising words either. It was the same of the good old spiritual, "I want to walk in Jerusalem just like John." However, in this instance the old colored people took merely the air and padded it with sentiment and words to fit.

As for Turkey-in-the-Straw, it looks to me like they took the whole hog, lobbing in words for sound effect and rhythm and paying no mind to reason—poetic license at its worst. Since the first one hundred years, there has been small chance for clues to trace the words by sound back to the original, but I still maintain with more heat and heaving than logic and light that Turkey in the Straw, is to be blamed on the Indians.

While every artist has his own rendition as to words or sounds to fit, there is a local version: Turkey in the hay, turkey in the straw, Rake 'em up, scratch 'em up any way at all, So you gets thar to a tune called turkey in the straw.

As I was going up the road, With a tired team and a heavy load, I cracked my whip, the mader sprung, The off horse busted the wagon tongue, We's going to have seedling all next fall, When we all is going to the ball, Where the ducks chaw tobacco and goose drink wine, The hens do the cackle and roosters keeps time.

As I was going down the road, I met Mister Terrapin and I met Miss Toad, Every time Miss Toad open up to sing, Mr. Terrapin, he cut the pigeon.

Note that where there was no English word that any stretch of the imagination and the vocal cords could be worked over for the required squawk. Why the good old Indian word tuckahaw has been retained in practical purity. Poetic license is applicable in any language.

Every community and every fiddler had a different rendition. However in spite of wear of time and the confusion of tongue I have always intended to take the matter up with an ethnological shark, familiar with the ancient tongue of the Cherokee, to see if he could establish the mountain tradition that Turkey in the Straw was Indian music (!) by sounding his tuning fork on such polyglot as I say day-day-to-the-wagon tongue to see if there comes responsive chord in any string of gutturals he might know in Cherokee.

I know what English parish clerks of Virginia Valley counties did for Scotch family names in changes by phonetic spelling along about two centuries ago. For instance there is McCloud for McLeod; Walkup for Wauchope; Makum for Malcomb; McKeever for Melver; Macopin for McAlpin. So, I realize the utter hopelessness in this late day of translating day-day-to-the-

I soon found out that there was no snow. I tried the good old song of the snow. He butter me into the old hay snow.

In this connection I have no better than to say that there has been no snow here, since our invention of the last six thousand years. The times we have are merely variations of old stand bys. So when our own words to the old tune, we cannot have any. The only moral I can draw from the whole matter of Turkey in the Straw is that while we as a race are not to be improving upward, these cheap songs of our grandfathers are no indication they are much farther down stream than the generations which sang the old turn arounds like Turkey in the Straw with such gusto. Oh well, it is a poor heart which does not rejoice sometimes.

From Greenland's icy mountains to India's coral strand the age-old celebration of Christmas is in progress. We will do our utmost to continue to deserve it.

Mrs. Eva Haptonstall, of Annapolis, received a letter on December 12, from her son, P.F.C. Walter R. "Happy" Haptonstall, who has been in a hospital since August 1. He is now in Italy and has had the misfortune of losing his right eye. The War Department in Washington, D. Sergeant Glenn Goodsell, of the Armed Forces serving Overseas writes as follows to his friend Clarence Smith of Marlinton:

November 21, 1943.

Dear Clarence:

Have been thinking of you quite often lately. Remember the night we pulled the whiskey out of the coffin that was like gasoline.

Guess the old country is pretty bare of boys now. To look back it seems boys were in knee pants the last time I recall them, then I pick up Cal's Times and see where they are in the Army today.

Clarence I am in Australia and know your brother is on this side also. I will probably have a good chance of locating him if only you will let me know what squadron he is with, and will be glad to look him up, if possible to do so, after hearing from you.

I am in the hospital at present with a broken foot; am doing fine and expect to be out in a few weeks. Quite a country over here. Beer is plenty strong but hard to get enough of to satisfy the thirst. Hope to hear from you in the near future.

As ever, G. Goodsell.

Mrs. Ethel Dever, of Millpoint, sends in the following letters from her son, Harper Dever, H A 1-c, United States Navy:

November 18, 1943.

Dear Mother:

Just a few lines to let you know I am O. K. So far so good. I have not seen land for four days but I guess it won't be long now. I have not gotten sea sick yet. I would like to tell you what ship I am on but it would only be marked out. When I get back I will have lots to tell you all. I am telling you the truth I would not have missed this trip for anything. This is all for this time as things are not so quiet. Tell everyone hello.

Love, Harper.

November 27th.

Dear Mother:

I am O. K. and somewhere in England. We cannot get anything here hardly, even matches. Some people back in the United States do not know how lucky they are. I will not be able to send you anything for Christmas because you cannot get anything here.

Guess who I saw on my way over! Wilbur Sharpman. I did not see him until the last day and then I only got to talk to him for about fifteen minutes. I do not know where he is now.

Please send me a flashlight and some air mail paper. This is all.

Tell everyone hello.

Love, Harper.

MERRY CHRISTMAS FROM OVERSEAS

I can hear those Christmas carols we sang in days gone by:

And see the Star of Bethlehem.

So bright in the evening sky.

So, as the Christmas lights are burning

And the bells ring soft and clear,

Across the waves this message comes

Of Hope, of Faith and Cheer.

A wish from one so far away

To those at home so dear.

May all of God's great blessings

Be yours throughout the year.

And may that Star of Bethlehem,

In the Eastern skies so bright,

Shed forever on you and yours

Its Everlasting Light.

With lots of love and a Merry Christmas to all.

Dear Uncle Robert:

You tell your New England friend to blame Turkey in the Straw on the Indians—words and air are Cherokee. Of course being gibberish after the third band from the Indian rendition, it does not and never did make sense. However, at that, the words are no dumber than twiddle-dum-dee of the English walk around.

Note that where there was no English word that any stretch of the imagination and the vocal cords could be worked over for the required squawk. Why the good old Indian word tuckahoe has been retained in practical purity. Poetic license is applicable in any language.

Every community and every fiddler had a different rendition. However in spite of wear of time and the confusion of tongue, I have always intended to take the matter up with an ethnological shark, familiar with the ancient tongue of the Cherokee, to see if he could establish the mountain tradition that Turkey in the Straw was Indian music (!) by sounding his tuning fork on such polyglot as I say day-day-to-the-wagon tongue to see if there comes responsive chord in any string of guttural he might know in Cherokee.

I know what English parish clerks of Virginia Valley counties did for Scotch family names in changes by phonetic spelling along about two centuries ago. For instance there is McCloud for McLeod; Walkup for Wauchope; Makum for Malcomb; McKeever for Melver; Macopin for McAlpin. So, I realize the utter hopelessness in this late day of translating day-day-to-the-straw. I guess back to its purity in the original, for whatever it might have meant.

Tuckahoe Plantation, I have always heard, was on the James, not far below Lynchburg. East of the Ridge the people were Tuckahoes; also the cattle. In the Valley the people were "Cohees" or Quohees but the nickname did not stick to come down through the ages.

Getting back to Turkey in the Straw, I never could bring myself to believe it to have come to America from Africa. It did not have that sound. Nor could I ever get it fitted in among the folk songs our people brought from North Europe. So I just fall back on the tradition that it was Indian and let it go at that, with the weak resolve to call the matter up when the service of an ethnology sharp was available.

Now talking about tunes, some years since I was interested by the motion picture, Trader Horn. Down on the Congo, or where ever the naked boatmen broke out their paddling song. Of course the words had no meaning to me, but the tune was certainly familiar. About the second time around I found myself following along under my breath the Congo boatman's song, and not improvising words either. It was the tune of the good old spiritual, "I want to walk in Jerusalem like John." However, in this instance the old colored people took merely the air and padded it with sentiment and words to fit.

As for Turkey in the Straw, it looks to me like they took the whole hog, joggling in words for sound effect and rhythm and paying no mind to reason—poetic license at its worst. Since the first one hundred years, there has been small chance for clues to trace the words by sound back to the original, but I still maintain with more heat and heaviness than logic and light that Turkey in the Straw is to be blamed on the Indians.

While every artist has his own rendition as to words or sounds to fit, there is a local version:

Turkey in the hay, turkey in the straw
Rake 'em up, scratch 'em up any way at all
So you gets that to a tune called turkey in the straw

As I was going up the road
With a three team and a heavy load
I cracked my whip, the leader sprung
The off horse busted the wagon tongue

We's going to have seedling all next fall
When we all is going to the ball
Where the ducks chaw tobacco and goose drink wine
The hens do the cackle and roosters keeps time

As I was going down the road
I met Mister Terrapin and I nict Miss Toad
Every time Miss Toad open up to sing
Mr Terrapin he cut the pigeon

I want to say to you now
I soon found I didn't know how
I tried the guitar instead of the cow
He better know the old map now

In this connection I can do no better than to say the fact there has been no tuckahoe, tune nor no invention of it, but the thousand years ago we have are merely remnants of old stand bys. So write your own words to the old tune, you cannot hurt any. The only word I can draw from the whole matter of Turkey in the Straw is that while we as a race may not be improving upward fast, these cheap songs of our grandfathers are no indication they are much farther down stream than the generations which sang the old tune around like Turkey in the Straw with such gusto. Oh well, it is a poor heart which does not rejoice sometimes.

Christmas Cheer

* Uncle Sam is to be congratulated, for he has done and is doing a magnificent job. This is, indeed, occasion for Christmas cheer.

Our compliments to you, friends, our thanks, and our most hearty wishes for an enjoyable and truly happy 1943 Christmas season.

by the E. L. Roberts Company at Hinton in June 1942. Another son, Donald M. Haptonstall, Seaman First Class is serving his Country in the Pacific area. Their father, F. J. Haptonstall is employed by the Mower Lumber Co.

November 21, 1943.

Dear Clarence:
Have been thinking of you quite often lately. Remember the night we pulled the whiskey out of the coffin that was like gasoline.

Guess the old country is pretty bare of boys now. To look back it seems boys were in knee pants the last time I recall them, then I pick up Cal's Times and see where they are in the Army today.

Clarence I am in Australia and know your brother is on this side also. I will probably have a good chance of locating him if only you will let me know what squadron he is with, and will be glad to look him up, if possible to do so, after hearing from you.

I am in the hospital at present with a broken foot, am doing fine and expect to be out in a few weeks. Quite a country over here. Beer is plenty strong but hard to get enough of to satisfy the thirst. Hope to hear from you in the near future.

As ever, G. Goodsell.

Mrs. Ethel Dever, of Millpoint, sends in the following letters from her son, Harper Dever, H A 1-c, United States Navy:

November 18, 1943.

Dear Mother:

Just a few lines to let you know I am O. K. So far so good. I have not seen land for four days but I guess it won't be long now. I have not gotten sea sick yet. I would like to tell you what ship I am on but it would only be marked out. When I get back I will have lots to tell you all. I am telling you the truth I would not have missed this trip for anything. This is all for this time as things are not so quiet. Tell everyone hello.

Love, Harper.

November 27th.

Dear Mother:

I am O. K. and somewhere in England. We cannot get anything here hardly; even matches. Some people back in the United States do not know how lucky they are. I will not be able to send you anything for Christmas because you cannot get anything here.

Guess who I saw on my way over! Wilbur Sharpman. I did not see him until the last day and then I only got to talk a few minutes. I do not know where he is now.

Please send me a flashlight and some air mail paper. This is all.

Tell everyone hello.

Love, Harper.

If you could buy a spot where you could see how nature had been lavish in its art. If you could buy a place where Liberty is ever dearest to a human heart. If you could buy the land of peace.

With little homes that bordered on the lake. It would take a foot a second guess to know that you would buy, and buy again.

If you could buy contentment through the years. And love that grows from fine and decent things.

If you could buy an armistice from tears. And all the grief and woe that battle brings.

Oh, if you could, how quickly you'd respond. And yet, what else is bought with every BOND!

MERRY CHRISTMAS

FROM OVERSEAS

I can hear those Christmas carols we sang in days gone by.

And see the Star of Bethlehem so bright in the evening sky.

So, as the Christmas lights are burning.

And the bells ring soft and clear.

Across the waves this message comes.

Of Hope, of Faith and Cheer.

A wish from one so far away.

To those at home so dear.

May all of God's great blessings be yours throughout the year.

And may that Star of Bethlehem, in the Eastern skies so bright.

Shed forever on you and yours its Everlasting Light.

With lots of love and a Merry Christmas to all,

Your son, Guy.

There'll always be a Christmas

Barbarians from across the seas would, if they could, banish Christmas forever from the earth. But there'll always be a Christmas! May the Christmas season of 1943 find you in the midst of a good old-fashioned Yule celebration.

Merry Christmas from all of us to all of you.

War or peace, a brave new world is in the making—a world in which better opportunities will be had for all. The Spirit of Progress is on the march, and we may all look hopefully to the future. At this time it is fitting that we count our many friends and recall the happy relationships of 1943. We wish all of you the choicest blessings that Christmas can bestow.

Season's Greetings...

If we have our way about it St. Nicholas is going to make an even long stop at your home. We are sure to point out to us what your holiday has meant to us during 1943. All we can say is Thank you, and Merry Christmas.

AMONG the things for which our boys are fighting is the right to celebrate Christmas in the traditional American way. It is with particular pride in our country's accomplishment in this direction and with firm faith for the future that we send you our heartiest Christmas wishes.

I have ever held sneaking suspicion the Saturday Evening Post holds in a sneaking way to the republicans. Further, it has always looked to me like said Post, along with the rest of the world, finds fiendish delight in the great northern indoor sport of pointing the finger of scorn at the free and easy and some time turbulent people of the Endless Mountains of our West Virginia—ever silent as to our virtues, ever romping hilariously on outcroppings of eccentric or feverish ways.

Some weeks since word came to these parts that the said Post had taken notice of and printed a piece, favoring the candidacy of one R. J. Funkhouser, now of Charles Town, Jefferson County, for the republican nomination for governor of West Virginia. At first, that was alright by me. If the said R. J. and the said Post could put one over on our republicans during the absence of so many voters away at the war, I, as a home guard, would do my best to fortify the Alleghenies come general election time to keep this renegade democrat and Roosevelt later in his place organ on the eastern waters in that part of our Mountain State which is really nothing more or less than old Virginia Ireland.

I have read the said piece, and I have seen the pictures, showing R. J. from various and sundry exposures and angles. By golly, it is all worse than I thought it possibly could be, and it all made me madder than I thought it possibly could.

I hold nothing in particular against the republicans. They bring all their troubles down on their own selves. Recent years they have been acting sympathetic toward disgruntled democrats. These double dealers take them at their own honeyed words, to move in bag and baggage, to crowd home folk in the cold and out on a limb. Exhibit number one, of course, is that Wendell Wilkie, who done them up so brown at the Philadelphia presidential convention. Like unto him in smaller degree is one R. J. Funkhouser, who hit here a running a few years back from some where up north.

Speaking about grief, our poor republican relations have not seen anything yet in the way of trouble, tribulation and privation like they will experience when that bunch of double dealers in the Senate—Bird, Bailey and Cotton Ed, as examples of southern adjuncts to the republican party—actually come out in the open and bodily take over the GOP.

I know these rule or ruin boys feel they have real grievance against our great President. Did he not beat them to the draw twelve years ago come next summer? Has he not steadily, persistently, premeditatedly, and with malice aforethought refused to abdicate in their favour the great power of his high office?

I admit this is just a little beside the mark I started to write at, but it is well to get it in the record, nevertheless.

Getting back at the Post piece, what makes me so hot against it is that I think I can see in it just another cool, calculated effort to beamirch the fair name of the State of West Virginia by holding up R. J. in his quick, mad scramble for publicity and political power, before the world as typical of us mountaineers.

We have suffered through enough adverse advertising through picturesque write ups of our feudists, bush whackers, swamp angels, moonshiners, feather merchants, dog patches, hells for artio, including Rush Holt, without enlarging, as typical of our mountain people, on the eccentricities of a Johnny come lately from points north. He dropped in all unbeknownst to us, with the avowed intention of taking us over politically.

All weak is the mercy you to others show, that mercy show to us. For while we have a heaven's plenty of eccentric, anti-socialists, we can lay claim to no more than our just portion, as compared with other common wealths of such canagidies, to use a good expressive mountain word. This word the dictionary has not yet caught up with. I have heard it times without number, but never see it written.

In other states, it would seem, that when a canagidy breaks out beyond bounds of reason to attract general attention of the public, why it is just another one of those things which can happen even in the best of regulated communities. Just let some denizen of the Endless Mountains throw a few high jinks to get his name noticed, and down comes some smart young writing fellow to interview a typical mountain boy. Then when one of our mountain boys or girls goes down to the settlements, to finally accomplish the same positions of leadership and prominence their families have occupied in the home communities for generations back, the public prints can see nothing typical of West Virginians in their attainments and accomplishments. It is just as from such environment they have emerged, and what wonders the influences and opportunities of the lowland settlements have wrought in making so fine a milk purse from so stragly a sow's ear. Such patronizing is even more exasperating than putting down exceptional excesses by a canagidy as typical mountaineer behavior.

However, I cannot stop with merely fusing at the lowland dumb brutes for taking our canagidies as typical and our citizens who have attained prominence down in the lowlands as exceptions to the rule. I want to go on to say that I have in mind men and women in every county whose case histories make interesting reading and redound to the glory of their native State. I will be glad to list a few names with the Saturday Evening Post Editor. These he can write up if his heart is right toward us and he has desire to make amends for the disservice he has rendered through giving undue notoriety to one of our canagidies.

On the other hand, if said Post Editor is really dabbling in republican politics, I can assure him there is a ground movement to bring out a really and truly representative West Virginian republican for this station; a man who spoke with authority in the last session of the legislature, who is not putting himself forward but he is being brought out by others. He does not belong to my party, and I am not voting for him, but if said Post Editor insists on messing in things outside his concern, it would be no bad idea for him to back this good republican. His name will be sent on request.

Here is how they tell them elsewhere. The first is by Editor Norman D. Camper in his Bath Enterprise:

The tales of the hunt were about up to par, but none quite matched the experience of the hunter who tagged a live deer last season. This hunter brought down a nice buck with what he thought was a fatal shot. Leaving his gun against a tree he rushed up to cut its throat but decided to attach the big game tag before getting along with this messy business. No sooner had the tag been filled out and secured to an antler than the deer to the astonishment and dismay of the unwary hunter, was up and away like "all git out". It had only been stunned, and not badly at that, but scared enough to outrun all the other hills deer and set out in a dash which the buck executed so rapidly. He had gone a short distance when a fellow of rifle and shot gun fire broke out nearby. He put on the gas and arrived at the scene to find a group of strange hunters and a second deer—his deer—promptly put, in his claim, and the cold reception he received at first quickly thawed under the "heat" generated by the claims and counter-claims of the respective hunters.

"Stranger," said the hunter, who had finally laid the buck low with a well-placed shot, "There ain't a mark on this buck made by that heavy artillery you are packing." "Maybe not," replied the other, "but that tag on its horns there says it's mine." The tag, half concealed under the buck's head by the position in which the deer fell, was pulled out for scrutiny. It was almost unbelievable, but the first hunter produced his hunting license for comparison with the marking on the tag.

"Mr.," said the perplexed and puzzled hunter who had finally killed the animal, "The deer is yours. I've shot the air full of holes, and never cut a hair" until this critter came along. But anyone who can catch one of the damned things barehanded and put a tag on it, deserves it. Take it away!"

This one is from down North Carolina way, republished from the Hyde County Herald:

Alton Best, well known hunting guide of Stampy Point, gives us the following unusual account of a deer hunting trip. He says:

On November 16th I had a party of hunters with me and after I put them on shore to do their hunting, I was without a gun. Later as I was going back after my dogs, I saw a deer standing there by the shore, so I circled my boat thinking I could run him off into the water and run him with my boat. So I went to the boat and got within ten yards of the deer that was right on the edge of the water. When I ran the boat bow ashore to the bank I happened to notice that about twenty feet behind the deer one of the dogs got up, so I stopped the boat and got on shore and called the dog and set him on the deer and he made a break at the deer. The deer tried to cut the dog with his feet so I chased the dog back again, and thought to myself "well you can run my dog ashore but you can't run me."

I tried my luck at running him overboard. He turned on me. Coming after me like a ram head on, so I jumped aside and knocked him down with my fists, as I had nothing else. He recovered in just a minute and came back and I did the same thing again. That time I grabbed hold of his hind legs and pulled him up on the edge of the bank, then I jumped on him with my rubber boots and stomped him a couple of times. When he went back that time he stuck his nose in the water and just shook. He was the funniest acting deer I ever saw in my life. I reckon it took him two or three minutes to get straightened up that time and when he did he backed up slowly about four or five steps, then came head on again, and this time I knocked him down and when I did I straddled his neck with my legs and took hold of his ears and bored a hole in the sand with my gum boot heel, keeping his head stuck in the hole, until I either smothered him to death or he just gave up. 24 Hours A Day

(The following article is clipped from the Charleston Gazette. This piece is of general interest to all who read about the faithful performance of physician and nurse at the front, and it is of special interest to Pocahontas county people as this is the outfit to which Major John O. McNeel, of Millpoint, belongs.)

With the 5th Army in Italy.—
"Can you take care of 300 patients by 6 o'clock tonight?"
The 5th army surgeon approached tall, rangy, Col. John McElman Jr., of Worcester, Mass., head of the 8th evacuation hospital.

Col. McKean signed an acknowledgment over the windy field on which his outfit was bivouaced. The day before they had landed from L.C.s (landing craft) in full battle dress, had moved quickly to a spot between our artillery and the enemy, pitched their tents, medics, bandages, and in fact all equipment, was keeping company with Davy Jones after their supply ship had been sunk. All they had was their personal clothing and effects and a few med-

Now, in another medical emergency, they were asked to be ready to treat 300 patients in six hours!

The Massachusetts colonel turned to Col. Joseph I. Martin of Rockford, Ill., 5th army surgeon, and pledged his outfit to open for business at specified hour.

Then Col. McKean called his chief nurse, Lt. Ruth Beery, of Charlottesville, to his make shift office atop a couple medical chests. The fifty-odd evacuation nurses, still without equipment or their own working uniforms, were to be ready to the crushed and wounded soldiers who would be brought in by ambulance at six o'clock.

Taking the emergency in their double time stride, the nurses had cots, blankets and tents set up and welcomed the first contingent of patient guests with hot flat-irons and sandwiches. They won't say for publication exactly where they "scrounged" all the stuff, but winsome smiles and feminine wiles can work wonders with stubborn supply officers and full colonels.

The story of their tumultuous arrival on Italian soil, their op-

Standard Station

Sgt. Smith had been employed

"Certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness"

The First of These is LIFE

ONE THING distinguishes American democracy most sharply from other forms of government—and that is its regard for human life.

Remember the historic dash to Nome, in 1925, with life-giving serum when death stalked in that far community?

Remember the Squalor—and the almost superhuman efforts made to save the lives of the 35 men trapped in her sunken hull hundreds of feet below the surface?

Remembers the items about iron lungs rushed to infantile paralysis victims who could not breathe without them?

Think of the mercy ships of the last war, loaded to the gunwales with food for starving Belgians and Armenians—the medical supplies and other equipment shipped to the Japanese when the horror of earthquake struck in 1923—the development of blood plasma, penicillin and other ways and means of saving and prolonging human life.

Then think of nations whose to save one's life by hastening is a national honor. Nations whose ships are consumed only as they come and go.

lives can be spent in battle and conquest. Nations where those unpopular in government are removed not by ballots but by bullets.

Do you begin to see the one great difference between American democracy and other forms of government?

In the midst of war, one of the great railroads of this country has been awarded the E. H. Hartman Memorial Gold Medal "for outstanding accomplishment in railroad safety."

That railroad has been honored, mind you, not just because it has hauled millions of tons of coal and other materials to keep the war production program rolling—but because “with the greatest number of passengers carried since 1928, the Chesapeake and Ohio in 1942 attained the lowest passenger casualty rate in its history. It has not had a passenger fatality in a train accident in over 27 years, carrying 115,350,000 passengers with a passenger mileage of more than 6,750,000,000.”

It has been honored, not just because it has speeded to waiting ships the things of war for trans-shipment to the battle fronts—but because "the Chesapeake and Ohio shows a reduction in total employee casualty rate of 70 per cent for the past 5 years as compared to the 5 years, 1921 to 1926 inclusive, and it is one of the very few railroads which were able to reduce their employee casualty rate in 1942 far below that of 1941, with a steady, continued, year-by-year reduction since 1936."

In accepting the Harriman Medal, the Chesapeake and Ohio recognizes in the very existence of such an award the one thing above all others worth fighting for—the sanctity and dignity of human life—which, as history has repeatedly shown, exist only so long as government is in the hands of the people and not people in the hands of government.

"NO PASSENGER FATALITY IN A TRAIN ACCIDENT IN MORE THAN 27 YEARS."

The Edward H. Harriman Memorial Medal, awarded annually to the railroad with the outstanding safety record—awarded on June 24, 1943, to the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company in "recognition of its outstanding safety record for the year 1942 among Class I Railroads operating ten million or more locomotive miles."

Get Ready for Assessor

When January comes the assessor will not be long in getting around on his annual visit to list property for taxation. A word of warning always in season is to use common honesty and common sense in listing with the assessor your money for taxation.

Hardly a year goes by and sometimes several times a year, the estates of lately deceased thrifty citizens are punished to beat the band in penalties for failure to declare for taxation their life savings of money. Five years back taxes are collected in addition to a certain percent. It not only is a black mark against the memory of the deceased, but it is an expense his heirs should not be exposed to. While all dishonesty is a sign of dishonesty, there are some forms which particularly denote lack of sense. Failure to play fair with money for taxation is one of these. Some years since a prominent citizen of Pocahontas county died and his estate came to be administered on. To the surprise of every one, it was discovered he had many thousands of dollars on time deposit in another state, which had not been given in to the assessor. Back taxes and penalty amounted to several thousand dollars. In another estate the commissioner of accounts figured out the back tax and penalty amounted a sum sufficient to have paid for seventy years the taxes on the money not listed with the assessor.

Get Ready for Assessor

When January comes the assessor will not be long in getting around on his annual visit to list property for taxation. A word of warning always in season is to use common honesty and common sense in listing with the assessor your money for taxation.

Hardly a year goes by and sometimes several times a year, the estates of lately deceased thrifty citizens are punished to beat the band in penalties for failure to declare for taxation their life savings of money. Five years back taxes are collected in addition to a certain percent. It not only is a black mark against the memory of the deceased, but it is an expense his heirs should not be exposed to. While all dishonesty is a sign of dishonesty, there are some forms which particularly denote lack of sense. Failure to play fair with money for taxation is one of these. Some years since a prominent citizen of Pocahontas county died and his estate came to be administered on. To the surprise of every one, it was discovered he had many thousands of dollars on time deposit in another state, which had not been given in to the assessor. Back taxes and penalty amounted to several thousand dollars. In another estate the commissioner of accounts figured out the back tax and penalty amounted a sum sufficient to have paid for seventy years the taxes on the money not listed with the assessor.

In a piece in this paper a couple of weeks ago, I said I had always heard that Tuckahoe Plantation was on the James not far below Lynchburg.

Dr. J. W. R. Smith, of Charlottesville, kindly writes in that I have located Tuckahoe Plantation far too far up the river. Tuckahoe was on the north side of James River, in Goodland County, probably in the south east corner, near the line between Goodland and Henrico, say 15 miles from Richmond. He says it is possible but not probable that in 1735 there may have been more than one Tuckahoe Plantation.

The Doctor continues: In 1935 William Randolph, of Tuckahoe, Goodland County, and Peter Jefferson, of the same county, took up grants 2400 acres and 1000 acres respectively on the Rivanna River just east of present Charlottesville. All of Randolph's land was on the north side of the river and all of the greater part of Jefferson's land was on the south side. Randolph was anxious for Jefferson to build his home on the north side of the river and in 1736 he deeded him 300 acres from the west end of his tract, for his home. The consideration set up in the deed was Henry Weatherhaurne's biggest bowl of punch. In 1741 Randolph deeded Jefferson 260 acres more, adjoining the previous 300 acres. Jefferson built his home on this 400-acre farm and named it Shadwell. There he spent the balance of his life. Randolph named his farm Edgobill.

William Randolph was the grandfather of Thomas Randolph Jr., Governor of Virginia; Peter Jefferson was the father of Thomas Jefferson, President of the United States. Governor Thomas M. Randolph married Thomas Jefferson's oldest daughter. Peter Jefferson's wife was a first cousin of William Randolph, above mentioned. The Jefferson and Randolph families were nearly as much mixed as the McNeels and Beards in the Little Levels.

Dr. Smith has never been able to find a Tuckahoe on any Virginia road map. He has been informed by a native of Goodland there was a small station on the C. & O. in Goodland County named Tuckahoe. He said it was near the Henrico county line. This would place it on opposite side of the river from the present dividing line between Chesterfield and Powhatan counties.

It is of interest to note that Dr. Smith's father in 1879 purchased a portion of the Shadwell farm, including the old homestead. There he built his home. The Jefferson home was destroyed by fire in 1870 and never rebuilt. Mr. Smith bought five tracts of land at different times off the Edgobill grant. All the Shadwell and a part of the Edgobill purchases are now owned and operated by the Smith heirs. Until purchased by Mr. Smith, these lands were held by the Randolph and Jefferson families.

Editor's Note: There is no Tuckahoe postoffice in Virginia. There is a Tuckahoe flag-top on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad on top of Alleghany east of White Sulphur Springs. In Cape Mary County, New Jersey, there is a Tuckahoe postoffice, and also in Westchester County, New York.

The other night William C. Wooddell, of the Big Spring Branch of Elk, got the surprise of his life. His dogs treed a raccoon and he maneuvered around to get his game. When he took it away from his dogs, it was snow white. The pink eyes identified it as a true albino. It was a coon of this year's raising.

Roy McLaughlin, of Browns Creek, has not been up too far in health this fall. So he arranged an easy way out in his deer killing, so he says. Anyway he was up on Marlin Mountain in the McLaughlin Hollow. He jumped a big eight point buck and took a shot at it. He scored a hit, but the deer went out, headed for the McLaughlin home. Following the trail, Roy finally caught up with his deer in the field near his home. One shot more was required to secure the game. I will admit it is no bad idea to fix your venison so it will go in home on its own. It saves a

Dear Mr. Price:
Just a line to tell you of the change in my address. It is slightly different although I cannot say exactly where I am.

Life still goes O. K. but I sure would like to visit those West Virginia hills again this winter but suppose that it will be impossible.

I am working here as an aviation Ordnanceman and "tune up" the guns on planes which will surely see some action. As yet I have not had my "great chance" but maybe it won't be too long now.

So long for now—keep the Times coming out my way.
Sincerely, Roy Keirn.

Dearest Sis:
December 8, 1943

Tonight will answer your letter and card which I received today and was real glad to hear from you and to know you are well and getting along fine. As for me I am just fine and getting fat as a pig. I weigh 185 pounds now and feel real good.

I went hunting a little while today. I caught five rabbits and had a fine time.

Well, Sis, I know you have got ten a letter by now telling you where I am. I am somewhere in Britain and like it fine. Erma is in Ohio, or was the last I heard from her.

Well, I will close and write me often. Loads and loads of love. Always your brother, Hunter

Hello Mom:
Well, I will try to drop you a line or two tonight. This finds us all O. K. Mary and Nora Mae are here on the bed having fun so I suppose all are well.

We are having pretty cold weather here now. The sun shines pretty in the day time and I do lot of hard packing, especially when you are not feeling up to par.

The other night Roy McLaughlin of Browns Creek, was going home from town. At the John Place, two miles from Huntersville, a big wild cat started to cross the road in front of the car and got run over. It was a big female, four feet in length. The varmint was coming out of the Lake Woods and heading for the fields or maybe Buckley Mountain.

The other night about three o'clock, Roy McLaughlin heard a disturbance among the chickens. He got out in a hurry and found the trouble was with a chicken in a coop. A screech owl had gotten into the coop and was working to eat the chicken's head off. He was doing considerable damage and the chicken was protesting loudly. The owl weighed eight ounces and the chicken four pounds.

So far, this has been a winter with more than usual cold, less than usual precipitation, and at times some real windy weather. The cold scaled up the Greenbrier with ice a couple of weeks before Christmas. Then one night the big wind blew all the fodder out of the cornfield of H. L. Stokes near Durbin, and piled it on the ice in Greenbrier River. Mr. Stokes made the best of the bad situation by turning his cattle out on the ice to eat up the fodder.

The Greenbrier River was sealed up good and tight with ice before Christmas. Then came the rain last week, but not enough to flush the river sufficiently for a mid winter break up. The ice remained thick and unbroken on the big eddies, but spring fed creeks like Clover, Stony, Swago, Stamping and Locust channeled and melted long stretches of ice below their mouths.

Last Wednesday morning the country was a beautiful white with a big "bung" snow. A bung snow is one which sticks to trees, fences and all. The sign is that for every day snow hangs on the trees, it will lie a week on the ground. This snow was three days in dropping off the timber.

Dear Mr. Price:
I do not know when you will be home but we are all well and happy. I am sure we will see you soon as we can for we are anxious to see the hills of West Virginia and all our friends, so all I want to do is look for you. I want to take Mary down to Hollywood Christmas, wanted to go alone but couldn't. Tell Toots I would like for her to be out here maybe it would not be so lonesome for us.

Answer real soon and tell us all the news for we are always anxious to hear from home.
Love to all, Harold.

Will this evening answer your letter received yesterday. I was sure glad that you all are well and getting along all right. I am so glad that Red is there now; makes me feel better for he can help Dad out with the work. The pictures that Annie sent were sure good. Bobbie has grown so much and that boy of Eula's sure is a dandy. I have gotten three more Times papers and I sure like to read them.

Well, I guess dear season is over by now. Hope you all got a deer. You write and tell me how many they got around there.

Well, this leaves me well and getting along fine. I am somewhere in England now. This sure is a nice place.

That was a nice Christmas card you and Dad sent me. Also got a nice one from Aunt and Tim. I got the box Oma sent me. I am looking for the box you sent any day now. I will send you a picture of myself if I can get some made. I sent Dad a violin, hope he gets it by Christmas.

Well, Mom, I don't know much to write. Take the best care of yourself that you can. Tell all hello for me and a Merry Christmas to you all.

Lots of love,

Well, I guess dear season is over by now. Hope you all got a deer. You write and tell me how many they got around there.

Well, this leaves me well and getting along fine. I am somewhere in England now. This sure is a nice place.

That was a nice Christmas card you and Dad sent me. Also got a nice one from Aunt and Tim. I got the box Oma sent me. I am looking for the box you sent any day now. I will send you a picture of myself if I can get some made. I sent Dad a violin, hope he gets it by Christmas.

Well, Mom, I don't know much to write. Take the best care of yourself that you can. Tell all hello for me and a Merry Christmas to you all.

Lots of love,
Your son, Elton O. Wade

MOST CHILDREN start at a very early age to look at picture books, newspapers, magazines, and other printed material. Eye specialists know that, unless the light is sufficient and of proper quality, great damage can be done to the child's eyes.

Fortunately for everybody, good light is cheap... because Electricity is cheap. See to it that your lamp fixtures and bulbs are kept clean and that the light source is close enough to the child to prevent eye strain. (And that's a good hint for adults, too!) Balanced lighting, which eliminates glare, is the thing to be achieved... and it can definitely be done with the lamps you already have. If not, our store still has some L.E.S. Better Light Lamps at reasonable prices. They're good insurance against eye trouble!

How American Farmers Are Meeting the Pulpwood Challenge

EARLY in 1943 when the country was faced with a disastrous pulpwood shortage, the Secretary of Agriculture said, "The only place we can look for additional supplies is from the farm woodlot."

And the farmers of America did not let him down. Their patriotic response helped a lot to supply much needed pulpwood for war industries.

Now, as we enter 1944

It is clear that a serious pulpwood shortage will continue. But farmers have learned that pulpwood cutting is good business as well as sound patriotism. Now is the best time to thin woodlots when pulpwood prices are at their peak. And recent rulings of the War Manpower Commission encourage farmers to cut pulpwood in off seasons by counting it as war unit credits toward deferment.

And so the farmers of America are asked to make pulpwood cutting an important part of their 1944 work program. It is off-season work; profitable work; patriotic work. Do all you can. Your country needs every cord you can cut. Keep in touch with your local pulpwood committee.

VICTORY PULPWOOD COMMITTEE

Correspondence, Chairman, Wm. L. Martin,
Asst. Chairman, Chas. W. Fries

1944 Assessment

The work of assessing Real and Personal Property in Pocahontas County for 1944 will begin January 1st, and we are again asking your cooperation.

The Law requires us to contact every Taxpayer and this we will endeavor to do but the same law requires you to make a return of your Property in event the Assessor fails to see you.

Please arrange to have some one turn in your Property when the Assessor calls if you are unable to do so yourself so that no second call will be necessary. This is especially important in Rural Districts as at this time National Defense demands savings on Tires and Gasoline.

The Assessor and each Deputy will have with them a copy of the Land Book and you should see that your Property is correctly assessed and classified.

Your Capitation and Dog Taxes should be paid at the time you are assessed. Dogs 8 months or older January 1st, are taxable.

In view of the severe penalties being placed by the State Tax Commission on Property not returned for valuation, in some cases as much as 25 per cent of the valuation, it is to your interest to see that a proper return is made of all Property which you own or have in your charge—especially intangible Property such as money on hand or deposited anywhere, Notes, Accounts receivable, Bonds, Etc.

THANK YOU
J. R. GUM, Assessor.

IMPED LABOR BOARD

By Jennings Randolph, in Cincinnati Post.

A soldier from my district, now overseas, has just written me: "The morale of our men here is very high but can be dulled by bad news from home. The recent strikes have caused a lot of letter writing. We can't understand why people at home should prolong the war."

The Scripps-Howard newspapers, thru publication of articles by Donald Richberg, focused attention in an informative and provocative manner on a serious question. Official figures just obtained show that there have been 5593 strikes since Pearl Harbor, and of this number 2470 of almost half occurred in 1943. It is sobering to note that the number of strikers was 3,618,793 and that 3769,000 engaged in strikes in the first eight months of 1943. Since we entered this global conflict, 16081,169 man-days have been lost thru strikes—two-thirds in the first eight months of 1943. These are startling figures, giving ample reason for every American to consider the effect on our war effort.

NEED DEFINITE POLICY

In November, 1940, speaking in the House on the Voltec aircraft factory strike, I said, "We must take steps to see this does not occur in other factories. If these strikes continue we should act promptly to see that such conditions are remedied by law."

I am of the same opinion now—we should lay down a broad policy under which strikes could not occur without a definite formula for their treatment.

The union worker or the union leader, or a member of the great unorganized group, has a right to equal treatment under the law. He should not feel that his individual grievances can be settled by any ill-conceived policy hastily pulled out of a hat.

The House Labor Committee attempted in November 1941, to write reasonable and workable legislation. Every effort was made to develop a solution. Outstanding leaders of organized labor said to the acting chairman, Rep. Ramspeck, and to myself that they would not aid in drafting corrective legislation but would oppose every proposal, no matter by whom made. Such an attitude is a sad commentary on leaders who should have generous given co-operation rather than a dogmatic denial to those of us who sincerely desired their help.

CITES LABOR BENEFITS

We have enacted, especially during the last 10 years, legislation under which labor received benefits long over-due and which were right and proper. It follows particularly under the impact of war that hit-or-miss settlements of disputes will, in the long run react in setbacks doing irreparable damage to labor—too high a price for temporary gains which may seem attractive at the moment.

Labor leadership which denounces a member of Congress for opposing strikes in wartime, labeling him an enemy and thus ignoring his past sympathetic treatment of workers, problems is inconsistent and unethical.

The right of labor to strike in peace time industry is a precious one. Practically all labor in our country is loyal and no one should ever attempt to abrogate labor's basic rights. But a right to strike ceases to exist when our nation is at war, demanding every ounce of production. The wartime restrictions of certain privileges applies to employers, also. No selfish group should be tolerated. But it is apparent that mistaken leadership is bringing labor into disfavor with solid citizenry, including our fighting forces. I have many other letters similar in meaning to the one from which I quoted my soldier's conclusion.

SUGGESTS REMEDY

The remedy for many labor ills could be found in a unified, coherent labor board, one with broad powers, operating without fear of censure and without desire to please any person or group. It should have full authority. Membership should be by appointment of the president and he should retain the power to remove the members. But he should not have the power under any circumstances to set aside this board's decisions nor assume its role as arbiter.

Mr. Richberg has stated a permanent board of arbitration is foredoomed to failure. A defeated litigant is entitled to a new jury in the next case. I disagree on this point. Such a board would not act as a jury, but rather in a judicial capacity, with power to make final decisions.

As one who has worked for labor legislation, including the wage-hour law, the Walsh-Healey law, and the National Labor Relations Act, I believe we must recognize that wartime strikes have crippled the efforts of our Government and mine—all because we do not have a strong centralized board with sufficient authority to act on its own initiative for final determination of the problems presented to it.

Congress, regardless of intimidation, threat or pressure, must meet its obligation to the nation at war.

The rank and file of our people will approve this action, and our armed forces everywhere will commend us for a faithful discharge of congressional responsibility.

FIELD NOTES

At a meeting of the State Conservation Commission last week, the bounty on wild cats was increased from $3.50 to $5.00 and the bounty on gray foxes from $3. to $5.50. This was all to the good as far as it goes, but a $10 bounty on wild cats and a $5.00 bounty on gray foxes would be more in line, and economy in the long run. Big bounties cost money for a few seasons, but they accomplish the purpose—bringing down the supply of varmints in quick order.

There is a decided sentiment among local hunters for a bounty on red foxes in Pocahontas county. I know what a storm of protest this would raise in counties like Marion and Upshur, where the red fox is on the list of protected animals. Up above Edray a lady saved a big gobbler and five nice hens for next year's supply of selling turkeys for the Thanksgiving and Christmas markets. The pesky red foxes carried all these fowls off in day light raids.

A couple of months back I got a letter from a sportsman of national prominence. He had paid his usual annual visit to Pocahontas for grouse shooting. He had been disappointed in finding few birds where he had left many at the end of the last season. He wrote to inquire if disease or what had happened to the grouse. I could give no immediate reply as my casual observation through the summer was that the number of young grouse was in usual number or more, and that they seemed to be coming along well.

When the season for rabbits came, this popular game animal appeared to have been mostly wiped off the face of nature in covers where they had appeared abundant early in the summer. Then came a tracking snow, and we all know what had become of our small game. The country was literally pocked with foxes. Their tracks were right up to the yard fence. There were more grays than foxes, but far too many to count.

grouse and rabbit.

Of course I know what had happened was what we all had been looking forward to happen for the past ten years. With the increase of the deer herds, the hound dog just naturally had to go out of business. With few or no hounds in the country, the supply of foxes and wild cats soon got out of balance and beyond bounds. These varmints clean up on the supply of grouse, turkeys and rabbits. There are two cures for an over supply of foxes and wild cats—bounties and poisoning—with trapping a poor third. There is a law against stringing poison, and there is a law against hounds running deer. We have choice of two kinds of game. Persist in the present ban on hounds, and deer will continue to increase. In a few more years they will actually prove an expensive nuisance to the farmers at present rate of increase.

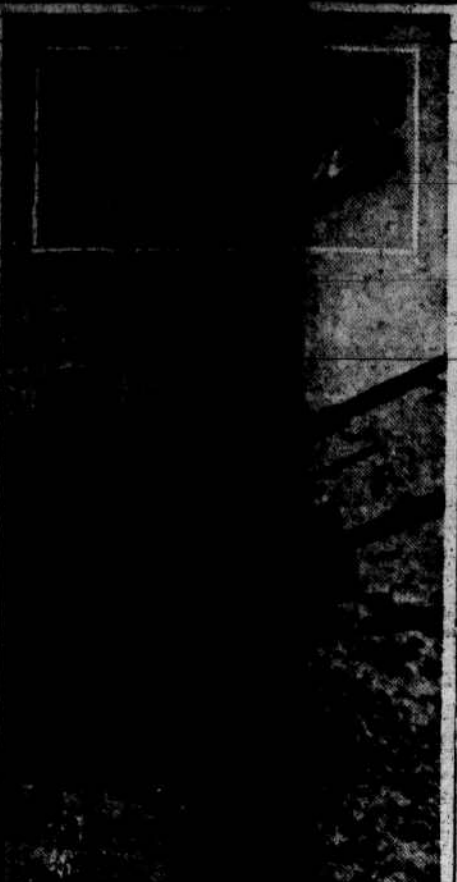

Persist in the present ban on hounds for the sake of the deer, and the ban on spreading poison promiscuously for the benefit of coons and other furbearers and the foxes and wild cats will continue the depletion of our grouse, turkeys and rabbits to the irreducible minimum.

I have ever contended that the number of grouse which fall to the guns of the sportsmen makes small difference in the supply of birds. In the big area of the Watoga State Park and a large area of the Seneca State Forest, where there has been no grouse shooting for many years, the number of grouse per acre will be found to be just about that of the open hunting territory surrounding.

The conclusion of the matter is that the protection given the deer herds has proven just as effective in protecting the fox and wild cat. This increase in the crop of varmints has just about sealed the death warrant for grouse, turkeys and rabbits.

In that cold spell just before Christmas Craig Richardson was skating on the Greenbrier one morning. He routed out a fine flight of ducks in-rifle hole in the ice. He asked me about the sign and I said moderating weather. Craig expressed a doubt as a few years ago had found ducks at that same place in a hole in the ice, and the weather got colder from that time on. It so proved out a cold weather trend this year.

As I can say now is that the game may be read the sign of wild ducks on the Greenbrier is to know from whence the light has come. If from the north, the weather will be colder; if from the south, the weather can be expected. It is not the fault of the ducks, but the way the sign is read.

A sprig of green in the Mediterranean front; today camouflage for an American marine gun nest. To win quicker and more, more and more. To prove them all of us must buy more War Bonds.

Coming back to work Monday noon, I took a look at the river. Ice had formed half way cross. The sun was shining bright, but the thermometer was freezing. Over at the mouth of Price Run half a hundred sailings were having the time of their lives, wading into the cold water, spreading their wings and showering water through their feathers.

Since the above was written, Harper Smith, Secretary of the Pocahontas County and Gann Club, was in to see me. There will be a meeting of the club at the Royal Drug Store on Friday night, January 14, at 7:30 o'clock to consider recommendations to the Conservation Commission on game and fish seasons, open and closed streams, bounties on varmints, etc. Come if you are interested; if you can't come, write a letter to Mr. Smith, setting out your ideas, wants and wishes. These recommendations should go to Charleston not later than next Monday. The District meeting will be held at Elkins on Thursday, January 20.

On Monday fire destroyed the scale house of the coal loading place of Charles A. Sharp at Slaty Fork. The loss was about $350. Chas and Basil McLaughlin received severe burns about their arms in the fire. Another case of pouring gasoline on a fire and the can exploding.

Viceroy in India
Since the British parliament took over India in 1858 there have been 18 viceroys, apart from acting holders of the position. The viceroy's term of office is normally five years.

The Legislature

The extraordinary session of the Legislature after a five day session last week. All was peace and harmony. The lawmakers were called together to provide ways and means for our citizens in the armed forces to uttermost parts of the earth to exercise their right to vote. This was done. The date of filing for office was moved back to February 5, and the dead line for printing the ballots for the May primary is February 19. As for registration; members of the armed forces may register by mail.

This session of the legislature was made necessary by a combination of republicans and reactionary democrats to bring about the defeat of the soldier vote bill in the last session of Congress. It now looks like this present session of Congress will pass a bill to enable the citizens in our armed forces to vote, at least in the general election next fall, as it would appear the forces of reaction are hearing things from back home. The venerable gentleman from Virginia, Senator Carter Glass, arose from a sick bed to blast the birds who voted to disfranchise our fighters. Their pretended excuse was states rights. Being as the gentleman from Virginia is the apostle of such doctrine, he left them not a leg to stand on.

So far as I know now, this session of the legislature did not for sure develop a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor. They were scattering considerable pressure on Senator Fred Allen, chairman of the committee on finance, to run for governor, but he refused to respond. However, he will be a candidate to succeed himself in the Senate from our district.

With Senator Allen out of the running the trend seems to point toward Senator Howard Hardesty of Marion County. Speaker Amos of the House; General Clarence Meadows, and others, including Rush Holt, were spoken of as possible candidates for governor.

As for the republican nomination for governor, Mayor Boone Dawson of Charleston; and R. J. Funkhouser, of Charles Town, are avowed candidates. There is talk of T. C. Townsend, the 1932 nominee, entering the race. The reasonable supposition is that Mayor Dawson and Mr. Townsend will not run against each other; to divide the vote and insure Funkhouser the nomination.

FOURTH WAR BONDS

On next Tuesday, January 18, the fourth campaign to sell fourteen billion dollars worth of War Bonds formally opens. The period of the drive is one month. Our West Virginia share is seventy-five millions of dollars worth. Of this amount it is expected and hoped the individual citizens will buy forty millions and corporations thirty-five million dollars worth. In the last War Bond campaign last September, West Virginia topped the nation with percentage of over sale of quota.

Buying War Bonds is the effective way of backing up our men and women on the war front. It is the effective means of holding down inflation which threatens the home front. In addition to being patriotic, the purchase of War Bonds is good business.

To the People of this Community THINK IT OVER

How about doing a little cold turkey thinking after you lay aside this newspaper tonight? You've got a good job. The chances are there is someone else in your family, perhaps two or three, working. Your son or your brother—may be away at war.

This war must end sometime. Your whole family, your neighbors, are praying it ends soon and those fighting boys of yours will come home safely.

But will you be ready for whatever happens when peace comes? Will you have something laid away? We're all hoping there'll be jobs aplenty, jobs which mean making something for somebody's happiness and not for somebody's sorrow. That's where your War Bonds come into the picture. Sure, Americans own billions of dollars of War Bonds now, and before this 4th War Loan ends they will have put away billions more. But how about you? You're the one that counts. The bigger the pile of War Bonds you have when peace comes, the bigger chance you'll have to slip right into the post-war world, you're dreaming about tonight.

So "Let's All Back the Attack."

FIELD NOTES

Here is a real Field Note from Judge Charles G. Baker, of Morgantown:

NATURE'S CATHEDRAL

The rocks of Elk River were rough and sharp. My feet were soft. The boots were thin, and after two days of that combination, the wise thing to do was to rest. The other fellows wanted to fish, Sunday or no, so I took a little book and went down the gorge.

I found an old twisted sycamore that hung over one of those quiet, still-moving pools which abound on Elk, and, in the east of easy chairs, I settled myself to read a little. It was a happy little book with some good living sense in it. Soon I began to take stock of my surroundings. The air was gentle and sweet, clean and cool. The sun shone in a clear, blue, cloudless sky. The mountains, rising on either hand, stretched their green-laced branches toward that sun and that sky. The river above and below the pool sang a soft, happy, carefree song and I suddenly realized that, in that stillness and quiet, I was at peace with all the world.

In that mood, I sat. Soon the arching trees of the mountains and the blue vault of heaven became a vast cathedral. The stillness was the quiet of a worship service. All about me seemed reverent. The singing stream sang its anthem of peace and the sun taught its lesson of the might and power and wisdom of the Almighty Creator and Preserver. And I bowed my head as reverently as ever I did in church made by man. Truly the Lord was in that place.

Some weeks ago I read in the daily letter of a popular columnist something about one General Benjamin Butler, whom some other writer has called a "soiled soul." The piece was provoked by a quiz over the radio asking "By what President was a U. S. Army General, Ben Butler, proclaimed an outlaw, a felon and an enemy to mankind?"

The answer was Jefferson Davis, President of the Southern Confederacy, after Butler, a commander in New Orleans, issued an order that women who insulted soldiers were to be treated without consideration.

Butler was generally a bad egg, though he was a general, served in Congress, was governor Massachusetts, was nominated for presidency by two parties. As a member of Congress he was a leader in the disgraceful attempt to impeach President Johnson.

Butler was despised by President Lincoln, as being crafty, scheming, greedy, and plausibly dishonest. Upon his reelection in 1864, Lincoln proceeded to fire him out of the army.

The story is that while Butler was military governor of New Orleans, he stole the silverware of the citizens. He was therefore known as spoon thief. Whether that was actually true or not, court records will show that Butler had to return $80,000 he had stolen from a New Orleans bank.

While the Butler piece was fresh in mind, my friend James McCarty, of Beverly, was over to his former home. His presence reminded me of Butler's one time thieving attempts in Pocahontas County, as Mr. McCarty's father, the late Peter McCarty, was a leader member of a party of mountain men who shot up the Butler agents at the foot of Thorny Creek, near Dilley Mill, not in the manner of their going there was just about sixty years ago, and my friend James McCarty, it is said that rifle bullets

McCarty well remember stirring time. To begin away back this part of the country was plundered over with big land grants taken up by speculators. These grants were called surveys and bore the names of the men to whom they were granted—Wilson, Gallagher, Phillips, etc. A Robert Morris Survey crossed Williams River at the Falls; one call from Beaver Dam toward Richwood was eighteen miles long. This big boundary of land was given to Robert Morris by the Commonwealth of Virginia for money advanced to Continental Congress to fight the Revolutionary War.

These old land grants were covered up by later grants to actual settlers. Under law adopted from the Indians, ten years tenure under fence became the best title to land after all.

Then came the law to sell lands for the non-payment of taxes for the school fund. This broke up these big land holdings, to be divided among local people in much smaller tracts. However, for most a century these old surveys were hawked about among dishonest people and were a cause of unrest and uneasiness on the part of people who actually owned and lived upon lands in the boundaries of the old surveys. It was justifiable homicide to shoot a man fooling along the lines of an old land grant.

It has been within the last thirty-five years that the question of the old surveys was finally settled by a decision of the high court in the King Land Case. The King Land Grant embraced much of Kanawha, Boone and Logan Counties. The coal and oil and general developments brought the value of this old survey up to hundreds and maybe a thousand million dollars.

I have forgotten the date of the Wilson survey, probably in the 1780's. It began at the corner oak of the Marlin Bottom survey, near the present Chesapeake and Ohio Depot in the present town of Marlinton. It skirted the Lewis Survey; also probably the Bradshaw lands around Huntersville. It ran through the Hill country toward Knappa Creek, missing the Moore Harper and Lockridge holdings around to the lines of the Warwick grants about Dymore and Cloverlick; down Thorny Creek somewhere crossed Greenbrier River into the Big Flat, and then back into Marlin Mountain to the point of beginning. The boundary embraced something like 54,000 acres.

About 65 years ago the said Ben Butler trailed up this old land survey. While timber was some consideration he had his eye on iron mostly.

At a county court held in the late 1870's, the old brick jail at Huntersville was condemned as being in no shape to hold prisoners, and the jail at Lewisburg, in the County of Greenbrier, was designated as the jail in which the sheriff was to hold prisoners charged with felonies.

Some years later, the county court decided to replace the old brick jail by a stone structure with steel cells. A builder from another state was the low bidder. His bond for faithful compliance with his contract was signed by General Ben Butler.

Work began on the jail after a fashion, but the builders seemed more interested in land lines than in pushing construction work.

Let it be said right here that line and corner trees of these old surveys were matters of profound secrecy. I know about a man who had land in the old Gallagher survey, who worked all day Sunday, cutting down and burning a big red oak corner tree and then digging up the stump.

Over in the Hills somewhere one land owner over did this secrecy business a little by cutting down a corner tree of the Wilson Survey and then building a pig sty over the place.

The jail building crew turned out to be a corps of surveyors. They took their bearing from the pig pen in the Hills and made good progress running the line, calls and bearings therefrom. When it became apparent what was being attempted, men rode at night, to round up the neighbors from Huntersville to Dunmore and along Greenbrier River. The big idea was to keep the lines from being closed. That is, to keep the survey from being completed.

Among the families involved were the McCarty, Moores, McLaughlins, Grimes, Sharps, Frieles, Hoggsets and Dilleys. The local people, while not telling, knew full well where the lines of the old survey ran. They knew, too the progress the surveyors were making, retracing the old lines. The stand was decided upon at the ford of Thorny Creek, just down stream from Dilley Mill.

As the surveyor was setting up his compass on the north side of Thorny Creek, near the ford, to get his bearings, a rifle cracked on the wooded side of Thorny Creek mountain. That compass busted up in the face of the surveyor. He and the other men, members of his party proceeded to go away from that place, and about thirty miles away, and about thirty years ago, and my friend James McCarty, it is said that rifle bullets on both sides of the line of the runners. It is said that the late Jasper Diller was the marksmen to whom the honor was given to shoot up the compass in the man's face.

It is also said that the head surveyor had appeared that morning on the job, riding in a horse drawn buggy. They said he almost drove that poor horse to death, making Covington with-out a stop.

Later, as surety Ben Butler did have the stone jail at Huntersville completed. He obtained title papers to the Wilson Survey in some way, and knowing what a touchy, shooting matter it was, had taken the contract to build the new jail house was merely a subterfuge to get his surveyors in here to do their dirty work before the people knew what it was all about. Being as our people came by their farms first by tomahawk survey, then cut them out of the forest with an axe, and then held them against the Indians with a rifle, why Spoonthief Butler need not think our people would let attempt be made to steal their lands without burning some powder in the way of protest.

Trellises Require Protection
With lumber now one of the scarce materials, garden stakes, trellises and garden furniture are becoming increasingly valuable assets of the home gardener. Due to moisture usually present in gardens, equipment of this kind is especially subject to rot or rust and should be thoroughly protected to enable it to last for the duration. All garden equipment made of wood should be thoroughly painted or varnished while clean and dry. Any metal equipment should be thoroughly cleaned, with any rust spots sanded or scraped down to the bright metal, and then thoroughly painted. Green and white are large used as colors for garden equipment.

Jap Beetles Prefer Yellow
Now that the unwelcome winged immigrants from Nippon, known as Japanese Beetles, are again in season, so are beetle traps. The color of the traps may make a difference of as much as 30 per cent in their attraction for the beetles, according to estimates which have been made during the past several years. The department of agriculture has found yellow to be the most successful color for helping to attract the maximum number of beetles to the traps.

Va,

Post of Sgt. Edward Strube's left leg was sent away at Fort... near New York, North Africa. At... General Hospital, St. Louis, Mo. T. Y. they are building up his leg again. Sgt. Strube, from Fort... Bay, N. J., buys War Bonds regularly.

Sgt. Bernard Galt, 22, of New York, was wounded by sniper during the Sicilian campaign. His grandparents live in Naples, and he has a brother in the Army. Both buy War Bonds regularly. Do you do as much?

Schlesinger 2nd Grade John A. Wisdom, 24, of New York, lost his right eye, three fingers and suffered chest wounds from shrapnel in the fight to capture Tunis. He is now recovering at Halloran and is a regular War Bond purchaser.

Pvt. Bernard Hoffmann's left leg will be two inches shorter when he is discharged from Halloran. He was wounded by a German bullet during the operations in Sicily last August. His home is Chicago. He has been in training since Sept. 1942 buying bonds.

The nickname of Pvt. Milton Lieberman, 27, of Brooklyn, is "Clark Gable." He was wounded in Sicily last August and has been at Halloran since October. Every payday $12.50 is taken out for War Bonds. Lieberman is buying. How many do you buy?

Our Army and Navy Boys

The following letter was sent in by Mr. and Mrs. Bonnie Moore, from their son, Minter.

Alaska, Highway
Dec. 6, 1943.

Dear Mother, Dad and All:

Just a few lines in answer to the letter I received yesterday. Sure was glad to hear that you were all well. These few lines leave me in the prime of health. I am still gaining weight. I will be a man some day, don't you think?

Remember how I used to like mechanical work; they found out about it here and I am a mechanic now. I would rather be driving, but the trucks must roll on the Alcon and it is my place to see that they do it, whether I like it or not.

What is everybody doing, back in good old Pocahontas these days? I sure wish I could have been there for the deer season. Tell Pete to drop me a few lines.

I am sending you a picture of my girl friend. She is a school teacher, and getting along good. Take good care of the picture for me. I value it highly, that is why I am sending it, so I won't get it destroyed. I wish you could meet her. I know you would like her a lot.

I know you are glad to hear from Uncle Garland. I sure would like to see him. Tell Mr. Calvin Price Hello, for me, and to keep The Times coming; for it means a lot to me. Tell all the people around there Hello and I'll be seeing you soon I hope. Answer soon.

Always,
Minter.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Carpenter of Millpoint received this letter from their son over seas, Cpl. Clyde W. Carpenter:

Dear Dad and Mother: Will try and answer your letter or I should say two letters, I received today. One was written November 12, and the other written Nov. 21. Sure was glad to hear from you all. I also received a letter from Lucille and one from Jacoba. Oh yes, and the package was in good shape. Tell the girls I said "Thanks" and I wish I could send them a package too, but I guess I can't this year. I wrote a letter the other day, but forgot to mail it, so I thought I should write another one.

You said in one of your letters, that you had already sent me six cartons of cigarettes. Boy! that's going to be just fine for me. We are not getting many cigarettes these days. So thanks a lot, Mother and if I ever have the chance, I'll send you something in return.

Did you ever get the letter I wrote to you asking you to send about ten cartons and stop until I requested more.

Mom, I am writing this letter at 2:00 A. M. I am on duty and don't have much to do, so that's one way to pass away the time; I think it is about 9:00 P. M. back there!

We are stationed near a small town and the people are very friendly. They have dances often and invite us always.

If I could only speak French, I would be all right.

Well, I will have to quit pretty soon for I have a few more letters I want to write. I will close now and write again soon. Lots of love, Winton.

WATCHING AND WAITING

Far across the stormy ocean, We are parted, Chub, and I. When he left one April morning I was hurt too bad to cry.

He is now somewhere in England Though he cannot tell me where I was comforted a little When we heard that he was there.

And had not gone to the bottom Of the ocean on the way. Where the iron whales of Hitler In the muddy waters play.

As he was protected over God alone can take him through. If he will obey and trust Him And beseech Him so to do.

Chubby serves at a hospital He is serving to save life. Where he can be kind to people In the middle of the strife.

It was certainly a favor From the One who knows the heart, To be placed in that position— To be given such a part.

God is love and full of mercy He is gracious to forgive. If we only try to please Him He is pleased to let us live.

Far across the stormy ocean, Oh, how happy I shall be When across the stormy ocean, My dear boy comes back to me.

Harper Anderson.

Mrs. Sarah McMillion and son, Theodore, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Hill, Christmas Day.

SCHOOL HOT LUNCHEES

Hot lunches were started at the Marlinton Graded school last Thursday. The charge is ten cents, and a well-balanced lunch is furnished too. Naturally the cost is much higher than last year, because then the DPA furnished both food and labor at public expense.

The ten cents a day buys the pupil a complete lunch, providing one-third to one-half of the day's nutritive requirements and consisting of at least: 1. One-half pint of milk as a beverage, 2. two ounces of meat or fish, one egg or two ounces of cheese, or one-half cup of dried peas, beans or soy beans, or one-fourth cup of peanut butter; 3. one cup of vegetable or fruit, or one-half cup of each; 4. two slices of bread, or two muffins or other hot bread, made of whole grain or enriched flour or cereal; 5. two teaspoons of butter or oleomargarine with added vitamin A.

I am decidedly for school hot lunches. I know the ten cent charge is the best that can be done under circumstances. The main objection to such a charge is that the very children which need good hot food at the noon hour may be from large families where four or five times a day might prove a bit burdensome. As near as I can figure out the ten cents charged per child per meal amounts to just about one-half the cost of labor and expense of preparing and serving it. The other half the cost of the lunch is borne by the State of West Virginia, under an Act of the Legislature of last year.

ODE TO MR. FUNKHOUSER

Clöverlick, W. Va.
December 30, 1943.

Dear Mr. Price:

After reading your editorial in the Times about Mr. R. J. Funkhouser, I thought that you might be interested in reading the ode that I wrote about him after seeing the article he had in the Saturday Evening Post.

Evidently there are quite a few of us who share this same antipathy towards outsiders coming into the State and trying to hog the best of everything.

While I have always been a good Democrat, and always expect to remain such, yet it is most repugnant and distasteful to me to see the nomination for Governor of our State sold to the highest bidder, even though it may be accomplished by the Republicans.

Sincerely yours,
E. G. Davidson, Jr.

I always figured West Virginia As the best State of the lot. And yet some interloper Thinks that it can be bought.

Now I am here to tell him, "Fore he throws his jack away. That this ol' State is honest And she's that way to stay.

City slickers think we are dumb, And maybe they are right, 'Til when furriers start hornin' in.

They'll find that we can fight. Don't make no difference the party That the outsider lines up to. He'll find most West Virginians Are the kind that are tried and true.

Money we know can buy most anything, Even space in the mighty Post. But even it can't make him West Virginia's official host.

Money, he knows how to throw away. A habit easy to acquire. So this surely can't be the feller That the voters are out to hire.

So let every honest editor, Be his paper large or small, Take up the fight 'gain furriers And fight 'till his back's to the wall.

IN MEMORY

In sad but loving memory of our dear son, Conrad Curtis Pritt, whom God called away five years ago on January 8th.

Today recalls sad memories of a dear one God called away and the ones who think of him now are the ones who love him best today.

Dearest Conrad how we miss you yes more and more each day. Our home is very lonely now, since God called you away.

The world will change from year to year, our lives from day to day, but the love and memories of you dear Conrad, Shall never pass away.

In our hearts your memory lingers Sweetly tender, fond and true There is never a day dear Conrad

That we do not think of you. Some may think we have forgotten, for few have seen us weep.

But many silent tears we shed, While others are asleep. A precious one from us has gone, A voice we loved is stilled.

A place is vacant in our home, Which never can be filled. Written by Father and Mother, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Pritt.

1944 Assessment

The work of assessing Real and Personal Property in Pocahontas County for 1944, will begin January 1st, and we are again asking your cooperation.

The Law requires us to contact every Taxpayer and this we will endeavor to do but the same law requires you to make a return of your Property in event the Assessor fails to see you.

Please arrange to have some one turn in your Property when the Assessor calls if you are unable to do so yourself so that no second call will be necessary—This is especially important in Rural Districts as at this time National Defense demands savings on Tires and Gasoline.

The Assessor and each Deputy will have with them a copy of the Land Books and you should see that your Property is correctly assessed and classified.

Your Capitation and Dog Taxes should be paid at the time you are assessed. Dogs 8 months or older January 1st, are taxable.

In view of the severe penalties being placed by the State Tax Commissioner on Property not returned for taxation, in some cases as much as 25 per cent of the valuation, it is to your interest to see that a proper return is made of all Property which you own or have in your charge—especially intangible Property such as money on hand or deposited anywhere. Notes, Accounts receivable, Bonds, etc.

THANK YOU
J. R. GUM, Assessor.

Your station deserves credit for a raft of our men clocking in on time. The way you keep their cars shipshape here is saving us man-hours—plenty—or we couldn't keep beating schedules. Our plant driver brings the office car here—to keep it ready than a fire engine. Even our laboratory scoffers rave about your giving them engines internal OIL-PLATING to hamstring damage from engine acids! You're helping cars live. Great stuff!

Such praise from the war plant's Big Boss caused the Conoco Mileage Merchant to throw out his chest. His Conoco-Nth oil... oil that OIL-PLATES... is even more essential for less essential cars; used only now and then. The unavoidable acids of combustion—mostly heated away, before rationing, by prompt re-use of the car—now loiter inside and threaten to cause corrosion. But you know of anti-corrosive plating... like chromium plating. Just as closely, protective OIL-PLATING is surfaced to precious engine parts by the "magnet-like" attraction that Conoco Nth oil creates synthetically. Resist acid's appetite for your engine. SENATOR FRED C. ALLEN

Senator Fred C. Allen, of Pocahontas County, is a candidate to succeed himself in the State Senate of West Virginia from the Twelfth District, composed of the counties of Braxton, Nicholas, Pendleton, Pocahontas, Randolph and Webster.

Senator Allen has well and truly represented the people of the State in general and of his own district in particular. He is a business man whose abilities as a leader were early recognized by his fellow Senators. As chairman of the all important committee on taxation and finance, no member of the upper house of the legislature exercised greater influence in seeing that West Virginia had plenty and yet lived within her income. Other important committee assignments are rules, education, banking, conservation, and agriculture.

Senator Allen was reared on a farm, taught school, graduated from a college of pharmacy and is a registered pharmacist, and practices his profession as the proprietor of a large retail drug business. His standing in his profession is recognized, having been a member of the State Board of Pharmacy since 1933. The Governor reappointed him in 1943 to this Board. He is President of the Board. He also is in the banking business as a side line.

At the outbreak of World War One, he volunteered. He saw long and honorable service overseas as a member of the American Expeditionary Forces. He has ever been active in American Legion affairs. For nine consecutive years he was post commander of his home post in Marlinton. He is chairman of the War Finance Board for Pocahontas county.

Senator Allen has agreeable personality, and plenty of backbone to stand for what he believed is right and for the best interests of the people he represents. He has done well his part as our representative from the Twelfth District and I speak for his reelection.

For Circuit Clerk

This week this paper carries the announcement of J. E. Hamrick to succeed himself as Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County. In the year and more that Mr. Hamrick has served as Circuit Clerk, he has proved himself a most efficient and obliging public servant. Reared on a farm, Mr. Hamrick prepared himself to teach school. Then he went to college and took a business course. Later he was employed in the store of a large lumber company. Some years ago he put a complete index system in the Clerk's Office of Pocahontas County Court. It is my pleasure to recommend Mr. Hamrick as an efficient Circuit Clerk and an agreeable, high-class gentleman in every respect.

BACK THE ATTACK

West Virginia's war finance forces took the field Tuesday, January 18, 1944, aiming at a 4th War Loan goal of $75,000,000. The campaign continues to February 15.

Emphasis during the campaign State Chairman A. C. Spurr, Fairmont, said, will be on sales to individuals. The State has been assigned a quota of $40,000,000 in individual sales, of which $24,000,000 is the E Bond goal.

The state chairman said that during the first two weeks of the campaign official reports would cover only sales to individuals. Not until February 1st, will reports of other sales be made thru official sources, he said.

National attention will be focused on West Virginia, Chairman Spurr said, because of the state's 3rd War Loan record, when it topped the nation on a basis of percentage of quotas sold. Referring to the army of volunteer War Bond salesmen as "West Virginia's first team" the state chairman said in spite of the long odds against repeating the performance of last September, there was a "chance" that West Virginia might lead the nation again during the 4th War Loan campaign.

Dear Mom: I am all right. I hope Dad has been good to you all. We worked all day. We had a very good dinner; the packages haven't arrived yet. I expect they are in the bottom of the ocean; but don't you worry about me not getting them; that is a small worry. I will have to say it isn't near as dangerous as it was when I came over.

I am glad you got to go to Camp. I hope Grandma. Hope they stay well this winter.

I sure would have liked to have seen Hunter when he killed the deer. But he was one proud boy. I haven't written to them now for some time.

I am glad Dad has inside work this winter. Is Marie still working? I had a letter from Lorene yesterday; she seemed to be getting along well.

I am getting your letters very regular now. The Air mail comes faster than the V mail.

Well Mom, I hope you all stay well, and don't worry about me. I will be home before long.

Love, Earl.

Your Son, Earl.

Opl. Cecil E. Gaylor was home on a furlough to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Gaylor, of the Pyles Mt. vicinity. He is in the Coast Artillery.

This was his first furlough since he was inducted into the Army, on June 8, 1941, at Manchester, N. H. He has been in foreign service the past two years. He left the U. S. on December 16, 1941. The sailing was rough and stormy. Their ship was torpedoed once, but no damage resulted. He arrived back in the U. S. on Dec. 19, 1943. The voyage home was pleasant. They were unmolested by torpedo and submarines.

He returned to duty, Saturday January 8th, and is stationed in California.

His youngest brother, Norman R. Gaylor, is also in the Service, serving in Field Artillery, and is stationed at Camp Shelby, Miss. His parents received word that he has been promoted to P. F. C.

This letter was received by Henry Walton, on January 4, 1944, from his brother, P. F. C. Imon Walton, who is in Italy.

Nov. 30, 1943.

Hello Brother:

I will try and answer your letter I received today. I sure was glad to hear from you. Well, this leaves me OK for this time, and I hope it will find you the same.

Well, how is Buddy? Well, I hope. Tell him hello for me.

Well, I guess it is getting pretty cold back at my good old home town by now.

I sure hope this war ends soon, so we can come to stay. I am getting along fine so far. News is scarce, so I will have to close pretty soon.

I hope you all have a merry Christmas and a very happy New Year. I guess I'll not have a merry Christmas over here.

I guess you know just about how I feel, and would like to know where I am located. I am in Italy and it is awful wet.

I will close for this time. Tell everybody to write to me for it is lonesome over here.

So long and good bye.

Your brother, Imon.

1944 Assessment

The work of assessing Real and Personal Property in Pocahontas County for 1944 will begin January 1st, and we are again asking your cooperation.

The Law requires us to contact every Taxpayer and this we will endeavor to do but the time law requires you to make a return of your Property in event the Assessor fails to see you.

Please arrange to have some one turn in your Property when the Assessor calls if you are unable to do so yourself so that no second call will be necessary—This is especially important in Rural Districts as at this time National Defense demands savings on Tires and Gasoline.

The Assessor and each Deputy will have with them a copy of the Land Books and you should see that your Property is correctly assessed and classified.

Your Capitation and Dog Taxes should be paid at the time you are assessed. Dogs 8 months or older January 1st, are taxable.

In view of the severe penalties being placed by the State Tax Commission on Property not returned for taxation, in some cases as much as 50 per cent of the valuation, it is to your interest to see that a proper return is made of all Property which you own or have in your charge—especially Intangible Property such as money on hand or deposited anywhere, Notes, Accounts receivable, Bonds, Etc.

THANK YOU
J. R. GUM, Assessor.

Dear Mr. Price:

I am writing to inform you of my change of address so that my papers will come directly to me in Italy. I do not want to miss any of the good old home town news. It would be almost like losing my right arm.

I certainly hope that you folks at home did not give up the Christmas spirit because we have gone away. We were with you in heart and mind though we could not be with you in person.

My little sister, Ruby, and my little nephew, Charles, are both doing well. They are both in the Army and are both doing well. They are both in the Army and are both doing well.

My friend, Staff Sergeant Charles E. Wilson, son of Moody Wilson, of Marlinton, writes me as follows from Italy:

For Sheriff

W. O. Rockman, of the Level, announced this week for the high office of Sheriff of Pocahontas county, subject to the pleasure of the Democratic voters in the primary of Tuesday, May 9. He is a farmer and stockman, does some contracting on the side. In every way, he is well qualified for the office he properly aspires to. He is a veteran of the first war, having served his hitch in the navy.

Mr. Rockman offers a strong ticket of deputies: Roscoe Brown of Greenbank, is favorably known all over the county as our efficient surveyor. O. B. Curry has been entirely satisfactory as our jailer. As for Elba Callison, the office deputy, the whole state cannot boast of a better or more efficient one.

For Circuit Clerk

Grady L. Moore, soldier in the United States Army, on duty out side continental United States, is a candidate for the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court. This is the office he had to give up when he entered the armed forces in 1942. Mr. Moore proved an accommodating public servant, and most efficient in taking care of the affairs of the office. It is not at all likely that he will be back from the army in time to take his part in the primary campaign. So he will have to depend upon the activity of his friends to hold up his bid in the contest.

For County Clerk

This week Moody Kincaid makes announcement of his desire to continue to serve the people of Pocahontas County as Clerk of the County Court.

This is as it should be, and I expect and hope he will make the grade again. He is kind and accommodating, and plenty efficient. This is a most important office, one which the average citizen comes much in contact. It is a pleasure and a help to have it in the hands of such a clerk as Moody Kincaid has proved to be.

Jack Moore was in Montgomery Sunday, to be with Mrs. Moore, who is recovering from an operation at the Laird Memorial Hospital.

BACK THE ATTACK

The drive for the sale of Fourth War Bonds is now on. The asking is for fourteen billions of dollars. The amount allotted to our West Virginia is seventy-five millions of dollars. Our Pocahontas County allotment from individuals is $78,000; from corporations is $108,000; a total of $186,000.

The County War Finance Committee is Senator Fred C. Allen, chairman; banks and corporations June McElwee; community activities, R. S. Hickman; with Max Posover, assistant; payroll, Frank E. Johnson; women's activities, Miss Helen Smith; publicity, Calvin W. Price.

I have no selling argument to present in this Fourth War Bond campaign which has not been presented before. Buying bonds is patriotism; it is good business. They back the attack of those who have gone out to insure the retention of American liberties. They are the safest securities in this world; they pay interest.

Every dollar invested in War Bonds does its part in keeping down inflation. This thing they call inflation is what took us up to drop us down on rocks back in 1929.

Play square, do your share; the men and women in the armed service are doing their parts.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Moffett McNeil of Hillsboro, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Nancy McNeil to Mr. Robert Lee McComb, son of Mr. A. B. McComb of Huntersville and the late Mrs. McComb. A definite date for the wedding has not been set.

Miss McNeil, who is employed in the office of the State Liquor Commission, was educated in Hillsboro schools and is a graduate of the Felt and Tarrent Comptometer school in this city. Mr. McComb recently received a medical discharge from the army and is a member of the American Legion. An employee of the construction commission at Marlinton, he was graduated from Marlinton high school.

Mrs. Ruth McNeil has returned from Clifton Forge Hospital where she had been for treatment. She also visited relatives in Covington, Va., while away.

after spending a ten day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weatherholt.

Friends will be pleased to learn that Arden "Pooley" Curry, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Curry, who is now serving overseas with the United States Marines, has been promoted to Private First Class.

William R. Wyatt, of the United States Navy, who has returned from foreign service, is spending a twenty day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wyatt and his grandmother, Mrs. Wm. Cochran.

SCRAP DRIVE

On last Friday afternoon a well attended meeting of the national Defense Committee of Pocahontas was addressed by Messrs. Gilbert and Cochran of the National Defense Department. The subject under consideration was National defense emergency in the matter of junk, particularly scrap paper. The answer to the gentlemen's appeals was the appointment of Oley Jackson as county junk agent for the committee. Mr. Jackson will devote his full time to the job of rounding up scrap paper, metals and what not, to get this vital war material back in circulation, and that right now to meet an emergency.

Now the call for waste paper has gone out again. The armed forces are much greater than it used to be. They are scattered the wide world over. So much of the necessary supplies go by air plane, and paper packing cases weigh so much less than wood. Paper products range from the wispy-like parachutes to stout down fuses to the heavy-duty bomb racks.

Mr. Jackson is an ex-service man. He was a cavalry man in the first war, and is a permanent cripple from injuries received in the service. He is not so bad off now as he was then. He will have a schedule of dates for the collection of scrap and these he will publish.

This is an emergency, help meet it. Paper and tin cans collected in Marlinton west of railroad on Saturday afternoon, January 26; on east of railroad Saturday afternoon, February 5. Boy scouts will call. Town trucks will haul. Paper is of more value if packed according to grade; that is, magazines, newspapers and card board piled separately.

This waste material is to be given, to Back the Attack.

What are you doing to back up the boys? Remember these are boys from your very community, perhaps from your very home. Any home in your neighborhood which today does not display the treasury of red, white and blue 4th War Loan Bonds is not backing the attack. Every Extra War Bond you buy becomes a direct fighter against Japan and Germany. If you could but see one man die in the battlefield, you would not count the cost of your slight sacrifice to buy Extra War Bonds to make each succeeding assault less costly in the lives of our boys.

You can't afford NOT to buy Extra War Bonds in the 4th War Loan if you would help these boys.

HARPER'S FERRY
By Col. Sam M. Hendricks, of Shepherdstown

The place now was securely surrounded and all waited for the arrival of Colonel Robert E. Lee, with a force of 94 marines, accompanied by Lieutenant J. E. R. Stuart. Here is Stuart's version, in his own words in a letter to his mother. "Col. Lee was sent to command the forces at Harper's Ferry. I volunteered as his aid—I had no command whatever. I too, had a part to perform, which prevented me from taking part in the onset by Green and Russell, well backed by their men. I was deputized by Col. Lee to read to the leaders, then called Smith, a demand to surrender immediately. I was instructed to leave the door on his refusal, which was expected, and wave my cap as a signal for the storming party to advance, batter the doors and capture the insurgents at the point of the bayonet. They used a skid, an arrangement composed of two heavy timbers securely cross-braced, resembling a ladder used by Railroads in unloading heavy freight. Sledges were also used. I approached the door in the presence of perhaps 2000 spectators and told Smith I had a communication from Col. Lee. He opened the door about four inches, holding a cocked carbine in his hand. He presented his proposition in every possible shape, with admirable tact. But all amounted to this—the escape of his party. I told him Col. Lee would not agree to that. I stepped back, waved my cap, and Col. Lee's plan was certainly carried out. When Smith first came to the door, I recognized Old Osewatomie Brown, who had given us so much trouble in Kansas. I got his bowie knife and have it yet. The same day, about 12 o'clock, Col. Lee requested me to go to Brown's house and see what was there. I did so and discovered a magazine of pikes, blankets, clothing and utensils of every sort. I could only carry off the pikes as I had but one wagon. These I delivered to Col. Lee."

Little did Lieut. Stuart dream that in three years nearly to the day, Sept. 15, 1862, he would ride over this same ground as a Major General under General Robert E. Lee, C. S. A.

Getting in touch with McLaws on Maryland Heights, and Jackson at Harper's Ferry, as soon as Col. Lee saw Stuart's signal he ordered Lieut. Green to batter down the doors; after an opening was made, Green squeezed through and followed by his men, soon captured all of Brown's party. The prisoners were not injured and were released. Brown was severely wounded by a cut on the head and a thrust through the shoulder at the hands of Green. He was removed to another building and his wounds dressed. Those of Brown's party killed were buried half mile up the Shenandoah in a single grave. The others were removed to Charles Town jail.

The names of the Harper's Ferry soldiers were as follows: John Brown, Watson Brown, Osewa Brown, Aaron D. Stephens, Edward Coppie, Barclay Coppie, Albert Hallett, John E. Cook, Stuart Taylor, William Bolman, William Thompson, John Henry Kagi, Charles P. Tynd, Oliver Anderson, Dolph Thompson, Dangerfield Nowly, Shields Green, John Copeland, Lewis Leary. The last four were negroes.

The following named were held by Brown in the engine house as hostages and were released by the marines when Brown was captured—Col. Lewis W. Washington, John Alstadt, John E. P. Dangerfield, A. M. Ball, Benjamin Mills, John Donabue, B. & O. Agent, Terrace O'Byrne, Israel Russell, and Mr. Scheppe.

On November 24, 1859 martial law was proclaimed in Charles Town. Here I will correct a legendary fable of Brown's kissing a negro baby on his way to the scaffold. There was not one negro on the streets, or visible anywhere, on that day. Eye witnesses make that statement. Even now there is one living witness to bear me out in my statement. I refer to Mr. John Allen Link. The fact that martial law was in effect to prevent any interference would hold curious persons at a safe distance.

Brown was executed on the 28 day of December, 1859, Cook and Edward Coppie (white), Green and Copeland (negro) were executed on December 16, 1860. Ropes from many states were sent to hang Brown with, and the one from Kentucky was a need. The fad for souvenirs during the war flourished and northern soldiers carried away enough chips and pieces of rope to build and rig a good sized vessel.

Harper's Ferry had hardly quieted down when war clouds began to loom on the horizon, and then for 4 years the roar of guns, the tramp of armed men dressed sometimes blue, sometimes grey, to the tune of Yankee Doodle or Dixie, played by a fife and drum corps, under the waving folds of the Stars and Stripes, or the Stars and Bars.

(Concluded next week)

Frank Carpenter, of Spruce Flat, was in town Saturday afternoon. He reported his kind act of the day in throwing corn and bread crumbs to a big fat squirrel. While the family was at dinner, Frank looked out and saw the squirrel at the corner of the house. As the ground was covered with a foot of snow, he figured the little beast was frantic from hunger. The squirrel took the food and ate it with everyone looking on.

E. F. McLaughlin picked up a "weather" balloon on his farm on Jerico Road last Friday afternoon. The record showed that the balloon had been put up that morning at Huntington; something like 150 air miles away. The record also showed the balloon had reached a height of 19000 feet along the way somewhere. Mr. McLaughlin promptly returned the outfit by mail to the weather station at Huntington.

Frank Richardson has been trapping for a big gray fox near his home in west Marlinton. The varment kept taking the bait and never getting caught. Finally, Frank hit upon the plan to set an extra trap. It worked fine; the big old fox was in the extra un baited trap the next morning. He could count one, but not two.

Years ago I knew a most successful fox hunter, who shot many foxes each year. His plan was to track a fox into its hole; then go and bring back another man. The two would walk around the hole and the extra man would walk away, while the hunter stopped behind a tree. It would not be long before the fox would make his appearance and get shot.

Last week the hound of a friend of mine took a big deer to the river at the tunnel below Cloverlick. The dog was caught and the game warden carefully returned the hound to its owner, back in the hills. Of course that dog had broken the law forbidding hounds to run deer. Though he had given in to instinctive urge to run deer, that hound was too valuable to lose out of the country. Only last winter, this hound had three dozen foxes and five wild cats killed in front of him.

Then a pair of hounds we of the day in throwing corn and bread crumbs to a big fat squirrel. While the family was at dinner, Frank looked out and saw the squirrel at the corner of the house. As the ground was covered with a foot of snow, he figured the little beast was frantic from hunger. The squirrel took the food and ate it with everyone looking on.

Dear Mom and Dad:

I will answer your letter I received today and I sure was glad to hear from you and to know that you all are getting along fine. I sure wish I could spend Christmas with you, but I don't guess I can. Well, Mom, this will make two Christmases I have spent in the Army and if ever I get a hold of any of those Japs they are sure going to pay for it.

So, Dad only has two more drinks until New Year's. Well, if I was there I would bet him a dollar to five cents that he will get some more some place. What do you say? Tell him I got his picture and I thought it was pretty good.

Are you going up to Cass for Christmas? Well, Mom, if I were you I would go for it would be good for both of you, but tell Dad to go light on the drinks for you know there are a lot of pretty girls up there. ha ha.

Yes, Mom, I got the package you sent me and I want to thank you again for it, but I did not get the candy or cigarettes that Glenn sent but tell her I said

Dear Mom and Dad:

I will answer your letter I received today and I sure was glad to hear from you and to know that you all are getting along fine. I sure wish I could spend Christmas with you, but I don't guess I can. Well, Mom, this will make two Christmases I have spent in the Army and if ever I get a hold of any of those Japs they are sure going to pay for it.

So, Dad only has two more drinks until New Year's. Well, if I was there I would bet him a dollar to five cents that he will get some more some place. What do you say? Tell him I got his picture and I thought it was pretty good.

Are you going up to Cass for Christmas? Well, Mom, if I were you I would go for it would be good for both of you, but tell Dad to go light on the drinks for you know there are a lot of pretty girls up there. ha ha.

Yes, Mom, I got the package you sent me and I want to thank you again for it, but I did not get the candy or cigarettes that Glenn sent but tell her I said

1944 Assessment

The work of assessing Real and Personal Property in Pocahontas County for 1944 will begin January 1st, and we are again asking your cooperation.

The Law requires us to contact every Taxpayer and this we will endeavor to do but the same law requires you to make a return of your Property in event the Assessor fails to see you.

Please arrange to have some one turn in your Property when the Assessor calls if you are unable to do so yourself so that no second call will be necessary—This is especially important in Rural Districts as at this time National Defense demands savings on Tires and Gasoline.

The Assessor and each Deputy will have with them a copy of the Land Books and you should see that your Property is correctly assessed and classified.

Your Capitalization and Dog Taxes should be paid at the time you are assessed. Dogs 8 months or older January 1st, are taxable.

In view of the severe penalties being placed by the State Tax Commission on Property not returned for taxation, in some cases as much as 25 per cent of the valuation, it is to your interest to see that a proper return is made of all Property which you own or have in your charge—especially including Property such as money on hand or deposited and Notes, Accounts receivable, Bonds, Etc.

THANK YOU

GUM, Assessor.

We've all been sad this lonely day For our dear father, loyal and true.

But in all your suffering through night and day, God in his wisdom, took you away.

Our hands were willing; our hearts were true In every kind act we did for you, Like a flower you faded and passed away.

But will live in our memory from day to day We will meet, but we shall miss you There will be one vacant seat; But in Heaven we will meet you When our journey is complete.

The Family.
